'No Minds Switched'

New NQHS Still Lacks Council Votes

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

The proposed new North Quincy High School still lacks sufficient City Council votes for a construction green-light despite the recent all-day fact-finding session.

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin reports "no minds were switched" as a result of the marathon meeting of city councillors and school officials last Friday in the conference room of the new Quincy Savings Bank home office.

The session was held in the new Quincy Savings Bank conference room after the Squantum land-taking proposal failed to receive the required two-thirds council vote.

Senator Tobin said Friday's meeting "accomplished a great deal" but told The Quincy Sun:

"The two-thirds vote of the Council is still not there. No minds were switched. The building of the school is still a moot question."

Tobin planned to call "a sit-down meeting" with council members today [Thursday] to try to determine the Council's next move. He said council members might want to hold another all-day session - or perhaps several - or they might decide to eliminate some alternate building proposals which overlap.

"I suspect we can eliminate five of six proposals Thursday evening because of overlapping," said Tobin. "We want to pull it all together."

In his mid-term address delivered Monday in the City Council Chamber, Mayor Walter J. Hannon indirectly made an indirect - but passionate plea for approval of the proposed new North Quincy High School. Calling 1975 "the year of decision on education for Quincy," Hannon said:

"It's going to be tough to vote 'yes'. Think how tough it was for Col. Parker. The unborn

54 To Share $1,500

Winners Of Heritage Contest In Quincy Sun Special Issue

The winners of the $1,500 Quincy Heritage poster and slogan contests will be listed in a special souvenir issue of The Quincy Sun Thursday, Jan. 16.

The names of the 54 winners will be announced the night before - Wednesday, Jan. 15 - at the "Salute To Quincy's Heritage" dinner at 7:30 p.m. at the Carlton House, North Quincy.

The two contests, co-sponsored by the Quincy Savings Bank and The Quincy Sun in cooperation with Quincy Heritage, drew more than 1,000 entries.

Channel 7 TV personality Paul Benzaquin, formerly of Quincy, will be the keynote speaker at the dinner which is serving as the kickoff for the many other Quincy Heritage activities planned for the next two years.

The winning poster will be the cover for the special issue which will include a calendar of events, stories and photos of activities planned to celebrate Quincy's 350th anniversary in 1975 and the nation's bicentennial in 1976.

In addition, the winning slogan will be unveiled as an auto bumper sticker in this special issue.

Both the poster and slogan will be transformed from black and white, as submitted in the contests, into red, white and blue in that issue of The Sun.

In addition, 1,000 posters are being printed in those colors and will be available at the dinner and at the Quincy Heritage office.

The slogan has been designed into a red, white and blue auto bumper sticker by S. Gunnar Myrbeck Co. of Quincy. Some 5,000 bumper stickers are being made by the Bankette Co. of Wollaston for distribution by Heritage.

Winners in the two contests will share $1,500 with $300 the top prize for the winning slogan and $300 for the best poster.

Mid-Term Goals For 1975

Hannon Pledges Fight Against Unemployment, Crime, Taxes, Waste

Mayor Walter J. Hannon began his fourth year as Quincy's chief executive Monday with a firm pledge to battle unemployment, crime, 100 per cent valuation spiraling taxes and rising governmental costs.

In another highlight of his mid-term address he indirectly urged approval of the proposed new North Quincy High School by calling 1975 "the year of decision in education for Quincy".

He announced plans for a police sub-station in North Quincy, a crime prevention specialist and more foot patrols to team with informational computers to fight the rise in crime.

He noted that 150 new public service jobs will be created during January and February and called for industrial parks to bring more jobs and tax revenue to the city.

Hannon called unemployment the city's "biggest problem" and pledged an expansion of the city's efforts to find jobs for Quincy's unemployed.

He outlined as goals for 1975:

- A look at possible industrial parks to boost the city's economic growth.

- Efforts to control taxes as best as possible.

- Continuation of Quincy's fight against 100 per cent valuation by joining Boston in a court suit.

- Implementation of specific programs to bring police closer to the citizens and to reduce the city's rate of crime.

- Continued streamlining of government costs through co-ordination of city-wide purchasing procedures.

OUR NEW LOOK

Notice anything different about your Quincy Sun this week?

We're taking on a "new look".

The Sun, with this issue, is beginning what will be a complete revamping of its news headlines and advertising type faces for a smarter-looking newspaper.

The Sun this week installed Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting equipment

-- the best and most modern on the market today.

The headlines on this Page 1 were all set on this equipment which gives us a wide selection of type styles and sizes to brighten The Sun.

We will gradually revamp the entire paper in the weeks ahead.

We hope you'll like our new look. For us it's a big step forward.

Planning Survey Shows:

Most Quincy Residents Find Housing Cost Too Much

Higher prices for obtaining and maintaining homes are causing concern for residents of Quincy.

Some 86 per cent of apartment renters and 66 per cent of home owners indicated they would be unable to find an apartment or home of adequate size in Quincy that they could afford.

These findings were the responses from over 300 questionnaires filled out at six ward meetings held by the Department of Planning and Community Development.

The meetings, which were also attended by Mayor Walter J. Hannon and several members of the City Council, were held to provide citizen input into a $1 million Department of Housing and Urban Development [HUD] grant being prepared by the Department of Planning and Community Development.

"The six meetings were held to provide a form of communications between the Department of Planning and Community Development and citizens of Quincy," said Geoffrey A. Davidson, Director of the Department.

"We want to learn what people think are community needs, especially in housing and the physical condition of their city. Results of the housing section of the questionnaire will be used to help prepare the Housing Assistance Plan which is a required part of the Community Development application. It is a statement of the city's housing priorities and goals."

Indications of the difficulty of keeping up with inflation was also noted in the response of the majority of the city-wide total who were unable for financial reasons to make repairs or improvements on their homes. Over one half of the questionnaire responses indicate a desire for financial aid in the form of low interest loans, and 20 per cent said they feel that tax reassessments made by the city because of home improvements should be avoided to encourage improvements.

A recent study by the Department of Community Affairs showed 2,494 elderly residents and 3,354 families in need of housing assistance.

Rehabilitation of existing housing was "overwhelmingly" seen in the questionnaires as the most appropriate response the city could take to improve existing housing deficiencies.

"We recognize that both the physical age and condition of Quincy housing and the desires of residents as expressed through the questionnaires suggest that housing rehab should be a top priority for Community Development funding," said Davidson.

When asked to respond to general conditions in the neighborhoods, a majority indicated it was fair to poor.

It is also evident from the questionnaires that further construction of subsidized family housing should be integrated into residential neighborhoods throughout the city, rather than isolated in large numbers in one area.

There are presently 824 family low and moderate income housing units which represents 2.6 percent of the city's housing. Some 71 percent of these units are located in the Germantown area.

The Department of Planning and Community Development has indicated that assisted housing would work best as part of an overall strategy of neighborhood revitalization.

There are presently 2,103 elderly housing units which represents 6.8 percent of all housing in Quincy. The elderly represent 13.6 percent of the total population here. Although the responses of 56 percent indicated that the city had enough elderly housing, opinions varied by ward.

In Ward Two, or Quincy Point, which has 1,150 units of elderly housing, 76 percent of questionnaire responses said the city had done enough to meet elderly housing needs.

Similar results occurred in Wollaston where everyone there said no more housing of this type was needed. Wollaston has an elderly population of 1,505 and 556 senior citizens housing units.

Ward Four has a minimal number of leased housing for the elderly and 60 percent felt more housing should be provided as the elderly population in this area is over 700.

"Priority for elderly housing under the Housing Assistance Plan will probably go to Ward Four," said Mary E. Weafer, Planning Assistant.

Questionnaire responses indicated that further construction for elderly housing should be located conveniently to transportation and shopping, while an effort to integrate subsidized family housing into neighborhoods throughout the city was suggested.

child, the kid in the fourth grade won't remember your name, but you will know deep inside, and that, to me, will be your satisfaction."

The Mayor then quoted a motto of John Quincy Adams. He said to the audience:

"When faced with a difficult decision, John Quincy Adams said: 'Fortify your mind against disappointments. Keep up your courage and go ahead!'"

During Friday's conference, three of the 11 alternate proposals were discussed before the city council, one of them a proposed addition to Atlantic Junior High School submitted by school committee member Frank Anselmo.

He estimated the cost of such an addition to house the high school's grade nine as $2.5 million.

However, Supt. of Schools

Dr. Lawrence Crendon, citing figures obtained from architect Barry Coletti, said the addition would cost $53. per square foot or $6 million.

He continued to quote additional costs which jacked the proposal's price tag to $14 million. Dr. Crendon said an addition to the present North Quincy High School would have to be built to accommodate a student population of 1,500 in line with state department standards.

These standards recommend 150 square feet of space per student in a high school. To fulfill that recommendation, Crendon said a 60,000 square-foot addition to the high school would have to be built, costing $6 million.

Anselmo agreed an addition to the high school would have to be built but estimated the cost at $2.5 million, using a rate of $40 per square foot. However, Anselmo conceded the rate of $53 per square foot was a more realistic estimate.

Crendon said, too, an added $2 million would have to be spent to renovate and upgrade the two present facilities, $1 million on the present junior high school and $1 million on the present high school.

Joseph Bishop, school plant specialist from the state Department of Education School Building Assistance Bureau said national standard dictates that land acreage at a proposed building site must be expanded in order to qualify for state reimbursement. Building additions to the junior high and high school would not increase land acreage.

According to school department figures, the building of a new North Quincy High School would cost $11 million.

Councillors Urge MDC To Take Wollaston Beach Land

Three city councillors representing the Quincy Bay waterfront have requested the MDC's acquisition of land fronting Quincy Shore Drive as a continuation of the joint effort between the city and the MDC to enhance the Wollaston Beach area.

In a letter to Governor Michael Dukakis, City Councillors Warren Powers, Leo J. Kelly and Dennis E. Harrington called the Quincy Shore Drive and Wollaston Beach area "a mixed blessing for Quincy". They said:

"While the beach is a resource, for both city and region, the traffic, vandalism, noise and honky-tonk nature of the area are a nuisance and embarrassment to area residents."

They noted that many of the properties along the strip "are in disrepair" and that the former Kimberly's Restaurant has been condemned.

The councillors reported that local citizens' meetings indicted strong support for upgrading the beach area into "a key recreational and aesthetic resource for the city."

The councillors have recommended the MDC's taking of "at least" the properties between Sachem St. and West

Elm Ave., "to help improve the overall character of the beach and the neighborhood." The properties include Kimberly's Restaurant, The Wollaston Lobster Pound, a Dairy Queen and a parking area.

Another phase of the improvement project would include a new MDC multi-purpose facility consisting of a police sub-station, a first aid and life guard station and an adequate parking area for police and emergency vehicles directly on Quincy Shore Drive.

A 1970 amendment to Chapter 725 of the Mass. General Laws allows the city of Quincy to help finance the improvement project with $950,000 originally appropriated to the MDC for construction of the Lincoln-Hancock Community School swimming pool.

Money is also available through highway funds from the MDC.

The councillors' recommendations also include the examination of all land fronting Quincy Shore Drive to maximize its potential use for public purposes, to promote safety and recreation and to integrate the area with surrounding residential neighborhoods.

NINE new police officers - including two women - were sworn into the ranks of the Quincy Police Department Tuesday by City Clerk John Gillis as Quincy Police Chief Francis X. Merrymount School Addition Supporters To Meet Thursday

Citizens for Action Now (CAN), a newly-formed group of Merrymount citizens fighting separate consideration to build an addition to the Merrymount School, planned to meet tonight [Thursday] at the home of Mrs. Rosemary Flavin of 18 Pontiac Road.

Early in December, Mayor Walter J. Hannon revealed that the proposed addition to the Merrymount School would be piggy-backed on a possible North Quincy High School bond issue. If the new North Quincy High School is voted down, the Merrymount addition will die with it.

Mrs. Frederick Swanton of 10 Samoset Ave., Merrymount, a member of CAN, said Merrymount School Principal Miss Katherine Norris and Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly will attend the meeting scheduled for 8 p.m.

"We want to clear up a lot of accusations that have been levelled," said Mrs. Swanton.

Speaking of the piggy-backed bond issues, Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin said:

"Councillor Leo J. Kelly has called it 'pure blackmail' and said he won't be subjected to that type of thing."

He added, "I favor the addition to the Merrymount School - I don't care how it's done."

Roberta Crowley Retires Friday As Assistant Treasurer

Mrs. Roberta Crowley, assistant city treasurer and tax collector, will retire Friday.

She has served the city as assistant treasurer for 18 years, working also as assistant tax collector for the past three years.

Friday will mark her 18th year, eighth month and 10th day of service to Quincy.

She and her husband David, former city councillor, live at 95 Rockland St., Houghs Neck.

They plan to travel and will spend part of February in Florida.

"I want to rest and relax," said Mrs. Crowley, "and spend more time with our family."

The Crowleys have three children: Mrs. Jean Crowley Keenan of Burke County, Va., Mrs. Mary Crowley Gregoire of Quincy and David J. Crowley Jr., also of Quincy.

An in-office appointment is expected next week to fill the vacancy.

Cerasoli Appointed To Election Laws Committee

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli [D-Quincy] has been appointed to the Committee on Election Laws by House Speaker David M. Bartley.

Cerasoli said he requested that committee assignment. Cerasoli will be assigned office space later this week. At that time his office will be open to his constituents on a full time basis.

Cerasoli there will be many important issues before the legislature this year. One he said he is concerned with is the proposed construction of the rapid transit station in South Quincy.

Cerasoli, who is opposed to the construction of the station, plans to seek support in South Quincy to prevent construction of the station.

South Quincy MBTA Impact Workshop Jan. 16

The third public workshop on the MBTA South Quincy area environmental impact study will take place Thursday, Jan. 16 at St. Coletta's Day School, 85 Washington St., Braintree.

Residents interested in the proposed extension of the Red Line to South Braintree are urged to attend and to participate in informal discussions on the plan.

Reactions of participants involved in the two previous workshops have aided the study team in selecting the most suitable building alternatives for more detailed study.

RIGHTS 'N' WRONGS 'Topless' Margarita

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
The other day, at a ladies' luncheon, I overheard one of the guests order a "topless" Margarita. What did she mean?

Curious

Dear Curious:
The lady meant, "Omit the salted rim."

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
True or false? If your hostess serves a food to which you are allergic, make your apologies and refuse it.

No fish-eater

Dear No:
False! If the food is passed, take a very small portion and leave it on your plate. If the food is served buffet-style don't serve yourself any. Unless you get into a real squeeze it's best never to discuss one's ailments in public.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
How should I introduce relatives (cousins, aunts and uncles) on my mother's side to relatives on my father's side?

Edna B.

Dear Edna B.:
Obviously these relatives don't see each other often, but I am sure they are aware of each other. It would help if you would clue them in before they meet.

"Aunt Bess, this is my Aunt Vera, my Dad's oldest sister."

"Aunt Vera, Bess is Mother's sister who lives in Oregon."

The point is, identify the people in some way to make them easier to remember. Your relatives on your mother's side will certainly know that Vera is related to you through your father.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
Is it alright to call and accept an invitation that requests, "Regrets only"?

R.C.B. in Florida

Dear R.C.B.:
A "Regrets only" invitation indicates many guests have been invited — too many for the hostess to sit by the phone waiting to hear from them. Of course, if you see your hostess before the party you would certainly say something like, "We're looking forward to seeing you on the twenty-seventh."

Shrimp boats reap rich sea harvest

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

Along the picturesque bays on the west coast of Mexico, shrimp boats are reaping a bountiful harvest of shrimp, adding to this nation's present abundant supplies.

This is the peak season for harvesting the Mexican shrimp. The season which started in September, will continue through January, possibly into February. Much of these shrimp supplies will make their way into this country in frozen or canned form.

According to Henry R. Branstetter, president of Ocean Garden Products, one of the principal exporters of Mexican shrimp, the Mexican shrimp are abundant and large this year.

"Last year the shrimp were scarce and very small and we don't know how to account for this," Branstetter said.

The Mexican shrimp fleets range from tiny boats of the "mosquito" fleet manned by fishermen who cast their atarayas (casting nets) into the shallow waters of the bays, to sleek new vessels built and equipped with the latest mechanical and electronic gear which range into the "outside waters."

After the shrimp are caught, they are taken to modern, sanitary factories for processing. These factories, according to Branstetter, maintain the highest standards through quality control laboratories.

Following processing, the shrimp destined for this country are loaded in refrigerated trucks for transportation across the border.

Let the recipes which follow bring in your shrimp boat with a gustatory flair.

CURRY FLAVOR — Shrimp Curry, surrounding a mound of molded rice, can lend an exotic touch to a buffet meal. Serve with an assortment of condiments.

SHRIMP CURRY

- 1 cup converted brand rice
 - 1 large onion, finely chopped
 - 1 medium apple, finely chopped
 - 1 stalk celery, finely chopped
 - ¼ cup butter or margarine
 - 1 tablespoon curry powder
 - 2 tablespoons flour
 - 1½ teaspoons salt
 - ¼ teaspoon pepper
 - 1 teaspoon sugar
 - 2 cups half and half
 - 2 pounds raw shrimp, cooked, peeled, deveined
- CONDIMENTS: coconut, chutney, chopped almonds, pickle relish

Cook rice according to package directions. Cook onion, apple and celery in butter until tender, but not brown. Blend in curry powder, flour, salt, pepper, and sugar. Cook one minute. Add half and half. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add shrimp and heat through.

Serve with rice and condiments. Makes 6 servings.

POPHAM SHRIMP PIE

- 1 cup converted brand rice
- 2 medium onions, chopped
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
- 1 pound raw, peeled, deveined shrimp (fresh or frozen)
- Dash red or cayenne pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- ¼ teaspoon mace, optional
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 4 slices bacon, cut in half

Cook rice according to package directions. Sauté onion in butter until tender. Add tomatoes, shrimp and seasonings; heat. Stir in rice. Place mixture in a shallow 2 quart (12" x 8" x 2") baking dish. Arrange bacon slices on top. Bake uncovered at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — A meditative period when you can get to know yourself much better if you are honest with yourself. Meet financial demands without resentment. Curb desires for things out of reach financially. Seek advice on new projects.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Good time for a winter vacation if possible. Resist tendency to be frugal with family members. Depressed emotional moods may be traced to physical causes — have a checkup. Curb sarcasm and temperamental display.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Work hard toward your goals now. Nothing will be handed to you on a silver platter. Criticizing others, spending money foolishly will bring regret. You can win over a friend or boss who has been cool toward you.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Not a good time for financial speculation although you may be strongly tempted. Neither borrow or lend, at this time. Good time to entertain and bring various friends together. A new friendship may develop.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Take your place in the wings now instead of center stage. Be supportive and mature. Face financial obligations squarely. Money appears to be easing. Resist temptation to "play hooky" from work — tend to business.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Resist urge to procrastinate regarding work. Finances may be a problem due to past poor judgment. Curb temper display with a friend. Be tactful, considerate and attentive. Listen, rather than talk. Relax.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Good time to start a study program to sharpen skills or learn new ones. Romance is bright and someone may reappear out of your past. Intuition is high — follow hunches. Take care of routine things at work — make plans.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — If changing residence is your plan, you could get help now from a friend which helps your security needs. Start building a financial project now, paying close attention to details. Curb independence and cooperate.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Good time to redecorate your home for less money than usual. Follow your own creativity and make do with items apparently unwanted by others. Romance is a distinct possibility for the unmarried.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Finances could be a problem, but concentrate on work effort — money comes later. Take time out to let those who support you know how much you appreciate it. Things run smoothly — you're heading in the right direction.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — A slower trend lets you get more sleep relaxation. Meditate on future plans. Avoid arguments with associates and neighbors. Realize people must get their separate ways if friends go out of your life.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Good time to spruce up your personal appearance. Buy new clothes, get a new hair style and put your best foot forward. Your love life blooms and brings pleasure. Marriage could follow by spring of this year.

JACK BENNY excelled in the field of scientific research. He was a man with a lot of questions and he looked for answers, not being content until he found them.

Jack Benny was honest and forthright in his dealings with others. He could be direct and frank. He would avoid trying to hurt others whenever possible by softening his statements with diplomacy. Since his integrity was unquestionable...it really must have been true...he WAS only 39 years old... or he never learned to count!

A wonderful man... at any age.

Cancer Differs On Two Coasts

According to an article in Medical World News, the rate of cancer differs greatly depending on which coast you live on. Quite by accident, the medical director of research at American Telephone & Telegraph noticed that the cancer rate for AT&T employees was lower in California than it was in New York. Both company subsidiaries have about 100,000 employees who match in sex ratio, age, socioeconomic class and type of work.

Employees in the East developed lung cancer seven times as often as the Westerners. Breast cancer is three times more frequent in New York. In 1973, 172 New York employees were absent from work with cancer, while in California, only 51 were off work for that reason. There is no explanation for the differences in cancer rates, but the findings are supported by a 1968 study that found a greater death rate from malignant tumors in New York City than in the entire West Coast.

When royalty ate white bread

The English passed the Assize of Bread Law in 1266, providing that fine ground wheat bread (white bread) was reserved for royalty and the clergy.

Bread made of whole wheat and part white flour was for the middle class and breads containing all bran were for the "inferior types." — CNS

Heritage Exhibit At N.E. Antique Show

Quincy Heritage will exhibit its commemorative items and show its slide-tape show Jan. 11-12 at the New England Antique, Craft, and Flea Market at Commonwealth Pier Exhibition Hall, Boston.

The slide-tape show provides an overview of the programs Quincy Heritage is running this year to celebrate the city's 350th anniversary and next year to commemorate the nation's Bicentennial.

Commemorative items on display will include the Abigail Adams, General Joseph Palmer and John Hancock hand-blown glass bottles, a book entitled "Quincy: 350 Years", the John Quincy Adams signet rings and pendants, and colonial nail jewelry.

The Heritage exhibit will be open from noon to 10 p.m. Jan. 11 and from noon to 8 p.m. Jan. 12.

ERA OF ELEGANCE - Exquisitely attired in outfits dating from Pre-Civil War era, Frank and Marion McDewell. Marion's gown of silk faille, a Paris original and Frank's velvet suit are two of 30 ensembles to be shown in Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries' antique fashion show "STYLES THROUGH THE YEARS," to be sponsored by Wollaston Womens Club Juniors Jan. 16.

Senior Citizens To See Ice Follies

The Quincy Park-Recreation Board announces a senior citizens trip to the Boston Cityards has been scheduled for Friday, Feb. 21, to see a 1:30 p.m. matinee performance of the Ice Follies.

Charles L. Alongi, Jr., Assistant Director of Recreation, said a limited number of reserved seats will be issued on a first come first serve basis at a reduced price. Tickets are available in the Recreation Office located on the second floor in the John F. Kennedy Health Center.

Free bus transportation will be provided from the regular 11 locations for all those who purchase a reduced ticket.

The event is for all senior citizens of Quincy 60 years of age or older.

The Recreation office will be open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. No telephone reservations will be accepted. Deadline for tickets is Jan. 16.

Goodwill Fashion Show For Wollaston Juniors

In their fifth season of performances, the Goodwill Auxiliary to Morgan Memorial will present its popular fashion show, "Styles Through The Years," to the Wollaston Women's Club Juniors.

Club Treasurer and Program Chairman, Mrs. Joseph Hallisey, said the show will be a special feature of Wollaston Women's Club Juniors' annual Mother and Daughter Banquet, to be held at the Blue Hill Country Club, Canton, Thursday, January 16.

A cocktail hour will be held from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. A short business meeting, conducted by club president, Mrs. Marjorie Cheney, will precede the fashion show.

The Goodwill Fashion Parade was created five years ago by Mrs. Mildred Churchill of Watertown who is also the commentator. The show is unique because of its rarely-seen styles and because it incorporates the story of Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, the first Goodwill, in its presentation.

Most of the styles in the Fashion Parade are antiques. Some date as far back as 1800. Most periods are represented up to the present day. The show has everything from highlaced shoes and ostrich-plumed hats to mini-dresses and mid-coats. A highlight is the display of undergarments from the year 1800.

The entire production staff is composed of Goodwill Auxiliary members who volunteer their time to do two or three shows a week.

Reservations Deadline Friday For Spaghetti Supper

The deadline for reservations for the Quincy Senior Citizens fourth Annual Spaghetti Supper and Dance is Friday.

Arrangements for the event sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department are under the direction of Mrs. Marion Andrews, Director of Senior Citizens Activities.

The supper dance will be held Jan. 17 at the Fore River Clubhouse. A social hour will start at 5:30 p.m. followed by the supper, family style, at 6:30 p.m. Dancing will be from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Transportation will be provided from the Fenno House, Wollaston, Oceanview Housing Complex, Pagnano Towers, 1000 Southern Artery and Martensen Street Housing Complex. Tickets are available at those locations from Senior Citizens Club presidents, or the Recreation Department in the Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St.

Flavin To Conduct Opera Course At Curry

Well-known opera-concert singer William Flavin will conduct a new evening course, entitled The Adventure of Opera, at Curry College in Milton beginning this month.

Flavin, a resident of Milton, said the course will consider the historic relevance of particular operas to the physical and social life existent at the time they were written. A detailed study will also be made of both famous and lesser-known individual operas of all periods.

The three-credit course will be offered at 7 p.m. each Tuesday, the first course being conducted January 14. It is open to all residents of the surrounding communities, as well as to regularly-enrolled Curry students.

Flavin's career in opera and on the concert stage in the United States, Europe and Canada has been extensive. He has associated with many famous in the profession such as Julius

WILLIAM FLAVIN

Rudel, Walter Cassel, Tito Gobbi, Herbert Graf, and Giovanni Martinelli.

Registration for the course will take place through Jan. 14 in the Recorder's Office at Curry College. For further information, phone 333-0500, ext. 218 or 387.

QJC Televised Course Now Underway

The Ascent of Man, a televised course offered by Quincy Junior College, aired Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. on Ch. 2.

Three semester hours college credit may be earned at Quincy Junior College for the 13-week course. Fee for the course is $75 and registration is by mail only.

Further information regarding the format or requirements of the course may be obtained by contacting the instructor, Tom Mullen, at 471-2470.

The course is a series of 13 films prepared and narrated by the late Dr. Jacob Bronowski, noted scientist, mathematician and poet, depicting the scientific discoveries of man over the past two million years that have shaped his history.

Each film will be shown three times a week, the first being Tuesday evening. The second broadcast will be Sunday at 2 p.m. on Ch. 2, and the third broadcast will be Sunday at 10 p.m. on Ch. 44.

The highly recommended series cost $4 million and the last years of Dr. Bronowski's life to produce. As a research professor and fellow of the Salk Institute for Biological Studies in LaJolla, Calif., Dr. Bronowski, was known for his ability to explain science in humanistic terms.

Dr. Bronowski spent three and a half years in preparation and filming of his series which received great acceptance from British Broadcasting Corp. viewers because of its high degree of scholarship.

Ward 2 Civic Assn. To Install Saturday

The Ward 2 Civic Association will install new officers and board members Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd, Quincy Point.

Being installed for 1975 are: Owen Eaton, president; Ted DeCristofaro, vice president; Mrs. Pamela Carosella, treasurer; Mrs. Phyllis Bagen, recording secretary; Mrs. Mary Lyons, citizens" of Ward 2. An award will be made posthumously to the late Vincent Barrett "for his unselfish activity in church and civic affairs and for the many years he spent working with the youth of Ward 2".

A buffet will be served. Dancing will be from 8 p.m. to midnight, with music by "The Best in Sound", a local group.

Teen Leadership Program At S.S. Jewish Center

Myrna Kramer, Chairman of the South Area Jewish Community Center Youth Committee, announces the formation of this year's Adviser in Training group.

This annual program is part of the Jewish Community Center's Teen Department activities. The South Area Jewish Community Center is a member agency of Associated Jewish Community Centers of Greater Boston and affiliated with the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston.

The program includes a month of on-the-job training with supervision at the end of the program. The A.I.T. program also includes a weekend retreat and field trips. David Lentz, a graduate student in the Contemporary Judaic Studies Department at Brandeis will coordinate the group.

The A.I.T. group meetings start at the end of January. Those seeking further information or wishing to register are asked to call Joel Kaplan, Teen Director at the South Area Jewish Community Center at 773-3000.

The A.I.T. group is open to all teens in the 10th and 11th grades. During the weekly meetings the teens will involve themselves with group work techniques, group dynamics, developing leadership, and Jewish programming. The goal of the Adviser in Training program is to create a group of concerned and involved teens knowledgeable in group skills and to provide the A.I.T.'ers with an opportunity to work with children's groups at the Center. The group meetings will last through May.

Sterling Council To Hear Guidance Counselor

The Sterling Junior High Parents' Advisory Council will hold its regular monthly meeting Thursday, Jan. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Frank Mullen, head guidance counselor, will explain the procedures used to guide students in their high school course selections.

invited out-going Assistant Principal LLOYD C. Hill, whose new assignment is at North Quincy High School, to be a guest at the meeting.

A brief report on the status of Sterling instructional renovations proposals will also be given.

There will also be an explanation of the revised Sterling progress report card. This revision was first suggested by a parent who saw a conflict in trying to synchronize too tightly a Student's Academic Achievement with his learning attitude, and personal growth.

Furnace Brook Flood Protection Meeting Set For Jan. 30

The most feasible systems of flood protection in the Furnace Brook watershed will be discussed at a public meeting in Quincy Jan. 30, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers announces.

"The proposals respond to the requests of citizens and community officials of Quincy, Milton and Braintree for assistance in seeking answers to flooding problems," Colonel John Mason, head of the Corps'

New England Division, said. Engineers estimate that a recurrence of a storm of the magnitude of the August 1955 flood would cause some $1.5 million in losses without the protection system.

The purpose of the 7:30 p.m.

meeting in the Lincoln Hancock Community School is to obtain additional and new views and comments from all on the most acceptable solutions to the flooding problems.

The meeting will incorporate public desires in plan formulation and in the selection of the most desirable alternative.

Full public discussion will be encouraged at the meeting on the following proposals:

Plan 1 - This would rely on constructing conduits and culverts and improving channels along, or parallel to, the existing Cunningham and Furnace Brook waterways.

Plan 6 - This would also rely on some conduits, culverts and channel improvements along the existing water courses. However, large flood flows would be diverted through a 10-foot 9-inch diameter tunnel extending from near the confluence at Cunningham and Furnace Brooks to a point on Furnace Brook between Newport Ave. and Hancock St. This would leave that reach of water course basically in its natural state.

The study is proceeding under Congressional authority contained in a resolution sponsored by Congressman James A. Burke and adopted Dec. 2, 1970. This is the second report in the $500,000 study of improvement on Hayward Creek, Furnace Brook, and Town Brook. The favorable Hayward Creek report was submitted to the Chief of Engineers last October, Colonel Mason said. The Town Brook watershed will be considered separately at a future meeting.

The Furnace Brook study is scheduled for completion in mid-1975. The Town Brook study report is scheduled for completion in the spring of 1976, Mason said.

Special Library Service For Confined Children

The central children's department of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Center, has just begun special library service to home confined children.

The new service, called PROJECT IT, was federally funded with LSCA Title I monies.

The project provides recreational multi-media materials for children who are confined at home or limited to the home because of a physical, mental, or emotional disability, regardless of the length of confinement.

The materials, which are geared for children through age 12, include paperback books, filmstrips, cassettes, and games. Filmstrip projectors and screens and cassette players are also provided.

Requests for PROJECT IT materials are accepted from parents or guardians by phone in the central children's department only. Callers are asked for the following information: name and/or library card number, age and sex of child, type of material wanted, and special instructions regarding the disability, such as impaired mobility or vision.

A pick-up time is assigned which depends on how quickly the materials can be assembled at the library and what time is most convenient for the caller.

The materials are held in the central children's department or at the adult circulation desk when the children's department is closed. The loan period is for one week with a one week renewal option. Materials must be returned to the main library in Quincy Center.

PROJECT IT materials are available by calling 471-2400, ext. 38.

Sheriff Marshall Hopes To 'Turn Inmates Around'

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Clifford Marshall, the county's first elected Democratic sheriff, sees a challenge in his new office.

"The challenge is peoples' lives," he said. "Inmates in the House of Correction have gone through the judicial system and have been sentenced. It's a critical time in their lives. I hope to offer re-direction to them."

Marshall's method of re-direction emphasizes meaningful and rewarding inmate training to prepare an individual for his return to the community and to instill in him as well a sense of self-respect and pride.

Noting that all inmates are released from the House of Correction within two and one-half years, Marshall said:

"We must set up programs to offer a change in the person's life...It's our investment. We need to make something viable for him."

The Quincy Democrat who began his six-year term as sheriff on New Year's Day, has requested the addition of a certified educational officer at the House of Correction, an officer able "to teach and to put a finger on federal and state work programs for the inmates."

Marshall also envisions the expansion of the present work release program to involve corporations and industries from surrounding communities. Under the program, corporations would employ inmates, training them for their return to society.

Most inmates incarcerated in the House of Correction have committed a misdemeanor, a non-felony, Marshall said. Yet he cautioned:

"The next time will be a more serious crime. This is where the challenge is - to prevent something like this from happening...It's not an easy job. It's a tough one. But it's a tremendous challenge to me."

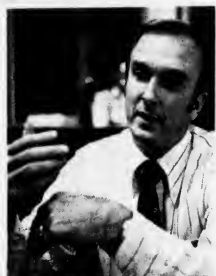

In order to help tag the reasons underlying an inmate's anti-social behavior, Marshall has called for a psychological as well as physical evaluation of each inmate. He said:

"They are in the institution; there must be a reason for it. We must identify that reason."

Marshall's proposed 1975 budget also mirrors his shift in emphasis to education and employment. While slashing the drug budget in half, from $4,000

Active in politics for 10 years, Marshall, 37, won the sheriff's badge by defeating veteran Republican Charles Hedges, 73, who held the office 14 years.

Ironically, Marshall apparently may not have run for the office if he thought Hedges would seek re-election.

Marshall admits, with a slow and deliberate shake of his head, he did not know Hedges planned to run again for sheriff. Marshall said he had frequent contact with Hedges who changed his 'I'll-never-run-again-vow to 'I'm reconsidering.'

Forced into a decision, Marshall officially announced his candidacy Jan. 27. Later, only hours before deadline, Hedges also announced his candidacy.

"I was disappointed when he announced," admitted Marshall. "I knew he had a lot of friends out there. I thought he might withdraw from the race after the primary, but..."

The tally county-wide showed Marshall winning by a 32,070-vote margin, gathering 120,724 votes against Hedges' 88,654. In Quincy, the vote was 21,838 for Marshall and 11,178 for Hedges.

Elected to the Quincy City Council in 1965, Marshall will complete his tenth year as a Councillor in 1975, finishing the remainder of his term.

He also served six years as a state representative, attaining the status of assistant majority leader.

In 1971, Marshall was elected to the Democratic State Committee, joining his wife Louise who had already served three years on the Committee. While Mrs. Marshall attended the 1969 Democratic convention held in Amherst, Mr. Marshall stayed at home - to babysit. He recalled:

"Every time I saw her on television at the convention I got madder and madder - three of the boys were in diapers."

Usually, however, the tables are turned.

As usually, it is Mrs. Marshall who takes care of the four Marshall boys, Chuck, almost 12, Michael, 10, Paul, 8, and Christopher, 6, while Dad campaigns.

Conceding she is "no Joan of Arc," Mrs. Marshall said she sometimes resents the amount of time her husband must spend away from the family. But she emphasized:

"I don't think the boys suffer that much with their father campaigning. I complain at times, but it's not the quantity of time spent with the boys, but the quality that is important. And whenever Cliff is at home, he's with the boys. One day, he was campaigning in Franklin, came home to see the boys in a hockey game, then went out campaigning again."

The Marshall home, in fact, houses the makings of an entire hockey team. Michael plays center, Chuck, left wing, and Paul, right wing. Christopher, the youngest, is a member of the Mighty Mites and could very well bloom into a goalie, rounding out the Marshall hockey-power.

In the wake of dizzy campaign days and the thrill of victory, the Marshall home is settling - at least for the moment - into a semblance of calm.

But Marshall knows the job of sheriff will be demanding:

"It will be an around-the-clock job," he said. "And I'm always looking for new ideas...new people. I'd like to turn some of those inmates around. At least I'd like to try."

Montclair Men's Club To Honor Hum'n Strum At Awards Dinner

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Tom Currier and Max Zides can do two things that a lot of other people can't do.

They can harmonize as only Hum 'n Strum can harmonize.

And, they can walk into a crowded room anywhere, anytime and not find a single enemy there. For them, of course, it's easy. They don't have any enemies—just friends.

Some of those friends will be on hand Jan. 25 when Tom and Max are honored by the Montclair Men's Club at its 25th annual awards dinner at the clubhouse.

Though now retired from show business, the boys are still well remembered as one of the greatest harmony teams of all time. But better still, they're remembered as two of the nicest guys of all time.

The Montclair Men's Club will honor them for being both. For the entertainment and joy they gave to thousands from vaudeville to radio [when a lot of people first heard them over a crystal set] to records, nightclubs and to television.

During World War II they toured overseas entertaining the troops along fresh-worn beachheads and islands.

During their long career, they gave many hours of their time entertaining at benefits and for other worthy causes. They never learned how to say "No" to charity.

They sang together for more than 35 years before hanging up the act in 1959. They don't get to see one another very often now.

Tom lives in Reston, Va. Max is still a Brookline resident and PR director at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowldrome.

Bob Gamere, WNAC-TV sportscaster and host of the "Candlepins For Cash" program will share the spotlight with Tom and Max. He will receive the club's annual award "for his outstanding presentation of sports reporting."

Club President Jim Locke is being assisted in the dinner arrangements by Chairman Joe Gildea, Dick Post, Andy Orrock, Herb Baker, Ted O'Reilly, Walter Marsh, Tom King, Ed Adams and Jim Kelley.

Head table guests will include Mayor Walter Hannon, Atty. Gen. Francis Bellotti, Dist. Atty. George Burke, County Commissioner George McDonald, Harry Carlson, the Milton civic leader who is "big in tires" and Tom's and Max's closest friend and, this writer.

Charlie Conway, dialect story teller supreme will no doubt bring down the house as he usually does.

But before they bring down the curtain on this night, I hope they'll get Tom and Max in front of a piano to hear them again sing "Heart of My Heart", "Steve O'Donnell's Wake", "If I Knock The L Out of Kelly", etc., etc.

Should be quite a night.

GRACE SAPHIR is already cranking up her campaign for mayor. Her election committee has been reactivated.

"Politics as usual" can no longer be tolerated if the democratic system is to survive," says the committee in her behalf.

The committee's latest release contains this interesting tidbit of information: "Former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa and Joseph E. Brett have encouraged Mrs. Saphir to run and offered their support."

Having Brett, who ran against Mayor Hannon in 1971, supporting Mrs. Saphir, is easy enough to understand. But why Della Chiesa, who now lives in Pembroke, should get involved in a Quincy election seems a little strange.

STEVE GRAHAM, nephew of former Ward 1 Councillor Edward Graham, has been elected president of the Dorchester United Community Association. He should be nattily attired for the installation. He works at Bernie's Modern Formal Shop in downtown Quincy.

WHICH REMINDS US: The Speculation Corps thinks Graham [Edward] may make a political comeback attempt this year as a candidate for a council at-large seat.

TED DeCRISTOFARO, vice-president of the Ward 2 Civic Association, frankly admits he is "very serious at this time" about running for the Ward 2 council seat Sheriff Clifford Marshall will vacate at the end of this year.

AND, we have a candidate for President. Ron Iacobucci of Hyde St. is running for student president of Boston College.

QUINCY KIWANIS CLUB is getting a prominent new member: Rev. John Tierney, pastor of St. John's Church.

SPEAKING OF membership's, William O'Connell is smiling. Vice-president and membership chairman of the Quincy Historical Society, he reports the society's total membership now is 1,018. First two members of the new year: Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Souther of 165 Washington St.

INCIDENTALLY, O'Connell presented his wife, Margaret, with fresh cut bouquets of Forsythia the other day. Right out of their Putnam St. yard. The unusual seasonal weather had them bursting on the bushes.

SMILE DEPT: From the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: A person who can smile when things go wrong has probably just thought of someone he can blame."

Sargent Action Vindicates Bellotti

By J. J. SMITH

In the dying days of his administration, Republican Governor Frank Sargent put to rest forever the phony allegations that Atty. Gen.-elect Francis X. Bellotti is now, or ever was, a tool of the underworld — a notion fostered in prior political campaigns by his predecessors as high-ranking Republican office-seekers.

Governor Sargent tapped Frank Bellotti to be chairman of the Criminal History Systems Board, a highly sensitive agency which supervises the Commonwealth's computerized data bank of criminal records.

This farewell appointment by the outgoing chief executive was one of the more startling, but little-noticed, political acts of the past decade. In essence, what Sargent was saying was that he trusted Bellotti with control of very sensitive files vital to effective law enforcement.

The Bellotti appointment is an important clearance of his name following a 10-year struggle for vindication after two bitter election contests — one for governor, the other for attorney general — in which his Republican opponents surged to victory on the basis of eleventh hour smear tactics.

Bellotti, of course, won the best possible form of personal vindication when the voters elected him attorney general last November. He won in a true cliff-hanger of a race, however, that wasn't decided until the morning after the election.

What Sargent did was more than name Bellotti to head the Criminal Systems History Board — quite possibly the one state agency which represents Sargent's greatest achievement, and one which gained him national renown. The appointment, in and of itself, speaks volumes about Sargent's belief in Bellotti's honesty and integrity.

It is fitting that a Republican Yankee Brahman holding high elective office personally administering the coup de grace to the vicious rumors plaguing Bellotti for the past decade, and more. This is because it was two other "statesman" Republicans — John A. Volpe and Elliot Richardson — who were mainly responsible for the smears against the Quincy lawmaker initially.

In the 1966 election, Elliot Richardson (who, incidentally, is Sargent's cousin) was trailing Bellotti badly in the race for attorney general, and, six days before the election, leveled conflict of interest charges against the former Democratic lieutenant governor.

This last-minute smear cost Bellotti that election just as two years earlier John Volpe, seeking to regain the office of governor, also kayoed Bellotti when he leveled "dirty money" charges against Bellotti late in the election.

The Volpe charges swept the state like wildfire and not only cost him that election and contributed heavily to his defeat by Richardson two years later but as recently as this past election also proved a below-the-surface factor in Bellotti's latest attorney general fight.

Both Volpe and Richardson, of course, went on to hold high Cabinet positions in the Nixon Administration — aided in no small measure by their ascendancy to high office here at the expense of Bellotti. As for Bellotti himself, the decade following those shattering defeats found his political hopes dissipated almost beyond recall until his razor-thin victory a few months ago.

Even in this last campaign, the Republican candidate for attorney general, Josiah (Si) Spaulding, gave every indication of revitalizing "the political horror of 1966" as regards Bellotti. But, a decent and honorable man, Spaulding ruled against taking the low road.

Even Spaulding, however, seemed to take it for granted that a Frank Bellotti was some special form of evil about to be visited upon the Commonwealth. As this column observed then after a Spaulding news conference:

"Spaulding seems a political schizophrenic on the topic of Frank Bellotti — almost as though his inner self believed all these dire things about his opponent which his honest and decent public self rejected.

"When talking of Bellotti, somehow one got the impression that Spaulding was primitive man huddled in his cave while some terrifying pre-historic beast scrawled outside to get in."

Hopefully, Governor Sargent's action in naming Frank Bellotti to the sensitive position he did will bury once and for all the rumor "beast" which has plagued the incoming attorney general since the mid-60s.

It was rare political justice and speaks volumes about Frank Sargent — all good. For Frank Bellotti, it was long-overdue political vindication — and the clearing of his name of smears and innuendos that had persisted all too strongly.

Senator Kennedy Will Speak Here Monday

Senator Edward M. Kennedy will be the keynote guest speaker at Monday's "Quincy '75 Night" sponsored by the Koch Club.

The event will take place at the George F. Bryan VFW Post, 24 Broad St., Quincy, from 6-9 p.m.

Other guests attending the affair will be Andrew T. Walsh, president of Quincy Symphony Orchestra, and H. Hobart Holly, president of the Quincy Historical Society. Proceeds from the event will benefit both organizations.

Richard Koch, president of the Quincy Koch Club said both organizations could use the funds towards events and projects they have planned for the city's 350th anniversary celebration.

The Quincy Symphony

Orchestra will entertain during the evening and light refreshments will be served.

Tickets may be obtained from Koch at 241 Newbury Ave. North Quincy.

Kennedy will also speak at the New England Division of Kemper Insurance Companies, 150 Newport Ave., at 3:30 p.m. During the day, he will also make several other visits throughout the city.

Letter Box

Praises John Guenello For Band Success

Editor, Quincy Sun:

In a recent edition of The Sun the high schools of Quincy were given much praise due to the very good performances of the bands.

I would like to see The Sun print a feature article on the "beginnings" of our two bands. Most of the band got their start in elementary school and through the efforts of Mr. John Guenello from Sterling Junior High School.

May I be so bold as to suggest that one of your reporters interview him and get an in-depth look as to why Quincy's High School Bands deserve the praise they have received from your newspaper and others?

I am sure such an article would help at all levels to continue the very good work being done.

Thank you for any consideration you may give to my suggestion.

Complete Text Of Mayor Hannon's Mid-Term Address

Following is the text of Mayor Walter J. Hannon's mid-term address delivered Monday night.

More than ever before in recent times, we're starting a new year facing serious crises across our nation. Wherever we turn, there seem to be problems. All of us can remember when going to the supermarket on Saturday morning was a pleasant trip. Now, it's a nightmare. Now, we're struggling just to stay even.

On top of rising prices, the government tells us that unemployment is going up even higher.

Yet, with all its uncertainty, 1975 is a year of significance for each of us in Quincy. It marks the 350th anniversary of the arrival of a band of hardy people to Quincy Bay. Those early years were marked by struggles which would have tested the best of us.

In 1975, we have the honor of expressing our appreciation to those who founded our community. They didn't have time to complain. The time in which they lived demanded that they succeed or die.

Difficult circumstances have faced Quincy many times throughout the past 350 years. Many of us can remember the 30's. Yet, Quincy survived and prospered. The political leaders of the community did not walk away from hard decisions — they faced up to them. That same determination is required of us today.

As I begin my fourth year as Mayor, let us take a hard look at the crucial issues facing us in the city in 1975.

UNEMPLOYMENT BIGGEST PROBLEM

I agree with the hundreds of citizens who tell me that unemployment is our biggest problem. It is! Many people think that a local community can't do much to change the economic situation. They think we can only wait for the Governor or the President. That's not true: We're doing something positive about finding jobs for people. In 1974, 506 people went to work because of the efforts of the City of Quincy. This doesn't include hundreds more who found work through two successful job fairs in our city.

All of these efforts will be expanded in 1975. Our Office of Manpower Services will have more people in the field actually locating jobs for Quincy citizens. In addition, special state and federal funding will make it possible for the creation of 150 new public service jobs in the first two months of this new year.

We're not sitting around wringing our hands or blaming the state for not solving our problems. The City of Quincy will do more and more to help provide jobs for those who want to work.

INDUSTRIAL PARKS

But that's not all. Through the Federal Economic Development Administration, we're starting a detailed examination of industrial and manufacturing jobs in Quincy. We will have a concrete plan to protect existing jobs as well as to create new ones. I am assigning a member of my staff with the direct responsibility of liaison with the industrial community to make sure that local industry remains as part of our community.

At the same time, we're in the process of preparing a specific economic development program proposal for the federal government. This will make Quincy eligible for a variety of economic development assistance grants to help protect Quincy business and industry as well as give us the ability to attract new economic growth.

Let's not kid ourselves — in the past decade, Quincy has lost vital industry to other areas of the South Shore due, in great part, to our lack of foresight in the creation of an Industrial Park area. Therefore, we must seriously look at the idea of establishing an attractive Industrial Park in the city, because we cannot afford the loss of tax revenue and jobs any longer.

How strong do I feel about this? I believe it is a virtual necessity. The reason for this is that Quincy has experienced a decline in the rate of its economic growth. We all took great pride in the establishment of new companies such as Jordan Marsh, State Street South, and Kemper Insurance. But the monies from these companies have been virtually gobbled up in the expanding costs of government through inflation.

Some of us must change our attitude concerning the economic growth of our city if we are to maintain a stable tax rate.

TRY TO CONTROL TAXES

Quincy will do its best to control taxes but it cannot do it alone. We must caution the state legislature to seriously consider every bill that they are presented this year that has any semblance of a price tag on it.

For example, last year alone in the area of schools, the legislature imposed some $750,000 on the cities and towns in the state through legislation. These mandated new programs mean $3 on our tax rate.

But even more serious than that, we must speak of 100% valuation.

REVALUATION COURT ISSUE

The recent decision by the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, which will require 100% valuation of real estate, makes it necessary for our assessors to submit to the Commissioner of Corporation and Taxation, by April 1, 1975, a detailed plan for implementation of that order taking into account the special needs and requirements of the City of Quincy.

I have instructed the City Solicitor to join the City of Boston in the suit against 100% valuation. Once again, I publicly speak out against 100% valuation and its impact upon the single and two family homeowner. We are ready to support any effort through legislation to change this law and to protect the veterans, elderly, widows and the blind so that they may not be deprived of hard won exemptions or benefits.

For 350 years, Quincy has remained economically strong. In 1975, it must continue to remain economically strong.

But what good is all of the previous talk unless we have a safe city where a person can walk the street — day or night — and feel secure in his home.

CRIME CRACKDOWN

The recent announcement of the crackdown on crime was criticized by the Civil Liberties Union and by some politicians. However, the people of Quincy have given their overwhelming support to my actions.

Police protection is a basic obligation of local government and will be a continuing effort of this administration.

In November of 1974, there were 25 robberies. Since my announcement in early December of the crackdown on crime, there have been only 5 robberies. Yet, December is known as the worst month for such crimes.

I will not be satisfied until the crime statistics drop lower and lower. I want Quincy safe for everyone!

With the cooperation of Chief Francis X. Finn and the entire Quincy Police Department, we're now implementing 3 programs which will bring the police closer to the citizens.

In order to make these efforts effective, I'm announcing tonight that Chief Finn is assigning an officer with the rank of lieutenant to the position of Crime Prevention Specialist. It will be his direct responsibility to guarantee the effective implementation of these programs.

First, Operation Watch, the program which has successfully reduced housebreaks by 35 percent in North Quincy, is being extended throughout the city.

Auxiliary policemen, under the direction of regular police personnel, will begin conducting neighborhood meetings to teach people effective ways to protect their homes.

This program is working because the police and the residents are in partnership. When you hear about Operation Watch coming to your neighborhood, make the effort to participate. The Police Department knows what we must do to make our homes safe. But it's up to us to cooperate.

This Quincy-wide program is being accomplished without additional tax money. The auxiliary police are volunteering their services to the city. And, on behalf of all citizens of Quincy, I want to express our thanks to them.

Second, this week we're beginning a new program of foot patrols to prevent housebreaks and other crimes in our neighborhoods. Through computer analysis, the Police Department has pinpointed those areas of the city which have a high incidence of burglaries.

The police also know the peak periods when crimes occur. These preventive foot patrols will be deployed in a flexible way to stop crime before it starts. This is going to cost all of us tax dollars, but it's worth it.

Crime prevention is the key to a safe city. Once again, Quincy will have policemen "walking the beat" to make certain our homes are secure. Tonight, I am announcing the establishment of a sub-police station in North Quincy. This is another step in bringing police protection closer to citizens.

For 350 years, Quincy has remained. In 1975, I want to be sure that Quincy remains safe for every man, woman and child.

NEIGHBORHOOD IMPROVEMENTS

Next, within a few weeks, I will announce another neighborhood improvement project. Several of our neighborhoods have benefited from similar programs.

But we can't stop now. An exterior survey of all the 18,000 homes in our city has just been completed by our department of Planning and Community Development to determine the condition of our housing. 1,119 homes were found to be deteriorating or substandard. That's too many! We must provide assistance to those who are financially unable to maintain their homes properly.

Many homes in our city are well over 50 years old and they're beginning to show their age. Where there is the need, we must see to it that proper rehabilitation takes place.

The very life of Quincy depends upon keeping our neighborhoods strong and attractive. This third neighborhood improvement project will mark another step we've taken to guarantee a high quality community.

Quincy has remained for 350 years. In 1975, it must remain a city for people to live, raise their families and enjoy life.

Now, let me discuss with you another very important issue to further increase the efficiency of our city government.

Today, everybody is talking about efficiency in government. But we are doing something about it. We are doing something about it now and we have been doing something about it since 1972.

In the fall of last year, a conference was held bringing together department heads and others in government to develop a greater understanding of each of their roles in the performance of their duties. How can a city be run effectively unless each and every department knows the capabilities, resources and functions of every other department?

That conference has produced a series of interdepartmental meetings which have resulted in increased cooperation and have brought forth many new ideas on how to streamline city government.

For example, we are moving ahead to improve our city-wide purchasing procedures and our Purchasing Agents from the city, the hospital and the school department are now working together to buy products at the lowest possible prices.

We must extend this to more and more areas. I will be asking in the next few weeks for a citizens' committee to be established to help our Purchasing Agents develop a plan for the possibility of establishing a Central Purchasing Warehouse and Motor Pool.

Again, Quincy has remained for 350 years. In 1975, we must see to it that our city remains sound financially.

U n e m p l o y m e n t , police protection and government efficiency are difficult issues. But they must be faced. In addition, we must also deal directly with the question of quality education.

QUALITY EDUCATION

Some communities have decided that the time isn't right to come to terms with education. They've left education for another year or another generation. Yet, approximately 40 new schools are under construction all over Massachusetts today, and the citizens of Quincy are helping to pay for each and every one. For those who are willing to wait, from my viewpoint, are irresponsible. Our kids can't wait!

Do you know that exactly 100 years ago, modern education in the United States had its start in Quincy, Massachusetts? In the 1870's, thousands and thousands of educators came to Quincy to see the miracle which Colonel Francis Parker was performing in the education of young people. Undoubtedly, he had his critics. But thank God, he prevailed!

Quincy set the pace in education. Now that same responsibility rests with us this year. When Quincy celebrates its 400th anniversary, will it be said that the decline in quality education began in 1975? 1975 is the year of decision in education for Quincy!

It's going to be tough to vote "yes." Think how tough it was for Colonel Parker. The unborn child, the kid in the 4th grade won't ever remember your name, but you will know deep inside, and that, to me, will be our satisfaction. When faced with a difficult decision, John Quincy Adams said: "Fortify your mind against disappointments. Keep up your courage and go ahead!"

JOHN HANCOCK

Let me conclude with these thoughts. A few days from now, we will celebrate the birthday of the nation's most famous patriot, Quincy-born John Hancock. He's remembered for one reason: He dared to take a bold stand. While others were afraid to be the first to sign the Declaration of Independence, he took pen in hand and wrote his name so that King George couldn't make any mistake about who was placing his life and fortune on the line for freedom. Only 1/3 of the people supported the American Revolution. What would have happened to our freedom if the patriots of that time had called for a referendum?

For 350 years, Quincy has remained because our people have kept up their courage and gone ahead. And, in 1975, that's exactly what we're going to do in Quincy.

We will face 1975 together. Problem by Problem, the good times and the bad. Some of you will be with me on an issue this time and against me on another. Some members, for reasons of their own, will never see eye to eye with me on any issue. But, out of our differences and diversity can come great accomplishments for our city.

And in these times of trouble, we must be unafraid to act with the courage and spirit of our patriotic past.

Over 50 Youths At Drop-In Center

More than 50 boys and girls from the Southwest area of the city attended last Friday's opening of the Southwest Teen Drop-In Center.

The Center, under the direction of Josephine Mattina, is geared towards providing educational, social and recreational activities for youth in the Southwest area. It is located in Faith House, 65 Roberts St., South Quincy.

The Center is in need of volunteers to supervise and work closely with the teens. Any interested people can contact Josephine Mattina of 372 Granite St., Quincy at 471-0796.

Hannon Pledges Fight Against Unemployment, Crime, Taxes

Calling 1975 "the year of decision in education for Quincy", and citing the educational strides made by Quincy's first superintendent of schools, Col. Francis Parker, Hannon told Quincy citizens of their "responsibility" to uphold the tradition of quality education in the city. He said:

"Some communities have decided that the time isn't right to come to terms with education. They've left education for another year or another generation. Those who are willing to wait, from my viewpoint, are irresponsible. Our kids can't wait!"

An overflow crowd was on hand for the mid-term ceremonies in the City Council chamber.

Arthur H. Tobin was re-elected council president for a precedent-setting sixth term and Mrs. Josephine Carnali was re-elected to her sixth one-year term as clerk of council committees.

Hannon reported that citizens responded with "overwhelming support" to his recent announcement of a crackdown on crime. He announced Chief Finn's appointment of a lieutenant to the position of Crime Prevention Specialist.

The Mayor moved on three fronts to cut crime in Quincy by:

- Extending Operation Watch throughout the entire city.
- Initiating a new foot patrol to prevent housebreaks and other crimes in neighborhoods.

- Establishing a sub-police station in North Quincy.

Hannon said a computer system has pinpointed not only high-crime areas in Quincy but peak hours when crime occurs. He said the program "is going to cost all of us tax dollars, but it's worth it."

In announcing the city-wide effort to make supply costs uniform and minimal, Hannon also said he will request "in the next few weeks" the formation of a citizens committee to help the city's purchasing agents develop a plan to establish a possible "Central Purchasing Warehouse and Motor Pool."

Speaking of the housing survey conducted by Department of Planning and Community Development, Hannon said the total of 1,119 homes labeled substandard and deteriorating was "too many" for Quincy. He committed his administration to helping those "who are financially unable to maintain their homes properly."

Threading throughout Hannon's speech was the theme of Quincy's endurance. Calling 1975 "a year of significance" marking the city's 350th anniversary, Hannon reiterated throughout his speech, "For 350 years, Quincy has remained."

He vowed to insure that the city of Quincy remains economically strong and sound, attractive to residents, efficient and safe. To do that, he called on citizens and city officials alike "to act with the courage and spirit of our patriotic past."

Heritage Contests

$300 prizes, there are for each contest a $100 second prize, a $50 third prize, four $25 prizes and 20 $10 prizes.

The names of all the winners and honorable mention selections will be listed in next week's Quincy Sun.

The special supplement will serve as a guide to all the Quincy Heritage activities for the next two years. It will be a souvenir edition and one that will make Quincy history itself. In fact, it will be placed in the Quincy Historical Society archives for future generations to see how Quincy planned the celebration of its 350th anniversary and the nation's bicentennial.

Also featured at the dinner will be:

- The premier of "Quincy Played Its Part", an original film produced by students in the Quincy Public Schools and teacher Walter McCarthy.
- Bagpipe playing by Peter Henderson.

Ticket information for the dinner is available by calling 773-1380, Ext. 372.

MONEY TALKS

Absorbing Less Income Than It Did 6 Years Ago?!

By Philip J. Lawrence

President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association
of Quincy and Holbrook

8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

Any housewife can tell you she is spending much more for food than she did five or six years ago. But what may surprise her is that her food bills are absorbing a smaller share of personal income than they did six years ago.

According to National Consumer Finance Association figures, less than 16 per cent of income now goes for food compared with over 17 per cent six years ago.

This despite the fact that costs of similar baskets of food rose 8 to 12 per cent between April and December 1973, according to figures from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Such figures are based on the Department's estimates of specific amounts of each of eleven groups of food and make no allowance for meals or snacks eaten out.

Department figures show that a family of four in December 1973 with pre-school children expended $35.30 per week on a low-cost plan, $44.70 on a moderate-cost plan, and $53.90 on a liberal plan. A family of two between 20 and 35 years of age spent weekly $24.30 on a low-cost plan, $30.80 on a moderate-cost plan, and $37.40 on a liberal plan. A family of two 55 to 75 years of age expended $19.90 on a low-cost plan, $25.70 on a moderate-cost plan, and $30.60 on a liberal plan.

Today's housewife is probably right in her surmise that the family is saving less than it used to. Saving has been shaved down from 6 to 5 per cent over the past six years.

Personal taxes continue to go up, claiming almost 15 per cent of personal income—up from 13 per cent six years ago. Spending on transportation goods and services now absorbs 11 per cent of personal income—up from 10 per cent in 1967.

Little difference between now and six years ago is evident in the percentage of personal income going for shelter [21%], clothing [7%], interest payments [2%], and the miscellany of other consumer outlays [24%].

The increased percentage going to taxes is mainly due to an increasing proportion of income receivers in higher income brackets now than in previous years. Total personal income was up 65 per cent, according to the National Consumer Finance Association figures—up from $629 billion in 1967 to $1,035 billion in 1973.

Very large gains in farm income account for heavy increases in personal income in the Plains and Rocky Mountain States. Gains ranging from 14.9 to 23.8 per cent in one year [third quarter 1972 to third quarter 1973] were recorded in North Dakota, Kansas, Idaho, South Dakota, Nebraska, and Minnesota. Smallest income gains for the same period, ranging from 7.6 to 9.4 per cent, were in West Virginia, Mississippi, Rhode Island, North Carolina, New York, Delaware, Missouri, Louisiana, and the District of Columbia.

Donald Bernstein To Study In Vienna

Donald J. Bernstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton G. Bernstein of 28 Perry Rd, Wollaston is one of 30 Nasson College students who will spend the semester in Vienna, Austria, under one of the college's study abroad programs.

The students will study the art, music, literature, history and language of Austria under a coordinated program directed by Dr. Verne H. Bowie, professor of English.

In addition to classes, the students tour museums, churches and castles in Vienna, and attend operas and other cultural events "to give them some insight into the Austrian and German way of thinking and feeling," according to Dr. Bowie.

At the end of the semester, students may continue to tour Europe on their own or in groups before returning to their homes.

JUDAICA BOOKS were recently presented to the Wheaton College Library by the Jewish Chautauqua Society as part of an educational program designed to educate people of all faiths on Judaism. From left, Arthur Martin and Charles Forman, professors of religion at Wheaton; Herbert Panoff, secretary of the National Federation Temple Brotherhoods and the Jewish Chautauqua Society; Miss Hilda Harris, college librarian; Lester Glasser, chairman of the Jewish Chautauqua Society Committee of Temple Israel, Boston; and Charles Gleason, vice-president for Development and Public Affairs at Wheaton.

Wollaston Men Present Books To Wheaton College

Herbert Panoff, secretary of the National Federation Temple Brotherhoods and The Jewish Chautauqua Society and Lester H. Glasser, chairman of the Jewish Chautauqua Society Committee of Temple Israel, Boston, recently presented volumes of books to be added to the Wheaton College Judaica shelf.

Both Panoff and Glasser are residents of Wollaston.

Panoff is also president of the New England Region of Temple Brotherhoods of the Union of America Hebrew Congregations. Glasser received a gold medal for his 11th year of leadership in building support for the Cause of Enlightenment by achieving in excess of 25 per cent over his Brotherhood's JCS quota.

The donation of Judaica reference books to libraries is one of the Society's five-phase educational programs for a better understanding and appreciation of Judaism by people of all faiths.

The Jewish Chautauqua Society was founded in 1893 and is sponsored by the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods, comprising 500 men's clubs with a membership of 75,000 in the United States, Canada and abroad.

Offshore Oil, Natural Gas Exploration A 'Must' Says Wollaston Man

The U.S. "must move into offshore areas" that offer the most promising opportunities for new supplies of oil and natural gas so the nation can increase its domestic production and reduce its dependence on foreign countries, according to a Wollaston spokesman for the Massachusetts Petroleum Council.

Richard J. Shea, of 21 Kemper St., told the Quincy Lions Club, the time to act is now, "before our energy situation and dependence on foreign oil becomes irreversible." One of the most promising offshore areas to seek oil is along the Atlantic Outer Continental Shelf, he said.

Shea, who is a district sales representative for Cities Service Oil Company, pointed out that potential OCS reserves could provide as much as 20 years' supply of crude oil and 35 years' supply of natural gas. The Atlantic OCS, which has not yet been explored, may have up to 20 billion barrels of oil and 110 trillion cubic feet of natural gas, he added.

Arguments against the search for oil and natural gas off the U.S. coasts were answered by the Council representative. One such argument is the fear that drilling rigs will create what is called "visual pollution" off the Atlantic Coast, he said.

Shea noted: "Based upon present geological and geophysical information for Georges Bank off Massachusetts, it is unlikely that wells will be drilled within 50 miles of Cape Cod and it would be impossible for an individual standing on Cape Cod to see or hear a drilling rig at that distance."

Another argument is that offshore drilling will damage one of the Atlantic Coast's traditional industries—fishing, Shea stated. Similar fears have been dispelled in the Gulf of Mexico where there are now some 2,900 petroleum platforms, he declared. Over the past 25 years—a period of rapidly expanding drilling activities in that area—the commercial fishing catch has steadily increased, he stated.

"The petroleum industry doesn't claim that offshore drilling operations have improved commercial fishing," Shea noted, "but we do claim we haven't harmed it."

Shea said the entire exploration, drilling and production process is carefully tailored to meet safety and environmental protection standards.

"The platforms now used in the Gulf of Mexico are designed to withstand hurricanes; the platforms in Alaska's Cook Inlet easily withstand ice floes propelled by swift currents and 30-foot tides; and drilling rigs are being operated safely in the North Sea, certainly one of the world's most violent and unpredictable bodies of water," he said.

Cavanaugh Membership Up

Quincy Cavanaugh Chapter, Disabled American Veterans has increased its membership over last year.

Commander Kenneth B. Taft was congratulated by Laurence U. Bloom of Somerville, Massachusetts Department Commander of the Disabled American Veterans.

"The numbers of Viet Nam Veterans who have joined our ranks here in Massachusetts have helped us break all membership records. We now have over 25,000 members and our membership year doesn't end until June 30, 1975," said Bloom.

Massachusetts Headquarters of the DAV are at Room 545, State House, Boston, Mass. Adjutant Joseph R. Harold of Quincy is stationed there.

The National Service Officers are in Room E-318 JFK Federal Building, Boston. John Regan of Sudbury heads the office and he has six National Service Officers, five of whom are Viet Nam Veterans.

Thomas Lyons Elected CDAM First Vice President

Quincy Civil Defense Director Thomas R. Lyons, has been elected first vice president of the Civil Defense Association of Massachusetts (CDAM).

CDAM has members throughout the state and strives to help communities in various segments of preparedness for emergencies and disasters.

Lyons was appointed director of Quincy Civil Defense by Mayor Walter Hannon in 1973.

He is responsible for coordination and supervision of over 400 active and inactive volunteers in the areas of auxiliary fire and police, rescue, communications, underwater recovery, and shelter maintenance.

3 Quincy Men Elected Huntington Hospital Officers

Three Quincy men were elected officers of the Huntington General and Longwood Hospitals at the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Charles D. Merrill of 204 Billings St., North Quincy, was elected President; Joseph A. Donahue, 82 Crabtree Rd., Squantum, treasurer, and Arthur Ciampa, 409 Adams St., Quincy, secretary of the Board.

Dr. Merrill has served as vice-president of the hospital, chairman of the Joint Advisory Committee and delegate to the meetings of the American College of Osteopathic Hospital Administrators. He was recently elected to the Board of Trustees of the New England Foundation for Osteopathic Medicine.

Donahue, who serves on the hospital's Facilities Committee, is an architect who developed plans for the renovation of the Cerebral Palsy building at 105 Adams St., Quincy, which now houses a new walk-in Clinic. He is a member of the American Institute of Architects, Boston Society of Architects, and is licensed to practice in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Donahue is a member of the Quincy Rotary Club and the Wollaston Golf Club. He also is a member and chairman of the Review Committee of the Health Planning Council of Greater Boston Area 524, and has been associated with the Massachusetts Bay United Fund.

His important works locally include the North Quincy Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library, the Quincy Nursing Home, the Quincy City Public Works Administration Building, the Civil Defense Emergency Operating Center and the new Quincy District Court.

Ciampa, who is Executive Director of Cerebral-Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., is chairman of the hospital's Membership Committee. He has been involved in many civic and community organizations. His present affiliations include memberships on the Board of Directors of the Quincy Rotary Club, M.S.P.C.C. South Shore District, Work Inc., and the Regional Council of the Health Planning Council of Greater Boston.

THE FABRIC SHOP, 40 Billings Rd., North Quincy, specializes in Millend drapery, slip cover and upholstery fabrics. Holding one of their specialized pieces of work, are Mrs. Jean Martin of Hingham, and owner Mrs. Fran Howley, of Cohasset.

Sacred Heart CYO Sponsoring Teen Retreat

Sacred Heart Youth Organization will sponsor a high school-age retreat at the Espousal Center in Waltham Saturday and Sunday.

All high school students of the Sacred Heart Church parish are welcome to attend. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Richard Koch and Mrs. Paul Nestor.

Rev. John T. Calter has succeeded Rev. James F. Hawker as advisor to the Sacred Heart Youth Organization.

First-grade boys and girls in the CCD home classes were recently given a tour of the church by Rev. Calter, new assistant at the church. The children visited the Sacristy where they were shown the different colored vestments used during the church year.

Central Students Visit Foley Chrysler-Plymouth

Recently 10 students from Central visited Foley Chrysler-Plymouth, North Quincy, under the auspices of Project LINC.

Students learned about the operations of a car dealership, how profits were made, and were introduced to concepts of discounts and mark-ups. They got a first hand view of several jobs, including; salesmen, auto-mechanics, and managers.

Frank Foley escorted the students around the dealership, and answered the students' questions. The students, from Ralph Koelsch's eighth grade math class, were:

Gerald McMahan, Dave Hamburger, Danny Flannery, Greg Price, David Murray, Brian Chanley, Paul Forbes, James McGregor, Richard Finnegan, and Joseph DiCesare, Jr.

Jack Conway Forms Mortgage Division

Jack Conway and Co., New England's largest residential real estate brokerage firm, is answering the call for better mortgage conditions in the industry by forming a brand new division of the company, the Jack Conway Mortgage Company.

It will be headed up by a former Virginia Mortgage Banker and a former Vice President of a major Bay State commercial bank.

The new company will deal in brokerage of home mortgages which will be sold on the national market through the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. [Freddie Mac].

The Jack Conway Mortgage Company will broker the local home loans in the Southeastern Massachusetts and Cape Cod areas through banking outlets in New Jersey, Virginia and Chicago as well as with some Massachusetts banks set up to handle the Freddie Mac business.

"At the present time we are working in both the new home and used home areas and we expect that our new mortgage group will be able to offer a much needed service in our area," said Jack Conway.

Loan Officer Jack Haughey is a former vice president of the Rockland Trust Company where he served as Branch Administrator, Member of the Loan Committee, Security Officer and Budget Control Officer.

Haughey is a graduate of Williams College School of Banking and lives with his wife Eleanor at 184 Country Way, Scituate.

Loan Officer Andy Jaymes comes to this area after four years service with the Virginia Mortgage and Investment Company where he was Mortgage Loan Officer, Mortgage Underwriter and Mortgage Analyst in the VA, FHA and construction loan field.

Jaymes graduated from Luther Rice College in Alexandria, Va., with a degree in economics. He is a member of the Mortgage Banking Association of America. He lives with his wife and child at 7 Michael Ave., in Scituate.

The new mortgage company will be headquartered at the Conway Country Building in Hanover.

Miller Studio Sponsoring High School Photo Contest

Student photographers from 17 area high schools have been invited to enter the 1974 South Shore High School Photographic Contest sponsored by Miller Studio of Quincy.

Edward F. Percy, co-owner of Miller Studio, said the contest, open to all high school students in public and non-public schools in the South Shore area, "is designed to encourage young photographers and reward them for their efforts."

Entries of both color and black and white in eight categories including experimental and creative design taken from June 1, 1974, to March 1, 1975, are eligible. Students may submit their original work after Feb. 1, and before March 1, at Miller Studio, 33 Chestnut St., Quincy.

Official entry blanks and rules may be obtained by school principals or teachers by calling Charles Flagg, contest coordinator at Miller's at 472-2330.

A panel of prominent men and women in the field of communications will select more than 25 entries as recipients of trophies and photographic equipment.

Percy said that six well-known photo journalists and art directors will meet in mid-March to make their selections. The judges are: Donald Robinson, staff photographer, United Press International; J. Walter Green, Associated Press photographer; Charles Merrill, chief photographer, The Portland Press Herald, Portland, Me.; Ms. Judith Thompson, Editor of the high school section of the Portland Press Herald; Milton Wulleumier, Creative/Art Director, Ingalls Associates, Boston; and William Niles, Art Director, S. Gunnar Myrbeck Co., Quincy.

Gordon Burke Promoted By IH

Gordon P. Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Burke of 219 Centre St., West Quincy, has been promoted to personnel and public affairs manager of the 13-state Northeastern sales region of International Harvester's [IH] agricultural equipment division.

The division is headquartered in Menanda, N.Y.

Burke joined IH as credit representative in 1960 at Portland, Me. after receiving his degree from Boston University.

He was previously market planning manager at Albany, manager of IH's Akron, Ohio store and assistant manager of the Cherry Hill, N.J. store.

Burke, his wife and three children live in Delmar, N.Y.

Rev. James Kimmell First Pastor Faith Lutheran Church

Rev. James Kimmell, former pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, has been named first pastor of the newly-formed Faith Lutheran Church, Granite St., Quincy.
 Trinity Lutheran and Salem Lutheran Church recently merged to form Faith Lutheran Church, a congregation of 500 members.
 Both church buildings are being used to full advantage by the congregation. The main worship service is held in the former Salem Lutheran Church, now called Faith Lutheran Church. The church school is also housed here. The traditional Christmas service in the Swedish language will continue at the church.

 The former Trinity Lutheran Church has been re-named Faith Lutheran Center where monthly Finnish services and other special worship services will be held.
 Faith Lutheran Center will also serve community and parish outreach programs. The Dr. Charles Djerf Child Development Center - a nursery school for three and four-year-olds now in its fifth year of operation - is located in the center.

 The first annual meeting of the merged congregation will be held Sunday, Jan. 19 at 2 p.m. at Faith Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St., Quincy.
 The new church council, consisting of members of both churches, plans to have charter membership certificates prepared and presented to all wishing to become charter members of the new church.

Hypnotist To Entertain St. John's CYO Sunday

St. John's CYO will hold its general meeting in St. John's School Hall Sunday at 7 p.m.

Parent Discussion Scheduled

The South Shore Family Service Center and the Weymouth Youth Commission are co-sponsoring a seven-week series of parent discussion groups to be held in the Tufts Main Library in Weymouth.
 The series, to which Quincy residents are invited, will begin Wednesday, Jan. 22 from 10-11:30 a.m. and will continue on successive Wednesdays.
 Questions to be discussed will include, "Are you puzzled by your teenagers' behavior?" "Do you question when and how to set limits with them?" "Do you wonder how to talk to them about the facts of life?"

 Group discussion leaders will be Gloria Burke, Community Education Director in Weymouth, and Carolyn Fleiss, caseworker at the South Shore Family Service Center, division of the Family Service Association of Greater Boston.
 Parents interested in participating in the series should contact Gloria Burke [335-2020] or Carolyn Fleiss [471-0603] to enroll.

Flyers, Bruins, Dairy, Crestview, Blackwood Win

In the St. Ann's Youth Hockey League, the Flyers defeated Keohane's, 4-2, in Pee Wee action.

Craig DiBona had the hat trick and Paul O'Sullivan the other goal for the Flyers. O'Sullivan had an assist and Jay Hidalgo did a fine job in goal. For Keohane's, John Keller and Joe LaPierre scored and Pete Clark had an assist.

The Flyers also edged Stone's Jewelry, 4-3, with Pete Quinn, Jim Canavan, Steve McDonald and Ben Klingenstein scoring for the Flyers. O'Sullivan, Steve Webb, Brian Webb and Canavan had assists. For Stone Paul Furey, John Hurley and Paul Desmond had the goals and Hurley and Desmond assists.

The Bruins defeated Dunkin

Donuts, 7-4. Gregg Therrien erupted for four goals, Gregg McMillen had two and Kyle Morton one. McMillen, Morton and Therrien had assists. For Donuts Steve Cahill had the hat trick and Paul Hoffman one goal. Hoffman, Cahill and Bud Barron had assists.

Dairy Queen of North Quincy topped Keohane's, 5-2. Walter Phipps had the hat trick and Ron Pujalte two goals, while Dan Rowley, Andy Gillis, Frank Hogan and Steve Hogan had assists. For Keohane's Keller and LaPierre had the goals and LaPierre an assist.

In Bantam games Crestview defeated Plaza Olds, 6-2. Paul Howe and Kev O'Connell each had two goals and Carl Bergstrom and Brian Buckley one each. Frank Kelly, O'Connell, Bergstrom and Buckley had assists. For Plaza Rick Collins scored both goals and Dennis Djerk had an assist.

Bike 'n Blade and North Quincy K. of C. played to a 2-1 tie. For B'n B Dana Ceveroli and Gary Trenholm had the goals and Roger Belanger and Trenholm assists. For K. of C. Dan Houlihan and Bob Maloney scored and George LaPointe had an assist.

Blackwood Pharmacy walloped Chuck Wagon, 7-0. John Cronin had two goals and Pat Wilkinson, Tom Burke, Tom Nazzaro, Mike McColgan and Tom Riemann one apiece. Cronin, Wilkinson, Burke, O'Leary, Nazzaro, Gravina, Bent and Lyons had assists. Goalie Bob Jordan earned the shutout.

At Youth Arena

Quincy, North Clash Saturday

The walls of the Quincy Youth Arena will be bulging Saturday when the Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams meet for the first time in the Suburban League at 7 p.m.

On their records, Quincy should be a decided favorite as it was unbeaten and all alone in first place with a 5-0-0 record going into last Tuesday's game against Brookline. North, on the other hand, had no wins and an 0-4-1 mark going into yesterday's [Wednesday] game against Cambridge Latin.

But, to use an old and faded phrase, when Quincy and North get together, throw the records out the window.

Next Tuesday Quincy will play Newton at 2 p.m. at Boston College and Wednesday North will meet Brockton at 6:30 at Brockton's Asaf rink.

Quincy Coach Bob Sylvia's highest scoring team ever made it five wins in a row Saturday with a 9-5 win over Cambridge Latin. The Presidents have 36 goals in five games.

Junior Frank Guest, having another great year, scored four goals to bring his total to 13 for the year. Bill Brooks, Ed McDonald, Brian Nevinis, Paul Lynch and Leo Kearny had the other goals. Rich Avery had three assists, Nevinis four and Ted Wiedemann and Rich Lucier one each.

Luckless North dropped a 2-0 decision to Newton despite a fine effort in goal by Dick Wilson.

Last Thursday Quincy knocked Weymouth South out of a top tie with a rousing 7-2 win, Weymouth's first loss.

Guest had his second hat trick of the season and had two assists, Lucier had two goals and Wiedemann and Nevinis one apiece. Mark Fanning was outstanding in goal. Despite the seven goals, something unusual against Weymouth goalie Mark Holden, he turned in another stellar game with numerous saves, stopping many breakaways as Quincy kept the pressure on him throughout the game.

North, with some starters out with illness or injuries, lost to Weymouth South, 5-2, after having tied the score at 2-2 early in the final period.

Joe Pistorino scored the first North goal in the first period and Kevin Murphy tied it up early in the final period before Weymouth rolled for three goals to clinch it.

Earlier Quincy had topped Weymouth South, 4-1, with Guest having two more goals and Nevinis and Wiedemann one apiece.

North unleashed its finest attack of the year but had to be satisfied with a 5-5 tie with Brookline.

Steve Cronin exploded for four of the Raider goals and Mike McLean had the other.

A-N Frosh Rolling

While the Quincy freshman hockey team is rolling along with a 3-0-0 Suburban League record, Ed Grogan's Atlantic-North frosh are right behind with a 2-0-1 mark.

Today [Thursday] North will play Brockton at 3 o'clock and next Thursday will meet Cambridge Latin at 7:40, at the Waltham Sports Arena where all league games are played.

In their latest outing the young raiders tied Weymouth South, 2-2. Brian Watts scored early in the second period unassisted to tie the score at 1-1. Weymouth took a 2-1 lead on a penalty shot but A-N tied it again with Jim Moore scoring.

In its previous game A-N had edged Weymouth North, 4-3, with John Cooney scoring the winning goal with 26 seconds left in the game. Moore and Mike Marks assisted. Jeff Gavin and Moore scored in the opening period with Cooney assisting on each and Marks having an assist.

In the second period scored and Moore assisted. Weymouth was tagged with many penalties while A-N was hit only once.

Jim Scanlan was in goal in both games and did well.

Vissa, Team Quincy, Barons Girls Winners

Laura Light sparked Vissa to a 5-1 win over Tiffany with two goals and an assist in Girls Hockey League action last week at the Quincy Youth Arena. The win gave Vissa sole possession of second place.

The other Vissa goals were scored by Jeanne Rathgeb, Karen Cullen and Jean Gregg. Gregg and Betsy Kane had assists. Sue Rugg scored for Tiffany with Mary Wiedemann and Terry Flynn assisting.

Undefeated Red Barons rolled along by bombing Team Quincy, 11-4.

Jean Gregg exploded for six goals with Eileen Marr having two and Joan Lally, Kathy Flynn and Paula Constas one each. Lisa Norling had three assists and Flynn one.

For Team Quincy Mary Ann McCarthy scored twice and Mary Ellen Riordan and Joan Troy once each. Riordan had three assists, Debbie McManus two and McCarthy one.

Tonight [Thursday] the Red Barons play Vissa at 6:30 and Tiffany faces Team Quincy at 7:30.

Mite A's Nip Hyannis, 3-2

The red hot Mite A team edged Hyannis, 3-2, as Chris Hurley scored twice and Danny Kelly once.

Mark Chambers had two assists and Scott Messina, Danny Cronin and Keith Smith one each.

The Mites played to a 4-4 tie with Hyde Park as Kelly, Paul Marshall, Chris Hurley and Bob McCabe had the goals. Brian Chase, Marshall, Pete Quinn, Cronin and Dan Hall had assists.

The Mites also bombed Norwell, 9-1, with Cronin having the hat trick, Smith two goals and Messina, Hurley, Chambers and Hall one apiece. Kelly had four assists, Marshall and McCabe two each and Cronin, Messina, Hurley, Bill Hughes, and John DiPietro one each.

The unbeaten Mite A team is rolling along with a 16-0-2 record.

Mancuso Paces Koch Men

Al Mancuso has moved into top spot with an average of 109.2 in the Koch Club Men's Bowling League. He is followed by Jim Jordan 108.1, Bert Christina 107.4, Bob Conley 105.9, Don Thomas 103.4, Richie Bolster 103.3, Walter Zukauskas 102.9, Bill Reardon 101.4, Jim Moody 101.3, and Paul Koch 101.3.

Zukauskas' team leads the league with 80 wins and 16 losses and is trailed by Mancuso 71-25, Ed Zukowski 60-36, Jordan 50-46, Moody 48-48, Koch 40-56, Christina 38-58, Norm Greenfield 36-60, Jim Cocco 27-69 and Reardon 26-70.

Paul Erlar has high individual three string total of 367 and high individual single string of 166.

Mancuso's team holds the high team three string total of 1561, and Christina's squad has the high team single string of 549.

The Koch Club Men's Bowling League is enjoying its 25th season of competition, and bowls every Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alley.

Jim Moody is president, Jim Baker secretary, and Tony Delmonico treasurer of the 50 man league.

Junior B's Win 2 Squeakers

The Junior B team won a pair of squeakers during the past week in games played at the Hingham Pilgrim Arena.

The B team edged Rockland,

5-4, with Paul Galasso having the hat trick and two assists, Jim Cooney a goal and four assists and John Ryan a goal and an assist.

Quincy also nipped Abington Flames, 4-3, with Jack Erickson having two goals and an assist and Noonan the other two goals. Ryan and Bill Radcliffe each had an assist. Neil McGilvray played a strong game in goal.

Presidents Pin Hopes On Promising Sophmores

By TOM SULLIVAN

Back in the 30's and early 40's Quincy High School had outstanding wrestling teams.

The Presidents' last team in 1942 won the state championship and the sport was then dropped.

This season the sport has been revived and Coach Carmen Mariano is pinning his hopes mainly on a promising group of sophomores, who wrestled in the junior high program started three years ago by Mariano.

Quincy dropped a close decision to Algonquin Regional in a non-league meet and opened their Suburban League season yesterday (Wednesday) at home against Brookline.

"As I see our present program developing, I become increasingly encouraged about the future of Quincy wrestling," Mariano said. "This year's varsity team will be built around a core of experienced, potential-laden sophomores including Gary Oriola (his uncle was a member of the 1942 championship squad), Dan Thibeault, Anthony Luongo, Timothy Cahill, Brian Kelly, Joseph Moran, Tom Bambery, Wayne Gardiner, Eddie Towers, Craig Shea and Jon Golub."

Supplementing this group are upper classmen Frank Curran, David Watson, Paul Madden and Brian Brown.

"Our junior varsity includes a number of boys whose experience is limited due to the youth of our program," Mariano continued. "But they have continually exhibited the commitment and self discipline necessary for development within the context of a sport so demanding as wrestling."

Among this group are Sam Gravina, Kevin Callahan, Nick Renzulli, Michael Doherty, Bill McDonald, Noel DiBona and Bill Dever.

"The team and I see this season as a tremendous challenge and will include meets with such long established teams as Brockton, Waltham, Newton, Brookline and Weymouth, all of whom will provide strong experienced opposition," the Quincy coach said.

"Our objective is one of development. The eventual success of our program, after all, is contingent upon our ability to learn and grow from the experiences we will encounter in this, our first interscholastic season.

"I say again, that if attitude, dedication and self-sacrifice count for anything, and they do when applied to wrestling, then the future of this team looks bright indeed."

Many of the boys who wrestled in the junior high league, started by Mariano, are this year competing for both Quincy and North Quincy.

All QJC Needs Is A Little Luck

Although the Quincy Junior College basketball team's record is 6-6 [4-2 in the Mass. Junior College Conference], Coach Earl Vermillion feels with a little luck the Collejons could be rolling along with a 10-2 mark.

"We have been in nearly every game until the last three or four minutes," Vermillion pointed out. "We have played some strong teams and have lost some tough games."

Saturday QJC will play Bryant and Stratton at Boston University at 7:30, Monday, Jan. 20, it will play at Quinsigamond at 8 with the girls playing in the preliminary at 6.

The Collejons are sparked this season by Kevin Gibson [6-5] from Hyde Park, who is receiving a lot of attention in National Junior College A.A. Region 21 ratings.

Gibson is third in scoring in the region with a 24.8 point a game average and ranks third in rebounding with an average of 16.9 rebounds per game. The team, incidentally, ranks sixth in the region.

There are several Quincy players on the team including Don Connolly [5-10], Ed Marden [6-5], Ted Meyer [6-3] and Paul McDonough [6-1] from Quincy and Brian Cox [5-9], Bernie Holleran [6-0] and Steve Orlando [5-9] from North Quincy.

Others on the squad are Tom Carmody [6-3] from Christopher Columbus High School, Dan Donahue [6-5] Boston Tech; George Fennell [5-11], Boston English; Tony Mitchell [5-10] and Mike Mitchell [5-10] from Jamaica Plain.

Determination Marks Raiderette's Play

The North Quincy girls' basketball team is playing under a new coach this year and as of last week the Raiderettes had a 3-3 record in this, their first year in the Suburban League.

Sandra Colletti took over the reins when Barbara Webster moved to Quincy to replace Gale Palmer, who is on a leave of absence.

"It is always excitement, cheering, laughing and down to earth determination that carry the North Quincy girls through every game," Miss Colletti said.

The North varsity team is led by six returnees from Miss Webster's 1973-74 team, Co-Capt. Cheryl Walsh and Maryann Dunn, Jeanne McCarthy, Saralee Ebban, Elaine Shea, Nancy Willard, Sherrill Bevans and Nancy Laing, who is currently injured.

Other varsity players are senior Marianne O'Sullivan, juniors Karen Stevens and Paula Chamberlain and three talented sophomores who played with last year's Central junior high champions, Jackie Little, Ruth Widman and Adrienne White.

The Raiderette's junior varsity squad is made up of Co-Capt. Helen Thompson and Linda Henry, Marianne Byk, Mary Ellen Meehan, Doris Aiken, Siobhan Nolan, Claire O'Hanlon, Laura Bilotas, Mary Cahill, Anita Biagini, Janet Montz, Cathy Collins, Colleen McCullan, Michelle Callahan, Donna Ronnie, Jeanne LaCamera and Lorraine Conroy. Friday North will play at Weymouth North and Tuesday will be at Weymouth South.

Meanwhile, Barbara Webster's Quincy girls will host Brockton Friday and will be home to Newton Tuesday.

Men's Candlepin Tourney Applications

The 22nd annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy, will open Sunday, Jan. 19 at 12:30 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, 17 Broad St., Quincy.

Applications are now available at the alleys. Any league wishing to participate may submit their roster, and file an entry. Teams must be from an organized Men's Bowling League, no pickup teams will be allowed to participate.

Those leagues planning to enter a team should list their top five bowlers in the standings as of Jan. 15, to bowl in competition, with the sixth and seventh bowlers in the average column as alternates.

If one of the top seven bowlers in the league cannot compete, the league officials may continue to choose from their league roster, according to average. Any Bowler participating in the tourney may only appear on one roster, and bowl for one entry. Violation of the above rules will forfeit the teams participation or continuance. Bowlers entered must have bowled half the season thus far, with their respective leagues. All tournament matches will be decided on total pinfall. It is an elimination tourney, and each team must win over its opponent to continue.

Upon completion of the tourney, the winning team will receive a $100 cash prize, and a trophy emblematic of the 22nd tourney championship. Richard J. Koch Executive Director of the Koch Club is tourney director. Any additional information may be obtained from him.

North Off To Good Start Quincy Runs Into Tough Luck

The North Quincy basketball team is enjoying a fine season and going into last Tuesday's game at Cambridge Latin had a 5-2 record, 4-2 in the Suburban League.

The Raiders will host Weymouth North Friday and Weymouth South next Tuesday.

Quincy, which lost two heartbreakers in a row in the final seconds, took a 2-4 record into Tuesday's game with Rindge Tech. The Presidents play at Brockton Friday and at Newton next Tuesday.

Bob Nolan's North team turned in one of its better efforts last Saturday to defeat highly rated Brockton, 78-61.

Cooper Jordan had 18 points, Tim Clifford 17, Paul Kelleher 14 and Jay Nelson 12 for North, while the defense was strong one again.

Quincy lost to Brookline, 63-50, despite holding 6-10 Mark Young to 19 points, one of his lowest totals of the season.

For the Presidents Bill Dacey had another good night with 17 points, nine of them from the foul line. Don Connors had 15 points.

Last Thursday Young scored 33 points to spark Brookline over North, 79-73, but despite the Giant's scoring and rebounding, the Raiders stayed

O'Brien Club, Gamblers Meet Sunday

The largest crowd ever to see a semi-pro basketball game is expected to jam the North Quincy High gym Sunday for the 7 p.m. game between the city's two entries in the Cranberry League, the O'Brien Club and the Gamblers.

Going into last Tuesday's game against the Boston Stars in Rochester, the O'Brien Club led the league with a 9-1 record. The team plays at the Middleboro Brewers tonight [Thursday] at 8 p.m. at Middleboro Junior High.

The Gamblers, going into last night's [Wednesday] game against the Easton Huskies, were right behind the O'Brien Club with an 8-1 mark.

The O'Brien Club avenged its only loss Sunday with an easy 112-83 win over the Huskies.

Mark Jellison scored 28 points, Al Dalton 22, Gary Bowen 21, Ron Bradley and Bob McNamara 14 each. Fred Cabral was outstanding off the boards.

Saturday the O'Briens defeated the South Boston Lithuanian Club, 117-107, with Eddie Miller and Jellison scoring 20 points apiece, Bowen 17, Bradley and McNamara 14 each.

Sunday the Gamblers defeated the Boston Stars for the second time, 109-102, with Carlton Chandler scoring 25 points, Billy Evans 16 and Mike Greenlaw 15.

with the winners right to the end, trailing by only four points with 14 seconds left.

For North Clifford had a great night with 28 points, Steve Martinelli had 15 and Kelleher 14.

Quincy snapped a three-game losing streak by topping Weymouth South, 63-57, after trailing, 47-44, at the end of three periods.

Dacey was the Presidents spark with 19 points and nine big rebounds, while John Riggs also had a good night with 14 points and some fine rebounding.

Earlier in the week North defeated Quincy, 60-50, in a typically hard fought North-Quincy game which saw the Raiders ahead by only two points, 44-42, going into the final period.

For North Martinelli and Nelson had 14 points each, and Jordan and Rich Mahoney 10. For Quincy it was Dacey with 18 and Jack Uhlar with 15.

In the previous games North had been edged by Waltham, 66-62, despite a great last period rally, and Quincy suffered its second straight loss at the buzzer, this one 60-58 to Weymouth North.

336 Quincy Students At UMass-Boston

Quincy now has 336 students-up from 199-enrolled at the University of Massachusetts, Boston.

Chancellor Carlo L. Golino revealed the figure Tuesday at a meeting of the Quincy Rotary Club at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Dr. Golino, who lives in Cohasset, said that 11 South Shore communities now have 861 students at UMass-Boston, a 66 per cent increase over the previous year when 519 students from the same communities were enrolled.

He said the commuter-institution has seen these increases from the South Shore mainly because of the academic reputation of the school and its "excellent faculty" and because of the MBTA extension to Quincy which is linked with the free bus shuttle service to the campus.

Dr. Golino told Rotary members that "a university's fundamental function is the search for truth and knowledge, their preservation and dissemination. That this knowledge that we discover must be brought out in the sunlight for all to see in a marketplace of ideas where each individual must make his own judgments and choices. But in the context of 1975 at UMass-Boston, this proposition can have indeed a hollow sound unless we understand that its realization depends on factors which are different from what we have known in the past.

"The urban university, in its real essence, is new on the American scene and must be dealt with out of new experience and orientations. If an urban university is not just a university in an urban setting, but rather one responsive to the needs of the urban setting in which it is, then we need to do things we have not done before, to try paths that so far have been untried.

"This does not mean that we disregard or discard all that the slow, difficult process of many centuries has taught us. On the contrary, it is exactly here that I see the new challenge of urban higher education: how to relate the accumulated patrimony of human knowledge to the new sets of circumstances that face us in our culture, a culture which has become predominantly urban and pluralistic."

He added that "UMass-Boston was originally planned to enroll some 15,000 students in the master plan that was drafted in 1964. New studies on birth rates and on other factors have revised downward the enrollment plans to some 10,000.

"But I want to point out that we must continue to grow from our present programs so that we, truly, will be fulfilling the mission of providing educational opportunities for our citizenry," he said. "This means continuing and enhancing our traditional and our innovative programs. It means giving opportunities in graduate studies. It means in changing times that we will be able to meet the challenges and the opportunities that lie ahead of us."

Brett Bill Would Allow Varied Assessment Rates

Rep. Joseph E. Brett [d-Quincy], has filed legislation which would amend the state constitution to allow the assessment of real property at varied rates according to their uses.

A similar proposal was turned down by the voters in the 1970 state election but Brett said he feels that recent court rulings that all properties must be assessed at full and fair cash value will have a "devastating effect" on owners of residential properties, unless the constitution is amended to permit the assessment of residential properties at less than full and fair cash values.

At the present time, Brett said that in most communities commercial and income-producing properties are usually assessed at higher percentages of true value than are residential properties.

If the court rulings are upheld and local assessors are forced to re-value all of the properties in their communities at full and fair cash value, the residential property owners will be faced with excessive increases in their annual tax bills, he said.

Brett said it is of extreme importance that the state constitution be amended as he proposes in order to "protect the interests of the already overburdened home owners."

This may be the easiest change you'll ever make.

It may seem like a small change at first. In fact, the interest you're losing by having an ordinary checking account, the money you're paying for checks, and those service charges may seem like small change. But it all adds up.

LaRaia To Announce Soon Tobin Close To Running For Mayor

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Senator-City Council President Arthur Tobin is "doing some soul searching" about running for mayor this year.

Tobin made the candid disclosure in response to questions put to him by The Quincy Sun—his first public indication he is even thinking of being a candidate.

"I hope to make my decision soon," he said.

City Council President Joseph J. LaRaia, who has been telling friends he will run, is expected to announce his candidacy for mayor shortly—perhaps by next week.

LaRaia's hat in the ring could be the deciding factor in Tobin getting into the race.

As one of the city's all-time strong vote-getters, Tobin's entrance as a candidate would have tremendous impact on this year's mayoralty race as well as the entire city election itself.

Most political observers no doubt would install him in the role of "the man to beat".

If he does get into the race, it would trigger a chain reaction, opening up council, ward, and at-large, and even school committee seats.

"I have been approached by very responsible people urging me to run," Tobin revealed. "I am doing some soul searching right now about whether to run or not."

Tobin indicates he would run if he felt things were not right in the city. He said:

"If I feel the city is not going in the right direction, I think I would run. I do not want to see Quincy going backward."

Tobin said if he decides to run, Mayor Walter J. Hannon

Kennedy Calls For $20 Billion Tax Cut, Tough Energy Sacrifice

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Senator Edward M. Kennedy, in a Quincy visit this week, called for a nation-wide energy conservation program "to challenge the American people like they've never been challenged in the past."

He also urged a $20 billion tax cut to spur the slow-motion economy.

Critical of President Gerald Ford's "little requests" made to Americans, Kennedy said he advocates an entirely voluntary system of conservation coupled with "tough action" on oil companies and corporations.

Kennedy said: "The American people are not being asked to provide any degree of sacrifice. The little requests made by the President-like cleaning our plates, turning out lights and wearing a nice button—are not a fair and equitable system."

Citing the rising cost of heating oil and gasoline,

Kennedy decried several times "the unconscionable profits" of the oil companies. And he suggested to a gathering at Kemper Insurance, North Quincy, the implementation of a voluntary plan to cut down on gasoline consumption.

He said Americans could select one day of the week—a day of their choice—and abstain from driving. People would then paste a sticker—a different color for each day—on the windshield

Only .6 % Substandard

93.5 % Of Quincy Housing In Good Condition

Results of the exterior building survey conducted during November and December have been compiled by the Department of Planning and Community Development.

City-wide results show that 93.5 percent of Quincy's housing is in standard or good condition with 1,013 or 5.9 percent in fair or deteriorating condition and only 107 or .6 percent are substandard or in poor condition.

"This year the City will be receiving $1 million from HUD, an amount significantly lower than past levels of funding, for community development programs," said Geoffrey A. Davidson, Director of Planning and Community Development. "The survey results will help us determine the types of programs and areas of the City which could most effectively put this money to work."

"The survey has verified our preliminary conclusions that Houghs Neck, Southwest and the Atlantic areas in Quincy are in greater need of programs to improve housing conditions than many of the other neighborhoods.

"Therefore, for use of the community development money we are now focusing our attention on these three areas. Our job is to determine the area

Sheets Pushes Passage Flood Insurance Lost Unless Council Passes Ordinance

Quincy residents will lose their eligibility for subsidized flood plain insurance unless the City Council passes the proposed flood plain zoning ordinance.

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets, chairman of the sub-committee on flood plain zoning, said he will recommend to the City Council the passage of the ordinance at the Jan. 20 meeting.

Sheets noted, too, that 162 policies now in force will end if the ordinance is not passed, unless residents opt to buy the higher non-subsidized flood insurance.

Sheets said the Flood Plain Disaster Protection Act, passed by Congress in December 1973, delineates the limits of flood plain coverage and requires all people living in the flood plain zone to purchase federally subsidized flood insurance.

Other consequences of failure to pass the ordinance include:

- Inability to purchase flood insurance.

- Loss of federal federally-funded assistance for a building or home in the special flood plain zone.

- Inability to secure mortgage money for a home located in the flood plain zone from any federal agency such as the VA or FHA or from a member bank of FDIC.

- Possible loss of revenue sharing and community development funds in the flood plain zone areas.

- Loss of federal flood disaster assistance.

- Aggravation of the flooding problem in sections of the city through continued construction and development in

Quincy recently received $434,948 of a total $16,238,171 paid to Massachusetts by the U.S. Treasury Department's Office of Revenue Sharing, reports Congressman James A. Burke.

The award is authorized by the State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act of 1972 which allocated $30.2 billion in federal funds to be shared during January 1972 and December

The $434,948 is payment for the second quarter [Oct. 1, 1974 to Dec. 31, 1974] of Entitlement Period Five which began July 1, 1974 and ends June 30, 1975.

Other cities and towns receiving funds were Avon, Braintree, Holbrook, Milton, Randolph, Brockton, Abington, Whitman and Boston.

Wire Inspector William H. Pitts reports 80 wiring permits for an estimated $79,132.50 in wiring was issued for the month of December.

A Total of $693.75 was collected in fees. Forty-seven certificates of approval were awarded during the month. A total of 132 inspections were made and 12 defects were noted.

There were 10 re-inspections and three fire calls in December.

Major wiring projects for the month were a new 28-unit condominium [Aquarius III] at South St., Quincy Center and a new 15-unit apartment building at 459 Willard St., West Quincy.

School Dept.'s Social Health Dept. Offers: Hope And Help In Re-Shaping Young, Confused Lives

TALKING IT OUT - John Mahoney, social health co-ordinator for the Quincy Public Schools, counsels a teenage girl in his annex office.

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

A 16-year-old boy arrested for pushing drugs was able to turn his life around to graduate from high school and attend college.

A 15-year-old runaway girl was reunited with her parents and a part-time job was found for her in a law office.

A 2 a.m. phone call for help from a drunken, pill-taking 15-year-old girl resulted in the development of a one-to-one counseling program and the building of a better parent-child relationship.

These isolated incidents, though neither astounding nor momentous, have helped to re-shape, re-order and re-direct the tossed, confused lives of the young Quincy people involved.

The catalyst behind these programs of counseling and re-direction is the Quincy Public Schools' Social Health Department headed by social-health co-ordinators John Mahoney and Maureen O'Brien.

The Department has developed social health courses including drug involvement, the role of the family, human sexuality, lifestyles and alcohol-for teachers and students of all grade levels, adults, parents and custodians.

The Department is also offering a course entitled "Alcohol and Alcoholism" for all secondary staff members starting in January.

Mahoney, former Quincy High School grid star and instructor of two law enforcement courses at Quincy Junior College, said:

"I don't know if these educational programs will help at all. It will take a long, long time. We discuss topics in class, offering opinions, but when a student goes home and asks Mom and Dad their opinion, what they say is far more important than what I say in class."

Calling alcohol "the biggest drug problem in the country," Mahoney said:

"Alcohol has permeated and plagued our society and has given pleasure to people for many years. Drinking is a part of our society. But the lowering of the drinking age to 18 didn't change things a heck of a lot."

Denying any direct co-relation between the lowering of the legal drinking age and an admitted increase in the teenage use of alcohol, and also alluding

"To say that the lowering of the drinking age has caused an increase in alcohol use among youth is oversimplifying the situation. And the 'nightmare' was there all the time. We're just seeing it more and more."

According to Mahoney, a host of psychological and sociological factors have precipitated the increased use of alcohol among youth.

"The increased use of alcohol is symptomatic of what is happening in society," he said, "We're living in an Age of Anxiety."

Mahoney continued, "How do you cope with anxiety? You can run away, do drugs, erect defense mechanisms or face up to the problem causing the anxiety."

Some of the factors mentioned by Mahoney which could trigger the abuse of alcohol were poor housing, unemployment, poor self-image, peer-group pressure, example set by parents, constant drug input from the media, weakening of the family structure, lack of cross-communication between generations and lack of teaching on how to handle feelings.

To combat the increased use of alcohol by Quincy youth, Mahoney advocates "a closer look" at those who have liquor licenses.

"Where is the responsibility," asked Mahoney, "of a person selling liquor to kids who don't look old enough to go to junior high school?"

Although Mahoney admits the problem of alcohol abuse is a community one, he said, "Parents, above all, are responsible for their children's behavior."

Mahoney added, "I may be presumptuous about this, but parents are turning their backs on the problem. They'd rather see their kids drink a six-pack instead of smoking a joint."

Mrs. O'Brien sees parental involvement and parental guidelines as keys to easing the teenage drinking problem.

"Parents should set up their own regulations and enforce them," she said. "Parents yield too frequently when their teenager protests, 'But Everyone does it!'"

"You can't miss it when a kid is drunk," she said. "Is it laughed off, is it seen as something cute, or is the reaction, 'Oh those 18-year-olds'. Parents need to enforce their own regulations with their children."

Mrs. O'Brien contended, too, that the majority of underage consumers of liquor do not obtain the alcohol from the 18-year-olds but from their parents' liquor supply at home.

"The 18-year-olds can't be penalized because a few 14-year-olds are drinking. They are treated as adults in all other respects. They can vote, hold elective office, go to war and sign legal contracts," she said.

According to Mrs. O'Brien, the social health course offered as a high school elective is "the most solicited course" in the curriculum. Part of the course concerns alcohol. Students not only learn basic factual information such as the relationship between body size and alcohol consumption but they discuss, too, the "Why's" of drinking, a question which tries to pinpoint a person's need to drink.

Both Mrs. O'Brien and Mahoney attacked the aura of humor and off-handed acceptance attached to the imitation of a drunk's slurred speech and wavering walk.

"We need a total revamping of attitudes towards drinking," Mahoney said. "People such as Dean Martin actually make money by imitating the drunk individual."

Mrs. O'Brien agreed: "A dead-beat bum isn't funny. But we perpetuate a mystique with kids - how charming and delightful and funny we think a drunk is. The mystique says, in effect, if you want to be enticing, glamorous, charming, get crocked. It's sad we perpetuate this."

The Social Health Department, located in the annex behind Quincy High School, is stocked with informative brochures, educational pamphlets on drinking such as "A Guide To Sensible Drinking," "What The Body Does With Alcohol," and "Teaching Teenagers About Alcohol". All are available for interested individuals.

"The problem of teenage drinking is not a legislative one," said Mahoney. "It's a social and value-oriented one. And it is the responsibility of the entire community."

40 Unemployed To Be Trained At GD Under CETA

Mayor Walter J. Hannon has signed a $140,000 contract with General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard to subsidize an on-the-job training program under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

The contract will provide for the training of 40 unemployed area residents as shipfitters, and will be administered by the City of Quincy Office of Manpower Services.

According to Timothy Reidy, Jr., OJT manager for the CETA office, the contract with General Dynamics is expected to be the largest on-the-job training program in the area this year.

Twenty participants have already begun training on the job, Reidy said, and 20 more will begin this week.

The program will cover a nine month period in which training costs will be met by the city and will include training on-the-job, orientation, related classroom instruction, and other supportive services.

Participants will receive normal starting wages and benefits, and are subject to the same regulations as other yard employees, Reidy said. Upon completion of the training program, participants will continue as full time employees of the shipyard.

Mayor Hannon expressed his appreciation to General Dynamics for their support of the program, and for their cooperation in helping to lower unemployment in Quincy. "This is another step in our city's program to make sure that any one person in Quincy who wants to work, has a job," he said.

The funding is part of a grant made available to the city to provide employment and training to residents of the CETA area which includes, besides Quincy: Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Randolph, Scituate and Weymouth.

Employers in this 11 community CETA area are eligible to participate in the program if they are in need of trained persons for skilled positions, and agree to train eligible CETA participants, Reidy said.

Forrest Neal MBTA Board Presiding Officer

Forrest I. Neal, Jr., former member of the Board of Directors of the MBTA and former owner of Old Colony Laundries, Inc. of Quincy, recently has been elected presiding officer of the MBTA, pending appointment of a chairman by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis.

The office of chairman was created last year when the state legislature passed Chapter 1140 which reorganized the MBTA administration. Gov. Dukakis will appoint a chairman to fill the newly-created post which carries a yearly salary of $45,000.

Joseph C. Kelly is the present general manager of the MBTA.

His term expires in October. The other four board members will serve the remainder of their terms.

QCA To Circulate

Height Limit Petition

The Quincy Citizens Association plans to circulate within three weeks referendum petitions on the 10-story height limit issue.

The Association recently finalized the wording of the petition and plans to have the petitions printed soon.

In other action, the QCA voiced its continued opposition to any type of MBTA station in South Quincy and supported the proposed station in South Braintree. The QCA called upon residents of North Braintree to join in opposing the South Quincy site.

WOMEN ASK

'Frigid' has many meanings

By ELEANOR B. RODGERSON, M.D.
Copley News Service

Q. How can I tell whether I'm frigid, or not? My boyfriend thinks I am.

A. What do you mean by "frigid"? That you are not interested in "having sex," or that you do not achieve satisfaction when you have it? The word, "frigid," is used very loosely to cover many reactions a woman may have and her reactions may have a very complicated background. Therefore, it is not easy to answer your question specifically. The following statements apply to general aspects of frigidity.

It has been said that there are no frigid women, only clumsy lovers, and there is a great deal of truth in this statement. Nearly all women will feel the urge and find themselves capable of having intercourse if approached in the proper manner. However, there are many other factors to consider.

A very few may have anatomical reasons for painful, or impossible, coitus, and an examination by a doctor will quickly disclose and probably remedy them. Once physical problems are eliminated, there may be psychological ones. A woman who has never had sexual intercourse may be timid, and time is required for her to overcome her inhibitions. Her early religious training may be a strong factor. A puritan-type childhood can produce stronger inhibitions than a hippie-type upbringing. Also, a girl who has had an unpleasant experience, such as rape, may take longer to subdue her fears.

The male reacts rather quickly to sexual stimulation. The female is slower. A man must take this difference into consideration when he approaches his partner. This variance is a common cause for difficulty between couples, especially at the start of a relationship. As better mutual understanding of each other's needs and desires is achieved, this stumbling block should recede.

A woman's interest in "having sex" rises and falls during her menstrual cycle. At one stage she may feel crampy and be unapproachable, at another time be more receptive. Satisfying sexual relations come with cooperative effort and are usually not achieved the first try under awkward circumstances.

I received a letter recently suggesting that I endorse a cancer cure that has been banned in the United States because it has not been proven medically sound. "Cancer" is a term for many types of growths that appear and spread unpredictably. They seem to have various causes and respond to different treatments in different ways. Medications can be as hard on the patients as the tumors themselves. There has to be careful investigation and proof of effectiveness before acceptance and, even then, unexpected consequences may follow. To endorse something for which I have heard no proven worth would be doing a disservice to readers.

Plaster of Paris is easy to mold

By BUKOKER and HUNTSINGER
Copley News Service

Hopefully, you've never had occasion to wear a cast on your arm or leg. But if you have, or know someone who had an unfortunate accident requiring one, then you are already familiar with the material from which it is made.

Plaster of Paris is a powder that comes from gypsum, a stone composed of calcium sulfate and water. It is heated until the water is driven off and the gypsum becomes a powder. When stirred with water again, the liquid can be molded. Then, when hardened, it once more becomes rock-like.

Since gypsum was found near Montmartre, a district of Paris, France, where artists used to live, this is probably how plaster of Paris got its name. It proved useful for casting small statues and sculptures.

This material is still quite inexpensive and is easily bought in hobby or hardware stores. Molds can also be purchased in hobby shops, though any plastic container of any shape will serve as well.

Use a plastic or glass bowl to mix this substance. Add sufficient water to give it the consistency of whipped cream. There are three important things to remember:

Be sure to mix only the amount that is needed since, once set — and it hardens very quickly — the plaster of Paris cannot be reused. Also, be sure there are no bubbles when the liquid is poured as these will spoil the finish of the desired smooth surface.

PLASTER PLAQUES — The substance becomes hard but the process of making plaster of Paris ornaments is easy.

Most important, pour any remaining liquid into a disposable container or over rocks and gravel outdoors. The plaster will clog pipes so don't flush it away or pour it down any drain.

Allow the poured mixture to harden in the mold at least overnight. Then it will shrink away from the sides and can be removed easily.

Now it is ready to decorate. You can paint it, draw or crayon on its surface, apply decals, or cut out pictures or designs from magazines or greeting cards for pasting. Then, to keep the finished project from soiling, spray its entire surface with clear plastic.

Depending on the shape of the mold in which you make the finished piece, you can create a wall plaque, a paper-weight, a mounted ornament or a trivet. Such creations serve as excellent gifts, far better souvenir casts than the kind found in a doctor's office.

On the other hand, one serving of a "no-no" will not ruin the whole month of diet effort. These recipes should convince you that you can enjoy eating the heart-saving way.

1/2 teaspoon ginger

1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

1 egg white

2 tablespoons water

2 cups nuts

Preheat oven to 250 degrees

F.

Sift dry ingredients together into a small bowl. Combine egg white and water and beat slightly.

Dip the nuts first in the egg white mixture. Roll them about in the dry ingredients lightly, keeping them separated. Place on an oiled cookie sheet and bake about 1 1/2 hours. Cool on the cookie sheet. Store in a tightly covered container.

Yield: About 2 cups.

BANANAS FLAMBE

4 peeled bananas

1 tablespoon lemon juice

1 tablespoon sugar

4 sugar cubes soaked in lemon extract

Preheat oven to 400 degrees

F.

Sprinkle lemon juice and sugar over the peeled whole bananas and place on a lightly oiled pie plate. Bake 20 minutes or until slightly brown.

Flame the bananas by placing on each sugar cube soaked in lemon extract. Light the cubes at the table.

Yield: 4 servings.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Your social life sparkles. Personal charisma is high and you charm everyone. Resist tendency to compulsive talking and excessive pride. Answers coming through meditation are important for future use.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Pressures from feelings of overwork can result in loss of temper if you're not careful. Make the effort to be kind to employees and customers — it will pay off. Don't let children get on your nerves. Be patient.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Talents and past hard work will pay off now. You can be justifiably proud. Romance could bloom for single Geminis. A long-term relationship on a friendship level is possible too. A social event is important.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Do your work carefully and expertly — someone important has their eye on you. Be aware that someone's motives may be different from what they seem. Be ethical yourself, no matter how others may play the game.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Things appear chaotic, but calm acceptance is the key to producing results. Check with your doctor about any physical symptoms or injuries and follow advice carefully. Be patient at work and resist feelings of loneliness.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Discussions about finances with mate or partner can lead to positive plans for future. Enjoy social life with partner. Resist tendency to go to excesses in eating and drinking. Be discreet in romantic matters.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Someone you are involved with socially could benefit you financially. A business trip is possible. Home redecorating or remodeling is indicated now. Be practical and don't rush it to completion — better ideas may come later.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Curb tendency to be pushy. Use charm and diplomacy to attain your desires. Someone powerful may be working for your benefit behind the scenes in career matters. Use intuition to start newer, better methods.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Things of a writing or publishing nature are favored. Happy surprises are possible. Give support in the form of praise to an associate. Good time to seriously study and increase your academic worth.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — When things don't go smoothly, renew your determination to accomplish your goal. Make time for social life too. Ambitions appear gratified and your attitude is more relaxed. A new romance appears temporary.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Making an important decision is necessary — possibly choosing between two persons for an important job. If romance is lacking in your life don't be depressed. Relatives may visit. Give attention to personal appearance.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — You may be consulted by persons higher up, since you yourself are nearing the top. Be objective in your advice. Your love life is rewarding. Enjoy leisure time in the company of a loved one. Difficulties disappear.

HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE

Weller protected from would-be wife

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

FREDDY WELLER
"...How can I marry?"

HOLLYWOOD — Only Freddy Weller's answering service is protecting him from a woman who says she's his wife and who dials his number regularly.

Since Freddy doesn't have a wife, and his answering service knows it, her calls haven't been put through to the country-western star who says he has no intention of marrying any time soon.

"How can I marry," asks Freddy, "when I'm playing 150 one nighters (professionally, not socially) a year?"

Since Freddy has never talked with, much less seen, the caller who claims she's married to him, he doesn't know who she is, but she may be the same woman who introduced herself as "Mrs. Freddy Weller" at a Columbia Records convention a couple of years ago.

"When I got to the convention, I was told, 'Your wife is here,'" Freddy relates. "Naturally I said I didn't have a wife."

Weller who began his road work with Billy Joe Royal and later joined Paul Revere and the Raiders, at the time one of America's hottest rock groups, established his reputation in the country-western field with a recording of "The Games People Play."

"There's a difference in country-western and rock fans," Weller says he has discovered. "When I was with Paul Revere and the Raiders, the fans were usually between 13 and 18 years old. While country-western fans are more likely to be from 18 to 30 years old."

"However, country-western fans are getting younger."

"When I was in high school, kids were ashamed to listen to that kind of music even if they liked it, but beginning about five years ago, some of them began to admit that they enjoyed country-western songs."

Incidentally, Weller says that country and western music are not the same thing but that the styles have been lumped together until the public thinks of them as identical.

"Country music," Freddy explains, "tells a story, is easy to listen to and is very singable. And that's what most people are talking about when they say 'country western.'"

"Western music is different, and I don't like it as well. I've been listening to country western music as long as I can remember, but when I was growing up the country western stations weren't very good. They were always on the right side of the dial and didn't have much power."

"Still I liked the music, and I guess you tend to copy what you enjoy."

Like rock stars, the country western artists have their groupies, Weller says, "but the country western groupies are called snuff queens."

FIGHT MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY

Stay Alive!
By Jack Silverstein

MAN-MADE FIRE LOG SAFETY

Americans are using their fireplaces at an unprecedented rate. Whether the reason be energy conservation or atmosphere, fireplace owners are finding the problem of obtaining enough wood to burn at a decent price and are turning to man-made fire logs, made from industrial waste, sawdust and wax. These can be delightful but they can also be dangerous if not handled with care.

Read the manufacturer's label printed on the logs and follow them. Place the log at the rear of the fireplace, preferably on a grate. Never use more than one man-made log at a time, and never add such a log to an existing fire. Don't poke or break apart man-made logs because the wax can stick to the poker and could drop to the floor or carpet.

Regardless of the kind of fuel you use, always use a fireplace screen. Start with an open damper and a clean flue. Never, but never, leave children unattended near a fire. The temptation to prod the fire to make it bigger is irresistible.

S.S. Employment Council Finds Jobs For 598

The South Shore Council for Full Employment has directly placed over 598 individuals with Boston and South Shore area employers.

Organized in September of 1973, the Council set, as its goal, the filling of 500 jobs with South Shore residents. This goal was in addition to placements made by governmental and private employment agencies.

Membership in the Council consists of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, Norfolk County Labor Council, Mass. Division of Employment Security (Quincy office), Quincy Area Manpower Services (CETA), and the South Shore Woman's Caucus.

Frustrated by high unemployment on the South Shore and a lack of coordination between agencies concerned with job placement and job development, the Council determined that, by putting these groups in closer contact with one another, a more imaginative approach to the problem could be achieved.

One unique institution of the Council has been the South Shore Job Fairs. A total of 453 people were placed as a result of the three job fairs held to date. The last one, held Nov. 2, filled 149, despite the worsening employment situation locally and nationally. The idea behind the job fairs is to match up the companies with vacancies with job seekers. In a few hours, the job seeker may interview with many companies looking for help.

The Council currently plans to hold a job fair in Hanover and another in Quincy during early 1975. Despite the down turn in the economy, the Council believes that there will still be a number of companies wishing to expand. It is important to expose South Shore residents to as many of these opportunities as possible.

In addition to the 453 jobs filled at the three job fairs, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce provided on-the-job training and placement with South Shore companies for 35 disadvantaged area residents. The Quincy Emergency Employment Agency staff placed 110 local residents with area firms. These placements add up to 598 residents placed.

In the face of a weakening Joseph Harold To Outline DAV Objectives

Joseph R. Harold of Quincy, State Adjutant and Legislative Officer, will outline DAV objectives in the state and nation for 1975, at a meeting of Chapter 10, 204 West Broadway, employment market, the Quincy Office of the Mass. Division of Employment Security increased its placements to 1,100 in the six months between July and December. This is a 25 percent increase over the similar period last year.

In addition to continuing its job fairs efforts and manpower training, the Council hopes to use a number of the public service jobs, provided for by the U.S. Congress, in such areas as tourism and economic development, which may contribute to the growth of additional job opportunities in the private sector economy.

Kennedy Calls For Major Tax Cut

of their car, indicating on which day they do not drive. Kennedy said the colored sticker glued to the car windshield would wield "a moral suasion on individuals not to drive."

He rested not once during his day-long tour Monday of Quincy and the South Shore area. The day began in Brockton where he addressed students of Brockton High School, visited a Brockton newspaper, and shook many hands at Brockton's VA hospital.

After attending a joint meeting of the Brockton Rotary Club, Knights of Columbus, Elks, Lions Club and Chamber of Commerce, Kennedy came to Quincy to make several stops.

Every minute - even car-riding time - turned into a chance for an interview and The Quincy Sun was waiting for the Senator as he scurried through the rain from one tour stop into his warm and waiting car.

Kennedy predicted tax reform in the coming years and said the Senate had been "trying to close the tax loop-holes for years." He called for the end of corporate tax inequities such as oil depletion allowances and foreign tax credits.

"The American people are demanding tax reform and they should demand it," Kennedy said.

The Senator also said he supports "a major tax cut" - in the area of $20 billion - to stimulate the sagging economy and to provide purchasing power into the hands of the consumer.

To help revitalize industries teetering on the verge of closing, Kennedy also advocates the extension of investment credit from seven to 10 per cent. These industries could then modernize equipment, Kennedy said, and regain their economic equilibrium.

As the car whizzed down Washington St., Kennedy talked of busing. Again, the Senator critically cited "a lack of leadership" in handling the tensions in South Boston. He said:

"With good leadership at the local level - and imaginative leadership - the tragedies and misunderstandings could have been avoided."

Asked about the feasibility and workability of a voluntary busing plan for South Boston, Kennedy said that last September would have been "too late" to implement such a plan.

"Different proposals could have been devised," Kennedy said, "but now the law must be complied with. Every step must be taken to ensure the safety of the children in South Boston. We must urge calm and compliance," he said.

Driving down Newport Ave. towards his next engagement at Kemper Insurance, Senator Kennedy admitted with a flat and disheartening "yes" that the nation's economy will get worse before it gets better. He expressed hope that President Ford would institute "a strong program of action" to cut spiralling prices and boost the nation's economy.

Yet the Senator heralded the newly-announced $6.9 million contract awarded to General Dynamics as a signal of more hopeful days ahead. He said:

"It's a real recognition of the quality of workmanship there...and it's a great tribute to the men and women who are a part of that great organization."

Kennedy added, "We have some significant problems, primarily in the economic area. But I'm not one to prophesize gloom and doom. Many of us remember the period of the '30's. With dynamic leadership, the country was able to put unemployed people back to work and we saw our economy expand."

"People have a right to demand action in the Congress and Senate and to demand work in these forums to remedy the situation. We can get the economy back on the track with price stability."

The never-dying question posed to Kennedy concerns his presidential plans - or more accurately, his presidential non-plans.

Calling the task of President an "awesome responsibility", Kennedy indicated he will stay clear of the presidential arena until at least 1984. He said:

"I believe that whoever is elected in 1976 - and I believe it will be a Democrat - will be re-elected in 1980. It doesn't make sense to plan that far into the future. And I'm interested in staying in the Senate."

Kennedy wound up his day-long tour as guest speaker at "Quincy '75 Night" sponsored by the Koch Club. A crowd of over 200 attended the event which took place at the George F. Bryan VFW Post.

During the evening, the Koch Club presented Kennedy with replicas of the Koch Club hat, shirt and membership card given in 1958 to his brother President John Kennedy (Jack), the only honorary member of the organization. Kennedy also received the Koch Club's 25th anniversary book carrying a cover photo of Jack becoming an honorary member of the Club.

The items presented to Senator Kennedy will be placed in the Kennedy Memorial Library.

Flood Insurance Lost Unless Ordinance Passed

water-holding and water-absorption areas.

If the flood plain ordinance is passed, Sheets said the boundaries of the flood plain zone itself would have to be revised. He has therefore recommended the holding of open hearings in each ward after the passage of the ordinance to determine, with the help of the Planning Department, those areas which would be excluded from or included in the special flood plain zone.

A revised, six-ward package would then be submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said Sheets.

Sheets is also seeking the revision of certain rebuilding guidelines which he considers "extreme and unrealistic."

Under present guidelines, the foundation of a home destroyed 50 per cent by flooding must be raised four to six feet to be eligible for flood plain insurance.

Sheets plans to recommend that the Mayor and City Council pass a resolution to be forwarded to Congressman James A. Burke asking that such guidelines be made "more flexible and realistic".

Tobin 'Soul Searching' About Running For Mayor

will be the first to know.

"If I decide to run, I will go to Mayor Hannon and tell him. He won't read about it in the newspapers first.

"And if I don't run, it will not be because I don't think I can handle the job. I have had six years of experience as acting mayor [when the incumbent is away from Quincy] so it won't be on-the-job training. I am confident I could handle the job."

Tobin said that regardless of whether he becomes a candidate for mayor or not, he will not feud with Mayor Hannon.

"My job as city council president is to cooperate with the chief executive in the best interest of the city. I will not fight with Walter Hannon or take a cheap shot at him or anyone else."

Tobin did not explain exactly what he meant about running "if I feel the city is not going in the right direction."

But some close to the political scene have their own translation for that: Tobin, they believe, feels the mayor's office could be won by someone other than Hannon this year—someone he thinks could change the city's course in the wrong direction.

There is no secret about the fact that Tobin and Councillor Joseph LaRaia are quite politically incompatible. He and LaRaia think differently, believe differently and act differently.

The feeling is that if LaRaia gets into the mayor's race, it could bring Tobin in.

In fact, two years ago, according to insiders, Tobin was a near 11th hour candidate when it looked like LaRaia might announce. But LaRaia did not, so Tobin stayed out of it.

The feeling in some political quarters is that LaRaia could defeat Mayor Hannon or come very close to it. They are among those urging Tobin to run this year.

Grace Saphir, who has already announced as a mayoralty contender, is also at the opposite political pole from Tobin.

The fact she polled 10,000 votes against Hannon two years ago fuels the belief among some observers that if it had been LaRaia in there instead, he might have won it.

But with Saphir in the race, LaRaia's strength this year could be weakened somewhat in the preliminary election with the pair splitting many votes. But LaRaia, if he got by Mrs. Saphir, would be a formidable opponent in the final election.

Rep. William Delahunt has already said he plans to make his announcement as a mayoralty candidate in March or April.

He could have considerable effect on Tobin's ultimate decision. Delahunt and Tobin are good friends and politically see eye-to-eye.

Political observers believe if Tobin decides to run, Delahunt will not get into it. Or if Tobin thought Delahunt could defeat LaRaia, Tobin would stay out of it.

If Tobin does run for mayor, it would open the political floodgates this year.

With LaRaia and Tobin both running for mayor, there would be two council at-large seats up for grabs.

Several of the present ward councillors no doubt would be tempted to try to "move up". Possible candidates for the at-large seats would be Ward 3's John Lydon, Ward 4's James Sheets, Ward 5's Warren Powers and Ward 6's Dennis Harrington.

There's a possibility, too, that three school committee seats could open up.

Committeeman Harold Davis might take a shot at one of the council at-large seats or run for the Ward 3 seat. He now lives in that ward.

Committeeman Francis McCauley, a former city councillor, could be another council at-large candidate.

Committeeman Daniel Raymond is already toying with the idea of running for council at-large or for the Ward 2 seat Clifford Marshall will vacate at the end of the year to devote full time to his new duties as Norfolk County Sheriff. Other possible Ward 2 contenders are Atty. Thomas Williams, former Ward 3 Councillor Ted McLeland, Peter Gacia and Ted DeCristoforo.

Another potential council at-large contender is Paul Harold, who lost a close decision to Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly the last time out. However, he is still giving thought to running again for the Ward 1 seat.

It could be one of the hottest election years in the city's history.

SIGN OF THE TIMES: John Martin of North Quincy, owner of the Atlantic Fence Co., Quincy Point, had a new building constructed at Southern Artery and Washington St. The bricklayer, finishing off the front steps, asked Martin if he had a silver dollar to cement in on the top step for good luck. Martin did not, but gave him four quarters instead. Somebody came along and chipped all four out.

QUINCY'S Francis Bellotti, sworn in Wednesday as attorney general, hosted a coffee hour at night in the main ballroom of the Stabler Hilton Hotel to say "thank you" to those who worked for his election.

SUDDEN THOUGHT: Wouldn't it be refreshing—just once at least—to hear a TV weather forecaster say: "Well, folks. I really don't know. I think it might snow tonight but I'm not sure."

Most Quincy Housing In Good Condition

in which this money can be most effectively used," stated Davidson.

"The survey enabled us to better understand the types of problems in each area," said Davidson. In Houghs Neck where over 25% of the housing was found to be in fair or poor condition, many of the houses are converted summer homes without foundations.

In Atlantic, 92.6 percent of the housing was found to be in standard condition. "On the surface, this figure does not seem to be significantly different from the rest of the City, however many homes showed signs of age and wear. In addition, pockets of the Atlantic area have many homes with more serious structural problems," he said.

In Southwest Quincy, 17.4 percent of the homes were found to be in fair or poor condition. Many of these are rental structures and have structural problems such as deteriorating porches, roofs and siding.

According to the survey's guidelines, for a structure to be classified as "fair", it would have to have at least two major building features such as foundation, walls, roof or porches in fair condition. A combination of several other features such as stairs, gutters, chimney, yards or doors in fair or poor condition would also give a structure a "fair" rating.

A structure found to be in poor condition, must have several serious problems. No foundation, cracks, holes and missing boards, rotted porches, sagging roofs, broken stairs and unsafe walkways are some of the problems that might cause a house to be given a poor rating.

Quincy's City Inspector and inspectors from the Quincy Point Improvement Project compiled the information on all housing structures for the survey. In addition to the inspectors, residents from Houghs Neck, Southwest and the Atlantic area also worked in their own neighborhoods on the survey.

"There is no doubt that every neighborhood, in the City needs housing assistance. Every home owner could use financial aid to improve their property. As a result of this survey, the ward community development meetings, and a public works survey, we have been examining other potential programs and sources of funding for home and public works improvements," said Davidson.

Information from this survey, in addition to community input at 6 ward meetings held by the Department of PCD, input by city councillors and other data will be used to complete the HUD grant application.

It will be reviewed by Mayor Walter Hannon within 2 to 3 weeks. The Mayor will give the application final approval and submit it to HUD.

Letter Box

Finds HUD Hearings 'Of Great Value'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

The recent hearings held across the city to get citizen input into how the HUD monies should be spent, were in my opinion, of great value in involving the average citizen in the decision making process of government.

Like many families, people in the neighborhoods seldom have a chance to get together unless there is a crisis. In the case of the HUD hearings, there was no immediate problem to be confronted, thus giving the people the opportunity to think in terms of long range problems and solutions. At the same time, the people were able to see their neighborhood problems in relation to the city as a whole.

I think the city should continue to involve its citizens at the neighborhood level in decision making and long range planning. Regularly scheduled hearings [annually or bi-annually] in the neighborhoods would fill the gap that city government creates, as compared to town government, and would give the average citizen the right to be heard.

I'm hopeful that the Planning Department will give great weight to the recommendations made at the recent hearings, and will consider establishing the hearings as a type of neighborhood forum.

Appreciates Senior Citizen Activities Coverage

Editor, Quincy Sun:

As we begin a New Year, we would like to take this opportunity to thank you for all the courtesies you and your staff have extended to us during the past year concerning our Quincy Senior Citizens Activities.

Through your media we have been able to reach many Senior Citizens who have joined the other thousands in attending and enjoying many of the city sponsored programs for that particular age group.

Thank you again most sincerely and our very best wishes to all of you for a prosperous, healthy and Happy New Year.

Christmas Mail Delivery Smoothest

Editor, Quincy Sun:

The United States Postal Service 1974 Christmas operation was the smoothest we have ever experienced due in large part to the cooperation of our customers in the Quincy area.

I particularly wish to express my sincere appreciation to you and the staff of the Quincy Sun for the key role played in disseminating our news items to the general public. The processing of vast volumes of Christmas cards and packages in addition to our every-day mails would have been impossible without a properly informed public.

Our major emphasis this year was on the precancelled "Dove of Peace" Christmas stamp which was being tested in the Boston Postal District and four other areas in the country plus the banding of local and out-of-state mail. The tremendous response to the precancelled stamp enabled us to bypass the usual cancelling procedures and, in those cases where the local banded mail was deposited in the "QUINCY

ONLY" mail box in front of the Quincy Post Office, we were able to process and deliver all of this mail within your community.

We in the Postal Service are well aware of the public service contribution continually being made by the news media and are most grateful for your cooperation.

Best wishes for a Happy and Healthy New Year from all the employees of the Boston Postal District.

City Wide Goals

Andrew Walsh Chairman Business Council Committee

Andrew Walsh, owner of Walsh's Restaurant, North Quincy, has been named Chairman of the Steering Committee of the Quincy Business Council of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

The Council met recently to discuss the involvement of the business community in downtown planning. Four issues described by the Council as "at a critical decision stage" were discussed: South Quincy MBTA Station alternatives, ramps from Route 3 and the redesign of Capen's Circle, the Upland Rd. extension, and Town Brook relocation.

A questionnaire recently circulated by the Council to its 300 member firms showed industrial development and central business district improvements as areas of concern.

The Council discussed different land sites available for industrial development and formed a project committee

Brett Suggests N. Quincy Police Sub-Station Locate In Fire Station

In the interest of economy, Rep. Joseph E. Brett has suggested locating the proposed North Quincy sub-police station at the North Quincy Fire Station on Hancock St.

In a letter to Mayor Walter J. Hannon who announced the proposed sub-station during his recent mid-term address, Brett said he supported the proposed sub-station, but added:

"It just seems unreasonable to me that taxpayers' money should be used to pay rent for sub-station quarters when the needed space may already be available in another public building."

Brett said he was sure the North Quincy fire station could accommodate the small contingent of police officers and motor vehicles which would be stationed there.

Tri-Hi-Y Clubs Help Survey Buildings For Handicapped

The Quincy Tri-Hi-Y Clubs are helping to survey public and private buildings to determine their accessibility to the handicapped.

The clubs are working in cooperation with "The Committee to Improve the Environment of the Physically Handicapped," sponsored by the Cerebral Palsy of South Shore, the City of Quincy and the Easter Seal Society of Massachusetts.

It is hoped this survey will make the public more aware of the architectural barriers that do exist, of changes that can be made, and will culminate in the publication of a guide to aid Quincy residents, as well as any Bientennial visitors.

The Tri-Hi-Y Clubs are sponsored by the Quincy Y.W.C.A., and comprise sophomore, junior and senior girls from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools. The clubs are structured to provide services to the community and undertake a new project each month.

ENC To Open Continuing Education Division Feb. 5

A Division of Continuing Education will be launched by Eastern Nazarene College at its Wollaston campus beginning Feb. 5.

Designed to bring opportunities for higher education to adult learners from nearby communities, the new program will be directed by Joseph Rapajic, Associate Dean of Students at ENC and presently a doctoral student at Boston University in Adult Education.

Any one interested in continuing his education, whether for a college degree, or personal interest, may enroll in this pilot program, which will offer eight courses in the spring semester from Feb. 5 to May 24.

Courses available to adult learners in this program are Principles of Horticulture, Introduction to Business Administration, Teaching Elementary Science, American Literature, Studio Art, Human Growth and Development, Introduction to Sociology, Doctrine of Christian Holiness.

Courses may be taken in this program both for college credit at regular tuition or for no credit at a small fee. In either case students may enroll in the Division of Continuing Education directly through a simplified mail registration prior to Jan. 31.

Sabina Stenberg To Head Disabilities Committee

For the second successive year, Sabina Stenberg of 661 Hancock St., Wollaston, has been appointed chairperson of the Orientation Committee of the Massachusetts Developmental Disabilities Council in connection with a conference to be held at the Rolling Green Inn in Andover, Feb. 21-22-23.

Serving on the committee with Sabina is George Bown, chairman of the steering committee, along with Donald Rosenberg, member of the Executive Committee and Steering Committee.

She is a member of the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Developmental Disabilities Council, and recording secretary of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc.

The curriculum will include discussion of the Developmental Disabilities Act, the role of the federal governmental system and the function of the council itself. Speakers will come from Washington, D.C. and from university affiliated facilities.

The program will conclude on Sunday, Feb. 23, with a review of the planning process as a technique and a strategy to impact the quality and extent of services for the developmentally disabled. It will also cover the administration and implementation of the State plan.

The Developmental Disabilities Act provides comprehensive services for persons affected by mental retardation, epilepsy and cerebral palsy.

Army Basic Pay Now $344.10 Per Month

The basic pay for volunteers in the U.S. Army has risen to a new high of $344.10 per month, according to local Army representative Sgt. Robert E. McWalter, of the Quincy Recruiting office.

The salary boost is the result of the recent cost of living raise signed into law by President Ford. Civil Service employees and military personnel were both affected by the increment.

The previous starting salary for an E1 in the Army was $326.10, according to Sgt. McWalter. Under the new pay system, a volunteer's pay jumps to $383.40 after four months. Previously, the pay hike was $363.30.

McWalter said that the starting pay for individuals with a rank of E3 is $398.40, for E4 $414.30, and for E5 $430.80.

The pay jump is retroactive until October 1. It represents an increase in salary of 5.52 per cent.

7 Churches To Participate In Inter-Council Program Jan. 19

Rev. Douglas MacIntosh, pastor of the Memorial Congregational Church, will host and offer the opening devotions at the Inter-Church Council Program for Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, at his church's Parish Hall, Sunday, January 19, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Representatives of seven area churches will attend, and nearly 100 members of the seven churches are expected to attend.

The program, which will attempt to enlighten its participants on the subjects of the Eucharist and Ministry, will be comprised of 45 minutes of study of both subjects, a half hour of refreshments, and 45 minutes of panel discussion by the clerical representatives of the seven parishes.

Eastern Nazarene Professor James Cameron will preside as chairman of the panel and field the audience's questions for the panel.

The other six participating churches and their representatives are:

Rev. Francis Archer, Union Congregational Church; Rev. William Heinrich, First Church of Squantum; Rev. Robert Bossdorf, Atlantic United Methodist Church of North Quincy; Rev. William Underhill, St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church; Rev. Jerome Doyle representing Sacred Heart Catholic Church, and Rev. Ronald Grabke of the Wollaston Nazarene Church, who will also offer the closing devotions.

Hostesses in charge of registration of guests are Miss Debra Grant and Miss Linda Reed.

Northeast Bible Institute Courses At Glad Tidings Church

The Quincy extension of the Northeast Bible Institute, 158 Washington St., Quincy, is offering two spring semester courses beginning Thursday, Feb. 6.

Rev. William McPherson, pastor of Glad Tidings Church, will teach a course entitled "Early Christian History". Through lecture, discussion and use of maps and charts, the course will trace the origin, growth and development of the early church. The class will meet for 15 consecutive Thursdays from 6:15-8 p.m.

The second course, entitled "Daniel and Revelation", will be taught by Robert J. Lundstrom. The Book of Daniel will be studied from a prophetic and practical viewpoint and the prophecies of the Book of Revelation will be given a futuristic interpretation.

Current events such as the economic situation, the tension in the Middle East, the European Market and other events of the 20th century will be examined in their relation to Bible prophecy.

The class will meet on 15 consecutive Thursdays from 8:10-9:55 p.m.

The courses are taught under the supervision and management of Northeast Bible Institute for college credit. Applicants must be high school graduates or the equivalent.

Classes will be held at Glad Tidings Church, 158 Washington St. Quincy.

'Life' Christian Science Bible Lesson Sunday

The Bible Lesson in The Christian Science Quarterly for this week is entitled "Life".

It will be heard Sunday morning as the Lesson-Sermon at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy. The Golden Text is from Romans 8:6: "To be spiritually minded is life and peace."

Church Service and Sunday School are at 10:45 a.m.

S.S. Family Center To Hold Parent Discussions

The South Shore Family Service Center and the Weymouth Youth Commission are seeking parents interested in participating in a seven-week series of parent discussion groups to be held in the Tufts Main Library in Weymouth.

Quincy residents are invited to the series which will begin Wednesday, Jan. 22 from 10-11:30 a.m. and continue on successive Wednesdays.

Interested parents should contact group discussion leaders Gloria Burke [335-2000] or Carolyn Fleiss [471-0630] to enroll in the series.

Brett Seeks Cutback On Legislators' Junk Mail

Rep. Joseph Brett has requested a survey of the state's "blanket fashion" distribution of unsolicited brochures, catalogues, booklets and newsletters to legislators.

In a letter to Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, Brett named the state Departments of Education, Public Health and Mental Health as "the worst offenders" of sending these unsolicited publications.

Brett said all legislators receive "a gross amount" of what they call "junk mail" from state departments on a regular basis.

Brett wrote the governor:

"I have an idea that a sizeable sum of money can be saved by eliminating a great deal of this 'junk mail'."

Quincy Icemen Defeat Raiders, 6-1

Quincy's hockey team suffered its first defeat last week but rebounded to defeat North Quincy last Saturday to remain in the battle for Suburban League honors with a 6-1 record.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents are among the highest scoring teams with 45 goals and three of their players are among the leaders. Junior Frank Guest has 17 points with 14 goals and three assists, Rick Avery 15 points, all on assists, and Brian Nevins 13 points with five goals and eight assists.

Tuesday Quincy played Newton at Boston College and Saturday will face Brockton in the big game of the season at 5 p.m. at Quincy Youth Arena. Brockton leads the league with a 5-0-1 mark.

North Quincy, missing several players and finding the going extremely rough, played at Brockton Wednesday and Saturday will host Rindge Tech at the Youth Arena at 7 o'clock. The Raiders were 0-6-1 going into yesterday's game.

Ron Erikson's North team gave the favored Presidents all they could handle for two periods last Saturday but Quincy exploded for five last period goals for a 6-1 win before a packed house at the Youth Arena.

With junior goalie Dick Wilson turning in a brilliant performance for North, the Raiders took a 1-0 lead in the first period on Mike McLean's goal with Kevin Murphy assisting. Quincy tied it in the second period when Leo Keaney scored with an assist for Rich Lucier.

The pressure was finally too much for Wilson and in the third period Nevins took Guest's pass and scored the winning goal. Guest converted passes from Paul Lynch and Ted Wiedemann for his 14th goal, Wiedemann made it 4-1 with Bill Hall assisting. Pete Raymer scored with Ed McDonald assisting and Lucier finished the scoring with Lynch setting up the final goal.

Mark Fanning turned in another top job in the Quincy goal.

Earlier in the week Brookline, unbeaten in its last five games, handed Quincy its first loss, 5-3, after the Presidents had jumped away to a 2-0 lead.

Lucier, Nevins and Raymer had the Quincy goals with Avery having two assists and Raymer, Hamill, McDonald and Wiedemann one apiece.

North was bombed by Cambridge Latin, 9-3. Steve Cronin, McLean and Jim Maibach had the North goals and Dave Hurley and Dillon assists.

• Pee Wee House

Quincy Ties Keohane's, Harold, Teachers Win

League leading Keohane's was held to a 3-3 tie by Team Quincy and its Pee Wee House League lead was cut to four points over Teachers, who defeated Davis, 7-3.

Bryan Burns, Jim Paolucci and Larry Kelley scored for Keohane's and Joe Carroll, Burns and Paolucci had assists. For Team Quincy Dick Carr had two goals and Tom Smith one. Smith had two assists and Glen Collins had three.

Jack Mahoney had two goals as McInnis topped UCT, 5-2. Mark Whalen, Steve Ricci and Wayne Cooper one apiece. Don Reidy had three assists, Joe Cellini two and Cooper, Mahoney, Whalen and Ricci one each. Tom McHugh and Dan Molloy scored for UCT and Frank McGinn, Steve DeLuca, Mike McDonald and Tony Quintiliani had assists.

Harold Club defeated Farina, 4-1. Ed DiTullio had two Harold goals and Bob Welch and Mike Smith one each. Smith, Welch, Rich McCarthy, Tony Chiochio, Mike Hussey and Bill Doran had assists. John McInnis, who has been scoring well all season, had the Farina goal and Steve Picot and Dave Picot assists.

Quincy Teachers topped Davis, 7-3. Steve McGregor, Mike Abboud and John Martin each scored twice and Mike McSweeney once for Teachers. John Sayers had three assists, Steve Shoemaker and Dave Bryan two each and McGregor, Martin, Abboud and Ed Butts one each. Steve Peceovich, Ed Powers and Bill Joyce scored for Davis, Frank McPartlin had two assists and Peceovich, Mark Andrews and Billy Mathews one each.

Harold and Morrisette tied, 5-5. Tom Hennessey, one of the top performers for Harold, had two goals and Pat Doherty, Tony Chiochio and Joe McKenna one each. Hennessey, Charles McManus, Pat Greenan, Mike Smith, McKenna, McCarthy, DiTullio and Rich Wright had assists. Morrisette goals were scored by John Baylis with two, Jack Leone, Paul Melia and Kevin Gallo. Ed Doherty and Bob Flynn each had two assists and Gallo, Leone and Tom Hannon one each.

Track
North On Winning Path, Quincy In Losing Streak

North Quincy's track team, after losing three meets in a row to the top teams in the Suburban League, regained the win column last week with a 46-40 win over Brookline and the Raiders will try to make their overall record 4-3 and league mark 3-3 Saturday when they face Waltham in a 10 a.m. meet at Newton.

Quincy, which is finding the going rough, will try to end a four-meet losing streak when it meets Rindge Tech.

In last week's win, North Quincy was blanked in the field events but piled up enough points in the running events for the victory. Raider winners were Brian Doherty in the dash, John Mackey, 600; Ken O'Brien, 1000; Tex Vorrasso, two-mile; and Chris Morton, hurdles.

Pete Gallagher's Quincy trackmen were walloped by Newton North, 72-14, but Gallagher was pleased with the continued fine efforts of Harry Williams in the 300 and Bob Thorne in the two-mile.

"If about 10 boys who would do well would only come out for track, we could finish well up in the league," Gallagher said. "But, as long as they refuse to report, we will do well to finish in the middle."

In its previous meet North was defeated by "Weymouth South, 53-33, with Brian Doherty in the 300, Artie Barrett in the two-mile and Paul Doherty in the shot put the only Raider winners.

Quincy bowed to Waltham, 63-23, with Williams continuing unbeaten in the 300, Bob Varraso winning the shot put and Thorne continuing to show improvement with a strong second in the two-mile.

In last Friday's fifth annual State Coaches meet at Northeastern University, Artie Barrett broke the North Quincy school record by running a 10:04.2 in the two-mile, putting him fourth in the seeded heat and sixth overall. North placed second in the two-mile relay with Jerry MacKenzie, Mackey, Vorrasso and O'Brien making up the quartet.

Provost Guest Speaker
Quincy Fathers Club
Annual Banquet Saturday

John Provost, former Quincy High star who this year set national records for pass interceptions and punt returns while starring for Holy Cross, will be the featured speaker Saturday night when the Quincy Fathers' Club holds its annual banquet for the Quincy football squad at 6:30 in the Vo-Tech cafeteria.

Among invited guests will be Mayor Walter Hannon, School Supt. Lawrence Creedon, Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone, Quincy High Principal Lloyd Creighton, Vo-Tech Principal Laurence Babin and Police Chief Francis X. Finn.

Others at the head table will be Head Coach Hank Conroy, club President Pete Little, Vice President Richard Hockings, Treasurer Frank Osborne and Secretary James Page and their wives.

Several awards will be presented including the Jack Granville Award for the outstanding player in the North Quincy game, the Munroe MacLean, President's, Moscardelli, Underwood, Primavera and Paul Grasso Awards for the outstanding players in various categories. Awards will also go to the senior cheerleaders.

North Wrestling Team Shows Improvement

Although still winless, North Quincy's first wrestling team since the early 1940's is showing improvement and Coach Art Fallon was heartened by last week's meet in which the Raiders lost to Foxboro, 40-21, in a non-league meet.

North had four winners, Dan McGuigan, who took an 8-1 decision in the 100-pound class; John Minukas, who pinned his opponent in 58 seconds in the 115-pound class; Mike Nee, who pinned his man in five minutes and 18 seconds in the 188-pound class, and Harry Knudson, who won his fourth straight match, pinning his opponent in a minute and 45 seconds. He is unbeaten and the real bright spot for North.

Fallon also had words of praise for Nathan Velofski and Marty Mulvey, who lost close matches and made fine showings.

Friday North wrestles at Waltham and next Wednesday will be home to Brookline. Both are Suburban League matches.

Atherton Wins Bombardment

Atherton Hough center fought its way by 17 other teams to win the Quincy Recreation Dept. first annual boys' bombardment tournament.

The Atherton Hough boys won their title Monday by defeating Wollaston center, four games to one. The boys and girls from Atherton Hough hold the city championships. The girls won their title in a similar tournament last April.

In the championship game at Central Junior High Atherton Hough jumped away to an early 2-0 lead before Wollaston won game number three.

In the exciting fourth game Wollaston appeared to have the game won only to see Atherton Hough make a strong comeback and gain a 3-1 lead in games.

Atherton Hough Coach Mike Parross praised Capt. and Most Valuable player Michael Abboud and also complimented Pat Grean, Bobby Heffernan, Mark McKeon, John Baylis and Joey "Murph" Monahan for their play in the championship game.

Wollaston Coach Tim Flynn had high praise for Craig DiBona, Bob Bolster and Jim Mann. He also cited Capt. Kenny Mann, a MVP, and Tom McFarland for their excellence.

The champions defeated Sterling center, 2-0; Central center, 3-2, and Quincy Point, 3-2, on their way to the championship finals.

In the Point game Parross cited the outstanding play of Abboud, Grean, Frank McPartlin, Tommy O'Connor, Kevin Murphy and Monahan.

Point Coach John Franshini praised Gary DiNardo, Dean Colletti and Ron Pettinelli for their outstanding play.

Wollaston worked its way to the finals by defeating Squantum, 2-1, and Atlantic,

3-1. Flynn hailed DiBona, Paul Furey, Bolster, Mann and Dave Dindy for their work in the preliminary rounds.

Tournament Director Barry Welch pointed out that more than 240 boys participated in the tourney, while the teams were selected from a group which doubles that number. Welch offered his thanks to Coughlin and Brian Buckley for their help in acting as hosts for the Christmas Bombardment Festival which lasted seven days at Central.

Squirt A's Drops Pair

The Squirt A team suffered two losses during the past week and its record fell to 13-5-3.

The team lost to Bridgewater in a non-league game, 5-2, with Dennis Furtado and Kevin Craig scoring for Quincy and John Cummings and Kevin Chase having assists.

It also bowed to Weymouth, 3-1, in a league game despite the fine work in goal of Tommy

Pee Wee B's Defeat Milton

The Pee Wee B team defeated Milton, 4-1, to raise its record to 10-2-2.

Six Months' Work For 400

GD Starts Work On $6.8 Million Contract

Repair work begun this week on the 14,300-ton USS Raleigh is scheduled to be completed in July.

Last week Rep. James A. Burke announced the award of a $6,895,500 contract to General Dynamics' Quincy Division to overhaul the helicopter landing drydock.

The Quincy shipyard had been competing with five other major firms for the job. Bids ranged from $6.9 million offered by General Dynamics to $17.9 million submitted by Avondale of New Orleans.

The contract will provide six-months' work for some 400 people in the outfitting trades, including sheet metal workers, pipefitters and electricians. Work to be performed includes overhauling of equipment, ship alterations, ordinance operations, and upgrading of living quarters for the ship's 400 officers and crew members.

In announcing the award of the contract, Burke noted that work under contract in the Quincy shipyard is now well over the $1 billion mark. He said:

"This marks yet another step in Quincy's dominance as the shipbuilding capital of New England."

Burke also said he was pleased that the contract would utilize many of the skilled tradesmen who had not been called back to work on the Liquefied Natural Gas [LNG] tankers. General Dynamics hopes to retain the workers after the completion of repair work, transferring them to the LNG work.

The 522-foot ship, built in 1962 at the old Brooklyn Navy Yard, can accommodate up to 840 Marines in addition to a crew. It was the first ship of its class built to serve as a helicopter landing dock plus a troop and equipment transport.

QCAO Receives
$23,500 Grant

The Office of Economic Opportunity has awarded $51,250 to community action councils serving Quincy and the South Shore.

Congressman James A. Burke announces that the Quincy Community Action Organization, Inc. received $23,500 to continue the administration and services currently provided by its programs.

He said, too, that the South Shore Community Action Council, Inc. received $27,750 to continue their programs.

Women Form
4 Task Forces

The Quincy Commission on the Status of Women has formed four task forces to study ways in which women can participate more effectively in the life of the city.

Women heading the four areas of study are Diane Hayes, employment chairman; Pat Toland, education chairman, and liaison Jane Ford; Denise Mujica, bicentennial chairman; Kathy Roberts and Pam Spring, Women's Center co-chairmen, with liaison Jean Sullivan.

The Commission is designed to address itself to the needs of women so they may perform more productively in the city.

Officers of the Commission are Alicia Coletti, chairwoman; Kathy O'Donnell, co-chairwoman; Jan Ford, recorder; and Trudy Buckley, correspondent.

Creedon Proposes Landtakings To Save Addition

State Rejects Council's NQHS Plan

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon said today he has received official notification from the state rejecting the City Council's $12 million addition-renovation plan for North Quincy High School.

Dr. Creedon said the State School Building Assistance Bureau (SBAB) turned down the City Council's proposal because it failed to meet the necessary land requirements.

The city would lose 65 percent state reimbursement without SBAB approval.

Dr. Creedon, in a move to save the plan, recommended to the SBAB a "limited expansion" of the Hunt and Oliver St. site including the taking of nine homes. He told the Quincy Sun:

The City Council voted unanimously last Friday to request a $12 million bond issue for renovations and additions at the present site with the following stipulations:

- Expansion of the present site must not exceed 100,000 square feet.
- The city must receive 65 percent state reimbursement.
- Construction and renovation cost to Quincy must not exceed $4 million.
- The site must not be expanded through eminent domain landtaking which includes the taking of homes.

"If the City Council amends its solution and takes the nine homes, the proposal could win state approval. I think the state would seriously consider that proposal."

In 1971, the City Council rejected a proposal to take 25 homes on Hunt St. in order to solve the overcrowding at North Quincy High School. Asked if he thought the taking of nine homes could win City Council approval, Creedon said:

"I have no way of knowing. It would be reluctant approval."

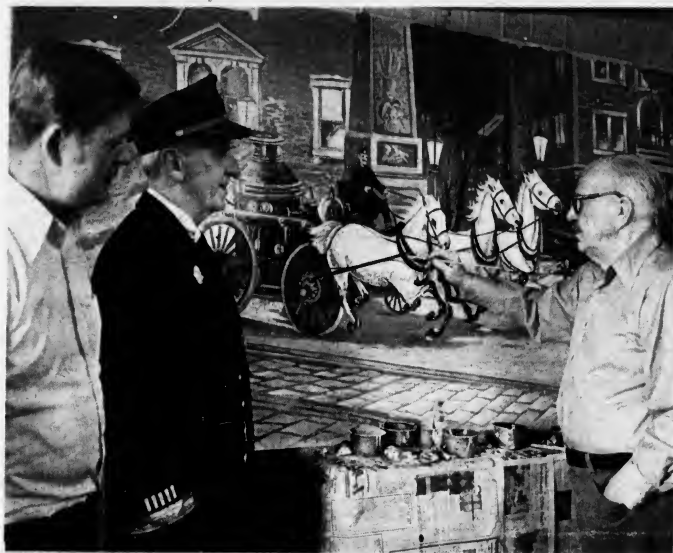

During a marathon fact-finding session held earlier this month, city councillors and school officials heard Joseph Bishop, school plant specialist from the state Department of Education and SBAB, state that building an addition at North Quincy High and at Atlantic Junior High would not qualify for state reimbursement.

Quincy Post Office To Be Phased Out By Mail Center

Quincy Post Office Superintendent Thomas O'Neill said service at the Quincy office will be "phased out" if a new mail processing center is built in Braintree.

The U.S. Post Office recently acquired an option to purchase a 214,000 square-foot site on Granite St., Braintree, to construct a new Incoming Mail Center to serve areas including Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy.

O'Neill said the Quincy Post Office will be vacated and torn down but local service will still remain for Quincy residents. He said:

"Until they break ground, you can't say when this building [The Quincy Post Office] will be phased out."

He said about "a half-dozen" so-called "financial stations" would open to accept parcel post, sort mail for post office box holders, sell stamps and perform other customer services.

Under the new system, all Quincy letter carriers would be transferred to the Braintree site and all postal routes would be motorized by the Postal Service jeep delivery vehicles.

However, James J. Gavin of the Boston Postal District said present customer service, box delivery and addresses would Chamber Tells Ford $3 Oil Tariff 'Devastating' To N.E.

William E. Kelley, President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, has sent a message to President Ford saying his proposal for a $3 tariff on imported oil would have an irreversible adverse effect on New England's already depressed economy.

The text of the Chamber's letter:

"It is with the utmost of concern and urgency that we - an organization comprised of 800 businesses in this region - write to you at this time, regarding your proposed $3 tariff on imported oil.

"We recognize that the cost of imported oil is a reason for our inflation spiral and is ruining our economy. We urge that steps be taken to reduce the importation of foreign petroleum.

"However, we must call to your attention the seriousness of added costs to residual oil and heating oil. In New England our region's industry is 75 - 80% dependent upon oil and our homeowners rely on heating oil for 75% of home heating.

"A tax on residual and/or heating oil will have an irreversible adverse effect on New England's already depressed economy. Our 9.1% unemployed people cannot cope with another increase in the cost of fuel oil. This region is already plagued by economic and unemployment woes far worse than most other regions of the country. Higher costs for industry and the unemployed would be disastrous.

"We urge you to consider other alternatives and cannot stress strongly enough the devastating effect any price hike in fuel for industry or homes will have on the New England area.

"We stand ready to help in the resolution of the problem and would welcome the opportunity to provide input."

LaRaia's Early Entrance To Quicken Mayoralty Pace

By PAUL HAROLD

Councillor-at-large Joseph J. LaRaia made it official Sunday night - he's a candidate for the office of Mayor of the city of Quincy.

The announcement came as a surprise to no one, but the unusually early timing of it is certain to set the pace for other candidates eyeing the Mayor's office.

Grace Saphir announced two weeks ago.

LaRaia is off and running in what promises to be a long and heated contest.

Sunday's announcement, at Peter's Landing, was made before an overflow crowd of LaRaia's friends and supporters, estimated at 150. The group included School Committeemen Francis McCauley and Frank Anselmo, as well as a number of civic, neighborhood and church leaders, with a noticeable dash of Republicans.

As one city hall observer noted, "There's a lot of new faces here." He went on to point out the obvious, "For the city hall 'regulars', LaRaia is the one to beat."

New faces or old, the crowd gathered Sunday night evidenced a formidable city-wide campaign organization. And they didn't waste anytime getting started. As soon as LaRaia's speech ended, blue and white bumper stickers were passed out and slapped on the cars in the parking lot, despite the rain.

Tobin Bill Would Prohibit 100% Valuation

Legislation which would prohibit 100 percent valuation throughout Massachusetts has been filed by Senator Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy].

Tobin's bill, Senate 1476, is a legislative amendment to the Massachusetts Constitution, which would permit the 351 cities and towns of Massachusetts to proportionately assess, rate and tax real property by different classifications according to its use. The proposed legislation is currently slated for action by the Massachusetts Legislature.

Tobin said he feels that "some action must be taken to rectify the immense problems which would result from a court ordered 100 percent valuation. This bill was filed with the hope that it would give us some recourse in the battle against this form of regressive taxation. Citizens throughout our state are already overburdened by property taxes. A 100 percent valuation and reassessment would be a death blow to all of our home owners."

Tobin said he was both pleased and gratified to be informed that the mayors of most of the state's 39 cities met recently to discuss the assessment problem and would join him in a fight against the court ordered 100 percent valuation.

"What is most gratifying is the thought that we will now have support from elected officials who never involved themselves with this problem in the past," Tobin said.

Brownell Bill Requires Tax Abatement Disclosure

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] has filed legislation which would require municipalities to disclose on every property tax bill a statement outlining the eligibility requirements for property tax abatements.

Brownell said, "It has been my experience the average taxpayer is completely in the dark as to whether or not he is eligible for a tax abatement." He said he would cure this by requiring cities and towns to state on the reverse side of the tax bill or on a separate piece of paper a statement outlining simply and briefly the eligibility requirements to qualify for a tax abatement.

Brownell said his bill would insure that this information is available as a matter of general knowledge.

CETA JOBS -- Mayor Walter J. Hannon signs a $140,000 contract with General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard providing on-the-job-training for 40 area residents as shipfitters. The nine-month program is made possible through Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, [CETA]. With the Mayor are Timothy Reidy, Jr., [center] on-the-job-training manager for the CETA office, and P. T. Veloutsos, president and general manager of General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard.

Hannon Commends Quincy CETA

Mayor Walter J. Hannon said charges of scandalous and disgraceful operation of some CETA [Comprehensive Employment Training Act] programs do not apply to Quincy.

Hannon said Paul Ricca of the Office of Manpower Affairs is "doing an outstanding job" in implementing Quincy's CETA program which provides on-the-job-training for the unemployed.

"There are certain guidelines established in hiring people for the CETA program and these guidelines are followed," said the Mayor. "Only qualified people are in the CETA program."

The handling of some CETA programs was recently criticized by Robert M. Coard, executive director of Action for Boston Community Development [ABCD]. He charged that CETA jobs are not reaching the proper people - the poor and the unemployed - for whom the federally-funded program was developed. Instead, he said many highly skilled professional people are receiving the CETA jobs and charged that some people, already employed as government workers, are being switched to CETA jobs in order to cut payrolls and city budgets.

Environmental Committee

Council Hearing Jan. 28 On Sewage Plant Permits

The Environmental Committee of the Quincy City Council will hold an informal public hearing Tuesday, Jan. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in City Council Chambers to discuss Environmental Protection Agency [EPA] permits to be issued to the Nut Island and Deer Island Sewage Treatment plants.

Under the federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1973, all sewage treatment facilities must comply with regulations established by the EPA.

Public comment and suggestions are invited on these regulations and requirements set forth in the permits.

Ward 6 Councillor Dennis Harrington, chairman of the Environmental Control Committee, said discussion will center around five major areas:

- Effluent limits and discharge limitations into Quincy Bay.
- Implementation schedule for secondary treatment at Nut Island.
- Modification of sludge disposal.
- Existing monitoring procedures at the sewage facilities.
- The problem of bypass and sewage overflow in Quincy Bay.

Harrington and committee co-chairman, Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly also want to include regulations in the permit which would require the MDC not only to give health officials prior notice of an emergency dumping of raw sewage but also to file a written report with the EPA, explaining the necessity of the emergency outflow. Harrington said:

"We want to put pressure on them [the MDC] to make sure the instances of so-called 'emergency dumping' are limited to a minimum."

The EPA permit for Nut Island includes a plan to end the dumping of sludge into Quincy Bay and to devise a plan for sludge incineration. EPA requirements also include the development of a plan for secondary treatment at Nut Island by 1979.

Harrington said the Environmental Control Committee will also "heavily endorse" the building of satellite treatment plants to decrease the 300 million gallons of sewage deposited every day in Quincy Bay.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has recommended the construction of four new treatment plants - at Woburn, discharging into the Aberjona River, at Canton, discharging into the Neponset River, in Wellesley or Dedham, discharging into the Charles River and at Frammingham, discharging into the Sudbury River.

Speaking of the proposed satellite plants, and urging Quincy residents to attend Tuesday's meeting, Harrington said:

"If the city is to begin the end of Quincy's being the singular and central dumping spot from here to Frammingham, now is the time."

Councillor Kelly said, "It is vital for the people of Quincy who have any feelings about Quincy Bay to come to this meeting Tuesday. It's a chance in a lifetime."

Quincy state and local officials have been invited to Tuesday's meeting as well as officials from Weymouth, Hull and Cohasset. Quincy Health Commissioner Dr. Alfred Mahoney has also been invited to attend.

The EPA has scheduled a public hearing Friday, Jan. 31 at 10 a.m. in Room 2003 of the John F. Kennedy Federal Building in Boston. The issuance of EPA permits to the MDC and to the city of Boston will be discussed. The councillors also urged concerned Quincy residents to attend this meeting.

STRICTLY PERSONAL

Girl should take clue from Sherlock Holmes

By PAT and MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
Yesterday my boyfriend informed me that he is married. I have been dating him for over a year. I had no idea that he was attached. We have been seeing each other weekends and during the week. I still cannot figure out how he managed to sneak out so much.

I had his number at work and always called him there. Things came to a head when I asked him just where our relationship was going. I felt that he owed me some sort of commitment. That was when he dropped the bomb. He wants to continue seeing me, but I told him to close the door behind him and keep going. Why would any person behave in such a despicable manner?

Taken

Dear Taken:

Just be thankful that he is out of your life, and next time be more careful. Any man who hasn't given you his home phone number or taken you to his apartment in a year is open to suspicion. Next time be a little more like Sherlock Holmes.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I belong to a women's club. One gal in our membership tries to maneuver all of us into working like crazy. I think that this club is her whole life. She works all of the time on our charity projects. How one woman can accomplish what she does is nearly superhuman. She types, calls, and maintains a high degree of efficiency in the club. I do not know how she keeps up her home.

The problem begins when this lady tries to corner everyone else into becoming a workhorse. She feels that the rest of us should do as much as she does. As an example, she has volunteered my house for two meetings this week. This means that I must get refreshments, etc. How can we turn this eager beaver off?

The Girls

Dear Girls:

Tell her that your home is not available without notice. It is simple to say "NO" once you get the hang of it.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

Three years ago I had a little boy. I wasn't married. My parents were wonderful and took care of my son while I finished college. Now he is living with me.

I have been seeing a very nice young man. He has never asked me about my son's father and I have not volunteered any information. Should I bring this up or wait until he asks? He is nice to my son and I want to handle this correctly. This man means a great deal to me.

Marie

Dear Marie:

Until things get serious, I would not bring up the subject. If he inquires, tell the truth. There is no need for detail. The past is never all that interesting.

CHILD'S PLAY

Finger knitting is easy to learn

By BUROKER & HUNTSINGER
Copley News Service

An expert knitter or crocheter can soon convince one that the hand is quicker than the eye. But even if you haven't learned either of these skills, if you have a little patience, you can soon learn to finger knit. It is something man, woman or child can easily learn to do, provided one has some patience.

No other tools are required except the four fingers of one hand and the index finger and thumb of the other hand. Any type of regular knitting yarn will serve as material.

First, make a loop at one end of the yarn. Knot it over your middle finger, just below the first knuckle. Pull the end of the knot to the back of your hand, and follow these directions carefully and exactly:

Bring the yarn to the back of your ring or fourth finger, then around in front of your little finger, and all around it. When the yarn is back in front again, pass it over the front of your ring finger and back behind your middle finger.

Continue winding around the front of your index or first finger, and around to its back.

At this point, one loop of yarn should be around each finger, just below the first knuckle of each.

Now, bring the wool in front of the middle finger again, back behind the ring finger, around the little finger, in front of the ring finger, back of the middle finger and around the index finger once more so that each finger will then have two loops.

The next step is to slip the bottom loop over the top loop on the index finger. Do exactly the same with the middle, ring, and little fingers. Then repeat the whole process as before until once again, each finger has two loops. Again, repeat the slipping process, always beginning with your index finger.

Don't be discouraged because your "knitting" doesn't look right! It won't until you've repeated these steps at least ten times. By then, however, a "tail" will appear, with that original knot at its tip. As you keep on with the winding and slipping process, this section will lengthen and prove to be a soft, even interlocked chain. You can make it as long as you wish with a knot at the slipped off ends. Wrap the ends with sewing thread real tight, and paint them with nail polish for a finished edge or let the ends form a tassel if preferred.

The results can be a pretty hair ribbon, a belt, or a necklace, as well as the discovery that finger knitting can beat thumb twiddling any day.

STITCHING WITCHERY

Sheet makes bedspread.

By BETTY W. KINSER
Copley News Service

Hi, Stitching Witchery! Here is my suggestion for a bedspread made from a sheet (not original with me, by any means). For the top, choose a perma-press flat sheet with large flowers or other design. Choose King, Queen or regular sheet to co-ordinate with the top.

Prewash everything. Layer and attach to a quilting frame. Use 8 to 10 stitches to the inch to quilt around lar, depending on what size spread you want. For the filler use a cotton sheet blanket. For the lining, a solid flowers or design. You can round off the corners ... or leave square ... or scallop the edge ... or add a ruffle. My girls may go so far as to make curtains or drapes to match! — Ruth E. Kauffman, Whitefish, Mont.

FIGHT MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY

HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE

Trappings of stardom tempted Joan Caulfield

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD— She was a doll-faced kid from a strict New Jersey Irish background when she landed in the Babylon of Hollywood, but Joan Caulfield was no mere starlet when she was added to the Paramount contract list.

Hardly, for as a teenager, Joan had captured the enraptured approval of Broadway by creating the role of Corliss Archer in the successful comedy "Kiss and Tell."

Nevertheless, Joan admits today, she wasn't prepared for the competition and temptations of life on the Paramount lot.

"She's been working away from Hollywood lately, appearing on stage in 20 weeks of "Plaza Suite" and 20 weeks of "Butterflies are Free."

"But," Joan explains, "I have teenage boys, so I have to stay home now and watch them."

Therefore, her only recent Hollywood effort has been her performance as Mrs. Hatfield in "The Hatfields and the McCoy's," an ABC-television movie.

Joan came from Broadway to California in 1944 to appear opposite Sonny Tufts in "Miss Susie Slagle's" which was followed by films in which she played opposite Bing Crosby, William Holden and other leading men of the day.

Evaluating her career as a studio contractee, Miss Caulfield says, "I should have taken George Abbott's advice. He was the producer and director of 'Kiss and Tell,' and he said, 'Do not sign a Hollywood contract yet. Stay on Broadway and become a famous Broadway actress and learn your profession.'"

"But I didn't follow his advice. So I didn't learn my profession until I'd been at Paramount for a while and met and studied with Michael Chekhov, the famous director and coach. That's when I finally learned what it was all about."

"Under contract at the studio, it was spoil time."

"I'll give you an example. Paramount had paid $500,000 for 'Dream Girl' for me, and this not only would have been the greatest part in the world, it was one I'd done in summer stock."

"But Betty Hutton walked in to see Henry Ginsberg, the head of the studio, and yelled and screamed and insisted, 'Joan Caulfield is not going to do that picture.'"

"So Betty got to do it, and it was a disaster."

"But that's the way things were done at the studio then, and when I was told what had happened with 'Dream Girl,' I couldn't understand the reasoning."

"I tried to argue and reason that Betty's name value wouldn't matter if she was wrong for the role, but my arguments didn't get through."

JOAN CAULFIELD

"There were always a few stars under contract who ran the whole studio."

"In the end, not only did Betty take the part away from me, she used to drive by my dressing room every day and tell me how the shooting was going."

"Gail Russell and Diana Lynn and Joan Caulfield were sort of golden girls, you see, and we didn't know very much. Nobody trained us; though we were given anything we wanted like a new car or whatever."

"We were around these super-super-stars, and it only corrupted us, because we'd think, 'We want that, too, the bigger dressing rooms ... all the trappings of stardom.'"

"We kept wanting more things instead of wanting to be marvelous actresses."

Adding to the traumas of Joan's contract days was her infatuation with a charming but married star who pursued her so avidly that his wife finally threatened to throw acid in her face.

Regardless of certain unhappy times as a contractee, Joan always appreciated the publicity the studio gave her.

"Paramount gave me publicity that has lasted even to the present," she acknowledges. "And I was always available for it. I was available for whatever cover wanted to use me."

"The publicity was marvelous, but I wasn't very well prepared even for that. Yes, I had been on Broadway, but I'd come from a very strict Irish family and had a very tough father who was quite a disciplinarian, so I'd never been exposed to the Hollywood life style."

"People were doing things then just as bad as what they are doing today, only then they weren't photographing it."

"Stars then were protected by the publicity department to such a degree that two or three publicists usually went along on every interview."

After her hectic Paramount period, Joan starred in a popular television series, "My Favorite Husband," and, she says, she'd like to work in television again.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Accent is on helping those close to you — spouse, parent or sibling. Be supportive, not jealous or envious. Don't betray a confidence. Take advice from others regarding finances as your judgement is faulty now.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Keep your purse strings pretty tight just now. Resist desire to take a trip. Take care of obligations at home. Help a friend who is having personal problems. By sympathetic and understanding, not judgemental.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Good time to brighten up your wardrobe. Worries have subsided and you feel self-assured. Pay attention to relatives and neighbors — do some nice little thing for them. A mistake you may make now will be excused.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Use good judgment and listen to advice before granting favors to someone who may be unworthy. Career and finances may be points of concern. Advice from an impartial professional would be valuable.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Thoughts of romance and whether to marry may be on your mind now. You appear to be making a new life for yourself and some past situations may fade away. A change of residence could appear necessary for convenience.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Financial matters are looking up and you can pay off debts and bills. Career matters are heading you toward pay increase and promotion. Decisions regarding family appear necessary. Loved one seems unpredictable.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Focus your efforts toward completing projects already underway. A good cycle for writers to submit manuscripts, etc. Guard against allowing your irritability to lead you into a quarrel with your mate or partner.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Romance is highlighted. A new person met through a friend can really turn you on. If married, your mate and you could re-create the magic you used to have. Guard against losing your temper with relatives or neighbors.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Career-wise you can "shoot for the stars." Doors previously closed to you now open. A journey can be beneficial. Home life appears harmonious. Redecorating or remodeling could be part of your plan.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — It may be necessary to pull in your belt financially. Concentrate on work and career matters. A dinner invitation breaks the monotony very pleasantly. Resist negative thinking — look toward the future.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Energy is high and your work is top drawer. Working out an idea with a friend can lead to a long term association. A romance that seems the answer to prayers may not be worthy of trust. Be very careful.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Make a decision regarding your marriage very carefully. A long journey is possible. Career matters prosper. Keep on an even keel emotionally. Stay calm and make decisions firmly. Be self-reliant.

NONFOOD GROCERIES
On the average, the shopper with $50 worth of items purchased at the supermarket will have spent $10.85 for non-food items, and another $4.30 for nonessentials such as alcoholic beverages, soft drinks, candy and chewing gum, according to the Council of California Growers. — CNS

Stay Alive!
By Jack Silverstein

NEW HOPE FOR DIABETICS

A metal disk no bigger than a quarter may, one day, help free diabetics from unpleasant insulin injections. The disk is actually a fuel cell that produces a small electric current when in contact with fluids containing sugar.

When the new disk is planted under the skin or in an abdominal cavity of a diabetic person, it emits an electrical signal which varies in intensity with the amount of glucose [sugar] in the body tissue fluids surrounding it. According to the researchers who developed it, this glucose sensor could ultimately be used to actuate a compact insulin dispensing system, also implanted in the body. Thus, blood sugar level would be controlled automatically and continuously.

Because of the huge number of diabetics in the United States - approximately one percent of the population - the glucose balancing device, once perfected and approved, could probably be mass-produced at a cost low enough for everyone to afford.

Quincy Students Selected For JWV Brotherhood Program

Three Quincy students have been selected to compete in the "Classmates Today - Neighbors Tomorrow" Jewish War Veterans Brotherhood Award sponsored by the Department of Mass. Jewish War Veterans, its JWV Posts and the Northeast Region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Lauren Snook of North Quincy High School, Charles Park of Quincy High School and Keith W. McElman of Quincy Vocational Technical School were selected by their classmates and faculty to represent their schools. They demonstrate respect for all persons, regardless of race, creed or color, for understanding the contributions to society by all races and religions, and for comradeship with others of different backgrounds.

The students were also selected for their scholastic standing and for their outstanding school and community activities.

Six top winners will be chosen from the 105 participating schools and each of the six will receive scholarships, watches and framed certificates of award.

The Northeast Region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews selects the three state winners and three honorable mention winners. Top winners are chosen on the basis of a resume prepared and submitted by a faculty member from the participating school.

NQHS: Half A Loaf

The City Council, after months of listening to proponents and opponents and talking it out has rejected a proposed new North Quincy High School in Squantum.

Instead, the City fathers have unanimously approved a $12 million bond issue for additions and renovations at the present school.

Whether you agree or disagree with that decision is not going to change anything now. The City Council has reached its decision—right or wrong—and now it's up to the School Committee members to act swiftly if they believe half a loaf is better than none.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon says that in his professional judgement the package the council has come up with is "impossible and unworkable".

He may be right. It would seem that the City Council is rolling the dice against time. It's a pretty big gamble, and they—and Quincy—could lose.

The council has stipulated that the city's share of construction cannot exceed $4 million and the state must reimburse 65 per cent of the project's cost. It also has slammed the door on any eminent domain landtaking to expand the present site. And, says the council, the total area of the renovated complex must not exceed 252,000 square feet—100,000 square feet more than the present facility.

To bring this all about, Quincy will have to convince the state—perhaps including the legislature—to relax present standards for land area required for high schools.

And do it to get state approval for the addition and renovations before July 1 to qualify for 65 per cent state reimbursement.

Senator-City Council President Arthur Tobin frankly concedes that Quincy's legislative delegation is going to have to do some convincing talking to persuade Gov. Michael Dukakis and the state School Building Assistance Bureau to relax the land area requirements for Quincy to qualify for the 65 per cent state aid.

We wonder how successful they will be. How can they justify relaxing of requirements for Quincy without opening future financial floodgates elsewhere in the state.

Why should Quincy be an exception to the rule? Maybe the Quincy delegation can do it but it seems almost certain there will be flak about in the chambers of the State House.

Right now it is a mad race against the clock. Unless the School Committee moves swiftly there will be no chance of Quincy convincing anyone about anything.

The School Committee was to receive the council's action Wednesday night. It could approve it then or table it for a two-week review.

Dr. Creedon, though he prefers a new school at Squantum is recommending quick approval of the council's plan.

Then specifications have to be drawn up, voted on by the School Committee, presented to the SBAB for approval and if disapproved for possible review.

It could go right down to the July 1 wire.

It would seem Quincy has a few miracles to perform to bring this proposal to fruition.

Right now, to relieve crowded conditions at North Quincy High School, this is it. Half a loaf is better than none but let's hope that Quincy doesn't wind up without even a crumb.

remain unchanged. Designed to produce a more speedy and efficient system of mail delivery and processing, the Center would also serve Braintree, Milton and all the Weymouths. Gavin said:

"The new system will simply be a change in the mail processing. It is designed to improve service and upgrade the handling of incoming mails to the South Shore area."

Charles Cuneo, superintendent of the Wollaston Post Office, said post offices affected by the new center would continue as financial stations. Yet he said he was unsure whether the stations would be mechanically operated - equipped with stamp machines, scales and a telephone for customer questions - or manned by a clerical staff.

Fred Sterritt, superintendent of the North Quincy Post Office, said, however, that customer service will remain unchanged.

"There will be no interruption of service and no lessening of service," he said. "An office will be left here for local service. We expect to maintain a fully-staffed clerical office."

Some Braintree residents fear that the proposed center - to be located adjacent to the Kings Shopping Center - will aggravate the existing traffic congestion problem in the Five Corners area. These concerned citizens have requested a public hearing on the proposed construction.

The site has not yet been purchased but initial investment cost for the site and the 50,000 square-foot building would be $3 million.

The new site also includes plans for a self-service postal unit to provide 24-hour, seven-day-a-week service for customer convenience.

LaRaia began his speech with an attack on the present administration, and calling for "an end to government by edict and government run by a group of heir apparents". The bulk of his speech, however, centered on the positive campaign he intends to wage, one that will be based on a "V.I.P. theme".

"Every citizen of Quincy is a V.I.P.," he said. "Every citizen of Quincy has a stake in good government, and every citizen of Quincy has a contribution to make towards community progress."

He went on to expand the V.I.P. concept, stating that the campaign philosophy is the "Voter Is Paramount", that the platform is "Voter Interest Predominates", and that the strategy is based on "Very Intensive Participation".

And throughout the campaign LaRaia promises that a "Voter Information Program", will be conducted to define problem areas and present proposed solutions to improve the quality of municipal service.

In conjunction with the "Voter Information Program", LaRaia told the group that he would establish direct communication with all citizens by creating a "Tell It To Joe" headquarters, where citizens can convey their concerns and suggestions.

"We believe that in order to shape the destiny of Quincy as a positive, progressive and prosperous community, we must give each family an opportunity to express precisely what they expect from their government," he said.

As another part of his V.I.P. program, LaRaia revealed that advisory committees will be created, composed of civic and business leaders, educators, senior citizens and youth to serve as task forces to help "develop more efficient fiscal management policies, improved educational facilities, and broader gauged community action programs in health, social welfare and recreation for all groups."

This will be LaRaia's second run for the city's chief executive spot. In 1965 when, Amelio Della Chiesa retired he ran an unsuccessful campaign against James McIntyre.

He has served 10 years on the city council, two of which were as president.

The LaRaia campaign is headed by co-chairmen Frank DiCesare and Paul Anderson. Mary Wilson and Leo Hannon are co-chairmen of the LaRaia for Mayor Committee. Other staff appointments are scheduled for later release.

LaRaia is a graduate of Boston College with a degree in finance. He is employed by the Massachusetts Department of Welfare, where he has served as Deputy Administrator of Financial Planning.

He is married to the former Louise Salvaggi. The couple has two daughters, Lisa and Robyn and a son, Joseph Jr.

state aid, the City Council hoped to persuade Gov. Michael Dukakis and the SBAB, through the Quincy legislative delegation, to relax existing state standards and requirements for reimbursement.

But the persuading must be done before July 1, 1975 when state reimbursement dips to 50 per cent.

Creedon gave his "reluctant" approval to the City Council proposal at an informal meeting Monday of the Quincy School Committee and told The Quincy Sun that the School Committee Wednesday night would "in all probability, go along with the proposal very reluctantly." He said:

"While I do not see the action taken by the City Council as being the best possible course to follow, I do recognize that by it the City Council has committed the city to a sizable capitol outlay and I reluctantly recommend that the action of the City Council be endorsed by the School Committee."

Creedon delineated a rigid timetable of action to place an acceptable program "with all the necessary prior approvals" to the State Board of Education prior to July 1, 1975. "The nine-point timetable:

- Jan. 22: School Committee approval of the City Council proposal.

- Jan. 22: Authorization by Mayor Walter J. Hannon for architect Barry Colletti to move ahead with plans.

- Jan. 22-Feb. 5: Reconstruction of educational specifications by Creedon and Colletti to conform to 252,000 square feet of gross building space on the existing site. Approval of the specifications by the School Committee.

- Feb. 6: Sending of the School Committee approved specifications to the SBAB.

- Feb. 6: Beginning of architect's work on preliminary drawings pending explicit authorization by the SBAB.

- April 23: Approval of preliminary drawings by School Committee.

- April 24: Approval of preliminary drawings by SBAB.

- May 27: Submission of project to State Board of Education pending approval by SBAB.

- June 24: Marks last meeting of State Board of Education before reimbursement drops from 65 to 50 per cent on July 1, 1975.

Critical of the City Council solution to the needs at North Quincy High School, Dr. Creedon said space deficiencies in the auditorium, in the performing arts facilities, and on the athletic fields would still remain at North despite the City Council proposal.

He said the proposal did not solve the problem of critically needed learning space at North Quincy High School "either in its immediate need or long range projection." Labelling the Council action "inadequate", Creedon said:

"It [the plan] authorizes a building program not based on need and educational specifications but on a seemingly arbitrary determination of space footage and cost. It shows little concern for open space requirements, aesthetics, and the detrimental psychological effect of crowding 2,000 human beings into a very small land area."

Reiterating that his approval of the project was "reluctant", Creedon also criticized the plan on the following grounds:

- Failure to consolidate the school system by allowing the close of Central Junior High School and Massachusetts Fields Elementary School.

- Failure to expand significantly the career education programs at North.

- Impossibility of state-shared cost in building roadways and utilities into the Squantum site to develop other portions of that area.

Despite his reluctant acceptance of the City Council proposal, Creedon said the action did signal the Council's recognition of a need at North Quincy High School. He said:

"The Council has committed itself in a substantial financial way to meeting a significant portion of that need."

'County Of Presidents' Holiday Next Year?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Another holiday, anyone?

You might just get another one: "County Of Presidents Day".

Behind the move are: John J. Sullivan, Jr. of Wollaston, executive secretary to the Norfolk County Commissioners; John Nourse, executive director Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council, John M. Devine Jr., clerk of Dedham District Court and Rep. Robert Ambler [D-Weymouth].

Ambler has been requested by the others to file legislation to create the holiday in Norfolk County on March 17, effective 1976 appropriately enough, in 1976.

"Massachusetts had Martin Luther King Day this year," says Sullivan. "We feel that the three Presidents born in Norfolk County—John Adams, John Quincy Adams and John Kennedy—should be appropriately honored."

Sullivan also noted that March 17 is Evacuation Day in neighboring Suffolk County.

"So why not make March 17 "County of Presidents Day?"

Norfolk County, Sullivan stresses, is the only county in the U.S. to have been the birth place of more than one President.

"It would be fitting to establish a holiday in honor of our three Presidents and appropriate to begin it on March 17, 1976, the 200th birthday of our nation," he says.

REGARDLESS OF HOW many council at-large seats open this year, Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets says he's not interested. "I'm going to seek re-election in Ward 4," says he. "I want to get that flooding problem solved before I think of making a move for council at-large or anything else."

HERE'S ONE: At the recent Ward 2 Civic Association installation dinner the other night at Fore River Clubhouse, city councillors turned up to honor colleague Clifford Marshall, Norfolk County's new sheriff.

Council President Arthur Tobin and other councillors presented him with a badge, string tie, a cowboy hat, boots and a set of pearl handle guns so that he would be "properly equipped to carry out the duties of sheriff."

And Mayor Walter Hannon topped it all off by bringing in a pony for Sheriff Marshall to ride the Norfolk County range on.

SPEAKING OF Marshall, his new deputies are sporting six-point star badges instead of traditional five-point. The six-star was Marshall's campaign logo during last fall's election.

ADAMS SHORE'S Paul Harold has been presented the key to the city of Worcester in recognition of his work in organizing the Massachusetts Young Democrats. He was a charter member of the club in 1972, was president two years and now is national committeeman.

BILLBOARD, show biz's Bible, predicts big things for a new pop record "Raised on Rock" done by Johnny Winter. Which should make a Merymount man quite happy. Shelly Yakus produced the number for Blue Sky label, a subsidiary of Columbia.

WELL, Morgan O'Reagan can say he's really No. 1. The popular police officer on duty in downtown Quincy, now wears patrolman badge No. 1 representing longest service. He'll have 38 years duty in next month.

WJDA's Ken Fallon got a pleasant surprise the other night at installation dinner of Quincy Firefighters Association Local 792. In appreciation of Fallon's exorbitant chores at the dinner down through the years, President James Donovan presented him with a valuable set of four silver coins and a sincere "thank you", in behalf of all the members.

WELL, IF YOU like to putter around the house, here's a bit of good news. Ted Johnson of the Granite City Hardware says Hyde Tools of Southbridge has informed him it is postponing previously announced price increases on most of the 300 or so items they make. Taking the action because of current economic conditions.

Building a dozen new schools in Boston sounds like an idea whose time should have come ten years ago.

Now if Mr. Nixon had been in charge of the CIA we could check the tapes for the real inside story on domestic spying!

That expected latest American gold rush faded about as fast as the 1974 flag hopes of the Boston Red Sox.

Who says nobody loves a rich man? Mr. Rockefeller got to be our Vice President, didn't he?

Arthur Tobin's 'Soul Searching'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

In reference to your recent front-page article, stating that Arthur Tobin is doing some "soul-searching" about running for mayor of the City of Quincy, it seems quite clear to all who read the article that Councillor Tobin's only reason for running is to keep Joe LaRaia from becoming Quincy's next mayor.

Arthur Tobin, who is a city councillor, State Senator, and who also is Vice-Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, would seem to be an intelligent, responsible, and extremely popular young man, who has certainly, and rightfully, so gained a very outstanding reputation for himself.

Wouldn't you think that a man of these wonderful qualities and capabilities could take a stronger and more reasonable stand in his bid for Mayor of the city of Quincy, than wanting to be a candidate only if Joe LaRaia is a candidate?

Come on Arthur, think of a really mature reason, don't spoil your fine image at this stage of the game.

'A Citizen's Mid-Term Address To Quincy's' Taxpayers'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

If the recent message on the "State of the City" is any indication of things to come during 1975, then the average working man and woman living in Quincy face a dismal future.

No where could I find in the Mayor's speech, one word on how he proposes to cut the cost of City Government. Sure, we have high unemployment and it will probably get worse. It's commendable, to say the least, that the Mayor do everything possible to get the unemployed back to work. But, let's talk about the working men and women of Quincy, the people that pay the taxes. How much more can they take? The problem is that we are living in the 70's, not 350 years ago. This era has placed burden after burden on the average working man and woman. The pie is all gone!! An extra slice for this or that is no longer available. The "bad old days" are back! The theory of moving forward together, working together, building together, always producing more does not and cannot apply to the present. "The balance is unbalanced." The average man and woman's domestic ability to pay and pay is stalled. His pay is higher, but its all eaten away by inflation and taxes. Its like trying to go up the down side of an escalator, an endless ride to nowhere.

It's no secret, we are in trouble. Our country, state and city is in trouble. What can be done? For openers, our Mayor can start exercising restraint. Stop prudent leadership. Stop spending money; cut the cost of city government; postpone unnecessary or costly projects. Stop passing out ridiculous thirty and forty percent pay increases to city department heads and administrative personnel in this age of crisis. Follow the example of business and industry. Cut overhead wherever possible.

The working men and women of this city are being asked to make sacrifices. Many, including this writer, are being asked to accept wage cuts. What sacrifices are the leaders in Quincy willing to make? Will we, the citizens and taxpayers, be like the "Egyptians" that built the pyramids, only to have history remember the Pharaoh's name?

We don't need more monuments in Quincy. We need leadership that recognizes the problems facing the average working man and woman.

The Mayor keeps insisting that we spend millions to build a new high school when the citizens overwhelmingly said "no"! Its interesting to note, that the Mayor acknowledges public reaction when it is supportive of his actions, but denies that it is representative of the public feeling when it is contrary to his plans. He "considers closely", anyone that disagrees with him.

We will solve the school "building" problem in Quincy with cool heads, not irresponsible action that our taxpayers cannot afford. The mothers and fathers of our school children are well aware that brick and mortar have little to do with quality education. Our children will not be cheated as long as we maintain a high level of teaching efficiency.

There is no question that 1975 will be a year of decision, responsible decisions that will enable our citizens to remain fluid; decisions that will effect the very basics in our every day life. Major tax cuts from Washington must not be offset by increased taxes at home. Lets expand our "Operation Watch" to city hall and to all branches of city government. Lets make our department heads more responsive, and lets demand more for less!!

Yes, some of us must change our attitudes, and I respectfully suggest we start in the Mayor's office. This eleventh hour proposal to create an industrial park when industry is facing their most critical period in recent years is ambitious and even commendable, but I'm afraid the timing is poor. Factories are closing, businesses are cutting back, workers are being laid off, real estate is dormant, taxes are high, and money is tight... The great surge has stopped!! The average man is squeezed out.

Now, as we begin the toughest year in our lifetime, the familiar and ancient call to sacrifice is heard again. The working man and woman is once again surrounded. While our leader rewards his associates, he calls upon us to suffer for him, just as our Egyptian ancestors had been called out to work without reward on the pyramids, and hurry up before old Pharaoh dies.

Question Of Week

What Is Metco?

"What is METCO?" asked a citizen who called the Voter Information Phone of the League of Women Voters.

The volunteer operator replied that METCO stands for Metropolitan Council for Educational Opportunity and is a program for busing minority children from Boston to schools in the suburbs. It was organized in 1966 to improve educational opportunities for minority children in segregated city schools, and to provide opportunities for integrated education for children in suburban schools.

This year, there are 2,340 students in 34 suburban communities in grades kindergarten through 12th. Pupils are chosen by METCO from a first served basis, from racially imbalanced Boston schools. Students and their parents volunteer to participate. Suburban participation is also voluntary, initiated by the local schools systems.

METCO is a private, non-profit corporation. It is governed by an elected Board of Directors made up of citizens from both Boston and the suburbs. The program is funded by the state. Funds are granted by the Legislature and allocated by the Department of Education to the 34 participating school systems which reimburse METCO for its administrative expenses.

This question is one of the many now being received by the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIPhone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

Passbook Savings Hold Their Own Against Other Investments

By Philip J. Lawrence

President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association
of Quincy and Holbrook

The cover story in a recent issue of Forbes carried the inviting title, "Inflation: How to Protect Your Capital." After reviewing the various opportunities for investment, the article concluded, "It hurts us to say it, but there is almost no place for the average capitalist to hide from today's two-digit inflation."

The article compared the relative earnings of a person in the 50 per cent income bracket who invested $100,000 in 1973 in various financial enterprises. Discounting profits eroded by a 1973 inflation rate of 8.8 per cent, the article concluded that this person's $100,000 had shrunk as follows in these investments during 1973:

Three-month CDs ($99,300), six-month Treasury bills ($98,400), tax-exempt municipal bonds ($96,300), ordinary passbook accounts ($94,700), one-year CDs ($94,600), corporate bonds ($93,300), long-time Treasury bonds ($87,700), common stocks ($80,400), and utility stocks ($77,500).

A pencil-sharp reader disputed Forbes' arithmetic by noting that the returns credited to the three-month CDs and six-month Treasury bills overlooked the 50 per cent tax on their incomes and that their figures should be $95,600 and $95,200, respectively.

Aside from demonstrating the erosive effect of inflation on people's life savings, the article makes the ordinary passbook account a respectable performer among more sophisticated competitors. A decided plus for the savings account is its complete safety; "better a lingering case of inflation shrinkage than sudden death," says Forbes.

"You can say this for that kind of losing," the financial magazine adds: "It would take a decade or more before you were even close to being wiped out."

Speaking at the 14th annual Financial Executives Conference sponsored by the First National Bank of Chicago on May 20, 1974, a bank officer noted that the Dow-Jones average on that day ($118) was two points off what it had been exactly ten years earlier on May 20, 1964. With consumer prices up 54 per cent over what they were ten years ago and the prime rate of interest at an all-time high, dividend returns from the Dow-Jones stocks could show an annual earning rate of only 3.6 per cent. Ninety-day Treasury bills rolled over produced a 5.2 per cent return, short-term commercial paper 5.8 per cent.

Though the gross national product had increased 104 per cent in the ten-year period (discounting inflation, a real increase of 44 per cent) and Dow-Jones stocks earned almost twice as much per share in 1974 as they did ten years ago, the value of the D-J stocks remained at a standstill.

Noting that we are dealing with an unprecedented experience with inflation, which rose from 1.8 per cent in 1964 to 10.8 per cent currently, the bank spokesman concluded that common stocks are bound to lag in this economic climate.

People who feel they are missing the boat by leaving their surplus funds in savings accounts can take comfort from this information. Better to be safe and sure than panicky and regretful.

'Cafe du Nord'

NQHS Students Turn Classroom Into French Restaurant

A classroom at North Quincy High School recently turned into a French restaurant as Mrs. Nancy Kelly's third-year French students served French cuisine to fourth year students.

The students prepared a typical French breakfast for the cafe patrons, including croissants, brioche and cafe au lait.

"Cafe du Nord" was decorated in red, white and blue, the French national colors. Peter Mullen designed French menus, and other students "printed" French money with which the restaurant customers paid their checks.

"Maitre de" Henry Barbaro greeted cafe customers while Denise Richards, Donna Reardon, Dan Foley, David Wassef and Meredith Stone played the roles of waiters and waitresses. The cafe kitchen crew consisted of Marcia Moore, Loretta Seagraber, Janet Graham and Moira Cavanaugh.

All students, both hosts and guests, spoke only French in greeting guests and friends, ordering meals and taking orders.

Everyone agreed that the experience of speaking French in an authentic French atmosphere was indeed a valuable one.

4 From Quincy In Fontbonne Play

Four Quincy residents are participating in Fontbonne Academy's production of "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" to be presented Sunday and Monday, Jan. 26 - 27 at 8 p.m. in the Academy auditorium.

William Branton, 17-year-old senior at North Quincy High School, will play the lead role of Teddy Lloyd, the 42-year-old "third-rate artist gone to seed."

Paul Frazer, also a Quincy resident, will play the part of Gordon Lowther, music teacher in the production.

Dianne Senter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Senter of Tyler St., Wollaston, will stage manage the production. A sophomore at North Quincy High School, Dianne plans to major in theatre and technical work in college.

Kathy Devine, also a sophomore at North Quincy High, is helping with stage production. She is the daughter of Mrs. Nancy Devine, 41 Adell St., Montclair.

QHS To Present 'Damn Yankees'

By POLLY DREDGE
Quincy High Correspondent

Quincy High's third annual musical, "Damn Yankees", will be presented by the Page and Stage Drama Club next week.

Performances are scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 30; Friday, Jan. 31; and Saturday, Feb. 1 at 8 p.m. in Broadmeadows Junior High School Auditorium. Tickets are $1.50 and will be sold at the door.

The enjoyable comedy tells the tale of a frustrated "Senators" baseball fan who sells his soul to the devil [Earl Rudkins, Senior, North Quincy High] in order to play with his favorite team. Before the agreement is made, the clever real estate agent, [played by teacher, Paul Sullivan], manages to talk the devil into including a "Release Clause" giving Joe the option to back out of the deal by a certain date if he doesn't like it.

When the overworked devil realizes what Joe has done, he sends the enticing Lola [Jody Yurkstas] to seduce the weak-willed hero. Meanwhile, the new Joe [played by Richard Hebert] has carried the losing team to first place. The pennant game is only days away and so is the expiration date on his "Release Clause", when Joe is faced with a monumental decision. Should he save his soul and return to his loving wife, Meg, [Kathy Sweeny] in Hannibal, or stick by his teammates and win the pennant for them but lose his soul?

The cast and chorus of roughly 30 sophomores, juniors and seniors has been rehearsing such favorite tunes as "You've Gotta Have Heart", "Whatever Lola Wants", "Near To You", "Good Bye Old Girl", "A Little Less", "A Man Doesn't Know", "Two Lost Souls", "The Game", "Good Old Days", and many more, under the direction of Mrs. Bernice Bennett, since early November. The Quincy High Orchestra has also been rehearsing these same difficult tunes under the direction of Mrs. Catherine Bishop's experienced baton. Members of the Quincy Symphony have been kind enough to devote hours of their free time to rehearse and perform with the Quincy High orchestra. The commendable string players of the QSO are: Christopher Nourse, Robert Brown, Amy Kehew, Peter Edson and Bruce Randall.

"BE A GOOD BOY and do like Lola tells you", Jody Yurkstas as Lola tells Richard Hebert, who portrays Joe Hardy, in a rehearsal for Quincy High's musical, "Damn Yankees". Performances will be Jan. 30, 31, and Feb. 1, at 8 p.m. in Broadmeadows Junior High Auditorium.

Other QHS News: Senior Class: The senior class is sponsoring a movie thriller, Alfred Hitchcock's "Psycho". The film will be shown in the upper Voc-Tech gym Saturday, Jan. 25 at 8 p.m. Tickets are 75 cents in advance and $1 at the door with proceeds going to the Senior Class Treasury.

Nautilus Literary Magazine: The Nautilus Short Story and Poetry Contest ended Jan. 6. Winners will be notified and their works will be printed in this year's first issue of Nautilus, expected to appear in February or early March.

QHS Band: The band is pleased to announce $1,800 was raised on their Annual Tag Day, Dec. 21. The donations from generous Quincy residents will help defray the costs of the bands exchange concert with Bergenfield High, in Bergenfield, New Jersey, to be held in May. Many thanks!

Blue Macs: The Blue Macs have postponed their previously scheduled dance. It was scheduled on the same night as one of the "Damn Yankees" performances.

A.F.S.: [American Field Service] Junior, Wendy Jacobs has been elected Vice President to replace Paul Nigro. Nigro resigned due to other conflicting activities.

Goldenrod: [Yearbook] The first section of the yearbook has been completed and the second is well underway. The cost of this year's yearbook complete with color spreads, is estimated at $10.

'Goodtime Charley' Promises More Than It Delivers

By ROBERT J. DONOVAN
Quincy Sun Writer

"Goodtime Charley", at Boston's Colonial Theatre, promises more than it delivers. Although the creators have staged an impressive production with a touch of the spectacular, the musical, focusing on Joan of Arc and King Charles VII of France, never quite turns out as entertaining as one would like.

Joel Grey, familiar to everyone as "Emcee" in the stage and film versions of "Cabaret", stars as The Dauphin, Charley. Immediately we are put in touch with his character. Charley, with a nickname totally unbecoming someone of royalty, does not want to be king.

Grey captures his role with a whining, unambitious, little-boy stance coupled with a comical walk, and strengthens his case as he sings the show's title song.

In this song we have one of the show's unfulfilled promises. Grey curls up on the floor at the foot of his bed and sings of his attitudes and longings. Charley has no desire for the throne. He makes it clear that he just wants to take life as it comes and have a good time.

The song starts off quite simply, riding on Grey's magnetism, but it never seems to go anywhere. The same is true of an equally enjoyable song, "Tomorrow's Good Old Days", in the second act. It also starts off simply. Perhaps too simply. It has all the makings of a rousing production number, but the excitement never fully comes across.

JOEL GREY and Ann Reinking in "Goodtime Charley" now at the Colonial Theatre.

Joan of Arc is played by Ann Reinking. Accompanied by her saintly visions and voices, Joan dupes Charley into believing that she is a divine messenger. Centuries ahead of women's liberation, she takes charge of Charley's army and rides off to face victory after victory on the battlefield. Charley chooses to remain behind, much to Joan's dismay. She yearns to make him the hero, but he chooses, for the most part, to remain on the sidelines and watch.

Joan is eventually sent to her flaming [offstage] doom at the stake, but ultimately she does succeed in molding the boy into a man. The whimsical Charley is transformed into a majestic King.

Backed by a cast of almost 50, Miss Reinking could easily become a face in the crowd. However, she has an attractive speaking voice and a stage presence that enable her to hold her ground firmly.

Part of "Goodtime Charley" 's problem is its intent, which should be the concern of director, Peter Hunt, and author, Sidney Michaels. "Goodtime Charley" tries to be comic. It also tries to be deadly serious. The result is that it has too much of both and not enough of either. One has to be established as the dominant.

Music and lyrics, by Larry Grossman and Hal Hackady, respectively, provide several memorable moments in the show. However, the audience is bombarded with so many songs [11 in the first act alone] that the good ones run the risk of becoming lost among the not-so-good.

One of the good points is the show's opening. The curtain rises on the hallowed halls of history and we are presented with a selection of figures from the past. Poised as statues on the stairs of a semi-circular unit setting complete with marble columns, each character musically reminisces about his past accomplishments. Their attention soon turns to Charley, who has yet to join them.

And the best part of the evening occurs during its final moments as King Charles regally takes his rightful place in history. Once again he and Joan are together.

Although "Goodtime Charley" is not yet ready for New York, it has all the earmarks of a hit. Willa Kim's costumes brighten the stage, while the lighting, designed by Feder, compliments Rouben Ter-Arutunian's settings perfectly.

The staging techniques for the battlefields, cathedral, and gardens really have to be seen to be fully appreciated. Painted drops, set pieces, and a circular elevator located at center stage, shift, slide, fly and drop in the between-scene darkness so that when the lights come up for each new scene, waves of applause roll forth as the audience voices its approval of each new display before them.

Grey's final song is the perfect example of the dramatic potential of properly designed lighting. As King Charles sings "I Leave The World" and prepares to take his place in history, three spotlights are trained on him at three different angles. The stage lights slowly go down behind him, and we can almost feel the power and majesty of the King whose solely lit figure creates the stretching shadows that fill the stage.

"Goodtime Charley", is certainly not without hope. The talents and potential of those involved make that obvious. However, a great deal of work must be done if the audience is to have a really good time with "Goodtime Charley".

John Geller Soloist

Quincy Symphony Orchestra Mid-Winter Concert Feb. 12

French horn soloist John Geller will be featured at the Quincy Symphony Orchestra's mid-winter concert Wednesday, Feb. 12 at 8:30 p.m. at North Quincy High School auditorium.

Geller, principal horn with the Brockton Symphony Orchestra, is a faculty member of the South Shore Conservatory. He is assistant director of the Strawberry Bank Chamber Music Festival, Portsmouth, N.H., and has appeared at the festival four seasons as guest artist.

Last season he appeared with the Quincy Symphony Orchestra in Mozart's Sinfonia Concertante.

Geller received his B.M. degree from the New England Conservatory as a student of Paul Kearney. He was a member of the Conservatory Symphony and wind ensemble. In 1966 he toured Spain and the Soviet Union with the Conservatory Chorus under the auspices of the State Department as both singer and instrumentalist.

The program follows: Suite for Orchestra from "Colas Brugnon". Op 24 by Dimitri Kabalevsky. Concert for Horn and Orchestra No. 3, by W. Mozart. John Geller, horn. Also Symphony No. 9 op 95, The New World by Antonin Dvorak. Tickets are $2 for adults, $1 for senior citizens and are available at the door.

Virginia battlefield reproduced

By RICK ROBERTS
Copley News Service
HOLLYWOOD — The TV Mailbag:

Q. My family really enjoyed "The Red Badge of Courage." Can you tell us where it was filmed, and also something about Richard Thomas? — E. C., Torrance, Cal.

A. The special, based on Stephen Crane's novel of the Civil War, was filmed in southern Arizona, near the Mexican border. The site was made to nearly duplicate the Virginia battlefield featured in the story.

Thomas, who is 23, stars in "The Waltons," in the role of John-Boy, a part he played in the special, "The Homecoming: A Christmas Story," upon which the television show is based.

He has been acting since the age of five when he appeared in the Broadway production of "Damn Yankees."

He first appeared on television when he was seven years old and he has made guest appearances in a variety of shows, including "Medical Center," and "The F.B.I." Thomas won an Emmy Award in 1973 for his acting in "The Waltons."

Seven Veils To Open Weymouth Studio

The Seven Veils Studio of Belly Dancing is opening a new location in Weymouth this month.

The studio, which also offers classes in Pembroke and Hanover offers instruction in the ancient art of belly dancing.

Beginner, elementary, and intermediate courses are offered to women of all ages. Classes begin with total body exercise. The students learn authentic steps which are used in stage dancing and folk dancing.

Instruction includes the use of zils (finger cymbals), veils and floor work. As the student gradually becomes aware of her body and how she can move it, she is encouraged to create a dance which is uniquely her own.

Classes are taught by two professional instructors, Najla and Tasia. Tasia has studied belly dancing extensively in the New England area and Washington, D.C. where she has performed. She also has training in modern dancing, blues, and jazz.

Najla received her training in the art of belly dancing from a variety of instructors in the Boston area and has performed in Cambridge. She studied ballet for several years before learning belly dance. Tasia and Najla have taught belly dancing at the YWCA.

The instructors wear authentic handmade costumes to class. Students come to class in bare feet and leotards or body suits, but soon find themselves garbed in fringe and tassels. Most of the intermediate students are dressed in flowing skirts and halter tops which they have been taught to design.

Classes are scheduled for Mondays and Thursdays. They meet during the day and evening at the First Church in Pembroke on Route 14, the Hanover VFW on Route 139, and the Old South Congregational Church in Weymouth. Further information about the classes may be obtained by calling the Seven Veils Studio 834-6388 (day or evening) or 447-6721 (evening only).

Historical Documents On Display At Hancock Bank

A collection of historical documents signed by George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Paul Revere and John Hancock is on display through April at the Hancock Bank, 1495 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Sponsored by the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., the "Historical Documents" exhibit is on display Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m., Friday 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. - 8:30 p.m., excluding holidays.

Arrangements for the display of the exhibit were made by Frank McNally, office debit representative for the John Hancock in Quincy and member of Quincy Heritage. One of the highlights of the exhibit is a letter from Washington to one of his officers written during the Revolutionary War with instructions for the exchange of prisoners with the British.

Another is a post-Revolutionary War letter from Secretary of State Thomas Jefferson to New York Governor DeWitt Clinton concerning border difficulties with the British in Canada.

A personal letter from John Hancock to his wife, Dorothy Quincy Hancock, portrays the human side of the patriot and shows his concern for his family as he gives them instructions prior to their departure from Virginia to join him in Philadelphia. "Take care in crossing the ferries, don't be too venturesome," he writes. "Had you not better take some bedding (sic) in the light waggon (sic), as you will be here before the heavy waggons (sic)."

Also included in the exhibit is a bracelet-painting of Thomas Hancock, uncle of John, which was painted by the famed artist John Singleton Copley with the setting made by Paul Revere.

Julia Mulvoy Retires As

Granite Co-op Assn. Treasurer

Mrs. Julia Mulvoy, assistant treasurer of Granite Co-operative Bank, North Quincy, retired recently after 14 years service.

Mrs. Mulvoy joined the bank in 1960 as an administrative

Can Quincy, North Qualify For Tourney?

Neither the Quincy nor North Quincy basketball team will win the Suburban League title unless Brookline and Weymouth North collapse, and their fans now are wondering if their favorites will make the state tournament.

From all indications North will again make it as the eligibility minimum this year was reduced to 59 percent and Bob Nolan's Raiders need only to win five of their remaining nine games to make it.

And, despite only a 4-6 record going into last Tuesday's games, Joe Amorosino's Quincy team, if it plays up to its potential, could still squeeze in, although its chances are getting slimmer.

Friday night North will host Waltham, hoping to avenge an earlier loss, and Quincy will play at Weymouth North. Next Tuesday North will visit Quincy in quest of its second win over the Presidents.

Quincy unleashed its most devastating offensive last Friday to bomb Cambridge Latin, 82-40.

Quincy ran away from the Cantabs from the start, leading, 18-9, after a period and 39-23 at the half.

"We needed this win and it really lifted us," said Amorosino, who has seen his team lose several heartbreaking decisions. "We lost some close ones and it was good to come back strong."

Eleven Presidents scored as Amorosino substituted freely and was pleased with the work of his reserves. Don Conners scored 14 points, Bill Dacey 13, John Riggs 12, Jack Uhlar 10 and Bob Dacey eight. Conners was hailed for a fine floor game and Mike MacKenzie for a strong game. Quincy shot 50 percent from the floor and also dominated the boards.

North was sidetracked by Rindge Tech, 49-46, as 20 turnovers by the Raiders killed a 50 percent shooting day.

"We shot well but they converted most of our turnovers while we couldn't capitalize on theirs," said a disappointed Nolan.

For North Steve Martinelli scored 13 points and Tim Clifford 10. Nolan praised these two as well as Mark Reale and Walter Melton.

Earlier in the week North, now 7-4 overall and 6-4 in the league, had defeated Weymouth South, 56-48, led by Clifford with 14 points, Rich Mahoney 12, Martinelli and Jay Nelson 10 each. Nolan hailed Reale, who had only recently returned to full-time action, for his defensive performance.

Quincy dropped a disappointing 66-62 decision to Newton, after leading, 50-43, after three periods. It was the second game in a week Quincy had lost after leading going into the final period.

Dacey had 18 points and Quincy's chances dimmed when he fouled out. Sophomore Uhlar had 13 and Conners 12. Amorosino was high in his praise of Uhlar.

Lots Of Basketball Action At Sterling

Basketball is in full swing at Sterling Junior High School and Coach Karl Smith's seventh graders are having an especially fine season with a 5-0 record.

The ninth grade team is 3-2 and the eighth graders are only 1-4, losing some close games.

"There is a good deal of interest in basketball here and the boys are doing a fine job," Smith said. "We have a lot of boys playing and there is great competition among them, which is healthy."

Smith has 22 players on his ninth grade team, 29 on the eighth grade club and 17 on the seventh grade team.

Playing for the eighth grade team are Art Fitzgerald, Dan Fitzgerald, Bob Schow, Dave Ritter, Jeff Marcel, Joe Shea, Tom MacKay, David Remillard,

QJC Wins 3rd In Row

The Quincy Junior College basketball team won its third game in a row Saturday, 84-61 over Bryant and Stratton at Boston University. The win gave Earl Vermillion's Collejuns a 9-6 record.

Kevin Gibson, who leads New England Region 21 in scoring and rebounding, scored 23 points, Ted Meyer had 12 and Bernie Holleran 12.

The Collejuns, 6-2 in Mass. Junior College Conference play and well on their way to a playoff berth, earlier in the week rolled over Wentworth, 66-38. Gibson had 23 points, Tom Carmody 14 and Dan Donahue and Tony Mitchell 10 apiece. All four hit on better than 50 percent of their shots.

In its previous game QJC had edged Quinsigamond, 80-76, with Gibson scoring 28, Meyer 10, Donahue 10 and Carmody 12.

ENC Begins To Move

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, following a slow start, has begun to move and an 87-59 win over Gordon College last week gave the Crusaders a 3-4 Seaboard Conference record and a 6-6 overall mark.

Tonight [Thursday] ENC will play at the U. of Maine, Portland-Gorham, Saturday will play at Curry College at 2:30 and next Tuesday will be at Suffolk University at 3 o'clock.

Gerry Whetstone had 18 points for Jim Smith's team against Gordon, and Steve Parks had 15.

The ENC women's team also defeated Gordon, 70-44, to even its record at 1-1.

Pacing Coach Nancy

Detwiler's team was Janice Irwin with 19 points, while Jean Macchi, former Quincy High standout, had 18.

The women will play at King's College Friday, will be at Nyack Saturday and at Providence College next Thursday.

E. Weymouth High Rollers In Candlepin Tourney Opener

The 22nd Annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy opened Sunday afternoon at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, Broad St., Quincy, with 14 teams bowling in competition.

East Weymouth bowled high for the afternoon to defeat Louie's 1742-1641, while defending champion Carlyle of Whitman ousted the Montclair Men's Club, 1713-1546.

In other matches of the day Penn A.A. edged Weymouth Landing Recreation, 1666-1658, Quincy Merchants outlasted Quincy Square Merchants 1663-1661, Columbian Square Men topped St. Boniface 1635-1595, Blessed Sacrament eliminated Koch Club 1635-1551, and Boston Gear Works disposed of the Professional Men 1632-1550.

East Weymouth could only gain 13 pins on Louie's in the first string, but took the second string by 56 pins and the third by 32 for the tourney afternoon high team total.

Steve Lang led East Weymouth with 372, followed by Rick Chingliarian 360, Marty Martell 349, Paul Paton 333, and Steve Parker 328.

Tom Torloff with 349 was top for Louie's, while Jim Kyller had 337, Ed Rogers 332, Hank Miller 312, and Ken White 311.

Carlyle displaying its championship form jumped off to a 56-pin first string lead, added 56 more in the second and another 55 more in their third string, for a one sided victory over the Men's Club.

Bill Robbins showed the way for Carlyle with 376, aided by TV bowler Dick Ewell 350, Jim

Penn A.A. spotted Weymouth Landing Recreation 19 pins in the first string, could only gain two back in the second, but came on strong in the finale for a 25 pin third string win and an 8 pin victory.

Frank Durante with 394, high three string total for the day led Penn A.A. to victory, assisted by Romeo Magnarelli 338, Frank Perfecto 327, and Dick Cummings 317.

Tony DeGrasso with 375, Weymouth Landing top scorer to no avail, also saw Bill Cross fire a 373 including a 147 high single for the day in a losing cause, while Don Dononi with 326 rounded out the Weymouth top scorers.

Quincy Merchants did it the hard way losing the first string to Quincy Square Merchants by 19 pins, and dropping 16 more in the second stanza, and fell behind by a total of 70 pins at the end of six boxes in the third string. But they roared ahead in the final four boxes for the two-pin squeaker, with Mike Valenti throwing a double mark in his last two boxes, for one of the greatest comebacks in tourney history.

Quincy Square Merchants' Paul Vickers posted a 382 high for the losers, followed by Jim Boyo 337, Jack Doherty 321, Paul Eklund 316, and Paul Manuel 305.

Columbian Square men falling behind by 30 pins midway through the opening string to St. Boniface, caught fire to win by two pins as the string ended. Columbian coasted to a 40 pin win giving the winners a 28 pin edge entering the final, when St. Boniface won by two pins with too little and too late.

Leader for St. Boniface was Joe D'Angelo with 335, followed by Joe Pearson 323, Bill Landry 317, Pete Landry 312, and Ted Pierce 308.

Blessed Sacrament caught the Koch Club cold in the first string to pick up a 35-pin lead, got 25 more in the second, and made it a sweep over the Koch's with 34 more in the final, for an easy 84 pin victory.

Kevin Mitchell with 335 was high for Blessed Sacrament, followed by John Wainwright and Bob McDonough with 333 each, Joe Pacetti 323, and Jim Steen 312.

Al Mancuso led the losing Koch Club with 333, Richie Bolster 325, Don Thomas 321, and Jim Jordan 302.

Boston Gear Works hopped off to a big 63-pin first string lead over the Professional Men, dropped the second by two but picked up 22 more in the third string for a comfortable tourney win.

Dana Chella showed the way for the Gearmen with 375 aided by Paul Young 330, Bill Earley 317, and Gene McGann 315.

Gary DeVincentis and Art Learson with 315 apiece were top for the losers, while Al Johnson had 312, and Bob Biagini 308.

King Wins Granville Award Carroll Receives Munroe MacLean Award At Fathers Club Dinner

Preston Carroll, who scored 77 points this fall and scored all the points in Quincy's 14-13 win over North Quincy, was presented the Munroe MacLean memorial award as Quincy's Most Valuable Player at last Saturday night's 18th annual Quincy Fathers Club banquet for the football teams and cheerleaders.

The Jack Granville Memorial award for the best player in the North game went to Doug King.

Other award winners were Paul DiCristofaro, Presidents Award for best defensive lineman; John Columbus, Armando Moscardelli Award for best interior lineman; Mike MacKenzie, George Underwood Award for best offensive lineman; Ted Wiedemann, Robert Primavera Award for best defensive back and Joe Megnia, Paul Grasso Memorial Award for unsung hero, donated by Bill Osborne of the 1965 Quincy team.

The Football Quincy Award went to Miss Mary Beth Mulcahy.

Jackets were presented to 28 seniors and 26 juniors. Desk calendar sets were presented to Head Coach Hank Conroy and assistants Bud Mosher, Dave Burke, John Bogan and Mark Conroy.

The senior cheerleaders and their advisers were presented pins and 45 sophomores were awarded plaques.

John Provost, a former Quincy football star back himself, who this fall broke national pass interception and punt return records for Holy Cross, was the principal speaker.

President Pete Little was toastmaster and among the head table guests were Mr. and Mrs. Little, Councillor Kelly representing Mayor Walter Hannon, Quincy High principal Lloyd Creighton, Vo-Tech principal Laurence Babin, Supt. of Schools and Mrs. Lawrence Creedon, Athletic Coordinator and Mrs. Carl Leone and Mr. and Mrs. Conroy.

North Gymnastic Team Has Only 8 Members

The North Quincy High boys' gymnastics team is still in search of some more members as it faces a tough Suburban League schedule.

The Raiders have lost members to other winter sports including wrestling in both high school and junior highs and Coach John Oliva has only eight gymnasts.

"Although we are short in numbers, the eight members of the squad are giving their all," Oliva said. "This year for the first time the meets are co-ed with the girls competing at the same time."

Mary Younie is the new girls' coach at North.

"I want to thank Bill Willoughby, Atlantic Junior High's basketball coach, for helping us out," Oliva said. "At the start we had no place to practice. At first the practices had to be at Quincy High which was a strain, being so far away. But Bill was kind enough to let us use the Atlantic gym, which he has rights to, for two hours after school every day except Wednesday, when there is an open gym for junior and senior high gymnastics at night."

"Another person who spends a lot of time helping us is Kent LaFleur, himself a former North Gymnast who is doing quite well on the Boston State College gym team. Kent gives us some valuable advice and teaches us new moves."

Despite his lack of personnel, Oliva is optimistic and feels the Raiders will have a good season in the strong Suburban League.

North's home meets will be at the Atlantic Junior High gym. The first home meet won't be until Jan. 29 against Brockton.

Quincy Frosh Icemen Off To Fast Start

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy and North Quincy freshman hockey teams will face each other today (Thursday) at 3 p.m. at Waltham Skating Arena for first place in the Suburban League.

Quincy, playing under first-year coach John Perkins, is rolling along with a 5-0 record while North is right behind with a 4-0-1 mark.

Perkins, a former Quincy High player, has a well-balanced team with good scoring, strong defense and two fine goalies.

From Point are Co-Captain Tom Cahill, Jim Deitsch, Brian Jolly, Jerry McDonald and Donny Perdios and from Central John Norton and Dean Prescott.

Rounding out the squad are Jack Campbell, Rich Pimental and Paul Bondarick.

Today (Thursday) the young Presidents play Cambridge Latin at 4 p.m. at Waltham Skating Arena, where all league games are played. Next Thursday Quincy will meet Brookline at 6:30 p.m.

Quincy opened its season under its new coach, who replaced Ken Hayes, now coaching Quincy Junior College, by defeating Weymouth North, 6-3.

Giordani had the hat trick,

Cahill two goals and Bertoni one. Bertoni had three assists and Giordani, Cahill and Van Tassel one apiece. Deitsch sparked in goal with several saves on break-aways.

In its second game against Weymouth South, Quincy again won, 6-3.

Cahill exploded for four goals and Bertoni and Giordani had one each. Cahill and Bertoni each had two assists and Giordani and Dave Campbell one apiece. Deitsch played one period in goal and Prescott played the other two. Each played well.

In an 8-6 win over Brockton, Bertoni had the hat trick, Cahill two goals, Giordani two and Perdios one. Bertoni, Cahill, Gulizia, Jolly and Brennan had assists. Deitsch was in goal and, despite the six Brockton goals, turned in another stellar performance with many excellent saves.

Quincy bombed Cambridge Latin, 13-1, with Cahill, Bertoni, Perdios and Giordani having two goals apiece and Van Tassel, Rich Ahola, Brennan, Jack Campbell and Jolly one each.

Perkins used all three goalies, ninth grader Deitsch, eighth grader Prescott and seventh grader Jim Campbell. A seventh grader, Brennan, was named Quincy's star of the week.

Last week Quincy won a big one as it handed Brookline its first defeat, 3-1, with Deitsch giving one of his top performances. Quincy was hit with nine penalties but Brookline was unable to score on six power plays.

Jack Campbell, Bertoni and Jolly had the goals and Cahill, Campbell and Perdios had assists.

'Hoop Shoot' Finals Winners Listed

The annual Quincy Recreation Department and Quincy Elks "Hoop Shoot" contest finals were held recently at the Quincy Vocational Technical High School gym under the direction of Earl E. Vermillion, basketball coach at Quincy Junior College.

Preliminary contests were held at the city's recreation centers for boys and girls in three divisions, 8-9, 10-11, and 12-13. First, second and third place trophies were presented to the winners by Exalted Ruler John J. Gorman and the Director of Recreation William F. Ryan. Ryan is also chairman of the Elks' Youth Activities Committee.

First place winners will compete in the circle district contest, which will be hosted by the Weymouth Lodge of Elks Jan. 25 at the East Weymouth Junior High School gym. District winners will compete for the state championship at the Basketball Hall of Fame on the campus of Springfield College.

Liz Ducey of Snug Harbor won the girls 8-9 contest, Cynthia Bureau of Snug Harbor was first and Tracy Timberlake of Sterling second in girls 10-11, and Nancy Smith of Central was first, Mary Shea of Atlantic second and Marsha Schepici of Snug Harbor third in girls' 12-13.

In the boys' contests, Kevin

Bethany Votes $87,282 Budget, Notes Rise In Church Attendance

Reports at the annual meeting of Bethany Congregational Church showed an increase in church attendance in 1974, an enlarged choir, added involvement of the church's youth and the balancing of a deficit budget.

Ministers, officers and committee chairmen also reported an increase in activities during 1974, including the sponsorship of the South Shore Choir Festival, a hobby show and a variety show.

Alfred M. Toy of Quincy, long-time member of the Board of Deacons and former senior deacon, was elected moderator of the church for 1975. Other officers elected were:

Mrs. Alexander B. Smart, clerk; Mrs. Carlyle Jacob, assistant clerk; Thomas E. Roberts, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas

Judge, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Allan Cole, financial secretary; Merton Pomfret, collector; Robert Pennimann, George Zeiba and Robert J. Caliri, assistant collectors; Robert McLain, auditor; David S. Carr, Mary Lou Glaman and Donna Zanolli, administrative committee; William F. Greene, Henry M. Richardson Jr., and Bruce J. Byorkman, deacons.

Mrs. J. Edward Egan and Mrs. Clifford W. Evers, deaconesses; Donald E. Kent, Donald Wheeler and Albert C. Riddick, prudential committee; William

L. Lipp and Seymour Hall, finance committee; Mrs. F. Curtis Derby, beautification committee; Donald E. Kent and Stanley C. Shaw, endowment committee.

The budget adopted for 1975 totals $87,282.

In other business, members voted $11,930 towards the support of mission activities internationally, nationally and locally, including contributions to the Protestant Social Service Bureau, The Way, and the Columbia Point Christian Center.

All 5 Opposed

Representatives To Meet With Salvucci On S.Q. MBTA Station

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli meeting with Secretary of Jan. 31 at 3 p.m. at which other representatives will discuss their opposition to the proposed South Quincy MBTA station. Cerasoli said Salvucci intends to ride out to Quincy from Boston on the MBTA South Shore Red Line with Cerasoli and Reps. Joseph Brett [D-Quincy], Thomas Brownell [D-Quincy], Andrew Card [R-Holbrook] and Elizabeth Metayer [D-Braintree]. They will view the proposed South Quincy Station site.

Cerasoli said the five representatives are opposed to the proposed South Quincy station.

"The previous governor and his secretary of transportation were intent on building the South Quincy MBTA Station," Cerasoli said. "At least it appears the new Secretary of Transportation will approach the subject with an open mind. From my brief conversation with Secretary Salvucci, it appears he is interested in working with the community, although he was very non-committal on his feelings toward the station."

Brett, Brownell and Cerasoli have express prior opposition to the proposed South Quincy station.

Newly elected Representatives Card and Metayer have also taken a strong stand against the construction of the South Quincy station until the true traffic impact of the proposed South Braintree Station is determined.

Cerasoli said, "Now that a coalition has been formed, all five representatives feel that their voices and the voices of their constituencies can be more clearly heard."

"It must be made clear to the public and the Governor that this coalition of representatives is not opposed to the concept of mass transportation, on the contrary, we are committed to the concept of mass transportation."

"I feel I can speak for all five of us when I say we would like to see the red line extended farther south of Quincy. All five of us would like to see the South Braintree station built in a responsible manner, taking into consideration the traffic problems confronting Braintree residents."

"We are committed to the concept of mass transportation, but in opposition to the South Quincy Station, we are also committed to representing the best interest of our constituents."

PROGRESS

Quincy Heritage Winning Poster By Rita Kearns

Heritage Logo Depicts Spirit of '75, '76

The Quincy Heritage Logo, designed by the S. Gunnar Myrbeck Company of Quincy, depicts the spirit of the 200th anniversary of the United States and the 350th anniversary of the founding of Mt. Wollaston.

Created in a two-color motif of white and blue, the white symbolizes the white-hot fires of independence burning in the hearts and minds of Quincy-born patriots such as John Adams, John Hancock and Josiah Quincy.

The blue, complementing the white, represents hope. Tenacious and gifted forefathers gave birth to the then-outlandish and outrageous concept of self-government. Yet through their persistence, through their faith, the hopes of becoming a nation became a reality.

The logo depicts two stars, one representing Quincy, the other the nation, both virtually intertwined since Quincy, the center of American independence, was so closely linked with the founding of our nation.

Although the logo expresses both our local and national heritage, it is a contemporary design. So, too, the two stars appear to be moving upward and onward.

In this way, Quincy Heritage dramatizes the great future of the City of Quincy as well as the continual creation of a heritage for generations yet-unborn.

Their Job: Putting It All Together Heritage Coordinator 350th, Bicentennial Celebrations

Quincy Heritage, Inc. was instituted last July by City Council vote as the city's official agency in charge of co-ordinating the 350th anniversary celebration of the founding of Mt. Wollaston and the 200th birthday of the nation.

Appointed by Mayor Walter J. Hannon and chaired by Supt. of Schools Dr. Lawrence Crendon, Quincy Heritage first opened its office in City Hall.

John R. Graham, former minister of United First Parish Church, heads Quincy Heritage as its executive director. Bruce McLain, former Information Officer for Quincy Public Schools and former staff reporter for the Patriot Ledger, serves as assistant director of the organization.

Linda MacIsaac, a native of Quincy, began her association with Quincy Heritage as a volunteer and was hired by the organization in October as administrative assistant for community involvement.

Joseph O'Brien, former factory representative for International Telephone and Telegraph and General Telephone and Electronics, Corp., serves as Quincy Heritage's administrative assistant for business affairs.

Gordon MacPhee, another Quincy native, began working for the city in September 1972 as city services co-ordinator in the mayor's office. Now director of tourism for the city, MacPhee is also a staff member of Quincy Heritage, working there as

55 Years Of Progress In The City Of Quincy

An occasion like this is not complete without a brief tracing of the Bank's development from that cold December 9, 1919 meeting when a handful of Fore River Shipyard men sought a banking charter, to the present day Presidential Cooperative Bank. On January 16, 1920, the charter was granted, and a month later, the bank opened for business in the shipyard itself.

As the bank grew, quarters were moved into the city on Hancock Street, over the present offices of the Burgin, Platner Insurance Company. Growth again dictated a move; this time to the South Shore National Bank Building on Chestnut Street, in 1947. And in 1965, the bank moved to modern, more spacious quarters on Granite Street, where we now celebrate our 55th birthday. From its beginning as a facility for shipworkers' savings at Fore River, the bank has grown steadily to the point where depositors now come from many parts of the country as well as the greater South Shore area.

Quincy: A City Of Historic Sites And Deeds

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Quincy will celebrate its history and its heritage, its presidents and its possibilities in a two-year salute marking the twin celebrations of the city's 350th anniversary and the nation's bicentennial.

The celebration is under the direction of Quincy Heritage.

Throughout the two years, the city will sing of itself and of its proud nation, retelling a grand tale of freedom, democracy, spirit and strength.

Bit by bit, the story of Quincy will unravel, awakening in its citizens, old and new, a pride as well as an appreciation of an historic legacy, vibrant and vital.

And those who come to Quincy as visitors--honorary citizens for a day--will have much to see and remember for Quincy is rich in both historic sites and historic deeds.

Here visitors can see and tour what no other community in the U.S. can offer: the side-by-side birthplaces of two presidents--John Adams and John Quincy Adams. Quincy is the only community in the U.S. to send two Presidents to the White House and the only to have father-and-son presidents.

Here also was where patriots John Adams, Samuel Adams and James Bowdoin drafted a most cherished document--the Constitution of Massachusetts which served as the blueprint for the U.S. Constitution as well as other democratic documents of freedom.

Visitors and residents alike will delve deeper into Quincy's culture and lifestyle of old by exploring the famed Adams National Historic site, home of the Adams Family from 1787 to 1946. This imposing homestead, on Adams St., surrounded by a stone wall, served as the "summer White House" for both the second and sixth presidents.

Quincy is also the home of another famed landmark, the Adams Academy building. The structure housed a school established by John Adams and was built - as he directed - on the site of the birthplace of patriot John Hancock, the famed first-signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The Hancock home was built in 1733 by Hancock's father, Rev. John Hancock, an early minister of the First Parish Church. Twenty-six years later, the frame house was razed by fire and Adams Academy was constructed over its cellar.

Quincy is also acclaimed for a host of "firsts": the first ironworks, the first commercial railway, the construction of the first nuclear surface ship at Fore River Shipyard, the first air trials at Squantum Air Base, where Amelia Earhart learned to fly.

Another noted Quincy landmark, located in the city's center, is United First Parish Church, an historic and hallowed shrine.

Built of Quincy's own granite in 1828, this nationally known landmark is the only one of its kind, housing in its crypt the tombs of the Adams presidents and their wives.

Quincy Heritage has planned myriad activities and projects designed to create community pride and to leave a long-lasting, even permanent mark on the city.

"Salute to Quincy's Heritage", a gala kick-off dinner at the Carlton House Wednesday night marked the official opening of Bicentennial and 350th Anniversary celebrations in Quincy.

The city will celebrate its own anniversary April 11 at a dinner dance at the Chateau de Ville in Randolph.

A tourmobile service, beginning April 19, Patriots' Day, will guide city sightseers and citizens to famed landmarks, homesteads and birthplaces.

Restoration and preservation projects planned by Quincy Heritage aim at enhancing the city's environment in a permanent way. The restoration of Hancock Cemetery - to continue throughout the anniversary years - carries an added plus - the involvement of the city's youth.

As a major Bicentennial project, Quincy Heritage is seeking funds to produce a professional 30-minute film tentatively titled, "Where Independence Began". Another film, produced by Quincy school children, was premiered at Wednesday night's kick-off dinner.

Each school throughout the city - from kindergarten to elementary to junior high and high school levels - will create a significant and permanent Bicentennial project designed to enhance the city educationally, socially, historically or environmentally.

The educational aspect of Quincy Heritage will also be emphasized with a re-enactment of Col. Francis Parker's famed speech marking the 25th anniversary of the birth of "The Quincy System", a then-unique and innovative method of teaching devised by the first superintendent of Quincy Public Schools.

A host of other events is planned including patriotic plays, music festivals, religious services, parades and bazaars.

These back-to-back milestone years can cultivate enthusiasm, understanding, interest and pride in our city of Quincy, a city brimming with heritage, resources and history.

But that enthusiasm, that understanding, that interest and pride need not fade nor die with the last brilliant and booming firecracker exploding on the fourth of July, 1976.

"We must look to the years ahead!" declares John Graham. "Together we can begin to create an era which will long be remembered for its contributions to Quincy's life."

Quincy is 350 years old and our great city deserves our thoughtful appreciation. From Quincy soil came the ideas of self-government which shaped our nation. And in Quincy the foundations of American Industrialization were laid.

For three and one-half centuries, Quincy people have made monumental contributions across America.

Truly, our pride has a past. But the Quincy spirit is alive today as it was when John Adams walked our streets. The devotion which built our community continues to inspire us to further improvement.

Fifty or 100 years from now, our children will look back to discover what we have contributed to the well-being of Quincy. On this 350th Anniversary of the Founding of Mount Wollaston, may we resolve to measure up to the vision of our Founding Fathers so that future citizens of Quincy will possess a heritage which will inspire them.

Honoring John Q. Adams 500 Trees To Be Planted For Babies In 1975, 1976

John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States, had a personal motto: "Plant trees for the future."
 During his presidency, Adams initiated the planting of 100,000 trees in Florida to insure young America ample wood for future shipbuilding.
 Quincy Heritage will honor the memory and spirit of the country's sixth president by planting 500 trees throughout the city in the name of the children born during 1975 and 1976.
 The parents of each Quincy baby born during those two years will receive a certificate stating that a tree has been planted in their child's name.
 Local civic organizations, clubs, businesses and individuals can contribute funds to plant a tree or trees.
 The purchase and planting cost of each tree is $50. Estimated cost of the entire two-year project approaches $25,000. Quincy Heritage hopes to conduct two plantings each year with the aid of the Park and Recreation Department.
 Quincy Heritage also plans to involve Quincy's students in raising contributions for tree-plantings by sponsoring a tree walk-a-thon. Slated for April 18, the walk-a-thon will be held in conjunction with the re-enactment of Colonel Francis W. Parker's original address to the townspeople exactly 100 years before, when he became Quincy's first superintendent of schools.
 There will be two walk-a-thon sessions - one in the morning, another in the afternoon. The purpose of the walk-a-thon is three-fold. Most importantly, Quincy students will acquire an appreciation of the rich heritage of their city. Students will visit and investigate historic sites nearby their own schools, enriching their knowledge about their city. At some of the lesser-known sites, teachers will discuss the significance of the area with the students.
 Secondly, students will help to beautify the city by picking up pieces of litter as they travel.
 Thirdly, the students will raise money for tree planting during the walk-a-thon through pledges. Checkpoints will be established at each school to provide soft drinks, water and first-aid to walkers. Quincy Heritage volunteers will man these checkpoints to verify the distance walked by each student.

Progressive Education Born In Quincy

Progressive education was born in Quincy.
 Colonel Francis W. Parker, Quincy's first superintendent of schools, developed the "Quincy System", a plan which revolutionized teaching methods and became nationally known.
 In 1900, the year marking the 25th anniversary of the birth of the new system, Col. Parker returned to Quincy, giving a speech on the "Quincy System" at United First Parish Church.
 To commemorate the contributions of this great man, a reenactment of this event will take place April 18, at United First Parish Church. A top United States education figure will be invited to participate in the commemoration.

Things have certainly changed over the years. Norfolk's assets have grown from $16,000,000 to over $372,000,000. Instead of one office in Quincy we now have three.

Things keep improving. Norfolk has always had a complete range of Banking services to assist people with their personal finances. Today, our All Purpose Bank Plan and the new Customer Option Loan are helping thousands of people solve their day to day financial planning problems. Norfolk Thrift Certificates are helping families to save for the future.

We're not ready to rest on the past. As Suburban Boston's largest financial institution and with 33 local offices throughout the county, Norfolk is living up to its reputation as "the Bank that really knows how to help people."

HANCOCK CEMETERY contains the grave of Rev. William Tompson, first minister of Church of Christ at Mount Wollaston, now the United First Parish Church, which looms in the background of this photograph. Also buried here is Rev. John Hancock, father of the famed Quincy-born patriot.

Hancock Cemetery Restoration To Continue

Quincy Heritage will be able to continue the restoration of the 330-year-old Hancock Cemetery with the help of a $9,200 grant from the executive office of educational affairs.

Some 50 high school students associated with the Neighborhood Youth Corps and the Quincy Youth Commission will work on the restoration project under the direction of North Quincy High School anthropology teacher Richard Riley.

During the summer of 1974, students spelled out the name of the cemetery in pieces of sod along the cemetery entrance side near City Hall.

Students will be able to develop their skills as artisans, craftsmen, tradesmen and resource teachers. Designed to increase appreciation and respect for our historic properties, the project will be a unique learning experience for the students of the city.

The $9,200 grant will enable Quincy Heritage to complete the next phase of work which includes "gridding" of the cemetery, mapping burial plots and studying the histories of families buried there. Gridding involves dividing the cemetery into small sections in order to determine the exact location of gravesites.

John Graham, executive director of Quincy Heritage sees the beautification of the cemetery as an "ideal project" for involving the youth of the city with the value and process of historic preservation while providing them with needed jobs.

He hailed the project as "a major contribution" to the city's celebration of its 350th anniversary in 1975 and the nation's Bicentennial in 1976.

Under Project LINC

Teachers Researching Quincy History For Students

Six Quincy teachers and one principal are researching aspects of Quincy's history in order to develop learning material for Quincy students.

Under the auspices of Project LINC, Quincy Public Schools' Title III project, students will be able to explore Quincy's historical sites and learn of Quincy's heritage, helping to involve them in the city's celebration of its 350th anniversary.

Gerald Butler of Lincoln-Hancock Community School is developing information on the history of the granite industry, its importance to the city and the reasons for its decline.

Joan Leonard of the Parker School and Laura DiTullio of the Squantum School are investigating the role of women in the 19th century.

Gene Ronayne, assistant principal at Quincy Elementary School, David Hohmann of the Wollaston School and Marshall I. of the Squantum School, are researching the potential of the United First Parish Church for re-creation of the 18th and 19th century Quincy life.

Eugene Creedon, principal of the Parker School, spent the summer researching education in the 1870's and 1880's at the time of the appointment of Col. Francis W. Parker as the first superintendent in Quincy.

LINC students started to learn first-hand about Quincy's historic sites in September and October of last year during the Adams Academy Dig.

Under the guidance of North Quincy High School teacher Richard Riley and Quincy High School teacher Daniel Lutts, several students assisted in the attempt to unearth the old Hancock well on the grounds of the academy - the birthplace of Patriot John Hancock.

From Steam To Nuclear Power

The Quincy Shipbuilding Division is the surface ship facility of General Dynamics, a diversified corporation comprised of 14 operating divisions and subsidiaries engaged in both commercial and government business. Products of the 14 divisions include aircraft, space hardware, telecommunication and data processing equipment, material resources and shipbuilding. The extensive organization of General Dynamics affords a unique potential by combining a wide range of technical and manufacturing talent.

The present shipyard had its beginning as the Fore River Engine Company which was established in 1884 by Thomas A. Watson, an associate of Alexander Graham Bell. In 1898 the plant was moved to its present site; the product line of small steam engines was expanded and the name changed to the Fore River Shipyard Engine Company. In 1913 the yard was purchased by Bethlehem Steel Company who operated the facility until 1964 when it was acquired by General Dynamics.

Quincy Shipbuilding Division has achieved a wide range of accomplishments over the intervening years. These include construction of advanced electronic surface ships, nuclear attack submarines, "first of a class" Navy vessels and revolutionary barge carrying SEABEES for the merchant fleet.

Among the best known ships built at Quincy are the S.S. Manhattan, the supertanker of the 1960's, which recently completed transit of the Northwest passage, the U.S.S. Long Beach, the world's first nuclear powered surface ship, the U.S.S. Bainbridge and the liners S.S. Constitution and Independence. One of the most unusual ships ever constructed at Quincy was the Thomas W. Lawson, a seven-masted steel hull schooner, launched in 1902.

Through the 1970's the 125,000 cubic meter LNG ship will be the primary product line at Quincy with eight of these huge tankers now under contract. As we look to the future, we will continue to provide the manufacturing jobs so necessary to the economic well-being of the South Shore. We are currently providing new jobs in the areas of welding, shipfitting, chipping, and burning. Over the next few months this will be expanded to include outfitting trades such as electricians, carpenters, pipefitters and other. The future of General Dynamics Quincy Shipbuilding Division is a bright one.

6th Graders Produce Movie 'Quincy Played Its Part'

"Quincy Played Its Part", a 20-minute movie produced by sixth grade Quincy students, premiered Wednesday night at the gala opening of Quincy's Bicentennial and 350th anniversary celebrations.

Under the direction of Walter McCarthy, graphic arts teacher at Atlantic Junior High School, students involved in "Summer Scene" - the city's summer school program - began to research the film's story-line during the summer months.

McCarthy conceived of the idea of making the film not only to involve the youngsters in the celebration of their city's birthday and the nation's bicentennial but to cultivate in them a better understanding of their heritage and history.

"Stars" in the movie include Michael Dineen, Patrick Doherty, Christine Flynn, Lisa Flynn and Karen Kiley, all sixth graders from Quincy elementary schools.

The film tries to capture the feelings and to re-create the lives of the early pioneer settlers who abandoned the security of their homeland and sailed to the New World, building a new life in distant, unfamiliar land.

To prepare for the making of the film, the students visited the Quincy Yacht Club for a sailing lesson during the summer. They learned the intricacies of sailing and the skill needed to man a vessel at sea.

The students also visited Plymouth Plantation, Quincy's Heritage Trail, United First Parish Church, the Hancock Cemetery, the Dorothy Quincy Homestead and the birthplaces of John Adams and John Quincy Adams. Film for the movie was shot at these historic sites.

The film also contains shots of pictures in books and tells the story of the early stages of the Revolution, emphasizing the role of John Adams.

James Lynch, a teacher at Atlantic Junior High, as well as the school children, narrate the film.

McCarthy said the children reacted eagerly to making the movie. He said:

"I hope they learned about Quincy's role in the nation's beginning and I hope they got an idea of how a film is made."

Article On Quincy In Mass. Bicentennial Guide

"Quincy: Still Making Merry On Merry Mount", is a full-page article on Quincy Heritage included in the official Massachusetts Bicentennial Guide.

The article discusses the major programs of Quincy Heritage, including tourmobile service to historic sites, the restoration of Hancock Cemetery, its information center and the production of such plays as "American Primitive", based on letters written between Abigail Adams and John Adams.

The Massachusetts Bicentennial

Guide, a 160-page booklet filled with illustrations and pictures, is specifically designed to help residents and tourists pre-plan their itinerary to include special Bicentennial events planned throughout the Commonwealth.

Edward McColgan, executive director of the Massachusetts Bicentennial Commission, presented Mayor Walter J. Hannon with Quincy's first copy of the official guidebook in November.

The booklet is now on sale at the Quincy Heritage offices located in the Quincy Center MBTA Station.

Quincy To Mark 350th Birthday At 2-Day Celebration

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Quincy will officially celebrate its 350th birthday April 11 and 12 with a week-end dinner-dance and homecoming day.

A semi-formal, sit-down dinner at the Chateau de Ville in Randolph will begin the festive weekend Friday, April 11. Quincy natives who have gained national recognition have been invited to return to their historic Granite City to participate in two-day, birthday-homecoming celebration.

William Szathmary, alias Bill Dana, recently replied to Mayor Walter J. Hannon's invitation to attend the city's 350th anniversary party. Dana thanked the Mayor for his gracious invitation and said he would try to re-arrange his schedule and attend the city's planned celebrations.

In his letter, Dana wrote: "Quincy is very important to me. There is an expression here - 'Put me in with a hard pencil.'"

He added, "Just one other problem concerning the birthday party. What do you get a city which has everything?"

Invitations have also been sent to stage and film actress Ruth Gordon, actress Lee Remick, former Boston Braves pitcher Dick Donovan, Channel 7 TV personality Paul Benzaquin and WWI veteran and Congressional medal winner Charles McGilvray.

Friday's dinner-dance will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a social hour. A roast beef dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m.

Throughout the evening, John Savini's 15-piece orchestra will entertain the guests along with Quincy accordionist Mabel Biagini.

On display that evening will be plywood and paper mache scale-model reproductions of Quincy's historic sites, made by students at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

Tickets for the dinner-dance cost $17 each. Reservations must be made in advance since seating is limited. Everyone attending the event will receive the official 350th anniversary medal in bronze.

On Saturday, Quincy Square will be the scene of a gala birthday party and homecoming day for the entire city. Mayor Walter J. Hannon will present "Citizens of Distinction" awards to Quincy residents, past and present, who have made significant contributions to the community.

Both the Quincy High School Band and the North Quincy High School Band will entertain during the afternoon celebration which will begin at 2 p.m. A gigantic birthday cake will be cut into thousands of pieces - enough for everyone attending.

In case of inclement weather, the celebration will be held at the Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Leo Meady is chairman of the Quincy Heritage Social Committee which has planned and co-ordinated the birthday-homecoming weekend. Ticket chairman for the dinner-dance is Mrs. William Walsh.

'Salute To Quincy Dinner' Kicks Off Heritage Events

A "Salute to Quincy's Heritage Dinner" Wednesday night marked the official beginning of the city's celebration of its 350 years of history.

Paul Benzaquin of Channel 7 was the main speaker at the four-hour festive event held at the Carlton House, North Quincy.

During the evening Mayor Walter J. Hannon announced the 54 winners of the Quincy Heritage poster and slogan contests co-sponsored by Quincy Savings Bank and The Quincy Sun.

The evening of entertainment and celebration began at 6:30 p.m. Pete Henderson, custodian at the Merrymount School, entertained the crowd with a solo performance on the bagpipes.

A sit-down roast beef dinner was served at 7:30 p.m., followed by the announcement of the slogan and poster contest winners.

For Benzaquin it was a pleasant homecoming. He is a graduate of Quincy High School. Benzaquin is the host of an hour-long morning talk show on Channel 7. A former Herald and Globe reporter, he is the author of "Fire", a book chronicling the horror of the Coconut Grove holocaust. He was also nominated for two Pulitzer Prizes.

The premier of "Quincy Played Its Part", a 20-minute film produced by sixth graders, closed the gala evening. Under the direction of Walter McCarthy, Atlantic Junior High School Graphic Arts teacher, the children tried to envision and re-create the life of the early settlers leaving their homes and friends to make a new life in a new and unfamiliar frontier.

Why We Pronounce It 'Quin-zee'

Why do we pronounce Quincy "Quin-zee" when just about everyone else in the country refers to it as "Quin-see"?

There are 19 other Quincy's in the U.S. but they pronounce it "Quin-see".

Can they be right and we be wrong?

Not according to Quincy's late city historian, William C. Edwards who never budged an inch whenever the argument ever came up. And it still comes up.

The reason we pronounce it "Quin-zee" is very simple.

"That's the way the Quincy family pronounced it," he used to explain.

"The original Quincy family which settled here at Mount Wollaston pronounced it 'Quin-zee', including Col. John Quincy after whom Quincy, Mass.—the first Quincy—was named in 1792."

Colonel Quincy was the great grandfather of sixth President John Quincy Adams.

Apparently all 19 other Quincy's in the U.S. were named after John Quincy Adams.

And, apparently the early settlers of those communities thought John Quincy pronounced it John "Quin-see".

Anyway, that is how Edwards explained it. Seems like a sound argument.

In The Beginning

In the early months of 1836, many of Quincy's merchants gathered in Fowle's Tavern to lay the foundation of a commercial banking enterprise in a town of only three thousand inhabitants - mostly farmers, shipbuilders and granite cutters. Fowle's Tavern was on the early morning stage coach line to Boston, and while it is safe to say that no further directors' meetings were held in a tavern, the commuter service to Boston in 1836 was not much better than today. The present day bus ride has shaved only 45 minutes from the stage coach trip to Boston.

Andrew Jackson had just been elected president of the United States at the height of the Young Republic's Federal Period. John Quincy Adams's presidential term was over and he was then serving as a congressman for Massachusetts. New England was still the maritime center of America, with the ports of Salem and Boston doing a booming business. In February of that year, Jim Bowie and Davey Crockett had died at the Alamo, and by the time the new bank had received its charter to open its doors in March, New England volunteers to fight Santa Ana were straggling back to their homes - the battle was over before they could get to Texas. By the time the last of them returned, the town had its new enterprise - the Quincy Stone Bank. Curiously, it was the first in the United States to capitalize through public subscription of its stock. More than two hundred families came up with the one hundred thousand dollars required by the General Court for a charter.

Having no building for its quarters, the bank rented the front room of Elisha Turner's house on Hancock Street for its first "banking rooms". For 139 years and three bank buildings, the home of the South Shore National has remained within 200 yards of its first - all on Hancock Street.

But everything else has changed. Then the bank printed its own money, a practice frowned upon today. Then there were three employees and one office. Now there are 650 employees and thirty-four offices located in Norfolk County, five of which are located throughout the Quincy area. In 1836, whale oil fueled the lamps at Turner's house, while electricity which today powers the bank's computers, was the plaything of primitive scientists.

Since the start of the bank, a great deal of time has passed and neither the nation nor the bank bear much resemblance to the days of 1836. Of utmost importance, however, one thing has not changed - the bank's continuing dedication to the progress and development of the communities it serves.

Mother, Teacher Win Poster, Slogan Contests

A mother and a teacher are the top winners in the Quincy Heritage poster and slogan contests.

Mrs. Rita Kearns of 36 Summer St., a native of Ireland, who will become a citizen of the U.S. in 1976, won the $300 prize for the best poster which is the cover for this special issue of The Quincy Sun.

William Mitchell of 24 Gilmore St., a teacher at Broad Meadows Junior High School, won the $300 prize for the best slogan "Adams To Atoms" which is being made into an auto bumper sticker for distribution by Quincy Heritage.

The bumper sticker, designed by S. Gunnar Myrbeck Co., Quincy, is reproduced in red, white and blue on Page 13 of this special issue.

The two contests, co-sponsored by the Quincy Savings Bank and The Quincy Sun, had 54 winners in all sharing in a total of $1,500.

Theme of the contests, held in cooperation with Quincy Heritage, as part of the city's celebration of its 350th anniversary and the nation's bicentennial, was: "Quincy's Pride: Patriots, Presidents, Possibilities".

In the poster contest, the $100 second prize was won by Arthur W. Tucker, 1 Bittern Rd and the $50 prize by Jane Mudge of 264 Furnace Brook Parkway.

In the slogan contest, the $100 second prize was won by Wayne Batson, 13, of 28 Spring St., a student of Mitchell's at Broad Meadows Junior High School and the $50 third prize by Jo McShane of 56 High St.

All of the winners and honorable mentions in the two contests are listed in the pages of this special Quincy Sun issue.

The names of the winners were announced by Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Charles A. Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank and Henry W. Bosworth, publisher-editor of The Quincy Sun at Wednesday night's "Salute To Quincy's Heritage" dinner at the Carlton House, North Quincy.

Mrs. Kearns and Mitchell were guests of the Quincy Savings Bank and The Quincy Sun at the dinner.

One thousand copies of the poster in red, white and blue, were printed for Quincy Heritage for distribution as souvenirs.

Five thousand of Mitchell's winning slogan are being printed as auto bumper stickers for Quincy Heritage.

Mrs. Kearns specialized in oil painting. She has taught art in many countries besides her native Ireland including England, Pakistan, Asia and the Philippines.

Mrs. Kearns enjoys doing portraits in her spare time and likes to read as well as to write poetry and short stories. Among her favorite writers are T. S. Eliot and John O'Casey.

Mrs. Kearns came to the United States in 1968 and will become a citizen of the county in the summer of the bicentennial year.

She has a four-year-old son Hugh. Mitchell is a social studies teacher by day and a law student by night.

He has been teaching social studies at Broad Meadows Junior High School for six years and is now a third-year night student at Suffolk University Law School in Boston.

Mitchell's slogan, "Adams To Atoms" represents the spectrum of Quincy's history and achievements. Speaking of his slogan, Mitchell said: "It represents the historic past of the city as well as the scientific progress here."

John Adam's contributions to the city's "historic past" are monumental. He helped to draft the Constitution of Massachusetts and he served as his country's chief executive from 1796 to 1800.

His son John Quincy Adams, became the sixth chief executive. Both father and son played major roles in shaping the young nation's destiny.

Much of the city's 'scientific progress' represented by the "atoms" in Mitchell's slogan took place at the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard with the construction of nuclear-powered ships. Indeed, Quincy has progressed far from Adams to atoms.

Mitchell has lived in Quincy all his life. He attended Central Junior High School and Quincy High School.

When not teaching or studying, he likes to play hockey and ski. He and his wife Corinne have been married six and a half months.

Mrs. Kearns and Tucker, runnerup to her in the poster contest, showed their versatility by winning $10 prizes in the slogan contest.

Contestants were eligible to enter either the poster or slogan contest or both.

ADAMS to ATOMS

4 Double Winners

Four Quincy residents who entered the Quincy Heritage poster and slogan contests were double winners.

Rita Kearns of 36 Summer St., Quincy, who captured the top $300 poster prize also earned $10 in the slogan contest, submitting the entry, "Birthplace of Patriots - Quincy". Arthur Tucker of 1 Bittern Rd. Adams Shore, received a total of $110 in the two contests, winning the $100 second prize in the poster contest and earning an added $10 for his slogan contest entry, "Pride in Our Past...Planners of the Future".

Another double winner was Joseph Gildea Sr., of 45 Division St., North Quincy. He won $25 in each contest, landing fourth prize in the poster contest and sixth prize in the slogan contest for his entry, "Quincy, 350 Years of Heritage, Pride and Progress".

Rick Deutsch of 126 Darrow St., Houghs Neck, was the fourth multi-winner, earning $10 in both contests. His slogan entry was, "Quincy's Rich Heritage is Our Common Wealth".

One interesting set of winners was a mother-daughter duo, Mrs. Gail McDougall of 22 Martensen St., Quincy Point and her eight-year-old daughter Nancy both won $10 in the poster contest. Another daughter Bonnie earned an honorable mention in the poster contest.

THREE TOP WINNERS of Quincy Heritage slogan contest co-sponsored by the Quincy Savings Bank and The Quincy Sun receive banknotes containing their cash awards. Music Festivals Are Planned For 1976

Looking forward to 1976, Quincy Heritage is planning two music festivals to capture the spirit of the city's Bicentennial and 350th anniversary celebrations.

Created by Greg Larkin, a professor of music at Eastern Nazarene College, both festivals are designed for the enjoyment of the citizens of the city.

The first festival, to be held early in 1976, will feature music written during the American Revolution. Both choral and instrumental groups will participate in the festival which will take place in the Church of Presidents.

The second festival program, slated for July 4, 1976, will feature patriotic music performed by choral groups and bands in the city, including those from the Quincy schools. Selections performed will range from songs written since the birth of the nation to the present.

This festival will take place on the steps of the United First Parish Church in Quincy Square.

In May, 1976, the Southeastern Massachusetts Band Festival will take place in Quincy. This festival of high school bands will incorporate the theme of Quincy Heritage.

In addition, the annual Pops Concert performed by the Quincy Symphony Orchestra will take on special meaning in 1975 as the city celebrates its 350th anniversary.

The Judges

Two panels of judges were named to select the 54 winners who shared the $1,500 in prizes in the Quincy Heritage poster and slogan contests.

A cross-section of the community, they represented professional expertise, civic interest, education, men, women and youth. The 10 judges, five for each contest:

POSTER: Robert Brandt, executive vice-president and general manager S. Gunnar Myrbeck & Co., Quincy; Joseph Donahue, Quincy architect; Ronald Iacobucci of 10 Hyde St.,

Quincy, a student at Boston College; Walter Lunsman, director of Arts and Humanities for the Quincy public school system and Mrs. Annette Paglierani, member of the Quincy Art Association.

SLOGAN: Rev. Alicia Corea, Houghs Neck Congregational Church; School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon, Martin McKeon, MBTA assistant director Community Affairs; Thomas Nutley, Boston Gas Co. public affairs specialist and George D. Reardon, past president South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Like Teacher, Like Student

The saying goes, "Like father, like son", but in the Quincy Heritage slogan contest, the saying switches to "Like teacher, like student".

Wayne Batson, seventh grade student at Broadmeadows Junior High, captured second place in the Quincy Heritage slogan contest, only one place behind his social studies teacher William Mitchell who won the top prize.

Wayne won $100 for his entry, "Quincy: City of Presidents, Progress and Pride".

Quincy's Historic Minutes On WJDA

A total of 15 historic minutes telling the story of Quincy will be aired over Radio Station WJDA throughout 1975.

The first historic radio spot was heard Monday morning at 8:21.

This venture was made possible by the joint sponsorship of Corcoran, Mullins, Jennison Inc. of Quincy and the Peabody Construction Co., Inc. of Quincy which provided $5,000 to finance the historic moments.

Narrated by professionals in the advertising field, the 15 minutes will be rotated throughout the year with one minute aired per day at 8:21 a.m.

'Quincy's Pride'
Slide Show Available

"Quincy's Pride", an 11-minute Quincy Heritage slide show, captures Quincy's unique history and tells of Quincy Heritage plans to commemorate that history.

The audio-visual presentation, created and produced by John R. Graham, executive director of Quincy Heritage, contains 140 slides of the city. The show is narrated by Win Bettinson of WJDA.

Since Aug. 1, 1974, a total of 5,000 people representing 50 organizations have seen the slide show.

The show has been presented not only in Quincy but in Scituate, Lynn and Durham, N.H., at the Conference of the New England Historical Society.

Clubs and organizations wishing to view the slide show are asked to make a contribution to the Quincy Heritage tree-planting project which honors the memory of John Quincy Adams and his personal motto, "Plant Trees for the Future".

A total of 500 trees will be planted throughout the city over the next two years, symbolizing the birth of Quincy babies.

Abigail Adams Woman Of Special Honors

Abigail (Smith) Adams was the only woman to be the wife of one President and mother of another.

She died in 1818, however, and did not see her son John Quincy elected our sixth President. John Adams did live to see his son named President in 1825.

30 Schools Developing 350th Projects

The 30 schools throughout Quincy are in the process of developing anniversary and bicentennial projects which will live beyond the two-year celebrations as permanent contributions to the city.

Each of the city's 21 elementary schools, five junior high schools, two high schools, the Vocational Technical

School and Quincy Junior College, are planning unique projects of their own choice - projects which will make a major impact in their school area.

Ideas for potential projects are limited only to ingenuity and imagination. Students could initiate a clean-up project, become involved in restoration of historic sites, or paint historic murals.

Students at Mass Fields School, for instance, are re-creating the trunk of Abigail Adams by knitting and sewing colonial clothing of the day.

Through the efforts of Quincy's students, the celebration of the city's history and heritage will continue far into the future.

Pneumatic -- part of Quincy's Heritage

In 1895, Pneumatic Scale was founded by a man who was born and raised in Quincy - this man, William H. Doble, had an idea that food could be packaged automatically, with much greater cleanliness, and with more efficiency.

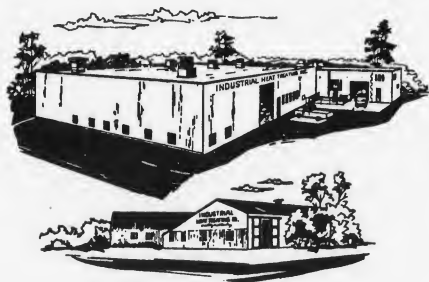

Today, recognized as a leader in the field, Pneumatic designs and builds over one hundred different machines for the packaging and bottling industries around the world. A check at the local supermarkets would probably show about 70 percent of the items are being handled on equipment manufactured by Pneumatic.

During ups and downs of the American economy in an eighty-year history, Pneumatic employees have enjoyed steady work and many significant benefits.

Abp. Fulton Sheen To Speak At Concelebrated Mass

Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen will deliver the sermon at a concelebrated 5 p.m. Mass Saturday, Feb. 15 at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

The Mass is being sponsored by the 350th Anniversary Religious Committee.

Many can recall how Abp. Sheen battled "Uncle Miltie Berle" for prime-time television. Berle referred to the archbishop as "Uncle Fulty" and recommended listening to Abp. Sheen. The two have been good friends ever since.

The principal celebrant at the Mass will be Msgr. John Mullarkey, of Quincy, retired pastor of St. Pius V parish in Lynn.

He will be assisted by auxiliary bishops Lawrence Riley and Joseph Maguire and by the pastors of Quincy parishes: Msgr. Richard Hawko of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, Msgr. Mark Keohane of Star of the Sea Church, Squantum, Msgr. James Scally of St. Ann's, Wollaston, Father Thomas Croke of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Merrymount, Father John Tierney of St. John's Church, Quincy, Father James Hart of Blessed Sacrament, Houghs Neck, Father John McMahon of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, Father Joseph Downey of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, and Father John Dacey of St. Boniface Church, Germantown.

ARCHBISHOP FULTON SHEEN

Msgr. Mullarkey was born in Quincy Jan. 16, 1900. This year he is celebrating his 75th birthday and his 50th year as a priest.

The monsignor was baptised, received his first communion and was confirmed at St. Mary's Church. He is the son of the late Bernard and Delia McHugh Mullarkey of Quincy. Four years ago he retired as pastor of St. Pius V parish and is now living at the family home on Crescent St., West Quincy, with his two sisters.

This special Quincy Heritage issue of The Quincy Sun was produced by the following members of The Sun staff:

We gratefully appreciate the cooperation given us by the staff of Quincy Heritage in the production of this souvenir issue.

U.S. Navy Band In Two Concerts Here March 10

Under the sponsorship of Quincy Heritage, the famed and versatile U.S. Navy Band will visit Quincy, performing two special concerts Monday, March 10.

A total of 1,600 Quincy students will hear the Navy Band's two-hour afternoon concert held at the Vocational Technical School gymnasium. Two-hundred fifty of those students will be members of the Quincy and North Quincy High School Bands. The concert will begin at 1 p.m.

An evening concert for the public - a maximum of 1,600 can attend - will be performed from 8-10 p.m.

During the concerts, members of the Air Force Junior ROTC will serve as ushers as well as color guards for the Band.

The 52-member concert band will play a medley of songs focusing on the country's history. Tickets are $4 per person and will be on sale in advance at the offices of the Quincy and North Quincy High School Band directors, the U.S. Naval Reserve Training Center, 85 Sea St., Quincy, the Air Force Junior ROTC office, and the South Weymouth Naval Air Station.

Total cost of the event is $3,500. Quincy School System has donated $500 to help Quincy Heritage sponsor the band.

Proceeds from the concerts will benefit Bicentennial and 350th anniversary activities of Quincy Heritage.

The U.S. Navy Band was born March 4, 1925 when President Calvin Coolidge, on the day of his inauguration, signed into law a special act of the 68th Congress, recognizing this band as a permanent, representative band of the United States Navy.

Under every president since Harding, the Navy Band has performed throughout the entire continental United States, Canada, Alaska, South America, Europe, the Mediterranean countries, Panama and the Caribbean Islands.

In 1937 the Navy Band was honored by the famed Canadian Exhibition in Toronto when it was the featured musical attraction. In 1964, with over three million people in attendance, the Navy Band made its sixth appearance at the Exhibition - more than any other foreign band.

The Navy Band was the first military band to broadcast over radio and to boast regular programming. In the late 1920's it was "The Hour of Memories" and, through the 1960's, it was the famous "Navy Hour".

Presently the Band consists of 175 enlisted men and women musicians and four officers. The Ceremonial Band performs at White House ceremonies in honor of American and foreign dignitaries and at Arlington National Cemetery for wreath-laying ceremonies and funerals.

The Concert Band performs regular concert series in Washington and tours throughout the country every year.

Leading the band is Lt. Cmdr. Ned Muffley who assumed command of the Band June 29, 1973. A young and energetic conductor, he brought with him the experience of more than 20 years' service in Navy music.

Lt. Cmdr. Muffley, who conducts all performances without a musical score, was honored by a personal invitation from Arthur Fiedler to guest-conduct The Boston Pops.

We've always done things the Quincy way.

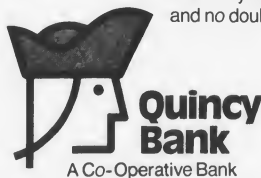

Back in the mid 1800's, Josiah Quincy, Jr. had an idea: Why shouldn't the honest, hard-working, wage-earning American be able to buy and own his own home? What the people of Quincy and America need is a more "co-operative" type of banking and financing organization... a bank truly by, for, and of the people.

In 1889, the Quincy Co-operative Bank was formed. It was based upon the principles of co-operative banking set forth by Josiah Quincy, Jr. In fact, the Bank, located in the city of Quincy, was named for him.

Josiah Quincy, Jr. was not a military man by reputation... although he was a patriot, a new patriot, a champion of the working class and an advocate of positive change.

Ironically, he came from wealth and prestige. So, he didn't have to concern himself with the problems of working class people. He did so, because it was the Quincy way of doing things.

Although co-operative banking has greatly expanded over the years, we've always done things the Quincy way and no doubt always will.

Stormy Debate Quincy Was Almost Hancock

By HENRY BOSWORTH

If some of the early settlers had their way, you would be living in the city of Hancock today instead of the city of Quincy.

Quincy, like George Washington, was born on Feb. 22.

On Feb. 22, 1792, the General Court of Massachusetts passed an act incorporating the North Precinct of Old Braintree as the separate town of Quincy.

But, just before that, quite a few of the residents wanted the new town named after native-son John Hancock instead of Boston-born Col. John Quincy.

Colonel Quincy, who had represented Old Braintree in the General Court, was the great grandfather of President John Quincy Adams.

Many people today think Quincy was named after the sixth President but the honor actually goes to his great grandfather.

John Hancock who was born in the North Precinct, was governor of Massachusetts when the General Court passed the act incorporating the new town as Quincy. He signed the act the following day.

But at the first town meeting of the new town in May, a petition was presented to change the name from Quincy to Hancock in honor of the patriot and first signer of the Declaration of Independence. The move was finally defeated after a stormy verbal battle.

Opponents argued that Hancock was still alive and that the honor should go to a distinguished—but deceased—person.

Colonel Quincy met those requirements. He was both distinguished—and deceased.

He had represented Old Braintree in the General Court from 1717 to 1741—12 of those years as Speaker of the House. He died in 1767 at age 77—two days after John Quincy Adams was born.

Quincy became a city June 11, 1888.

Thus, on Feb. 22, Quincy will mark its 183rd birthday as the community of Quincy.

But a lot of people—residents and tourists alike—will go right on thinking that Quincy was named after John Quincy Adams.

JOHN ADAMS, second president of the United States, was born in this New England saltbox home in 1735. Often called "the cradle of American Independence", this famous birthplace is located at 133 Franklin St., South Quincy. [Mass Department of Commerce and Development]

BIRTHPLACE of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of our nation, located at 141 Franklin St., South Quincy is a national historic landmark. Here, the son of John and Abigail Adams was born and raised. And here, too, John Adams, Samuel Adams and James Bowdoin drafted the Constitution of Massachusetts, prototype for the Federal Constitution and other democratic documents. [Mass. Department of Commerce and Development]

Hand-Blown Bottles Honor John Hancock

Hand-blown glass bottles, bearing the face of Quincy-born John Hancock, first signer of the Declaration of Independence, are now on sale in the Quincy Heritage office in the Quincy Center MBTA Station.

A limited edition of 500 John Hancock bottles will be sold at $5.50 each, to raise funds in support of the city's 350th anniversary celebration in 1975. The first 100 bottles will be sold at $11 each and the buyer will receive a certificate of authenticity bearing the bottle's number.

The amber-colored bottles were produced by the Clevenger Brothers Glass Works in Clayton, N.J., which is one of the last companies in the country to use glassblowers to make bottles.

John Hancock was born Jan. 12, 1736 on the site now occupied by the Adams Academy, the new home and museum of the Quincy Historical Society.

The signature of John Hancock is considered to be one of the most famous in the world as it appeared, so boldly and defiantly written, at the head of the names of the 56 patriots who mutually pledged their lives, and fortunes by signing the Declaration of Independence.

As president of the Continental Congress, John Hancock was the first to sign, and he wrote his name, according to popular belief, so that King George III "could read it without his spectacles".

Hancock's father was a minister in Quincy which was then a part of Braintree. John Hancock probably would have been a minister, too, had his father not died when he was seven years old.

Upon his father's death, Hancock was adopted by his childless uncle, Thomas Hancock, a rich Boston merchant.

College was entered at a far younger age in those days than now, and at 13, John Hancock entered

JOHN HANCOCK BOTTLE

Harvard College where his day began at 6 a.m.

Upon his graduation from Harvard in 1754, he became a clerk in his uncle's warehouse at Long Wharf, Boston. For six years he worked to master every detail of the business which involved the shipping of colonial products to England, the importing and selling of English goods in Boston, and the managing of the warehouse and ships.

John Hancock was a member of the convention which met in Cambridge to draw up a constitution for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. On Oct. 25, 1780 he was proclaimed the first governor of Massachusetts under this Constitution by an overwhelming majority. He was re-elected annually to the office until his death, with an interval of two years when James Bowdoin was Governor.

It is estimated that Hancock contributed about $100,000 to the American Revolution; a tremendous fortune in colonial America.

He died on Oct. 8, 1793, at the age of 56.

The Historic Trail: Reliving Quincy's History

Quincy's Historic Trail traces a route dotted by presidential homesteads, famed birthplaces, historic churches, and famous landmarks.

The long-time Quincy resident and the inquisitive Quincy visitor can both relive the city's history, instilling new-found city pride in one and new-born historic knowledge in the other.

Eighteen sites in all mark the trail, beginning with the Adams National Historic Site. This mansion was the home of the Adams family from 1787 to 1946 when it was presented to the U.S. government. Four generations occupied this homestead which served as the "summer White House" for John Adams and his son, John Quincy Adams.

The Quincy Homestead, home of the Quincy family including the two famous Dorothy Quincys, is the second landmark along the historic trail. Open to the public for the past 70 years, this mansion house has long been noted for its beauty and history.

The Adams Academy Building, now the home of the Quincy Historical Society, is the third historic site along the pathway. Originally the site of the birthplace of Patriot John Hancock, the granite schoolhouse was built as directed by John Adams over the famous birthplace.

First Parish Church, designed by Alexander Parris and built from Quincy granite, is a national historic landmark, housing the tombs of the Adams Presidents and their wives.

Next on the trail is City Hall and the Hancock Cemetery. City Hall dates from 1844 while the Hancock Cemetery dates from 1640, containing the tombs of Quincy's early settlers and Revolutionary War soldiers.

The John Adams Birthplace is a New England saltbox house built in 1681. It is the farmhouse where the nation's second president was born and raised.

The John Quincy Adams Birthplace beside it is also an historic site, marking not only the birthplace of the sixth president of the U.S. but also the house where patriots gathered to draft the Constitution of Massachusetts.

The Abigail Adams Cairn, erected in 1896, marks the spot where she and her son John Quincy Adams listened to the guns at Bunker Hill and watched clouds of smoke gather over burning Charlestown.

Features still used in railroading today were pioneered at the Granite Railway Company. Remains of the first railroad incline, designed to transport granite down from the quarry to the railroad level, can still be seen at the site.

The John Winthrop Jr. Iron Furnace, the birthplace of the nation's iron and steel industry, marks the remains of the furnace which produced the first commercial iron in the U.S.

Another famous homestead along the trail, the Col. Josiah Quincy House, was built in 1770 as a large country estate.

Tourmobile to Start April 19

Quincy Heritage will establish a tourmobile service in April, offering a convenient and inexpensive way to explore the city's resources and historic sites.

Beginning Patriot's Day, April 19, busses will leave McIntyre Mall, guiding sightseers and residents to the city's attractions and downtown shopping center.

As the bus travels along the scenic, historic route, a tape will narrate the history of Quincy and tour guides will be available to assist visitors.

The tourmobile service will run through Nov. 1, 1975 and begin again

Other famous landmarks along the route include the Standish Cairn, where Myles Standish landed in 1621, Squaw Rock, an unusual rock formation, Moswetuset Hummock, the seat of the Moswetuset Indians from whom the name of the Commonwealth is derived, Merrymount, site of Capt. Wollaston's trading post, Liberty Tree Park, the Christ Church Cemetery, the Beale Homestead, Bunker Hill Quarry and a section of the Granite Railway of 1826.

For the Bicentennial and anniversary years, the entire trail has been redesigned, lengthened, and clearly marked for residents and visitors.

A six-page, full-color, trail brochure, designed by S. Gunnar Myrbeck will map out Quincy's historic district, giving a summary of each site. The brochure will be widely distributed and will serve as the official guide to Quincy's historic and recreational sites.

April 19, 1976, offering tours through Nov. 1, 1976.

The tourmobile and other programs development by Quincy Heritage will help to increase the city's economic development. The attraction of the tourist dollar, for example, into the city's economy, will create additional income and employment opportunities for Quincy residents. Many Quincy Heritage programs and projects will lay the groundwork for maintaining higher visitor volumes after the celebration of the nation's bicentennial and the 350th anniversary of the founding of Mt. Wollaston.

Many Donate Articles To Heritage

Many Quincy firms have donated furniture and other articles to the Quincy Heritage office. The Quincy Bank donated desks, chairs and wastebaskets.

Quincy Historical Society donated a display case, Kemper Insurance offered typewriters, New England Telephone Co. donated file cabinets, the Mayor's office added a mini refrigerator, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce gave an address-o-graph machine.

Corcoran-Peabody Construction Co. donated an air conditioner, electrical wiring was donated and installed by the father of Audrey Cutler, a Quincy Heritage volunteer, the state's division of tourism donated historical pictures of Quincy, the Quincy Savings Bank offered the Quincy Heritage sign, the city's Planning Department donated a 10-foot picture and project display of Quincy Heritage, and Joseph A. Donahue's architect firm constructed the mini model of the proposed Quincy Heritage Information Center.

Quality Commemorative Items Available For Purchase

Quincy Heritage has developed and marketed a host of quality commemorative items to serve as lasting reminders of the city's 350th anniversary and the American Revolution Bicentennial.

Maureen O'Brien, social-health co-ordinator for Quincy Public Schools, is the chairman of the Memorabilia Committee of Quincy Heritage. She was a member of the original 350th Anniversary Committee established three years ago under then-mayor James McIntyre. Through the work and efforts of the Memorabilia Committee, Quincy Heritage is offering these commemorative items.

Wedgewood artist Alan Pine has designed two plates capturing the history and pride of Quincy. Both will be issued in limited editions.

One plate, "Quincy, City of Presidents", will be appropriately released on Oct. 30, 1975, the birthday of John Adams. The edge of the blue plate - trimmed with a delicate etching of branches of flowers and leaves - depicts both John Adams and John Quincy Adams, Quincy-born presidents of the United States.

The face of the plate pictures the birthplace of both presidents as well as the Adams National Historic Site and the Josiah Quincy House. The back of the plate carries the Quincy Heritage Logo.

The second plate, the Bicentennial plate, to be issued in the fall of 1976, is a crimson and white pattern carrying out the theme, "Quincy, City of Patriots". Again, the plate is edged with floral, leafy branches but the patriots pictured are John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy.

The front of the plate depicts the Dorothy Quincy House, Adams Academy, Quincy City Hall and the Thomas Crane Public Library. The back of the plate again carries the Quincy Heritage logo.

Two commemorative medals - both in sterling silver and in bronze - will be available in limited editions. The 1 5/8 inch medals can be attached to chains or used as decorative displays. The first medal, to be issued in April 1975, pictures the Merrymount Maypole Dance on the front and the first commercial railway on the back.

The second medal, to be issued a year later, carries the slogan "Patriots, Presidents and Possibilities" and pictures John Adams and John Quincy Adams on the front face. Pictured on the reverse side is United First Parish Church, the Church of Presidents.

Both medals will be distributed nationally.

Frank Leporini, a research assistant at North Quincy High School, has designed bookends, cast in bronze, they will be cast at Quincy Vocational Technical School, of the Adams' Birthplaces.

Also involved in creating commemorative items is Quincy's Paul Whalen, head of Artistic Carvings in Boston. Whalen had hand-carved and hand-painted reproductions of the John Quincy Eagle designed by his company. The eagle is available in both bold-leaf and gold-paint.

Richard Porteus, art specialist in the Quincy School System, has designed a 1776 pin fashioned with nails which are replicas of those hand-forged in America during the late 1700's. Other quality sterling silver jewelry items - such as charms and tie tacs - will also be available.

THE FACE OF Abigail Adams, first White House "First Lady" and wife of the second president of the U.S., is stamped on these green commemorative bottles, hand-made for Quincy Heritage. Examining the shipment are Quincy Heritage volunteer Linda MacIsaac (left) and Chairman of the Memorabilia Committee, Maureen O'Brien. The bottles are now on sale at the Quincy Heritage offices. [Quincy Sun Photo by Steve Liss]

Quincy Heritage is also marketing ceramic items, such as mugs and ashtrays, as well as tiles which can be put to practical use or used as decoration.

The six-inch square tiles will depict Quincy "firsts": the first ironworks, the first commercial railway, the construction of the first nuclear surface ship at Fore River Shipyard, the first air trials at Squantum Air Base.

Commemorative glass sets and bottles will also be made. Clevenger Brothers Glass Works has designed bottles in eight shapes and sizes and in four colors. The bottles will picture famed Quincy citizens such as John Adams, John Quincy Adams, John Hancock, Josiah Quincy and Col. Francis Parker. The bottles, to be distributed through many local merchants, will carry the Quincy Heritage logo on the back.

Book Now On Sale

'QUINCY: 350 Years' Traces City's Rich History

"QUINCY 350 Years", a soft-cover and hard-cover book published by Quincy Heritage, Inc. is now available.

The book tells the story of Quincy in 13 chapters, each symbolizing one of the 13 original colonies.

A total of 4,500 soft-cover copies of the book have been printed and 500 hard-cover copies are coming off the press.

Beginning with an introductory letter from Mayor Walter J. Hannon, "Quincy 350 Years" traces Quincy's history from its early days to the present and also peeks into the city's next 350 years of growth and change.

Individual chapters deal with Quincy's government, past and present, geology and geography, religion and ethnology, education, economic life and Quincy's 27 miles of shoreline. One chapter, "Distinctively Quincy", noted the city's features and landmarks which make Quincy, Quincy.

Two separate chapters are devoted to "The Adams Family and Quincy" and "Quincy's Sons and Daughters".

The next-to-last chapter maps out Quincy's Historic Trail, "not a road by which one follows history; but rather a way by which one may experience contact with a rich and varied history."

With 350 years past, the city of Quincy and its citizens look ahead to the next 350 years in the final chapter of this saga of Quincy.

Each of the 13 chapters was written by local authors. Those contributing articles to the book were Holly, George Wilson, Rev. John J. McMahon, Dr. James R. Cameron, Thomas S. Burgin, Richard K. Chrystal, Richard W. Carlisle, Dorothy E. Newton, Thomas B. Adams and Geoffrey A. Davidson.

The many pictures dispersed throughout the pages were donated by Doris S. Oberg, Teresa Carsten, W. F. Bowman, Peabody Museum of Salem, Dorothy Cavanagh, Rosenfeld, W. C. Edwards History of Quincy, Bostonian Society, Edmund Quincy and the Museum of Fine Arts, the Thomas Crane Public Library and the Quincy Historical Society.

William Dahlgren, a post graduate student at Quincy Vocational Technical School, designed the book's red, white and blue cover combining the British and American flags.

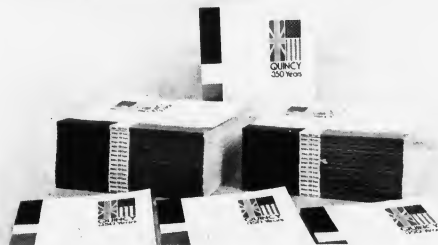

S. Gunnar Myrbeck & Co., Inc. created the overall book design and produced the books for Quincy Heritage, Inc.

Lawrence P. Creedon is general chairman of Quincy Heritage and John R. Graham is executive director.

Co-chairing the publication committee of Quincy Heritage are Henry W. Bosworth Jr., Richard W. Carlisle and Herb Fontaine. Other members of the publication committee are Teresa Carsten, Richard Chrystal, Carl Deyeso, John Golden Jr., Carol Lee Griffin, Mildred Harrison, Sol Levenson and Robert Waywood.

Adams Academy Library-Museum

Historical Society Collections Soon To Go On Exhibit

By PAUL HAROLD

As the city prepares to celebrate its 350th anniversary, the Quincy Historical Society is entering upon a new era with the completion of the Adams Academy project.

The society will now have a permanent home to operate from and expand its activities. The society's extensive collection will be put on display for the first time and its library and reference materials will be available for research.

Work with the schools, long an important part of the society's program, will be expanded with the facilities available in the library-museum. The renovations and restoration of the old school house (1872) will allow for the old building to serve a new use while preserving an important Quincy landmark.

And while moving-in day is still a few months off, work has already been done to make sure items in the collection are properly catalogued and stored.

Under the direction of Doris Oberg, the library committee has been working literally for years in anticipation of the opening. Besides organizing current materials, the committee has been setting up resources necessary to handle new acquisitions, of almost any type. And with the assistance of a professional preservationist, members have been trained to care for the most delicate items.

A grant from the Massachusetts Arts and Humanities Foundation, Inc. provided for the services of Paul Molitor, the society's library-museum consultant.

Recently, the Board of Curators named Lawrence Yerdon, a teacher at the Woodward School, as director of the library-museum.

The membership of the society has kept pace with its expanding role, and under the leadership of membership chairman William O'Connell, the membership has passed the 1,000 mark. This is the largest membership in the 82 years of the society and is believed to be one of the largest in New England. Recently, new categories of membership for individuals and businesses were established so contributions could be made toward operating expenses, above the basic dues.

And to meet its changing role, a new Executive Committee was established to provide for more effective administration. The Executive Committee will handle day-to-day administration, while the Board of Curators will continue to set long range policy.

A fund drive is being conducted by the society to pay for the Adams Academy work. Businesses and individuals are being contacted by society members under the direction of a professional fund-raising consultant. Charles Francis Adams serves as honorary chairman for the drive.

In addition to the library-museum, the society operates the John and John Quincy Adams Birthplaces. Co-chairmen of the House Committee, Mrs. Alfred Knapton and Mrs. Hobart Holly, reported 7,074 visitors this past season. In anticipation of increased visitors next season, the birthplaces will be open seven days a week from 9 to 5.

The society has a number of on-going research projects, which are an important activity of any real historical society. The results constitute an important contribution to our historical records. Projects include: General Palmer and Germantown, by Dr. James Cameron;

FAMED ADAMS ACADEMY, on site of Patriot John Hancock's birthplace, is the new home of the Quincy Historical Society which is transforming it into a museum and library.

Mount Wollaston sites, by Dr. George Horner and yacht and small boat building in Quincy by Mr. Holly.

Appropriately, Captain Wollaston and his expedition of 1625, the 350th anniversary of which we celebrate this year, is the project being worked on by Dr. Cameron and Mr. Holly. In addition to the work being done in this country, Wollaston's expedition is being researched by professionals in England as well.

Hobart Holly, president of the Quincy Historical Society sees the new library-museum as a real asset in being able to offer opportunities for greater involvement in local history.

"When we are in operation we plan to have as professional a staff as required and as our means will permit," said Holly. "But like all institutions of our type, even the largest, we will always depend heavily on volunteers."

Officers for the 1974-75 term in addition to Holly include: William O'Connell, first vice president; Gordon Nelson, second vice president; Mrs. Hall Carpenter, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Justis, corresponding secretary; William Farrar, treasurer; Mrs. Rudolf Oberg, librarian; Dr. James Cameron, historian and George Horner, archeologist.

Vision, Spirit Hailed

Quincy Heritage Cited In 'Bicentennial Times'

The vision, spirit and plans of Quincy Heritage were hailed in the September edition of "Bicentennial Times", a paper published monthly by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

Saluting Quincy's then-new status as a Bicentennial community, the article described Quincy Heritage:

"An alert and active citizenry implemented its Bicentennial blueprint by first establishing Quincy Heritage, an organization charged with the responsibility of coordinating not only the city's Bicentennial plans but also plans for its own 350th anniversary in 1975".

Calling Quincy Heritage programs "key Bicentennial undertakings," the article described improvements made at the two salt-box homes of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

"These landmark houses were in need of inside temperature controls to protect them from the destructive ravages of the winter-summer-freeze-thaw cycles that were taking their toll of the buildings and furnishings," the article explained.

Also cited in the article were Quincy Heritage plans to preserve the excavated remains of the first productive iron furnace at Furnace Brook as well as the remains of the country's first commercial railway which carried Quincy granite for construction of the Bunker Hill Monument.

The article told, too, of the tourmobile service to be offered to visitors and residents of the city, the proposed information center to be equipped with maps, brochures and calendars of events, the development of new traffic and information signs to better direct the visitor to city services, the planning of exhibits, audio-visuals and displays portraying Quincy's civic, industrial and economic developments, and two patriotic musical programs involving choral and instrumental groups throughout the city.

The "Bicentennial Times" is printed in Washington, D.C. in the interest of maintaining a high level of public awareness in the American Bicentennial observance. It also encourages participation in the Bicentennial by Americans everywhere.

Heritage Seeks $30,000

For Visitors' Center

Quincy Heritage is seeking a $30,000 grant in cooperation with the MBTA and the U.S. Department of Transportation to open a visitors' center in the heart of McIntyre Mall.

Manned by Quincy Heritage volunteers and stocked with maps, brochures, food and lodging information and other literature, this center will be a launching point for many visitors and residents.

In addition, the civic, industrial and economic development of our nation will be portrayed in a series of exhibits, displays and audio-visual presentations. Commemorative items will also be for sale at the center.

Sun Man-In-Street Poll Shows:

(See Below)

Hannon 1 Tobin 2 LaRaia 3
Saphir 4 Delahunt 5 For Mayor

Vol. 7 No. 20
Thursday, January 30, 1975
Quincy's Own Weekly Newspaper

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

A Quincy Sun mayoralty voter preference poll shows Mayor Walter J. Hannon nosing out Senator-City Council President Arthur Tobin by a hairline 1.5 per cent margin and leading Councillor Joseph LaRaia by 8.5 per cent.

Mrs. Grace Saphir was fourth, trailing Hannon by 14 per cent and Rep. William Delahunt was fifth, 22 per cent behind the incumbent.

Two hundred Quincy registered voters were queried in The Sun's random man-in-the-street poll. Their 200 "votes" were cast this way:

- Hannon, 55 votes, or 27.5 per cent.
- Tobin, 52 votes, or 26 per cent.
- LaRaia, 38 votes, or 19 per cent.
- Saphir, 27 votes, or 13.5 per cent.
- Delahunt, 11 votes, or 5.5 per cent.

Two of the five names -- LaRaia and Saphir -- selected for The Sun's poll are already officially announced candidates. Mayor Hannon has not yet indicated whether he will seek a third term. Tobin and Delahunt are considered potential candidates. Seven per cent of those polled said they were undecided as to their choice for mayor.

And one and a half per cent expressed disenchantment and disillusion with politics, saying they would not vote at this time for any of the five named candidates.

The 200 Quincy registered voters polled represented all sections of the city and included 114 women and 86 men.

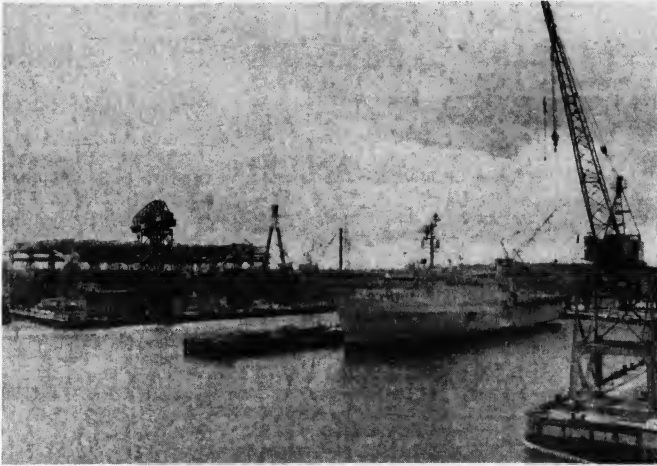

The 200 were polled last Friday and Monday on the street, in retail stores, in supermarkets, at lunch counters, at the Quincy Center MBTA station and in front of City Hall.

They were each asked three questions:

• Are you a registered Quincy voter? [non-registered were discounted].

• From among the five following names, who would be your choice for mayor if you were to vote tomorrow? Walter Hannon, William Delahunt,

3 Big Questions:

- Will Hannon Step Aside?
- Will Tobin Really Run?
- What Did LaRaia Poll Show?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

There are three big questions on Quincy's political front this week:

- Will Mayor Walter Hannon seek re-election?
- Will City Council President-Senator Arthur Tobin actually get into the mayor's race?
- What did the poll taken for Councillor Joseph LaRaia really show?

There is no indication yet as to what Hannon will do. It's doubtful he even knows himself right now but there's little doubt he's doing a lot of serious thinking.

As for Tobin it appears that he is now even closer to running than he was a week ago when The Sun first disclosed he was "soul searching" about running for mayor.

And, as for the LaRaia poll what it showed depends, it seems, on who you hear it from. LaRaia reportedly paid

$1,000 to the same firm that did Gov. Dukakis pre-election polls to get a barometer reading on this year's mayoralty strength.

The Sun offered to publish the full results of the poll but the LaRaia camp said "not now, maybe around April."

This prompted The Sun to conduct its own poll, the results of which appear in this issue.

Although the LaRaia organization is supposed to be holding the poll results close to their vests just about everyone in town claims to have seen them.

LaRaia supporters report the poll shows him very strong with both a high positive voter reaction and high voter identification. They claim it shows Tobin with a lower voter identification, which many political observers will find hard to believe.

Tobin followers say the poll shows Tobin topping LaRaia in both voter positive reaction and voter identification.

And again, depending on where it is coming from, the poll supposedly shows Mayor Hannon with a high negative voter reaction.

Landtaking Hearing March 10

Council O.K.'s $100,000 For NQHS Addition

In a special two-hour meeting Tuesday night, the City Council voted unanimously to appropriate $100,000 for additions and renovations at North Quincy High School.

The council voted 7-1 to hold a public hearing March 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber on proposed landtaking on Hunt and Oliver Sts. for the additions to the school. Lone dissenter was Councillor Joseph LaRaia. Clifford Marshall, who is also Norfolk County sheriff, was not present for that vote.

The move allows Architect Barry Colletti to begin to draw up educational specifications and preliminary drawings for the proposed addition at the present North Quincy High School site.

The Council, however, emphasized strongly and repeatedly that its appropriation of the funds did not in any way imply approval of land-taking to expand the site in order to meet state land specifications.

Speaking for the Council, Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin asked Colletti to consider all alternate plans at the site to avoid any taking of homes.

Colletti said he would explore all alternatives at the site but reminded the Council that any plans drawn by him would be subject to the approval of the State Building Assistance Bureau. [SBAB]

According to Tobin, Quincy officials have received word that the renovated North Quincy High School site must be at least five acres in order to qualify for 65 per cent state reimbursement. The site presently exceeds four acres and the proposed 100,000 square-foot addition would expand the site to a little over five acres.

City Clerk John Gillis said residents who live near North Quincy High School will receive personal notification of the public hearing on land-taking. He said an appraiser would be evaluating each home affected to determine the extent of damages.

Also included in the personal notification will be re-location costs, adjustments in interest rates and other pertinent financial information to help the resident determine his financial position and to allow to come to the public hearing equipped with any questions he may have.

The councillors emphasized the holding of this hearing is a procedure mandated by law and in no way indicates Council approval of land-taking.

Hannon To Discuss Downtown Future At QCBPA Breakfast

Mayor Walter J. Hannon will discuss downtown Quincy's future at the annual membership breakfast meeting of the Quincy Central Business and Professional Association Feb. 5.

The meeting will be at 7:30 a.m. at the Sheraton Tara Hotel, Braintree.

Mayor Hannon's subject will be "Quincy Center In 1975-A Forecast".

The agenda will include an outline of planned promotional activities for 1975 by the association and a presentation of inter-relating activities by John Graham, executive director of Quincy Heritage.

Harvey Tovmiv, downtown development coordinator for the city, will explain the federally funded projects now being implemented to improve and revitalize the Quincy Central Business District.

Tickets may be obtained at the association office, 1416 Hancock St., or by calling 471-3232.

Sun Poll Shows Hannon, Tobin Neck And Neck

Joseph LaRaia, Grace Saphir or Arthur Tobin?

How would you rank the other four in your order of preference?

The 114 women polled gave their first choice votes thusly: Tobin [33], Hannon [27], LaRaia [17], Saphir [17], Delahunt [6].

The 86 men cast their first choices like this: Hannon [28], Tobin [19], LaRaia [21], Saphir [10], Delahunt [5].

Thirteen women and one man said they were undecided and gave no choice at all.

Two men and one woman expressed disenchantment with politics, saying they would not vote for any of the five candidates.

Of the 200, 157 selected a second choice. The percentage breakdown:

- Tobin, 27.4 per cent.
- Hannon, 23.6 per cent.
- LaRaia, 21 per cent.
- Delahunt, 18.5 per cent.
- Saphir, 9.6 per cent.

Of the 200 polled, only 105 indicated a third choice for mayor. The per centage break down:

- LaRaia, 28.6 per cent.
- Delahunt, 26.7 per cent.
- Hannon, 17.1 per cent.
- LaRaia, 14.3 per cent.
- Saphir, 13.3 per cent.

Many of the 200 would select only a first and second choice indicating they were either unfamiliar with or indifferent to the remaining names.

Ten persons said they would vote only for Hannon, seven only for Tobin, five only for Saphir, two only for LaRaia and two only for Delahunt.

Eighty-eight persons expressed a fourth-choice. The per centage break down:

- Delahunt, 30.7 per cent.
- Saphir, 28.4 per cent.
- Tobin 14.8 per cent.
- Hannon, 13.6 per cent.
- LaRaia, 12.4 per cent.

Ninety-one selected a fifth choice. The per centage break down:

- Saphir, 33 per cent.
- Hannon, 27.5 per cent.
- Delahunt, 14.3 per cent.
- Tobin, 13.3 per cent.
- LaRaia, 12.1 per cent.

Together, LaRaia and Saphir polled a total of 32.5 per cent first choice votes and 30.6 per cent second choice. Most political observers believe that if either were to win the nomination in the preliminary election, he or she would pick up most of the other's votes in the final election to become a strong anti-establishment candidate.

Of the 55 persons who made Hannon their first choice, 23 picked Tobin as their second choice, 10 selected Delahunt, eight LaRaia and four Saphir. Ten voted for Hannon only.

The 52 giving Tobin their first choice, split the majority of their second-place votes between Hannon and LaRaia. Hannon got 19 of them and LaRaia 14. Delahunt received 11 of them and Saphir only one. Seven voted for Tobin alone.

The 38 persons who cast their first-choice vote for LaRaia, divided their second-choice vote this way: Tobin [14], Hannon [10], Saphir [9], Delahunt [3]. Two voted for LaRaia alone.

The 27 who chose Saphir as their number one candidate sprinkled their second-choice votes thusly: LaRaia [8], Hannon [6], Delahunt [5], Tobin [3]. Five voted only for Saphir.

The 11 Delahunt voters gave these second-choice votes: Tobin [3], LaRaia [3], Hannon [2] and Saphir [1]. Two voted only for Delahunt.

The Sun's poll, of course, indicates how an election might go today if all five names were on the ballot.

Campaigning and events between now and the preliminary and final elections next fall could change the picture considerably.

Mayor Hannon's showing in the poll might surprise some observers who feel that he is somewhat politically weaker than indicated here.

The poll would seem to show that Hannon is stronger among the grass roots than many people think but he definitely would have a problem trying to turn back Tobin and would find LaRaia a formidable challenger.

Election of new officers will take place Tuesday March 4 at Jimmie's Cafe, Des Moines Rd, Quincy Point. Apparent successor to Fitzgerald is Peter Svirsky, Jr. of 14 Ivy Rd, Marshfield, who is running unopposed for president.

Apparent successor to David is Thomas F. O'Brien Jr. of 19 Marshall St., Braintree who is unopposed for executive secretary.

Other unchallenged candidates for officer are Richard Shea of 47 Crawford Rd, Braintree, for vice-president, and Charles E. Ford of 10 1/2 Washington St., Plymouth, for treasurer.

Five candidates seek three trustee posts. Nominees are: Wilbert Bertrand, 32 Broadway, Quincy Point, William Coughlin, 122 Robinson Ave., South Attleboro, Paul DelMonico, 9 Belmont St., North Quincy, Richard Gilmore, 307 Old Oaken Bucket Rd, Norwell and William Maconochie, 91 River St., North Weymouth.

A reception honoring Fitzgerald and David will be held Thursday, Feb. 20 at the Adams Heights Men's Club, Bower Rd, Quincy Point.

Fitzgerald assumed the office of acting president of the Local upon the death of Charles Johnston Aug. 11. He began his association with the Quincy shipyard in 1941 when it was owned by Bethlehem Steel Co. He worked as a piece work counter and was elected in 1946 as a delegate in the Industrial Union of Fore River Workers.

In 1951, the Industrial Union affiliated with the AFL-CIO, becoming the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, Local 90. Fitzgerald served as vice-president of Local 90 from 1951-1957. Serving also as negotiator, shop steward and a member of the Grievance Committee. He was elected president in 1957, serving until 1971.

Two years later, Fitzgerald was re-elected vice-president and became acting president in August 1974, at the death of then-president Charles Johnston.

Fitzgerald predicts "a brilliant and promising future" for General Dynamics, given its recent contract for repair work on the USS Raleigh and work on Liquefied Natural Gas tankers.

"General Dynamic's future should be promising for a good number of years," said Fitzgerald.

David has been executive secretary of Local 90 since 1971.

David worked at Bethlehem Steel as a surveyor from 1930 to 1932, returning in 1942.

Serving as vice-president of the Industrial Union of Fore River Workers from 1945-1951, David was elected first president of the newly-formed AFL-CIO Local 90 and served as president until 1957.

David was a management supervisor at Bethlehem Steel until it closed in December of 1963. He was hired by General Dynamics, the new owner of the Quincy Shipyard, in June 1964 as a radiographer. Chairman of the Grievance Committee in 1969, David also served as shop steward of 851 department.

David said General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard is now in the position "to compete with anyone else" and has a future that is "excellent at this particular time."

Both men have travel plans. Fitzgerald says he wants "to take it easy, travel and do gardening." He and his wife Edith live at 35 Russell Rd, South Weymouth. They have two children, Paul in California, and Arthur in Halifax.

David and his wife Mary have plans for a Caribbean cruise and a thorough tour of the United States. The Davids have two children, James in Shrewsbury and Sandra in Cambridge. They also have four grandchildren. The Davids have homes in Mashpee and on Cape Cod.

Unless you can see into the future, shouldn't you start saving for it?

Now more than ever you need to save. Starting the savings habit isn't hard at all. All you have to do is set aside a certain part of your budget each month. When you deposit a little regularly your money will grow amazingly fast. And you'll have a good feeling knowing you have money for emergencies or perhaps a new home, vacation or education.

Norfolk offers six convenient ways to help you save. Each pays interest at the highest rates we are permitted to pay under current regulations. By selecting the right savings plan, you can combine the most advantageous rate of return with the method best suited to your individual needs. You can have a savings account that allows you to make deposits or withdrawals anytime yet pays interest every day. Or for money you can put away for a while, a special notice account pays even higher interest. Or for still higher rates of interest you may want to place your money in any one of several thrift certificates.

Now is the time to invest your money in a Norfolk savings plan. Stop in at any of our 33 convenient offices. You'll find our pleasant, knowledgeable staff ready to help you protect your future with a savings plan that's right for you.

Suomi, Smith and Quarry Sts. It is a cooperative effort between the highway and park departments to give to the neighborhoods a play area for children amidst pleasant surroundings, Ricciuti said.

Ricciuti said the city received approximately 1,000 tons of granite blocks, at no charge, from the South Station demolition contractor.

The city has made use of several hundred tons of granite blocks already on a wall to retain the slope on an access road to the Quincy disposal facility, he said, and hopes to utilize other pieces in future city projects.

Mother-in-law brews trouble in kitchen

By PAT and MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I have been married for six months and miserable for four of them. The reason I have a nervous headache is my mother-in-law. She drops by frequently just before dinner and barges into the kitchen to help.

She insists that I bake fresh bread and use only fresh vegetables. I realize that this is the way she prepares food, but her constant criticisms and digging remarks are killing me. Last night she marched in without knocking and announced that she would cook dinner. She informed me that after six months of marriage she was an excellent cook and that I wasn't doing so well.

I've spoken to my husband but he doesn't seem to understand. What can I do?

No Chef

Dear Chef:

For starters — keep your door locked. You can also solve part of your problem by suggesting that your mother-in-law give you a cooking lesson once a week and stress ONCE. The rest of the time your kitchen is off limits as far as she is concerned. Tell her to call before she comes to see you. If she insists on dropping in, don't answer the door.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

People tell me that I'm pretty but I am very thin. My mother tries to convince me that being on the thin side is fashionable, but I don't consider it attractive to have bones sticking out everywhere. I am 16 years old, 5 ft. 6 in. tall, and on a heavy day I weigh 100 lbs.

I've tried drinking malted milks, eating rich foods, and lots of desserts. All this does is give me a bad complexion. The boys don't look at me because I look like a telephone pole. I have no figure and no sex appeal. My clothes hang on me. Is there any help?

Scarecrow

Dear Scarecrow:

Have your family doctor give you a complete physical. If he finds nothing wrong, he can suggest a good diet that may add pounds without sacrificing nutrition. In the meantime, don't concentrate on your weight. Brooding and unhappiness only enlarges the problem. Your school mates will gravitate toward a happy, friendly person.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I haven't had a decent night's sleep for a week. It has been miserable, and all because of my brother. I think he has been drinking. He comes home late from football games and school dances and goes right to his room. I've heard him get sick almost every night. The group he goes with is pretty wild and I am very worried.

Last night I asked him about this and he refused to answer. He stays in his room Saturdays until he is ready to go out. How can I help him? He is only 16.

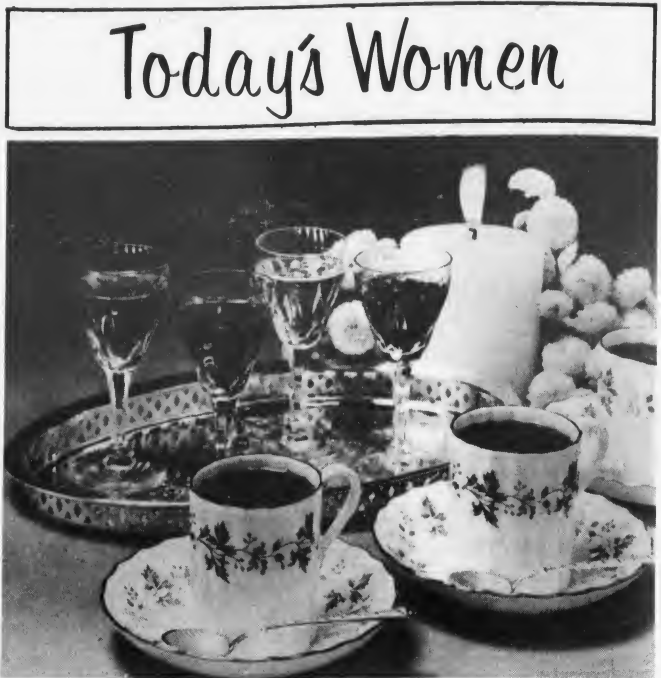

Worried

Dear Worried:

Tell your parents what you have told me. The number of teenage drinkers is on the rise. Speak to your parents at once.

CORDIAL SERVICE — Coffee and cordials featuring flavored instant coffees are an intriguingly different finale for a dinner.

COOKING CORNER

Serve drinks as desserts

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

The drink can be a dessert and the dessert a drink — depending on how coffee is served.

At a recent party a variety of flavored instant coffees were served as the dessert course. There was a parfait accented with mint-flavored coffee and coffees laced with cognac and liqueurs with toppings of whipped cream and slivers of lemon peel. Others were paired with creme de menthe and chocolate.

Even those who ordinarily by-pass desserts were intrigued into partaking.

At your next party you might like to serve one or several of these coffee-based creations as the dessert offering.

In small bowl and stir until sugar and coffee are dissolved. In chilled parfait glass, starting with ice cream, alternate one scoop of ice cream and 1 tablespoon of coffee sauce. Top with sweetened whipped cream and sprinkle with grated chocolate or chocolate curls.

COMFORT CORDIAL

1½ level tsp. (or individual serving packet) orange and spice flavored instant coffee
2 tsp. sugar
½ cup boiling water
1 tsp. Southern Comfort

In coffee cup, combine coffee and sugar; stir in boiling water and liqueur. If desired, garnish with lemon peel. Individual serving.

1 pint coffee ice cream
1 pint mint chocolate chip ice cream
1 pint vanilla ice cream

Combine first 4 ingredients

CAFE GRASSHOPPER

1 level tsp. (or individual serving packet) Chocolate-flavored coffee
1½ tsp. sugar
¾ cup boiling water
1 tsp. creme de menthe
1 tsp. heavy cream

In coffee cup, combine coffee and sugar; stir in boiling water, creme de menthe and heavy cream. If desired, serve with a peppermint stick. Individual serving.

CAFE SUNSET

1½ level tsp. (or individual serving packet) apricot-flavored instant coffee
½ cup boiling water
¾ tablespoons orange flavored liqueur

In coffee cup, dissolve coffee with boiling water; add liqueur and stir. If desired, sprinkle with grated lemon peel.

CAFE NAPOLEON

1½ level tsp. (or individual serving packet) orange and spice flavored instant coffee

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — The domestic area is very rewarding now. Beautify your home with the support of mate and children. You could make a decision regarding determination to reach a goal. Don't spend money on luxuries now.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Don't interfere in a "battle" that does not concern you. If a visitor tries your patience, don't lose your cool — benefits will come as a result. Romantic affairs are cause for concern but be loving and trusting.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Evaluate carefully your anger or disappointment regarding a broken romance. It is your pride that is hurt — not your heart. Seek the company of people who are purposeful and structured. Show gratitude to others.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — It's probably better not to make changes now. Let the old world take another turn and things will automatically change. Tighten your purse-strings — don't lend or spend on others. Envy could surround you at work.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Financial matters require concentration. Don't go into debt and pay outstanding bills promptly. Protect savings and deal very ethically. Spend wisely — don't horde. Not the time to frequent places with indiscreet reputations.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Your energy appears low — don't push yourself. Be helpful and congenial in all forms of communication. Be helpful and supportive to a relative facing a physical problem. Think before you speak this week.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — When you feel dissatisfied at work, exert patience and just do your job. Later in the week things start looking up. Use your decorative ability on home projects. Make a list of your objectives and take them one at a time.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Be discreet and realistic in romance. You could "sell yourself" on someone glamorous but unreal. Listen to advice from older, wiser heads. Set up a savings program and stick to it. Lay out a year's plan of action.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Realistically evaluate another person before becoming romantically involved — you could be taking a rosy view. Be discreet — don't lay yourself open to scandal. Be practical about furniture buying, etc.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Things are looking up regarding career earnings. You should feel happy and fulfilled at work — realize your worth and value. Romance is not especially favorable now, so concentrate on work success.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Emotional problems may require a rest and recuperation period. Resist depressive moods and know that future happiness in romance awaits you. Seek one who puts no pressures on you, is kind and uncritical.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Don't be unduly influenced by disapproval of others about your recent behavior. Live your own life remembering not everyone can like you. Accent is now on career instead of romance or social activities.

Bob Newhart — 'analyst' analyzed

By JOANNE B. ROMINE
Copley News Service

BOB NEWHART

Let's turn the tables on Bob Newhart (who weekly analyzes friends and patients on his TV show) and probe the inner depths of his psyche. Bob truly does possess a desire to draw others out, to share thoughts and feelings, to explore the heights and depths of emotion. His desire to understand others is an aid to better understanding of himself.

He is a conservative person for the most part, and will only open up and discuss his innermost feelings when it can be a "sharing experience" with other people actively involved. Outside of this type of situation, he is reluctant to discuss his personal feelings and can, indeed, become inscrutable. He is a warm, responsive person who can literally experience with friends and loved ones their joys and sorrows.

He is gentle, tender and sensitive, easily hurt by criticism. However, his desire for independent thinking far outweighs his sensitivity. So once he has made a decision to take action, he will proceed with or without the support and approval of others.

He has a capacity to quickly appraise facts, sift, sort and analyze information thus quickly bringing him to a point where he can offer good sound advice, or take positive, constructive action.

Because of this quick mental processing, it may appear to others that he is jumping to conclusions or acting on impulse. Such is not the case. He is not an impulsive person, nor is he inclined to make snap decisions.

The negative traits in his writing are minor, but do, nonetheless, influence the total personality. Being intensely emotional he is incapable of just shrugging things off. Influenced by the circumstances, he experiences the heights and the depths of emotion. When he is happy he is exhilarated. When he feels low, life may temporarily become a bottomless pit. In this frame of mind he is almost impossible to communicate with.

Add to this mood the mild defiance in his personality, and we then understand why, at times, this charming man can be most difficult.

One of the most outstanding characteristics about Bob, is his magnificent sense of humor, which, when activated can encompass all people and all things, including the ability to laugh at himself.

Fans can write to him in care of: The Bob Newhart Show, CBS-TV, 51 West 52nd Street, New York, New York 10019.

Tips For The Older Driver

About 8 1/2 million, or nearly 8% of all U.S. drivers are over the age of 65. More than one million of these older drivers were involved in motor accidents last year. Here are some suggestions for older drivers to consider:

If your eyes do not adjust well to night driving, limit your driving to the day time. If your hearing is not quite as keen as it used to be, you will need to be especially alert. Keep your window cracked open and your radio down. If you get tired easily, take only short trips. If emergency situations and heavy traffic frighten or confuse you, avoid driving during rush hours. Driving requires complete attention. On long drives, take frequent rest periods or change drivers regularly. Use seat belts EVERY TIME you ride.

Recognize that certain medications may make you an unsafe driver temporarily. Ask your doctor if any medication might make you sleepy or dizzy or blur your vision. If the answer is "Yes" or even "Possibly" don't drive while using them.

Too many drivers drink too much

Seven per cent of licensed drivers drink too much, accounting for nearly 30,000 traffic deaths each year, says the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Walter Carroll Honored By Knights Of Columbus

Walter H. Carroll, past grand knight of the Knights of Columbus, Quincy Council, was honored recently at a testimonial dinner held by the Council at the Neighborhood Club.

A member of the Quincy Council since 1934, Carroll has served as financial secretary for 34 years.

The Council paid tribute to Carroll as a man who mirrored and lived the four founding principles of the Knights of Columbus. Grand Knight Frank Rusconi said:

"The Knights of Columbus...was founded on four sound and basic principles - Charity, Unity, Fraternity and Patriotism. Our guest of honor, Past Grand Knight Walter H. Carroll, has most ably and amply exemplified these principles in his fraternal and friendly life."

"It is because of this that we salute you, Walter, on this memorable occasion, while still financial secretary of the Quincy Council after well over 30 years of consecutive faithful service in this central office. We all wish for you, with God's help, continued good health and great happiness 'ad multos annos.'"

Toastmaster was Laurence J. Curtin, past grand knight and chairman of the committee planning the tribute.

Following an invocation by Quincy Council Chaplain Rev. Joseph J. Downey, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Clancy performed the National Anthem.

Greetings were extended by Fr. Downey, Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Rev. John J. Tierney, pastor of St. John's Church, Joseph Arena, Mass. state deputy of the Knights of Columbus and Michael B. Faherty, Mass. past state deputy of the Knights of Columbus.

Guest speaker was Bishop Joseph F. Maguire, auxiliary bishop of Boston and former pastor of St. John's.

Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin and Grand Knight Frank J. Rusconi presented Carroll with plaques and citations honoring his 40 years of service to the Knights of Columbus.

Benediction and the singing of God Bless America closed the evening's tribute.

Members of the planning committee included Rusconi, Curtin, Philip L. York, secretary; Paul H. Grant, treasurer; Past Grand Knight Malachy M. Creaven, coordinator; Past Grand Knight Nicholas M. Cristiani; Past Grand Knight Vincent A. Cristiani; Albert A. Dellorano.

Past Grand Knight William T. Glynn; Past Grand Knight Alfred G. Helrich; Gerald M. Kelly; Past Grand Knight Philip A. LaBrecque; Past Grand Knight Thomas G. Morgan; Frank M. Reed; and Past Grand Knight Norman C. Thorburn.

Former 'Kings, Queens' To Attend Valentine Dance

Former Quincy Senior Citizens "King and Queen of Hearts" are expected to attend the fifth annual Valentine Dinner Dance to be held Friday, Feb. 4.

The reigning "King and Queen of Hearts 1975" will be selected during the evening from those in attendance.

Past "King and Queen of Hearts" will participate in the crowning ceremonies. The event is sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department under the direction of Mrs. Marion Andrews, Director of Senior Citizens Activities. The event will be held at the Fore River Clubhouse. A social hour will be held at 5:30 p.m. followed by a chicken pie supper at 6:30 p.m. and dancing from 8 to 11 p.m.

The crowning ceremonies will be held following the dinner.

Gifts will be presented to the selectees. Tickets are available at the Recreation Department Office in the Kennedy Health Center, Senior Citizens Housing Units and Club Presidents. Transportation will be provided.

The event, one of the most popular social activities for Senior Citizens, attracted more than 225 persons last year. Other special features are being planned for the dinner-dance.

Mothers Of Twins Grandmothers' Night Feb. 10

The South Shore Mothers of Twins Club will hold its annual Grandmothers' Night on Feb. 10 at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Chauncy St., South Weymouth.

Cocktails at 7 p.m. will precede the family style roast beef supper to be served at 7:30 p.m. The program for the evening will feature the Morgan Memorial Goodwill Fashion Show. The hour long presentation features styles from the 1850's through today's minis and maxis.

Reservations for members, grandmothers and guests must be made by Feb. 3 with Chairman Mrs. Joseph Keenan of Weymouth or Co-Chairman Mrs. Walter Goodspeed of Braintree.

LeLeche League To Meet In Wollaston

LaLeche League of Quincy will hold the first meeting of the four-part series Feb. 4 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Eugene Steeves, 91 Farrington St., Wollaston.

The name, LaLeche, is Spanish and means "the milk." The group is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization of mothers, offering education and encouragement to women who wish to breastfeed their babies.

All women interested in nursing are invited. Meetings are informal and all questions are encouraged. Nursing babies are always welcome.

Fontbonne Juniors Presented Rings

Eileen O'Malley, president of the student body and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William V. O'Malley of 78 Andrews Rd., Wollaston, addressed the Class of 1976, asking them to accept their rings as external evidence of their love and devotion to Fontbonne ideals.

Bernadette Green, vice-president of the student body, and Miss O'Malley both presented the junior class members with their rings.

Joan Kelleher, secretary of the Student Council and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kelleher of 135 Beach St., Wollaston, traced the history of rings, telling the audience that West Point was the first school in the U.S. to use class rings.

Guest speaker during the ring ceremony was Rev. Robert J. Boyle, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Charlestown, who told the students:

"Know yourself. Accept your talents and abilities as they are. Don't spend your life fleeing from them."

The ceremony concluded with the reading of the Alma Mater.

ENGAGED - Mr. and Mrs. Edward Russo of Quincy announce the engagement of their daughter, Michelle, to Gary C. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene P. Moore of Quincy. Legal Secretaries Hear Talks On 'Persecution-Prosecution'

At the January meeting of the Norfolk County Legal Secretaries Association at the Canton House, Stoughton, Atty. David Kenefick and Atty. and Asst. Dist. Atty. John P. Connor Jr., both of Norwood, spoke on "Persecution/Prosecution".

Kenefick, a public defender at Dedham District Court, gave the members an idea of what would be expected of them, as secretaries, and of their attorney employers in defending a criminal case.

Connor touched both on the prosecution of a criminal case and certain pleadings that should be filed in the Superior Court in such a case.

It was announced at the meeting that the group trip to Bermuda had been cancelled and, instead, the group trip is being planned to the Canary Islands in April. Anyone wishing further information regarding this tour may contact Mrs. Susan Sonenshein, PLS, at the offices of Attorneys Kafka, Kaufman, Kafka & Kafka in Sharon at 828-3111.

The next meeting of the chapter will be a silent auction at The Hollow, 516 Adams St., Quincy, Tuesday, Feb. 18. Anyone interested in further information regarding membership may contact Mrs. Sheila Gill at the offices of Howard & Clancy in Dedham at 329-3990.

Onions: A Savings With Tears

Onions, the multi-purpose vegetable, will be in plentiful supply throughout January.

The tears you shed peeling onions will not be over the price, because they will be on the top of the Best Buy list.

When purchasing onions look for those that are well shaped and have skin dry enough to crackle. Other signs of quality are thin necks and bright hard bulbs.

Do not store onions near potatoes because the moisture from the potatoes is absorbed by onions.

Your nutritive intake has been easier to count because of a system devised by the Department of Agriculture called the Recommended Dietary Allowance or the R.D.A.

This nutritive information is listed on most packaged foods. The R.D.A. is based on a person weighing 125 pounds, so, if you weigh 170 pounds, you need 35 percent more protein and if you weigh 100 pounds, you need 20 percent less protein than the person weighing 125 pounds. Females and males weighing the same require the same amount of protein.

Beef and other red meats are an excellent source of protein. We consume 116 pounds of beef per year.

"Give us any book . . . we'll give you 'Everyday Interest' "

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox Personal Counselor

'Not Just Getting Along'

"Frank and I just aren't getting along" ... said Nancy. "We fight all the time ... the tension is awful ... and the children are getting more affected. Our daughter's wetting the bed ... and the boy is always cranky. I know it's because we're always fighting." Nancy paused ... took out a cigarette. I held out my lighter. Frank sat, half turned away from Nancy, puffing his cigarette in an attitude of the accused ... and engaged in a "cover-up" operation. He was "stonewalling".

"How do you see the situation?" I asked Frank. "I don't see anything so wrong" ... he replied. Silence. It was obvious that Frank wasn't intending to be very cooperative in the counseling. In fact ... he had come under duress. Nancy had given him the choice ... "We go to the counselor or I go to a lawyer". She intended this to be the last stop before the divorce court.

The problem was that he was rigid and selfish. He had never learned "to get along" with people. He was true to his early life ... a hard man for a father who was abusive to his wife and children. Frank had never learned to love ... either himself or anyone else. Hence ... his rigid adjustments.

I pointed out they had three alternatives. First ... to CONTINUE THIS same running battle.

Secondly ... to TERMINATE THE RELATIONSHIP through separation and divorce.

Thirdly ... to MAKE ADJUSTMENTS. "I know of no other alternatives", I pointed out. "Do you see any other course?" Frank agreed that he didn't, and that he would like to work on the third ... the adjustment road.

They began to read ... "I'm O.K. ... You're O.K." Frank saw himself as the stern parent ... saw himself as the "Not O.K. child" as he was growing up ... saw how the negative early life was the script that he continued to follow. He began to see how much he was missing in the joys of life. He was frightened to trust anyone ... even Nancy ... even his own children. "Never trust anyone ... not even your own father" ... he had been told by his father at age seven. A life of love ... getting along with other people ... was a new way of life for him.

Frank and Nancy studied the book ... they talked about its content ... not whipping each other with its lines but making applications to themselves. Their counseling therapy was speeded up by the home therapy that they were doing. It was amazing to see the changes that took place.

One change was that they began to MAKE AGREEMENTS: Frank was now using his rigidity in a positive way ... if he made an agreement he kept it. Now Nancy knew what she could count on. Next ... Frank began to TALK ... about himself ... his own feelings ... for the first time in his life he was able to look at himself ... admit human inadequacy. He began to mellow. He learned to love. His selfish ways dropped off. At last Frank got to the point where he could laugh at his former selfish ways ... and couldn't do enough to try to make up to Nancy for the hurts of the past.

"People can change" ... said Chapter 4. If Frank ... as rigid as he was can change, anyone can change. But not because someone else wants you to change. You must want to yourself.

MAKING THE GRADE

Any kid loves a lunch break, including Jamie.

Jamie gets a helpful hand in clay modeling from teacher's aide James Tomco.

How do you remember your first years of school? As a time of play, dabbling in brightly colored paper and paste, learning the three R's?

Whatever memories stir in you, they won't be quite the same as for nine-year-old Jamie Weaver.

You see, Jamie was born without eyes and wears artificial plastic ones. She is one of about 250,000 children afflicted every year in this country with a birth defect. But that doesn't keep her from an active day in her public school special education class in her home town of Spokane, Washington.

Jamie, who is in third grade this year, is the 1975 March of Dimes National Poster Child. Here she gives a glimpse of what a typical school day can be like for an un-daunted blind child.

3 Major Questions On Quincy Political Front

But The Sun's poll doesn't agree with this.

Those who claim to have seen the results of the LaRaia poll also say they show Rep. William Delahunt lacking in voter identification, but Grace Saphir looking "pretty good".

But, it must be stressed, the LaRaia poll readings are all unconfirmed and also, at this point anyway, a matter of interpretation.

Meanwhile, the rumor mill has Mayor Hannon being given a new post to get him out of the race so the so-called establishment could put its money and full support behind Delahunt.

One which is really an old rumor exhumed is director of the new Wollaston Golf Club Recreation Center at a salary of $25,000.

Right now, that would seem highly unlikely. The job, listed in the county budget, calls for a salary of only $11,800 and there is no county appointee making over $21,000 today.

The job will be filled by the county commissioners—all three of whom are Democrats. They aren't about to give it to Republican Hannon.

And if his two colleagues tried to do that, it would be over Commissioner George McDonald's dead body. Hannon backed Clifford Marshall for Norfolk County Sheriff over McDonald.

A better bet would be that McDonald would wind up with the Wollaston post if the salary got to be somewhat higher.

Whether Walter Hannon would step aside in favor of Delahunt remains to be seen. He's a pretty scrappy guy and far from being a quitter. He might just be stubborn enough to stay in there and battle for his job.

But even he would have to admit—privately at least—that the Democratic forces of James Richard McIntyre put him into the mayor's office three years ago. And, they could pull the rug from under him.

He reportedly has sold his tire company. So if he does not get an appointment and if he should lose this fall, he could join the growing ranks of the unemployed he is now trying to help.

However, a new rumor making the rounds is that he could get a top executive job in one of the local banks.

It would take as estimated $35,000 or so for LaRaia, Delahunt, Tobin or Saphir to run an effective mayoralty campaign against an incumbent.

Tobin would have no trouble raising the amount if he announces. Delahunt would not have much trouble getting up the money either. LaRaia could have problems along that line. So would Saphir.

Hannon, if he decides to make another run for it, could get the money. He has strong supporters in the business community.

An indication that Tobin is closer to announcing is the fact that he is upset over a letter that appeared in the Letter Box in last week's Quincy Sun.

The letter was written by Angelo Capone of 60 Rodman St., and it criticizes Tobin charging that "Tobin's only reason for running is to keep Joe LaRaia from becoming Quincy's next mayor."

Tobin and his followers are miffed not only at the contents of the letter but over the fact that Capone is related to LaRaia.

Well, the relationship seems to be that Capone is LaRaia's wife's uncle by marriage. LaRaia confirms that.

Capone, as far as The Sun is concerned, has a right to write a letter even if he were LaRaia's father. So has Tobin's relatives or anyone else's.

Capone referred to an article in The Sun's Jan. 16 issue which accurately quoted Tobin as saying he was "doing some soul searching about running for mayor". It also quoted him as saying: "If I feel the city is not going in the right direction, I think I would run. I do not want to see Quincy going backward".

The article said that some political observers would translate that to mean if Tobin thought LaRaia would defeat Hannon this year, he [Tobin] would get into the race.

Capone, in his letter, said "it seems quite clear to all who read the article that Councillor Tobin's only reason for running is to keep Joe LaRaia from becoming Quincy's next mayor."

Tobin's response is: "I never personally attack an opponent and I run for mayor I would campaign on the issues. I never said I would run to keep Joe LaRaia from becoming mayor." (And he never did)

But around political circles the feeling is that LaRaia's candidacy would be a—if not the—major factor in Tobin's decision whether to run.

Observers believe that if polls indicate LaRaia could beat Hannon and Delahunt this year, Tobin will run for mayor.

Speculation that former Mayor McIntyre might return to the mayoralty ring now seems far-fetched. He hasn't lost his political charisma since becoming Senate counsel. They still cluster around him at any political or social function.

He has toyed with the idea from time to time. When the LaRaia inspired Cemetery Department probe was making headlines, he was seriously thinking of coming back "to set the record straight".

And in the past few months he has even asked friends what they thought about him running again. The reaction was good.

But deep down inside, McIntyre does not want to be mayor again. He's had that fish-bowl life. He prefers to be home with his family and play his still powerful political role—behind the scene.

There's no doubt he would beat LaRaia as he did some years back. Tobin could probably beat LaRaia too.

The question is can Hannon or Delahunt? If it is felt neither can, Tobin, most observers believe, will be "drafted".

5 Spring Courses At QJC Women's Center

Five spring semester courses are now in progress at the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College.

"The Roles of Women in Society", taught by Claire Ostema, meets on Tuesdays from 7-9 p.m. Topics discussed include women's work and economic status, women in other societies and the modern women's movement.

"Career Guidance for the Mature Women", meets Wednesdays from 7-9 p.m. Taught by Catherine Lang Fitzgerald, employment counselor at Mass. Division of Employment Security, the course is geared for the adult woman who has been unemployed for a number of years due to family responsibilities and is now free to explore opportunities in education or employment. The program includes group discussions, guest speakers and counseling.

Kathy O'Donnell, co-chairwoman of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, is teaching the course, "Women in Politics and Government" which meets Thursdays from 7-9 p.m. The course takes the form of a study group examining and discussing the impact of the women's movement on American politics. "Feminist Look at Women's Fiction", taught by Ann Kautzman, meets Wednesdays from 7-9 p.m. The course examines novels and stories written by authoresses, and students discuss topics such as growing up female, relationships with men, freedom, madness, motherhood, love, fantasy, creativity and marriage.

The final course, "Body and Mind Awareness", is taught by Lauri Handel. The course teaches the techniques of Natha Yoga, Zen meditation, biogenetics, modern dance and open encounter. The course emphasizes personal growth through breaking the patterns of mind or body tightness.

The courses run for 10 and 15 weeks. Tuition fees vary for residents and non-residents of Quincy.

Letter Box

Half A Loaf Too Big

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Agreed. The proposed NQHS is "half a loaf". But even that is indigestibly too big. It's more than we need for Quincy children. And more than we can afford, regardless of state reimbursement. [We pay our share of state taxes, too.]

Quincy is notorious for its "Piemen" and Massachusetts for its half-baked products from the political "Bakery", which sells taxpayers inedible crumbs.

This very year, a la Marie Antoinette, Quincy will force her citizens to eat birthday cake, when many hunger for daily bread in return for work.

We can be proud of Quincy's history, only if our present government is based on the consent of the governed. Pride demand the continuing responsibility of good citizenship.

The fourth estate also shares responsibility for Quincy's continuing pride [other than promoting dead Presidents and projects for Quincy, Heritage, Inc.] Standards of public behavior must be maintained by watchdog barking. New lows are achieved when there is a lack of reliable press coverage.

The January 17th City Council meeting, regarding NQHS, was a disgusting side show-circus spectacle. That it could continue for about three hours, is partly the result of political domination of the news media.

It's true that we get the government we deserve. Very few voters were at that meeting. It was scheduled on a Friday at 5:30 P.M. to promote apathy.

School Committee meetings need watching, too. Millions of tax dollars are squandered without fair accounting to the public. If we don't care, why should the politicians? They should be our servants, yet we allow them to act like extravagant military officers.

Hopefully, 1975 may be the year for cleaner government in Quincy. It's never too late to mend. But, it is later than we think—unless of course, ALL of US wish to be fooled, ALL of the time!

Louise Hatch Meservey

A 'Thank You' From The Red Cross

Editor, Quincy Sun:

The Greater Quincy Red Cross wishes to thank the Quincy Sun and its staff for the excellent publicity given this past year. Without this kind of service many of the projects undertaken in the chapter would not have been the success they were.

As Chapter Chairman I wish to extend to you and the staff of the Quincy Sun a year of Happiness, Prosperity and Good Health.

Question Of Week

Parental Consent Needed For Medical Treatment?

A young caller recently asked one of the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone volunteers whether a person under age 18 could legally obtain medical treatment in Massachusetts without parental consent.

The VIPhone staffer told him that state laws specifically permit doctors to treat minor patients for venereal disease for drug abuse without notifying or obtaining consent from parents or guardians.

Confidential treatment is available both from public health clinics and from private physicians.

The legal status of other kinds of medical treatment is usually not spelled out in the law. For example, contraceptive advice and treatment for minors is neither permitted nor prohibited by state statutes.

Some clinics and private physicians will give birth control information and treatment to young people without parental consent.

The state's new abortion law requires that young women under age 18 have written consent from both parents to undergo the procedure of terminating pregnancy.

This question is one of the many now being received by the League of Women Voters Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIPhone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

'An Insult To City Government'

Davidson, Lydon Oppose Zoning Variance At Wollaston Apartment

Two city officials strongly oppose the granting of a zoning variance which they claim would "legalize bootleg apartment" already constructed on land presently zoned for a four-unit apartment complex on Elmwood Ave., Wollaston.

In a letter to John J. McKenna, chairman of the Quincy Board of Appeals, Geoffrey Davidson, director of planning and community development, and Ward 3 Councilor John J. Lydon Jr., said Keene Family Trust, owner of the 8,196 square-foot lot on Elmwood Ave., knew a variance was required to build a sixth addition on land zoned for four-unit apartment since they received in 1970 a variance to build a fifth addition at that site.

insult to city government, our laws and the Board of Appeals". Davidson and Lydon said:

"For our zoning laws to have meaning [and respect] they must be strictly enforced."

Donald R. Keene of Keene Family Trust has applied for a permit to construct the already-built studio unit to the existing five-apartment dwelling located at 17-23 Elmwood Ave. The hearing will come before the Quincy Board of Appeals Tuesday, Feb. 4.

Brett Opposes Billings Rd. For Police Sub-Station

Rep. Joseph Brett has urged Mayor Walter J. Hannon to reconsider carefully his plan to locate the proposed North Quincy police sub-station in a privately-owned vacant store at 115 Billings Rd.

Two weeks ago, Brett suggested that Hannon consider locating the new sub-station at the North Quincy Fire Station on Hancock St. in the interest of economy.

He called it "unreasonable" to use taxpayers' money to rent sub-station headquarters when suitable space is available in a public building.

In a second letter to Hannon, Brett said that the use of taxpayers' money to remodel and renovate privately-owned property could - and in his opinion would - be declared illegal.

He also criticized the Mayor's proposed Billings Rd. location for its lack of off-street parking facilities for vehicles to be located there.

"This could tend to create an unsatisfactory and aggravating traffic situation in the immediate area," he said.

Brett also said public safety could benefit from the consolidation of the police and fire fighting personnel in one area. He wrote the Mayor:

"I believe a survey of the North Quincy Fire Station will convince you, as it has me, that adequate space is available there for use by a relatively small contingent of police personnel and motor vehicles to be located there."

4 Quincy Businessmen Re-elected Tourist Council Officers

Four Quincy business executives were recently re-elected as officers and directors of the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council.

They are, Vice-President Robert T. Mahoney, Assistant Treasurer at SSB Realty, Inc.; Treasurer Eric M. Swider, Executive Vice-President South Shore Chamber of Commerce; Directors William A. O'Connell, Vice-President Quincy Historical Society, and Dale A. Pedersen, Marketing Officer South Shore

National Bank.

Edward W. Owens, Jr. of Weymouth, President of the organization, said the Council is seeking additional members to help further enhance the progress of Norfolk County in economic, cultural and historic development.

Owens said financial aid is available to the 28 communities in Norfolk County and to all non-profit organizations for promotion of qualifying projects.

COOPERATIVE PLAN - Kendall D. Doble, Jr., (right) president of Pneumatic Scale Corporation signs working agreement with Kevin O'Malley, Quincy Vocational-Technical School senior, as his father, James, looks on. Standing are Laurence H. Babin, director of the school and Bernard A. Dodd, coordinator of Metals and Machine Division at the school.

First Cooperative Plan 6 Vocational-Technical Students Report To Work At Pneumatic Scale

Six members of the senior class at Quincy Vocational-Technical School Monday reported for work along with nearly 600 regular employees at Pneumatic Scale Corporation, North Quincy.

This is the first such education program for students in the Metals and Machine Division at the Vocational-Technical School and private industry in the community.

Students participating in this plan include: William Fitzgerald, Steve Giggey, Steve Gould, John Hanratty, Kevin O'Malley and Mike Salverio, all of Quincy.

Working arrangements and agreements with the Pneumatic Scale Corporation, the Quincy Vocational-Technical School, and the parents of the students were signed at the Pneumatic Scale Offices last Friday.

The Quincy Vocational-Technical School has been conducting an expanded vocational preparation program since 1967. Laurence H. Babin is the Director under supervision of Lawrence P. Creedon, Superintendent of Quincy Public Schools, and Maurice J. Daly, Assistant Superintendent for Occupational Education.

There are nine divisions in the Vocational-Technical program of study including: Metals and Machine Shop, Power Mechanics, Electro-Electronics, Culinary Arts, General Piping, Graphic and Commercial Art, Health Occupations, and Dental Training.

The Metals and Machine

Division is under Bernard A. Dodd as coordinator and Gerald Panarelli as a consulting instructor. The boys will alternate from 40 hours to 25 hours per week with the extra half day on short weeks to be spent at the Vocational-Technical School for related instruction.

Details of this cooperative on-the-job training schedule were arranged through the cooperation of R. J. Mantica, Vice President in charge of Manufacturing at Pneumatic Scale along with E. C. Adams, Supervisor of Parts Manufacturing and F. J. Stevenson, Supervisor of Assembly. Representing the school in the planning were Mr. Dodd and Jack B. Savits of the Vocational-Technical School's Advisory Board.

Curtain Call Theatre To Present 'Laura'

Curtain Call Theatre will present "Laura," a mystery drama, to be performed Friday and Saturday, Feb. 14 and 15, at 8 p.m. in the Central Junior High School, 538 Washington St., Braintree.

"Laura" tells of a mysterious shotgun blast which ends the life of a beautiful and celebrated young woman, and tells, too, of the search for her maniacal killer. Gradually, through the eyes of a hardened homicide detective, the audience learns of the many mysteries of Laura in her brief but exciting life.

Tickets for the play may be obtained at the door or by calling Joan Fisher at 925-3639.

BIG BIRD ON BLADES - A cast of characters from "Sesame Street" is an extra attraction in the 1975 Ice Follies, starring Janet Lynn, coming to The Boston Garden Feb. 11 for performances through Feb. 23.

Big Bird On Blades 1975 Ice Follies Skates Down Sesame Street

The Ice Follies, has added still another coup to its roster. The characters of the famed Children's Television Workshop feature "Sesame Street" are an extra addition to the 39th Edition of the Shipstads and Johnson Ice Follies, starring Miss Janet Lynn. The show opens at the Boston Garden Feb. 11 for performances through Feb. 23.

"Big Bird" will be heading a contingent that includes Oscar, Bert and Ernie. The Snuffle-upagus, Betty Lou, Grover, the Count, and, of course, the Cookie Monster. Fun is the order of the day, and the Ice Follies cast participating have had a great deal of fun doing this number.

The event is made possible by special arrangement between Ice Follies president Tom Scallen and the Children's Television Workshop producers.

Tickets for the 1975 Ice Follies are now on sale.

This happy sequence is for children - of all ages. For the first time in any ice show, Jim Henson's beloved Muppet characters take to ice skates.

ECKANKAR Lecture Tonight

An introductory talk on ECKANKAR, the path of total awareness, will be held tonight [Thursday] at the Adams Shore Branch Library, 519 Sea St.

The lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will include topics such as Karma and reincarnation, man's existence as soul, the inner and outer master and techniques in soul travel.

South Jewish Center Presenting Rock Concert

South Area Jewish Community Center has planned a February vacation program for teens, beginning Sunday, Feb. 16 with a Pre-Purim Rock Concert featuring "Saturn."

The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Temple Beth David in Canton.

The movie "The People Next Door" will be shown Monday, Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m. at Temple Beth David. The movie tells the story of two suburban families who discover their children's involvement with drugs and then face some harsh facts about themselves and their own styles of life.

The Proposition, a group of improvisational actors and actresses, will perform their new play "The Boston Tea Party" Wednesday, Feb. 19. After the play, the teens will meet with the cast, discussing with them the very special technique of improvisation.

A Beit Cafe - a coffee house - will be held Thursday, Feb. 20 at 7:30 p.m. at Temple Beth David. The Teen Department will present an Israeli and American folk group, "Andy & Maddy," as well as other surprises.

Finally, the Center will sponsor an overnight for seventh and eighth grade teens Feb. 21-22, Friday and Saturday, at Camp Grossman. The theme of the activities will be announced later.

TV MAILBAG

Priest is Courtenay's first American role

By RICK ROBERTS
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD - The TV Mailbag:

Q. Watching the recent broadcast of "I Heard the Owl Call My Name," I started wondering if Tom Courtenay had appeared on any other American television shows. Can you help? - J.M., Denver, Colo.

A. Courtenay had not appeared on American television prior to his role as the young Anglican priest in the show.

He has appeared in several films distributed here, including "Dr. Zhivago," "The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner," and "Billy Liar."

Q. How old is Captain Kangaroo? Also, how long has his show been on the air? - R.B., Phoenix, Ariz.

A. Bob Keeshan, who portrays Captain Kangaroo, is 47. He created the role which first went on television in 1955.

Keeshan has been involved in children's programs for more than a quarter of a century, beginning with the "Howdy Doody" show. He created and played the part of Clarabelle the Clown.

He also appeared in two other children's shows, "Time for Fun," and "Tinker's Workshop."

Q. What television shows did Sally Struthers appear in before she was on "All in the Family"? - L.S., Santa Monica, Calif.

A. Miss Struthers appeared in both the "Summer Brothers Smothers Show," and "The Tim Conway Comedy Hour," before being selected for the role of Gloria Bunker Stribic.

She also appeared in the movies, "Five Easy Pieces," and "The Getaway."

Delegate to the South Shore Council of Churches is Mrs. Evelyn Johnson.

Memorial: Mrs. Evelyn Johnson, Mrs. Ruth Nelson and Mrs. Hedin.

Social: From February through July 1975 are Mrs. Robert Jacobs, Miss Kruse, Mrs. Bjelf, Mrs. Louise Solander, Mrs. Ottilie Lothrop, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sylvester, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Nelson.

Social: From August through January 1976 are Mr. and Mrs. Teed, Mrs. Ellen Watts, Mrs.

Dean Schaeffer, Mrs. Eric Swanson, Mrs. Anna Jacobson, Mrs. Andersen and Mrs. Ellen Butman.

The installation of officers was held Sunday at the 10:45 morning service.

The church is celebrating its 90th Anniversary this year. This event, together with the beginning of our nation's 200th Anniversary and Bi-Centennial Celebration, will be marked significantly by the congregation. Now serving on the Historical Commission are Robert and David Day, Mrs. Richard Carlisle, Russell Sandblom, Miss Dianne Platt, Mrs. Samuel Collins and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anderson.

The church was organized June 14, 1885. The "Church on the Common" on Quarry St. was built in the Fall of 1885. In 1890 a new building was erected on Garfield St., and remodeled in 1901. Land at 99 Granite St. was purchased in 1927 and sold in 1930. That same year the land at the corner of Whitwell and Granite Streets was purchased.

Construction of the new church began April 16, 1956. The steeple was raised on Sept. 5, 1956 and the new church was dedicated on Dec. 30, 1956. The Garfield Street church was sold in Jan. 1960 and since has been dismantled.

Seventeen pastors have preceded the Rev. Kenneth P. Carlson, present pastor.

Kiwanis To Present High School Scholarships

Kenneth Hills, President of the Kiwanis Club of Quincy announces that senior high school students of all public, private and parochial schools in Quincy should check with their principals or guidance counselors for information regarding the annual New England Kiwanis Scholarship Awards.

The scholarships provide assistance for one year towards tuition and other costs in a two-year or four-year college, or a two-year technical, or a three-year nursing school of the recipient's own choice.

Basis for the awards are need, scholarship, character and leadership qualities and these awards are made to deserving young people in New England without regard to sex, race, creed, color or national origin.

Funds for these scholarships come from voluntary contributions made by individual Kiwanis members in the New England District of Kiwanis International.

Kiwanis will award 27 scholarships of $450, each.

Presidents, Raiders Tourney Hopes Dim

Although the Quincy basketball team is just about out of the running for a state tournament berth, Coach Joe Amorosino feels that in 6-5 Bill Dacey he has one of the outstanding players not only in the Suburban League but in Eastern Massachusetts.

The Presidents, 4-8, must win all their remaining games to make the tourney and with the likes of Brookline, North Quincy and Brockton coming up, it looks like an impossible task.

Quincy bowed last Friday to Weymouth North, 74-63, and Dacey continued his outstanding performances with 26 points. "I thought that Dacey again proved that he is one of the best in the league," Amorosino said. "Scoring 26 points against a team like Weymouth North is quite a feat."

Sophomore Jack Uhlar, also 6-5, had another good game and added 11 points.

Earlier in the week Dacey had a personal high of 36 points in a 75-68 loss to Waltham. He also had 19 rebounds, six steals and seven assists. "That was one hell of a game," Amorosino lauded.

Meanwhile, North Quincy, whose tourney chances looked bright two weeks ago, suffered two defeats last week and the Raiders now face a tough task to make it. They must win five of seven.

Friday, North bowed to Waltham for the second time, 66-58, as turnovers continued to hurt it. Coach Bob Nolan admitted he was disappointed in the Raiders' shooting, which has usually been good.

Steve Martinelli had a big night with 19 points, Tim Clifford had 14 and Mark Reale 10.

Earlier in the week North lost a 57-55 heartbreaker to Newton

North as it overcame a 33-22 halftime deficit to finally take the lead in the final minutes. With the score tied, 55-55, and seconds remaining, North tried to inbound the ball but Newton's John Williams intercepted and scored to win it.

For North, Clifford and Rich Mahoney had 13 points each, Martinelli 11 and Reale 10. Friday Quincy hosts Weymouth South and North is at Brookline. Next Tuesday Brookline is at Quincy and North at Brockton.

● Track

North Ties Brockton, Quincy Bows To Weymouth N.

The North Quincy track team, after a slow start, has been rolling along and last Saturday almost upset heavily-favored Brockton, one of the Eastern Mass. powers, but lost the relay and had to be satisfied with a 43-43 tie.

North is unbeaten in its last five meets and has a 3-3-1 Suburban League record and 6-3-1 overall mark.

Quincy, which has been unable to win since opening day, bowed to Weymouth North, 53-33.

Friday North will face Cambridge Latin and Quincy will meet Brockton at 6:30 p.m. and Monday North and Quincy will meet at 3:30 at Newton North, where all league meets are held.

In last week's tie with Brockton North swept the two-mile with Tex Vorrasso, Bob Levenson and Mike Morin finishing 1-2-3 in that order. Art Barrett won the mile with Bart Petracca, who has made a remarkable comeback from a serious injury early in December, returning to action and placing third.

Jerry MacKenzie won the 600 with John Mackey third, Brian Doherty won the 300, Chris Morton won the hurdles with Mike Adams third, Paul Doherty was second in the dash and third in the shot put, Ken O'Brien second and Mark Canavan third in the 1000 and Canavan second in the high jump.

North had previously upset Waltham in a league meet and Boston English in a non-league meet.

Luckless Quincy had four winners against Weymouth North, Preston Carroll in the dash, Kevin O'Brien in the mile, Bud Raftery the hurdles and Art DiLoreto the high jump.

Sacred Heart Bombs Flyers

The Sacred Heart hockey team of North Quincy bombed. Fountain's Flyers of Montclair, 12-1, Monday night at the Shea rink.

Ed DiRamo had three goals and an assist, John Masters and Bill Bent two goals and an assist each, Jim Cunniff two goals and three assists, Bill Cunniff a goal and two assists and Joe Gil and Ed Gallagher one assist each. For Montclair Steve Ryan had the only goal.

Dennis McDonough and Gary Tierney shared the goalie chores for Sacred Heart.

Sacred Heart will play St. Moritz Monday at 9 p.m. at Shea.

Announcement

In compliance with Chapter 766, the QUINCY PUBLIC SCHOOLS will conduct a SCREENING PROGRAM for the children of Quincy three and four years old.

The process involves: a parent interview, an examination of the child's health, vision, hearing, language ability, and motor skills.

Parents who believe their child has special needs that may interfere with future educational progress should notify MRS. JANET POWELL, who chairs the Pre-School Core Evaluation Team at St. John's Early Childhood Center, before March 1, 1975. She may be reached at 471-8180.

Children entering kindergarten next September are excluded from this program: they will be screened at registration time.

GD Donates $25,000 To Produce Heritage Movie On Quincy

Mayor Walter J. Hannon has received a $25,000 grant from General Dynamics for Quincy Heritage, the city's agency for the Bicentennial and 350th Anniversary of Mount Wollaston, to produce the city's first professional movie to attract tourists and new businesses to the community. In making the announcement, Mayor Hannon hailed General Dynamics' leadership in providing Quincy "with a unique tool through which we can tell our story throughout the country."

The check for $25,000 was presented to Mayor Hannon by Panagiotis Veliotis, general manager of the General Dynamics Shipyard in Quincy.

Mayor Hannon and John R. Graham and Bruce McLain of the Quincy Heritage staff met with General Dynamics officials last fall with the proposal for the

The Mayor indicated that plans are already underway for the movie. "The Quincy Heritage staff will be working with a local film production company to make sure we have a first-class film on our city," said the Mayor.

Plans call for airing the film on local television during prime-time as well as for its distribution to schools, libraries, travel agencies and developers across the United States.

Mayor Hannon said that the actual filming will take place in Quincy in the spring.

"Mr. President...

You have indicated you favor a $3 per barrel tax on imported oil. May I say that this action would be but another nail in the coffin of the already financially overburdened consumers of New England. The tax could raise oil costs to consumers of heavy industrial oil by more than $450 million per year . . . half of the increased costs would be borne directly by electric consumers . Let me reiterate my strong opposition to any tax which would cause a greater economic hardship for New England."

These are just a few of the comments from a telegram sent on January 6, 1975 by the President of your electric company to President Ford. The telegram is one small example of our continuing and aggressive effort to hold down the rising costs of making electricity.

Threaten To Delay Payments

Consumers Protest Rising Electric Bills, Industrial 'Favoritism'

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Quincy residents are being urged to attend a State House meeting Saturday to protest rising electricity bills and halt alleged industrial favored rates.

Mrs. Pat O'Brien, Quincy coordinator of Citizens Action Program on Energy, said consumers will threaten mass delayed payment of electric bills if electric companies and the DPU fail to meet their demands.

CAP-Energy is the state-wide organization protesting rising electricity bills.

CAP-Energy is organizing a pledge-card campaign in which concerned citizens vow in writing to withhold payment of an electric bill.

Mrs. O'Brien charged that proposed Massachusetts Electric rate increases are aimed at increasing company profits and not at merely building new generating plants.

She said, too, that equalization of inequitable industrial and residential rates per kilowatt hour could lower residential rates 20 per cent. Citing as an example of rate discrepancy, Mrs. O'Brien said Logan Airport pays 3.1 cents per kilowatt hour of electricity while the average Boston consumer pays 6.2 cents per kilowatt hour.

CAP-Energy also advocates the implementation of the "life-line program" soon to come before the state legislature.

Already defeated once, this program provides each individual consumer with a fixed electricity rate based on the electrical necessities in his home.

Included in this fixed rate would be an average use of appliances, television and lights.

Hannon Tells QCBPA

Downtown Needs Major Project,

Improved Traffic Flow

Improved traffic flow and a major development are needed to revitalize downtown Quincy says Mayor Walter J. Hannon.

Hannon underscored these two needs in a talk prepared for delivery as a keynote speaker at Wednesday's annual membership breakfast of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

The Mayor also stressed that "government and business must work as never before in a team effort to make 1975 a good year."

Approximately 130 Quincy center business and professional leaders were expected to attend the breakfast at the Sheraton Tara Hotel, Braintree.

Promotional activities planned by the QCBPA for the year were also outlined. Federally funded projects now being implemented to improve and help renew the Quincy center area.

Members and guests were welcomed to the breakfast by QCBPA President David Leitch of Burgin, Platter Insurance and Executive Director Jack Kerrigan.

Other new officers of the association are Bernard Reisberg, Bernie's Modern Formal Shop, vice-president; Henry Bosworth, The Quincy Sun, secretary and Jason Feldman, Jason's Luggage and Music Shop, treasurer.

In his address, Mayor Hannon said:

"When I was asked to speak here this morning to give a forecast for 1975, I had two choices. One, a doom and gloom talk to tell you how bad things are, and these are certainly not the best of times. Two, to give a rah rah speech and go out and 'win one for the Gipper' pep talk.

"Maybe something in between that would be more appropriate this morning.

"Let's start out with this hopeful idea. This administration, you businessmen and women, and this community are going to make every effort to see to it that 1975 is a good year.

"Despite all the crises of 1974, business for most of our merchants in Quincy was good! Other cities can't say that.

"Our difficult times can be beneficial if for no other reason than to make us work with each other, because the times now dictate that we need each other. Government and business must work as never before in a team effort to make 1975 a good year.

"This administration, in the past few years, has cooperated with the merchants in a variety of ways. We have made a concentrated effort to keep Quincy clean, and it is clean.

"We have supplied extra police during peak shopping times to keep the traffic moving. We must now focus on the problem of traffic movement in downtown Quincy. We must begin to solve the problem of traffic flow so that the congestion in our center can be eliminated.

"Since our very dramatic announcement of increased police protection, crime in Quincy, and especially in Quincy Center, has dropped. This is despite some rather harsh critics who said it was overplayed for publicity sake. They missed the point. When the criminal element hears that a city government is backing its police force to the fullest possible extent, they move in another direction. Our latest crime statistics prove that we took the right action at the right moment. We will continue in this effort.

MDC Rate Hike

You'll Pay $6-To-$10

More For Water This Year

Water Department Supt. Owen Eaton said the 1975 MDC water rate of $240 per million gallons of water will cost Quincy consumers over $900,000 this year, an increase of $144,000 over last year.

The $900,000 represents an estimated average $6 to $10 dollar increase on the present water bill of Quincy consumers, Eaton said.

Eaton said the cost of water in Quincy has risen nearly 100 per cent over the past two years.

The 1973 MDC water rate of $120 per million gallons of water jumped to $200 per million gallons in 1974, representing a 66.6 per cent increase for Quincy, Eaton said. The newly-announced 1975 rate of $240 per million gallons of water, a $40 increase over last year's rate, represents a 20 per cent jump in Quincy's water bill, bringing the two-year rate increase to 86.6 per cent.

Eaton said last year's water bill in Quincy totaled $760,000. This year's projected $900,000 bill represents an $144,000 increase.

The MDC said the new rate of $240 per million gallons of water represents a three-cent rise from 15 to 18 cents per 100 cubic feet or 750 gallons.

MDC Commissioner John W. Sears said increases in pumping costs, fuel oil, electricity, chlorine and "other basic necessities" dictated the $40 increase. He added that the cost of living increase granted to MDC employees coupled with Civil Service upgrading in many categories also triggered the rise.

The rate was set by a vote of the MDC commissioners following a lengthy study and a public hearing Jan. 29.

HN Council Establishes Fund For Fire Victims

Houghs Neck Community Council has established a fund to aid two homeless Houghs Neck families recently forced from their fire-gutted two-family home at 68 Parkhurst St.

Mr. and Mrs. James Choate and Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Howard evacuated their homes Dec. 31 following a two-alarm fire.

Houghs Neck Community Council President William B. Nugent said all donations will be placed in the Choate and Howard Family Fund at Presidential Co-operative Bank. He also said canisters for cash donations have been placed in Pages Pharmacy, Steele's Variety Store, Little's Package Store and Finlay's E-Z Shop, all on Sea St.

Checks for the Choate and Howard Family Fund may be deposited in these canisters or brought to Presidential Co-operative Bank, 1 Granite St., Quincy Sq.

Francis X. McCauley, bank president and a Houghs Neck resident, is serving as treasurer for the fund.

Tobin Would Make March 17 Holiday Honoring JFK

Senator-City Council President Arthur Tobin has co-sponsored and filed legislation to declare March 17 a legal state holiday in honor of late President John F. Kennedy.

Tobin said this date was chosen after eliminating May 29, Kennedy's birthday, and Nov. 22, the date of Kennedy's assassination, since both fell too close to already-existing holidays - Memorial Day and Thanksgiving Day, respectively.

March 17, celebrated as St. Patrick's Day in Suffolk County, would become a dual holiday in that county, Tobin said. All other 13 counties in the state could then celebrate John F. Kennedy Day on March 17.

Tobin said the day also seemed appropriate since the former president was of Irish descent.

The proposed bill has not yet been scheduled for a Senate hearing, Tobin said. If the bill passes, Tobin said it would then be decided when to begin observance of the holiday - in 1975 or in 1976.

Tree Planted In Honor Of Dystrophy Children

A tree planting ceremony was held recently at Robert Burns Park, Quincy Center, honoring children afflicted with muscular dystrophy in the Southern Massachusetts Chapter.

The tree was donated by Albert E. Spencer, Jr., Old Colony Landscape Service, to the Quincy Mini-Expo recently held at the Quincy Armory.

Mrs. Linda Bellinger, chairman of the Mini-Expo, said the tree was used as a dollar tree which helped raise the $700 realized from the event. The tree was then donated to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

In explaining the significance of the tree, Mrs. Bellinger said she hopes all children will be able to grow as strong and as healthy as a tree.

The public is invited. Refreshments will be served.

Mass. Electric Calls 'State Power Plants 'Cruel Hoax' On Consumer

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Massachusetts Electric Co. has labeled a projected $200 million savings promised from a change-over to state-run power plants as "a cruel hoax" on the consumer.

An act submitted to the state legislature on behalf of U.S. Congressman Michael Harrington calls for public instead of private financing and operation of new power plants in Massachusetts.

The act was drafted after over 90,000 "Consumers For Lower Electric Rates" signed an initiative petition registering their support of the creation of a Massachusetts Power Authority.

The petition claimed that a switch from private to public (i.e., state) power plants would save the Massachusetts consumer "a minimum of $200 million a year."

Speaking for Massachusetts Electric, F. Jeffrey Fleming, Jr., public affairs consultant, labeled the claimed savings "a political ploy and cruel hoax on the Massachusetts consumers." He said:

"Their campaign to date has the popular appeal of potentially lower rates. However, it is based on purely unsupported claims, incomplete and inaccurate studies...reviewed by no one, and (containing) a lot of half-truths. It is time to look at the facts."

Fleming said the claimed savings was derived from a study prepared by a firm for a Massachusetts commission studying government power. The commission, however, did not accept the study, Fleming said, because of serious errors, including "unrealistic capital structure and improper tax assumptions." The study is now being reviewed and corrected by a sub-committee, Fleming said.

Fleming said no substantial savings, if any, would occur for seven to 10 years, since the building of a new electric generating plant - which the proposed legislation advocates - takes seven to ten years. He said: "The implicit claim of immediate lower rates is a cruel hoax on the consumer."

The "Consumers For Lower Electric Rates" claim a public power authority will save money by:

- Financing all costs by selling revenue bonds carrying interest rates of 6-10 per cent, depending on tax status, instead of selling bonds, as do private companies, which carry interest rates of about 12 per cent.

- Not selling stock, as do private companies, and therefore not paying dividends to stockholders.

- Paying neither federal nor state income tax paid by private utilities.

Fleming refuted the claimed interest rate savings on bonds, saying the bonds are either tax exempt - meaning the consumer-taxpayer will foot the bill later on - or the bonds are a better risk for the investor since rate increases in the proposed public power authority plan must be automatic and immediate in order to guarantee bond holder earnings.

In contrast, Fleming noted increase requests by private companies undergo much scrutiny in public hearings and the full amount requested is seldom, if ever, granted.

Calling the claimed dividend savings "at best minimal and at worst non-existent," Fleming said if there are no investors, a government power authority would have to pay bond interest on an amount of money equal to the sum which private investors put up. According to the proponents' own calculations, this interest could cost from 6-10 per cent, depending on tax status.

Fleming also noted that many investors in private companies live in Massachusetts and therefore pay a nine per cent state income tax on their dividends. Under a public power authority, new taxes would be required, Fleming said, to make up this deficit.

Fleming acknowledged as true the non-payment of federal and state taxes on the part of a public power authority.

"This is just a tax dodge," said Fleming. "Of course, some of this decrease in federal tax payments would have to be made up by the taxpayers of Massachusetts. If the government takes over all private electric companies, the claimed savings would eventually be non-existent."

Fleming said last year, Massachusetts Electric and New England Power paid Quincy alone a total of $952,000 in taxes. He said Boston Edison paid Quincy $672,000 in taxes in 1973 and over that amount in 1974.

But a public power authority would pay no state taxes. And "The Consumers For Lower Electric Rates" claimed in their initiative proposal: "No community in Massachusetts will lose a dime of revenues because of this proposal."

Fleming called the proposed legislation "an emotional bill" triggered largely from the fuel adjustment clause which has appeared on electric bills since the advent of the energy crisis. He said, however, that the clause is "a direct pass-on to the consumer," reflecting Massachusetts Electric increases in per barrel cost of residual oil burned to produce electricity.

Fleming said pre-energy crisis cost of residual oil was three dollars per barrel. Cost has now risen to $10-11 per barrel, he said.

Critical of the state's handling of its present business, Fleming said government should stay out of the power field:

"The state has no experience in the power industry," said Fleming. "We have seen their problems with welfare and the MBTA and postal rates, and we don't feel government belongs in the power business."

$1.3 Million More Received For Black's Creek Improvements

Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly said the MDC has provided over $1.3 million to begin the second phase of intensive dredging and improvements at Black's Creek this summer.

Work will focus on recreational improvements at Caddy Park as well as safety additions on Quincy Shore Drive.

The first phase of improvements began last summer with the dredging and widening of Black's Creek.

Kelly, chairman of the City Council Public Works Committee, said the planned extensive landscaping, play facilities, lights and look-out tower will create "a fine recreational site for the area."

He noted that a small waterway and island will be recreated on the easterly side of Caddy Park so that the park will be accessible by a simple wooden bridge.

A bike way will be constructed along the inland shoulder of Quincy Shore Drive, Kelly noted, and new pedestrian signals and crosswalks will be installed at Caddy Park, Rufe's Hummock and Fanno St. In addition, a 12-foot grass median strip will be constructed in this area for both safety and beauty.

Along the beach side of Quincy Shore Drive, the MDC will build a 10-foot sidewalk and 300 feet of low-profile walk to preserve the shore frontage, Kelly added.

Calling the coming improvements important ones, Kelly said:

"We will have a safer and more attractive roadway as well as more pleasant and enjoyable recreation sites. Extensive landscaping, including 17 different types of trees, will restore a more natural quality to the area. I am quite pleased that the MDC will be moving ahead on the project this summer."

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
Something terrible happened to me this Christmas. I married my high school sweetheart in a church ceremony last August. His parents could not come to the wedding so we traveled to New York to visit them this past December. Well, I think I've fallen in love with my father-in-law. He is about five years younger than my own father and is very handsome. He and my mother-in-law have been married for 26 years but I don't think they are very happy. Not that my father-in-law said anything to me; but I could tell what he was thinking just by the way he looked at me. When my husband and I got home, there was a letter waiting for us from his father saying how much he enjoyed our visit and how happy he was to meet me. He also said he hoped we would come again. Should I tell my husband how I feel? Should I go back to New York? Should I call my father-in-law?

Mixed up

Dear Mixed Up:
Don't tell your husband. Don't return to New York. Don't phone. Write a bread-and-butter letter to both your in-laws then busy yourself with your new home. You are reading things into your father-in-law's looks and words that simply are not there. Stop your romantic fantasies and give your love and attention to your husband.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
I want to comment on the question and answer about hooking up a woman's dress zipper. The hook on my dress is always open because I cannot see or feel it. Sometimes there is only a dumb string as a catch. I am a widow and live alone and sometimes I can't even reach the zipper. Why do the manufacturers make such garments?

Indiana Contact Reader

Dear Reader:

The original question was whether one should call attention to a woman's gaping zipper. In answer to your problem let me say that many manufacturers make dresses with front-opening zippers. I agree that bits of thread make poor eyes for tiny hooks but you can replace them with larger hooks and metal eyes that you can feel.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:

My husband borrowed a very expensive book on airplanes from a neighbor. Our baby scribbled all over the pages. The book is not available in any store I've gone to. What can we do?

Tommy's Mom

Dear Mom:

Return to the largest bookstore in your area and inquire about ordering the book directly from the publisher. If the book is out of print, the dealer can give you the names of several companies that deal exclusively in such volumes. Good luck!

February Pie For Official Birthdays

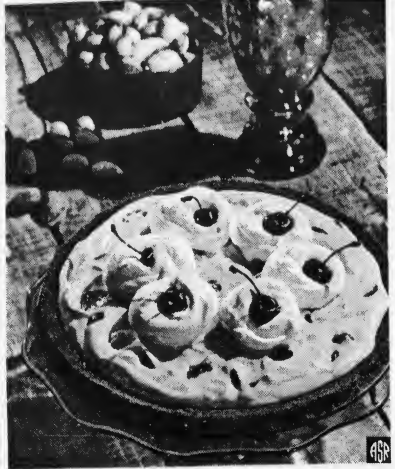

A pastry crust isn't the only way to go with pie. An alternate route, favored because of simplicity, is the no-bake, bread crumb pie crust. Add chocolate, and you'll have the perfect complement for the rich, smooth filling of February Pie.

We used prepared vanilla pudding and fluffy whipped topping for our filling — both delectable short cuts making preparation quick and easy. You simply press the bread crumb and melted chocolate mixture into the pie plate to form the crust. Pour in your filling. Then chill until you're ready to serve. Make an extra pie and freeze for impromptu parties or unexpected guests. For a festive touch decorate with maraschino cherries and extra whipped topping.

You'll also like the extra nutrition built into the pie when you use enriched bread for the crust. Enrichment of bread insures the consumer of three essential B-vitamins — niacin, thiamine and riboflavin — plus that important mineral, iron. These nutrients are added at no extra cost, or calories, to you.

February Pie

- two 9-inch pies
 - 3 cups dry enriched bread crumbs
 - ½ cup sugar
 - 1 cup butter
 - 4 squares (1 oz. each) baking chocolate
- Cherry Cloud Filling:
Stir together bread crumbs and sugar. In small saucepan melt butter and chocolate over low heat; mix into bread mixture. Press firmly into 2 greased 9-inch pie pans. Fill each shell with Cherry Cloud Filling. Refrigerate until firm or overnight. Decorate with additional whipped topping and cherries, if desired.

Cherry Cloud Filling:
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 can (1 lb. 2 oz.) vanilla pudding

- 2 cups prepared whipped topping
- 1 cup drained maraschino cherry halves
- ½ cup chopped nuts

Soften gelatin in cold water. Dissolve over hot water. Beat into vanilla pudding. Fold in whipped topping, cherry halves and nuts.

NOTE: One pie may be frozen for later use.

Shun girl's sex talk

By PAT and MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I am a college student and like most of the girls in our dorm; however, one of the girls has a habit that really irritates the rest of us. We want you to tell us how to handle this problem.

Fran goes out on a date. Then she comes back to the dorm and insists on telling all about her sexual activities. We are not in the least interested in the details. She will also ask the most intimate questions about our sex life. That is all she talks about. We have been unable to make this girl shut up.

The Others

Dear Others:

The next time this gal starts one of her stories interrupt with: "Fran, your sex life is about as interesting as yesterday's news so let's change the subject." If this doesn't end these X-rated conversations, simply go to your own room and shut the door. With no audience, even the most persistent conversationalists are forced to remain quiet.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

Something really peculiar has occurred in our family. Last night my uncle was rushed to the hospital. My husband was called and his aunt asked if he could take the uncle. When she explained the illness, my husband told her to call an ambulance. We called back a little later to be certain she had been able to get an ambulance. She said, "Oh, yes. Harry is at the hospital now." She had sent the poor man off alone!

What kind of a nut would send her husband to the hospital alone and in pain? The said that she was sure our uncle had adequate medical supervision so there was no need for her to be at the hospital.

Tests are being run and the doctor still doesn't know what is wrong. However, this aunt has not set foot in the hospital. Have you ever heard of this before?

Upset

Dear Upset:
No. Visit your uncle and keep his spirits up. This aunt is a lost cause.

6 to 8 am	First sign following
8 to 10 am	Second sign following
10 to Noon	Third sign following
Noon to 2 pm	Fourth sign following
2 to 4 pm	Fifth sign following
4 to 6 pm	Sixth sign following
6 to 8 pm	Seventh sign following
8 to 10 pm	Eighth sign following
10 to Midnight	Ninth sign following
Midnight to 2 am	Tenth sign following
2 to 4 am	Eleventh sign following

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — This is a favorable period to make new friends — old ones have drifted away. Seek steady, down-to-earth people. Use common sense in handling daily problems. Good time to study and read. Relax and recoup.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — You are inspired now. You could fulfill your ideals through someone with a positive attitude toward life. You can accomplish much now with your courage and self-assurance. Take an optimistic viewpoint.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Surprises may be in store for you. Be sharp-witted and objective. Guard against petty attitudes. Don't expect too much of others. This is a good time to learn by attending meetings and lectures.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — You can play the part of a peacemaker now. Use diplomacy and tact to become the calming force between warring people. Don't take sides — remain objective. In romance you are attracted to someone "different."

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — You could meet someone new who may become very meaningful in your life. Long-distance phone calls contain important news. Advice in investment or financial matters from a person who is older could be valuable.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Romance appears forced on you now. If single, there are matchmakers among your friends trying to marry you off. Be calm, and call on your sense of humor. Work quietly and carefully, out of the limelight.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Energy is higher now — concentrate on reaching your goals. Cooperating with mate or partner brings new and good ideas. Single Librans may make a decision to "tie the knot." Business and social events mix well.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Go over your budget and make sure enough is put into savings and investments. You are persuasive now in business matters. Write letters and settle problems requiring diplomacy and tact. Listen to mate or partner.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Activities simmer down this week and you can take a breather. Finances could get a boost. You may start a new project which is characterized by practicality and usefulness. Open your home to friends.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Some Capricornians will get a new job now. People have been watching you and are helpful in your success. Communications are important — with relatives and your boss. Keep harmony. Other jobs beckon.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Take care of any health problems promptly. See your doctor and comply with what is recommended. Eliminate a romance from your life which proves deceitful. Concentrate on domestic affairs and friends.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Your feelings of depression and restless discontent could be traced to a physical cause. Good time for a doctor's check-up. Show no impatience or hostility at work. Resist impulse toward emotional outbursts.

STITCHING WITCHERY Towels make a gym bag

By BETTY W. KINSER
Copley News Service

Does your student need a gym bag? Do you want it to be easy to make and to care for? Fold a bath towel in half; sew up the two sides. Make a casing at the top and insert a drawstring. Easiest thing you'll ever do. Watch it, though. Boys don't go for flowered towels.

Dear Mrs. Kinser:
I have some knit tubing and I would like to make a tank type blouse. Should I cut my pattern on the fold of the tubing or cut the sides of tubing to lay my pattern on? — Edna M. Gross, Pinnacles Park, Fla.

Knit tubing works up great just as it is. Choose a pattern that will take advantage of the folds (Simplicity 9975 is a good example). Or choose a pattern that has identical back and front pieces. You can then place one piece on the knit tubing, cutting through both layers, using the folds for the side seams.

Dear Betty:
I ordered your zipper leaflet and for the first time, I am able to put a zipper in right the first time! So nice to have your column and patterns available. — Mrs. John A. Meredith, Washington, Ind.
Thank you a bunch, Mrs. M.

I am so happy the leaflet was helpful. It is on today's leaflet list, believe it or not.

1-2-3 Zippers (10 cents); Yard Quilt made of old blue jeans (10 cents); Patchwork Jacket made of knit scraps (10 cents). Please include a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your order.

Dear Mrs. Kinser:
I bought my toddler a turtle-neck shirt of 100 per cent acrylic knit and the neck is so tight that he hates to put it on. What would you suggest I do with it? — Elizabeth Fullerton, Omaha.

Throw it away! (The neck band, not the boy!) There are many soft and stretchable knit "bands" you can buy to replace it. If you can't match the shirt exactly, use a coordinating neck band. It will look great and will make your toddler very happy.

QUICK STITCH: I'm not too fond of the plastic magnetic pin holders for holding pins, but they sure are super for "sweeping up" ones you have spilled.

'Cold-Age' Infants

Ages one and two may be considered the "cold age" for many infants. Researchers studied the common cold in a large number of families in the midwest and determined that between the ages of one and two, the common cold reaches a peak of 8.28 illnesses per year per infant.

Other cold findings were:

- The common cold accounted for 70% of all illnesses in infants during the first year of life, but were infrequent during the first six months.
- Children attending schools, especially in the lower grades, had a higher rate of incidence of colds.
- Large families had more colds per year than small ones.
- No appreciable immunity seemed to follow colds.

• Mothers, who usually spend more time with their school-aged children than fathers, had more colds.

Tonsillectomies or adenoidectomies had no effect on the incidence of colds in children.

Jewish Community Center Plans Varied Programs

The Youth Committee of the South Area Jewish Community Center has planned a February vacation program for children in grades K-6.

Mrs. Myrna Kramer, chairman of the Youth Committee, said vacation activities will begin Sunday, Feb. 16 with a trip to Brandeis University for a day of song, dance and improvisational theatre for children K-6.

An adult cast will perform "Joshua's Miracle," an original musical play with a Biblical motif, at Grossman's Camp on Monday, Feb. 17. The play will be presented to children in grades K-6.

Youngsters in grades 4-6 will enjoy an active day Tuesday, Feb. 18 at the Brookline-Brighton-Newton Jewish Community Center at a gym clinic featuring volleyball, relay races and marathon competition.

Two programs will be offered Wednesday, Feb. 19. A musical improvisational program for children in grades K-6 will be presented by the Proppets at the Quincy building of the South Area Jewish Community Center, 10 Merrymount Rd. "The Point," a play to be performed at the Boston Repertory Theatre, will be presented to children in grades 4-6 as well as their parents.

The youngsters will attend a matinee performance of the Ice Follies Thursday, Feb. 20.

Feb. 21, the last day of the program, will feature a combined Purim-Shabbat experience complete with drama, song, discussion and baking homentashen.

The Center's Youth Council has planned a day-long seminar Monday, Feb. 17 on "Who Are We: Gefilte Fish or Apple Pie?" The seminar will include the Israeli film, "America, I Love You," as well as discussions and activities such as singing, dancing and dramatic readings.

The seminar will begin at 10 a. m., lasting through mid-afternoon. Registration fee is one dollar.

MILESTONE - Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Montilio, [center] were honored recently at a 25th wedding anniversary party given by their children and attended by Marquis Franco Faa'diBruno, Italian Consul General in Boston. Moses Karp Visiting Nurses Assn. Chairman Officers of the Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, Inc. were elected at a recent meeting at the Milton Hill House.

Serving during 1975 will be Moses Karp, president; Clement A. O'Brien, vice-president; Miss Kathryn Wellington, secretary, and Miss Sarah Thorn Couch, treasurer.

Elected as directors to serve three-year terms were Miss Couch, O'Brien, Anthony Losordo, Russell Scammell and Preston Grassick.

Miss Couch traced the history of the 70-year-old organization from its inception in 1905 to its incorporation in 1932 to its affiliation, since 1937, with the Community Fund.

Miss Couch noted that the first one-year budget for the Visiting Nurses totaled $500. The anticipated budget for 1975 is $318,874 with $26,000 being paid by the Massachusetts Bay United Fund.

Although their headquarters in the John F. Kennedy Health Center were destroyed in a Nov. 18 fire, the visiting nurses continued their work uninterrupted by establishing temporary headquarters in the Gordon House at Quincy City Hospital. The visiting nurses moved back into their Health Center headquarters Monday, Jan. 20.

The organization now consists of a director, assistant supervisor, 10 full-time registered nurses, five part-time registered nurses, one full-time physical therapist, one Home Health Aide and one part-time licensed practical nurse.

Quincy Arts Alliance Hosts Emerson Players

The Quincy Arts Alliance will host the Emerson College Players at a buffet Friday evening, Feb. 7, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson, 36 Garfield St., West Quincy.

The Arts Alliance is a group of parents and community leaders whose goals are to support and promote the arts opportunities for the young people in our schools and community.

The Emerson College players are in residence in Quincy at the Atlantic Junior High School through Feb. 13. Some 4,000 elementary children will be bussed during these days to enjoy performances of "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves". Other performances of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Ernest" will be presented for secondary students, senior citizens, and the general public Friday, Feb. 7 at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday evening at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the door. Other hosts to the Emerson College Players during their residency will be Mrs. Anthony DiPiero, 54 Ferndale Rd., Wollaston, and Mrs. Ginger Jackson, 81 Clair Ave., both members of the Atlantic Home-School Association.

Arrangements for the Emerson Players' residency in Quincy were made by Miss Katherine Norris, Principal of the Merrymount Elementary School, with the cooperation of School Department personnel, the Quincy Arts Alliance and the Atlantic Home-School Association.

Seniors Planning 350th Anniversary Dinner And Ball

The Committee for the Quincy Senior Citizens 350th Anniversary Dinner and Ball met recently to map plans for its May 30 celebration.

The annual dinner and ball, which climaxes Senior Citizen month, is the largest social event of the year for senior citizens, notes Mrs. Marion Andrews, Director of Senior Citizen activities.

The committee has scheduled the dinner and dance for May 30, at 5:30 p.m., at Morrisette Legion Post, Miller St., West Quincy. A roast beef dinner will be served with entertainment by the "Three of Us" orchestra from 8-11 p.m.

In the past the event has been called the Blossom Time Dinner/Dance to observe May as Senior Citizen month throughout the country, Mrs. Andrews said.

However, this year, in addition to that observance, the Senior Citizens will celebrate the city's 350th anniversary, with many of the committee members dressing in costumes of that period.

Committee members are: Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Best, Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacLean, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Anderson, Mrs. Margaret Campbell, Mrs. Edna Magee, Mrs. Christine Curley, Mrs. Gertrude Paakonen, Mrs. Hazel Babbitt, Mrs. Margaret Cavanaugh, Mrs. Mary Whalen, Mrs. Helen Andrews, Mrs. Libby Long, Daniel Doherty, James Hamilton and Clarence Metcalf - Honorary Member.

Quincy Youth Hockey Dance Saturday

Quincy Youth Hockey Association will hold their fourth annual dance Saturday at St. Mary's Hall, West Quincy.

Featured band will be The 'Sweetheart Dance' Feb. 14 At HN Post

Shannonaires. The dance will begin at 9 p.m. and continue until 1 a.m.

Tickets may be obtained from ticket committee members Audrey Hayes, Ed Holt, Paula Kelly, Thomas Bamberg, Pat Lynch, Ann Egan and John Murphy.

Smoke Gets In Your Eyes (But You Can Stop It)

If you want to smoke, that's your business. Light up and puff away.

But when that smoke affects others, it's not just your business. Or, shouldn't be.

House Bill 4055, "An Act To Limit Smoking In Certain Public Places", is scheduled to be heard next Monday, Feb. 10, at 1 p.m. in Room 460 at the State House.

This bill would restrict smoking in a number of public places such as: public areas of hospitals and state offices, buses, MBTA facilities and other public conveyances, elevators, colleges, universities, theatres, public halls, museums, libraries, rest rooms, waiting rooms of physicians, dentists, psychologists, optometrists, opticians, etc., and anywhere where smoking is already prohibited by law.

Penalty for refusing to stop smoking in such facilities after being requested to do so by the person in charge is a fine of $50.

Non-smokers, according to the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, are now in the majority [64 per cent] nationally. Purpose of House Bill 4055 is to insure the rights of those who wish to maintain a smoke-free environment for their own health.

Any non-smoker who has ever come home from a social function with his or her clothing reeking of cigaret or cigar smoke no doubt will favor this bill. As should anyone who has had to spend the night with some nicotine fiend's cigaret smoke curling up into their eyes, nose and throat.

We support this bill because we believe it is time to consider the rights of the non-smoker. We wonder, however, if the bill gets passed how many of the original restricted categories will still be in it.

But even if only one of them is approved, it would be a step in the right direction. The air outside and inside a public room belongs to everyone. Smokers should not be allowed to go on polluting it as though it belonged exclusively to them.

Frankly we believe if people can't go anywhere without smoking they should stay home and smoke to their hearts content.

The non-smoker has rights, too. And he isn't annoying anyone or injuring anyone's health by not smoking.

Those who support House Bill 4055 but cannot attend the public hearing next Monday, should make their views known to their state representatives now.

Otherwise, the chances of passing this bill could go up in smoke.

Tobin Would Have Seniors Keep Beano Profits

Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin has filed legislation to allow senior citizens in housing projects to retain profits made in beano games conducted at the housing projects.

Under the present laws of the lottery commission, Tobin said profits made in beano games must be returned to the Commission.

His legislation would exempt senior citizens in housing projects from this regulation, allowing them to use the profits for their own special needs.

A hearing on the bill was to be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Gardner Auditorium at the State House. Over 200 senior citizens were expected to attend the discussion of the bill before the Committee on government regulations.

24 More Students On Central Honors

Twenty-four names were inadvertently omitted from the first-quarter, seventh grade high honors list at Central Junior High School, published in last week's Quincy Sun.

They are: Corinne M. Keehes, Linda J. Kelleher, Nicholas S. Lahage, Rebecca A. Lampert, Laure M. Leonardi, Michael W. Linehan, Mary Kyle Loeb, Nancy E. MacDonald, Tracy E. Maloney, Sharon E. Mayer, Eileen R. McKenna, Jeanne M. McManus, John McNamara, James K. Meehan, Patricia Miceli, Janet M. Moriarty, Kim M. Murphy, Brian A. O'Connell, Anne C. O'Malley, Thomas W. Rand, Michael D. Ricciuti, Mark R. Roden, Mary E. Schiarizzi and Elizabeth F. Skoler.

Downtown Needs Development

"In 1972, we dedicated the new parking garage in Quincy. Some people said it would not work, others called it a "white elephant". Quincy did not build this parking garage for you the merchants. Quincy built it for the convenience of the shoppers who are using it to buy the goods and services that you people provide.

"We recently built a mini mall. Again, I was criticized for this. But we did not build it for Frank Remick or Henry Donaher. We built it for the convenience of the shopping public so that we will not have a street filled with cars. I strongly feel that a city and its downtown streets should be for people and not just automobiles.

"In the past, we have surrendered our downtown area to the congestion, noise and pollution of automobiles. Now, we must think of its convenience and attractiveness for the shopper.

"All of these things are part of a continuing program. As a result, let us turn our attention to the year ahead.

"My responsibility is to keep this city moving, to maintain services and hold taxes to a minimum.

"We are now dealing with the municipal budget, and I do not have to tell any of you about the increased cost of materials, utilities and all that goes into making up a budget. But I am telling my department heads that this is the year they must prove themselves worthy of their positions in the management of their departments.

"I am frustrated by the increased burdens that the state government imposes upon us. But even with obstacles like this, I am hopeful that we can prevail in bringing in a minimal tax increase.

"In the same way, this administration shall attack the very root of the problem of an economic recession -- unemployment.

"We must restore confidence in people. Wringing our hands gets us nowhere. Positive steps must be taken. The unemployment situation in Quincy is being attacked as in no other time in recent history. With the help of the federal government and through programs such as CETA, we are making a serious effort to put the unemployed to work in the private and public sectors, thus giving them the purchasing power they need. This directly affects you.

"The Department of Planning and Community Development has established an office in the downtown area and is eager to begin working with all businessmen in the area. You have all met the new Project Director, Harvey Towlim. Assisting him are Art Keefe and Pat Fitzgerald, who are qualified in rehabilitation and real estate. They will be working to help you improve your business and to get our vacant stores occupied with a good variety of quality merchants. Competition is a stimulus that is good for the merchant and general public.

"We have recently hired the consulting firm of Ken Parry Associates, a Quincy firm, to assist owners and tenants in the downtown in upgrading their properties.

"But we need something else. We need that one big project, that one major development, to bring the center to life! But why does it have to be someone from the outside? Why do we have to look to a stranger, a person who does not know our city or have roots here? Why can't it be a Bob Faxon or a Nizzie Grossman? Why can't it be the South Shore National Bank or the banking community together?

"In times like this, someone has to take a very bold step.

"Why do I pick on those I have just mentioned? Because they are the only ones that can do it. The little guy needs them. He does not have the resources to do the job himself. There are many fine small stores in Quincy which live off the major merchants who can attract people to the downtown in a wide variety of ways.

"The City is willing, able and ready to cooperate in any way that we can to get that one big project going that will revitalize Quincy Center.

"I think that in a few years down the road, the South Quincy MBTA station, the ramps, Capens Bridge and Upland Road will be a reality. As politically unpopular as it may be at this time, I feel strongly that this is one of the keys to our survival as a business center.

"In the very near future, there will be a public hearing. I ask your cooperation and your attendance at this hearing. Your survival as a merchant may very well depend upon the extension of the MBTA to South Quincy.

"These are major issues facing all of us. The economic health of Quincy depends upon dealing with them now. We cannot put them on the shelf forever. When things get rough, we have to work harder. I am ready, and I know you are too.

"Your father didn't quit in the 30's and neither did mine. They turned it around. They kept fighting and they prevailed. Are we to prove ourselves lesser men than they?

"Let it be said that in our little corner of the world, in a place called Quincy, Massachusetts, 1975 was the year that the people, the businessmen and the city government working together, put it all back together. All of us can help Quincy prosper and grow as we know it can.

"1975 is the 350th anniversary of the founding of Quincy. No one can really imagine the problems and the difficult times those people faced in the year 1625. It is correct to say that their obstacles were awesome. But they made it. I am confident that we shall solve our problems too, because that has been our heritage for 350 years."

Consumers Protest Electric Bills

She said a consumer using 300 kilowatt hours of electricity per month would pay an electric bill of roughly $10. This system, unlike the present rate structure, encourages conservation she claimed, since the consumer pays for any kilowatt hours in excess of his fixed rate. Mrs. O'Brien said the current system defeats conservation since the cost of electricity drops as consumption increases.

An organizational and informational meeting held Monday at the John F. Kennedy Health Center attracted only a small gathering of Quincy consumers. Yet over half volunteered to become involved in CAP-Energy goals, said Mrs. O'Brien.

Mrs. O'Brien noted that consumers participating in the pledge-card campaign need not fear an electricity shut-off since the law guarantees the right to question and to appeal an electric bill without the stoppage of service. The card vowing delayed payment of an electric bill reads:

"I am sick of rising electric bills. I want fair rates, no more rate increases and a life-line service. If I do not get these reforms, I am willing to delay paying my electric bill until I do."

Mrs. O'Brien urged all concerned Quincy consumers to attend Saturday's 10 a.m. hearing. The meeting will take place in the Gardner Auditorium at the State House. CAP-Energy organizations throughout the state will attend the meeting she said.

Mayoralty Poll Taken For Tobin

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Whether Senator-City Council President Arthur Tobin gets into this year's mayoralty race remains to be seen.

But right now he's closer than he has ever been to tossing his hat into the ring.

Some observers still think that when this year's preliminary election ballot is printed, Tobin's name will not be on it. They could be right, of course.

But as of this week, Tobin is still seriously considering running. So seriously that he has had a poll conducted for him.

Now, you just don't go shelling out money [about $1,000] to find out if you're parting your hair right. The poll was on this year's mayoralty race and Arthur Tobin's and the other candidate's [announced and potential] strength.

Candidates as Mayor Walter Hannon, Councillor Joseph LaRaia, Rep. William Delahunt and Grace Saphir.

Reportedly, the Tobin poll agrees somewhat with the one conducted by The Quincy Sun a week ago and brought to you for a dime.

It shows that in the preliminary election, Hannon and Tobin would be nominated. And in the final election, Tobin defeating Hannon. The Sun's poll doesn't flatly pick Tobin over Hannon in the finale but indicates Tobin would go on to win it. The Sun's poll also shows that if LaRaia got nominated he would be strong against either Hannon or Tobin in the final election.

Tobin is doing some serious thinking right now. But, if for some reason he decides not to run, he came within an inch of doing it.

Time will tell for sure.

JUST IN CASE you aren't confused enough over who's running and not running for mayor this year, try this one on for size: Leo Hannon, the real estate dealer is toying with the idea of jumping in.

Despite the fact that he is still the announced co-chairman of the Joseph LaRaia For Mayor Committee.

Friends say Hannon originally thought it was going to be a two-man race: Walter Hannon against LaRaia. But if Hannon (Walter, that is) does not run, Hannon (Leo) will. So he's been hinting.

And that would cause a bit of confusion now, wouldn't it? Hannon's not running, but Hannon is — you know.

FRIENDS WILL HONOR retiring City Auditor Alexander Smith at a dinner Feb. 13 at the Chateau deVille, Randolph. Social hour starts at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 7:30 p.m.

CONGRESSMAN James Burke continues to move up the power ladder on Capitol Hill. He's now the second-ranking member of the House Ways and Means Committee; chairman of the Social Security Committee; ranking member of the Joint Internal Revenue Taxation Committee, and ranking member of the Unemployment Compensation Committee.

NICE GESTURE DEPT: Rep. Joseph Brett has turned over to the VA Hospital in Jamaica Plain, 21 years of National Geographic Magazines for the patients to read. That's 252 copies dating from January, 1954 through December, 1974.

HUM 'N STRUM really left them clamoring for more of their old time hits when they were honored by the Montclair Men's Club the other night.

Tom Currier and Max Zides had a few copies of the lyrics to those numbers and after they had sung a few of them, a few of those in attendance asked for and were given the copies as souvenirs.

Ward 3 Councillor John Lydon, who is a mortician, asked for and got: "Steve O'Donnell's Wake".

INCIDENTALLY, Joseph Gildea, dinner chairman, was near tears as Max and Tom sang those old numbers bringing back fond memories of the days when they used to pack 'em in at the old Fox & Hounds.

MAYOR Walter Hannon, a head table guest, recalled, as a youngster in Houghs Neck, he played with Tom's two sons, Tom Jr., and Terry and was frequently at the Currier home.

Tom asked The Sun for a copy of a photo showing him with Hannon to have as a souvenir "of the little kid next door who grew up to be mayor."

RED SOX star Luis Tiant will be the featured guest at the Quincy Elks Father and Son's Sports Night Saturday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Chairman Fred Connally, announces boxer Pepper Roach, a judo demonstration, wrestling match, baseball films, prizes and a roast beef dinner will round out what sounds like quite a night.

OBSERVATION: Shotgun-armed bandits are still staging holdups in Quincy. Our machineguns don't seem to have frightened them off.

Crocker Snow To Discuss Asia At U.N. Council Meeting Feb. 13

Crocker Snow, assistant to the publisher of The Boston Globe, will speak on "Political Developments in Asia" at the fourth meeting this season sponsored by the United Nations Council of the South Shore.

The meeting is co-sponsored by the Leagues of Women Voters of Milton, Quincy, Weymouth, Scituate and Canton.

The program will begin at 8 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 13th in the parish hall of the Church of the Presidents, Quincy Sq.

Snow's talk will cover the changes coming fast in Asia, the old leaders of Mainland China who are aging and ill, the price of oil which has brought unemployment in Japan, the United States supporting threatened regimes in South Vietnam and Cambodia, while some Americans question this use of our tax dollars.

Snow has worked in Asia, starting with three years in the Navy, when he took advantage of the time to learn Japanese. He came to The Globe as a political reporter in 1968. In 1972 he became The Globe's chief correspondent based in Tokyo, returning to Boston last August. While in the Far East he made frequent trips to different countries including Vietnam and Indonesia, and wrote a column called "Asian Circuit" which was published in Boston, Tokyo, Hong Kong, and Honolulu.

Admission to the meeting is free, but there is a charge for the supper which precedes it in the parish hall at 7 p.m. Reservations should be made for the dinner by calling Miss Eleanor Brown, 59 Andrews Rd., or Miss Vera Call, or Miss Fdith Coulman, 1000 Southern Artery, all of Quincy. A few places are reserved for students at a reduced price.

Guidance Office Open Tuesday Nights

Guidance offices at the three Quincy High Schools will continue to be open Tuesday evenings during February and March from 6-9 p.m.

Richard Haines, head counselor for the Quincy High Schools, urged parents, students and other interested adults to utilize the services offered such as occupational-vocational counseling, program planning and personal counseling.

Counselors during the two months at Quincy High School will be Sylvia Stern [Feb. 4 and March 11], Helen Kelley [Feb. 11 and March 18], William Hutchinson [Feb. 25], Donna Olney and Edward Nankin [March 4], and Donna Olney [March 25].

Counselors at North Quincy High School during the two month period will be Marc Heyman [Feb. 4], John Murphy [Feb. 11], Christine Heper [Feb. 25], Richard Haines [March 4], Marjorie Rogers [March 11], Peter Finch [March 18], and Paul McCarthy [March 25].

Counselors at Quincy Vocational-Technical School will be Francis Bukunt [Feb. 4 and March 4], Gerald Gherardi [Feb. 11 and March 11], Charles Baillargeon [Feb. 25 and March 18], Richard Haines [March 25]. Domenic DeLeo, special needs counselor for North Quincy High School, and Gerald Ridge, special needs counselor for Quincy High School and Quincy Vocational-Technical School, will be available to meet in the evenings with parents of high school students upon the request of the parent. Appointments may be made by calling or writing the special needs counselors.

McCullough Named LINC Chairman

Robert McCullough, former vice-chairman of Project LINC Advisory Council, has been named 1975 chairman of the Council.

He succeeds Mrs. Eleanor Jacobucci, a member of the Council for three years. Peter Cappola was elected Council vice-chairman.

Question Of Week

What Is Governor's Cabinet?

"What is the Governor's Cabinet?" asked a citizen who called the Voter Information Phone of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters.

The caller was told that the Cabinet consists of the Secretaries of 10 Executive Offices under which all of the more than 200 agencies of state government are grouped. The Secretaries are appointed by the Governor and serve at his pleasure. They act on the Governor's behalf as executive officers, and have authority to review budgetary matters under their purview. All grants and transfers of appropriations must be submitted for the Secretary's review and approval.

The 10 Executive Offices and their current Secretaries are:
Administration and Finance - John R. Buckley.

Communities and Development - William G. Flynn.
Consumer Affairs - Lola Dickerman.

Educational Affairs - Paul Parks.

Elder Affairs - Rose Claffey.
Environmental Affairs - Evelyn F. Murphy.

Human Services - Lucy Wilson Benson.

Economic Development and Manpower Affairs - Howard N. Smith.

Public Safety - Charles V. Barry.

Transportation and Construction - Frederick Salvucci.

This question is one of the many now being received by the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VPhone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

Youth Speaks Out

• Unemployment lines are getting longer and longer, and the classified ads are getting shorter and shorter.

• The President seems very concerned over how many friends he can make to other countries that he's forgotten how many he can lose at home.

• As a birthday present for America, how about some responsible politicians, a CIA that doesn't break laws, and companies that charge fair prices.

• Contrary to popular belief the U.S. Gov't is a non-profit organization.

• Unit-pricing in the supermarket is really great if you understand calculus.

• Many of the people of the United States are very eager to play a children's game - follow the leader - if there were only one to follow.

Conway Sees Improvement In Housing Buying Market

Mortgage money for the house buying public and lower interest rates in 1975 was the theme of the 17th annual sales meeting of the Jack Conway Real Estate Company.

More than 200 sales associates, managers and staff personnel gathered at the company auditorium for the presentation of 1974 sales and listing awards and a preview of an anticipated busy 1975.

Enthusiasm ran high and the outlook of those in attendance was bright as the housing market has already begun to show signs of improvement.

Jack Conway, president of the 14 office real estate firm, noted that interest rates are beginning to come down and that many banks are now actively seeking mortgage applications.

"This trend is going to get stronger," Conway said, "and as it does, the buying public is going to gain confidence in the economy and be back in the market place."

Conway also pointed out that the company's position as a leader in residential home sales has been strengthened by the formation of the Northern Mortgage Company, a subsidiary of Jack Conway and Company. Now a home buyer can purchase and finance a home all under the same roof, at rates that are competitive with those offered by banks.

During the meeting sales awards were given for outstanding accomplishments in 1974. There were three categories for awards, these included residential sales, development sales and commercial sales. Top in residential sales was Harriet Brannum of the Marshfield Office, who had over $1 million in sales during 1974.

Best in development sales was Carl Gold with $1,183,756 worth of homes sold at Old Colony Estates in Plymouth. Top commercial award went to Richard Green of Conway's Quincy Office who's industrial sales ability enabled him to sell $1,032,740 during 1974.

Other top winners in residential sales included: Betty Fagan of Conway's Hanover office, Florence Howard of West Bridgewater, Marge Quirk of Duxbury, Gloria Goodwin of Plymouth and Mary Peede of the Cohasset office. Also, Lin DiCiccio of the Hanson office, Gloria Ellis of Scituate, Barbara Witt of Falmouth, Pat Donahue of Hingham, Ray Vaillancourt of Hyannis and Stan Torrey of Sandwich. Lew Brown was second in development sales.

At the annual meeting each of the 14 Conway offices received charts with their anticipated sales for 1975. Many of the brokers have already begun to break records. With all in attendance the feelings were high for record sales in '75.

Kenney Industrial Relations Manager At Boston Gas

Thomas F. Kenney of 264 West St., West Quincy, has been appointed manager of industrial relations at Boston Gas Company.

In this position, Kenney will be in charge of all union management relations and employee benefits for the utility company, which serves 500,000 customers in 74 eastern and central Massachusetts communities. He will report directly to John J. Bacon, vice president of employee and customer relations.

He joined Boston Gas as a management trainee in 1970, served as salary administrator in the personnel department, and for two years was industrial relations assistant before being named to his present post.

A native of Dorchester, Kenney is a 1963 graduate of Dorchester High School, where he was president of his senior class. He graduated from Northeastern University in 1970 with a bachelor of science in industrial relations.

He is the son of Mrs. Emily D. Kenney of Martland Ave., Brockton. He and his wife, Ann, have two children, Thomas Jr. and Deirdre.

ENTERTAINMENT/ARTS

He's Frank, Honest

Peter Falk: 'We've All Gone Too Far With Material Things'

By ROBERT J. DONOVAN
Quincy Sun Writer

He wasn't wearing the rumpled, looked-like-he-slept-in-it raincoat. And he wasn't collecting evidence for the Sunday Mystery Movie. But Lt. Columbo was here last week as Peter Falk paid Boston a visit.

Falk was in town to promote his new film, "A Woman Under the Influence," and to make an appearance as a part of Northeastern University's Distinguished Speaker Series.

Flashing a smile, he said, "You can ask me anything you want. I'm not unintelligent, but I'm very inarticulate."

Where was the famous "Columbo" raincoat?

"Out being cleaned and burned," he said.

Speaking with Peter Falk, one is immediately impressed by his frankness and honesty. Absorbed in every word you say, he devotes his utmost attention in a manner synonymous with that of the masterful Columbo.

"I feel very comfortable playing Columbo," he said. "When he walks up to someone and says, 'Mind if I ask you a personal question? How much did you pay for those shoes?', that tickles me."

Explaining, he continued, "We've all gone too far with material things. It's insane. Is it Gucci...does it have your initials on it...where did you vacation...what hotel did you stay at? We're all affected and it's gotten out of hand."

"What we respond to in Columbo is that he's happy just doing his job. His status isn't important. Somewhere Columbo is saying, 'If you're worried about how you're combing your hair, you're killing yourself.'"

"Columbo" was offered to Falk originally in the late 60's.

"In 1967 they wanted to do a series. They said 'every week,' I said 'two a year.' Around 1970 they said 'how about eight,' I said 'three.' We finally ended up with six, which I think is just about right."

"It's hard coming up with ingenious murders with clever plot twists and reasonably logical endings. We don't show the sordid side of police work. There's no seamy corpses or dreary police stations. If you saw a lot of day-to-day reality you wouldn't like it as much."

PETER FALK

"Columbo" is intended to entertain. I don't believe it. I don't think you're supposed to. You're supposed to enjoy it."

His new film, "A Woman Under the Influence," directed by John Cassavetes, opens next month at one of Boston's Sack Theaters.

"It's hard to refine the film to a simple formula. When you're getting the cattle to Dodge City you can explain it, but this is different."

"It's not about a drunk, and it's not a comedy. The woman is under the influence of her husband, her family and society. It's a love story, but an improbable one. It's not about the beautiful people or God's chosen few."

Falk plays an Italian construction foreman who is distraught at having to commit his wife.

"I'm crazy about her and she's crazy about me." His tone became more serious. "She's also crazy. It's a terribly difficult thing for a husband to have to commit his wife."

He was interested in the film because the story was so uncommon.

"The husband-wife relationship is charming. I also liked the idea that a man who could handle his co-workers couldn't handle his own wife. He has an image of himself being totally in control. He's serious about being a husband and father, but he really can't handle anything."

He reflected for a moment on his own marriage of 16 years.

"It's my first and my last," he said. "I'm in favor of marriage but it's not simple. This picture is trying to say that marriage and love are not easy. The worthwhile things in life are difficult. They don't come without work."

It was a surprise to learn that the man who plays one of NBC's most popular super-sleuths had once tried to become a spy.

"I thought it would be romantic to be a spy," he said. "I had no idea what spies did. Thank God they didn't take me. It was during the McCarthy era. I had once worked on a railroad in Yugoslavia just to see what a communist country was like. When the guy in Washington found out, he just laughed."

Falk said that he had wanted to become an actor for quite a while before taking the initial plunge.

"I never consciously admitted that I wanted it. I even turned down a scholarship from the Dramatic Workshop because I was afraid of failing."

Falk maintains that a weekly series is restricting. "For a guy who wants to grow as an actor, a television series is the death of him. There are so many pressures involved that aren't productive in trying to become a better actor. The good actor will get out and do other things."

He also insisted that "Columbo" fans not miss the next episode, which he feels is particularly good.

"Ben Gazzara directed it. Columbo's wife (whom we never see) runs a Holy Name Society church for a cruise. A murder takes place on board and Columbo has to improvise as he has no equipment or authority on the boat."

As Columbo drives a sadly beaten up relic of an automobile, I wondered, in contrast, what Peter Falk drove.

"You mean in real life," he asked. A twinkle came to his eye as he paused and then said, "A Mercedes convertible," adding, "It was a gift."

It was a friend who finally convinced Peter Falk to become an actor, and he obviously took the right step. With his share of awards, and having established a successful career, Falk says, "Jim Backus says now that if I ever leave acting I'll wind up as a box boy in Food Giant."

Food Giant should be so lucky.

THE WORLD OF MUSIC

Miller's magic strong and alive

By ROBIN WELLES

Copley News Service
HOLLYWOOD — It's been 30 years now since that foggy December day in England during World War II when Glenn Miller vanished on a flight across the channel to France.

But, to his fans, the Miller music is still as strong and living as it was on Sept. 24, 1942, when the Miller band played its last Chesterfield show, and Glenn told the huge throng in the Central Theater in Passaic, N.J., that he was joining the Army and turning over the show to Harry James.

Then the band swung into "Juke Box Saturday Night," with the "Ciribiribin" solo performed by James himself.

Those music lovers of today, who wonder about the endurance of the Miller music, might try listening to a two-record set just being released by RCA titled: Glenn Miller — A Legendary Performer. These are never-before-released performances that pick up Miller playing "Moonlight Serenade" at his first Glen Island Casino appearance, and carry on through some of the Chesterfield shows.

The clarity of these recordings is startling. Many Miller records now have a tinny, scratchy sound. But not these.

For the first time in recent memory the Miller magic travels through the years on these recordings and emerges unscathed. This is the same sound that enchanted listeners in the early 1940s.

The songs are some of the best: "Sunrise Serenade," "Little Brown Jug," "Tuxedo Junction," "Pennsylvania 6-5000," "Volga Boatman," "String of Pearls," "Elmer's Tune," "Jingle Bells," "In the Mood," "Chattanooga," "At Last," "Moonlight Cocktail," "Kalamazoo," and "Star Dust."

This is Miller at his finest.

The champ came down the aisle at Madison Square Garden and scored a knockout. The champ, of course, was Frank Sinatra and what he did on the night of Oct. 13, 1974, can now be heard live on a Warner Brothers LP called: "Sinatra — The Main Event."

This was the super production staged by the Monday night football crowd, and featuring an introduction by the mouth himself, Howard Cosell. Sinatra gave them what they wanted: "The Lady Is a Tramp," "Autumn in New York," "I Get a Kick Out of You," "My Way" — all his trademark songs. The excitement that always accompanies a Sinatra appearance comes through loud and clear.

Sorrentino Art Exhibit At Main Library Gallery

Michael Sorrentino of Scituate is exhibiting his paintings in the Main Hall Gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library through February.

Sorrentino was born in New York City and studied anatomy at the Brooklyn Museum Art School, and Scenic Design at Columbia University. He has traveled extensively throughout the U.S.A., Europe, the Caribbean and Asia.

For many years he worked mostly in various black and white media before turning to painting in 1964. He paints primarily in dry brush watercolor and egg tempera, also in gouache and occasionally in acrylic. The artist still has a great fondness for drawing and regards this as highly as his painting.

AMITY AIDES hailing from foreign countries are assisting foreign language teachers throughout the Quincy Public Schools in communicating the culture and language of other lands. Seated, from left: Marie-Therese Crifo, France; Miriam Ardia, Columbia; Pita Nunez, Mexico; Dieter Bredemeyer, West Germany. Standing: Bernard Delrue, France; Anne Viars, France; Elizabeth Maurer, Austria; and Gladys Majano, Venezuela.

8 Amity Aides Briefed As Quincy Classroom Assistants

Eight young men and women met at North Quincy High School recently for briefing before beginning classroom roles as Amity Aides in the Quincy Public Schools.

For the next 18 weeks, they will assist world [foreign] language teachers at the city's senior and junior high schools in fostering a knowledge and appreciation of other languages and cultures.

Most of the Aides have spent the first half of this school year in other school systems in the U.S., especially in the mid-West. During their stay they will live with volunteer host families in the area for either a full 18-week period or a 9-week term split between two different host families.

The Students Are:
Pita Nunez, who is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Winstanley of 33 Janet Rd., is from Mexico City. She is 21, has majored in education at the University of Mexico for two years, and has six brothers and three sisters. Her father is a general practitioner in a Mexican hospital. She is an avid reader, especially of psychology books, and an active mountain-climber.

Gladys Majano is from Barquisimeto, Venezuela. There are 10 children in her family. At 21, she already is an aunt to 20 nieces and nephews. She has completed her studies at the Instituto Experimental de Barquisimeto, and is interested in international music and social-commentary drama. Her father is a business man for a construction-material company in Venezuela much like Gloman's. Hosting Gladys are Peter and Kathy Swanson of Hingham.

A major for two years in English and geography, Dieter Bredemeyer, 22, of Hanover, West Germany, will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horn of 83 Nightingale Ave., South Quincy.

An only child, Dieter loves skiing and swimming [indoors], and is an omnivorous reader. He enjoys classical music, especially the works of Bach, Mozart and Beethoven. Before attending the free university in Hanover, Dieter served a year and a half in the army. His father is employed by the public works department.

Myriam Ardia is on her first trip away from home in Bucaramanga, Columbia. She is 22 and has two brothers and two sisters. Her father manages a tobacco company that makes Imperial cigarettes. Myriam worked for a time as a bilingual secretary for the First National City Bank of Columbia. She is an enthusiastic ping-pong player, likes to read and watch movies. She is staying in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Swartz of 13 Wampatuck Rd., Merrymount.

Vienna, the capital of Austria, is the native home of Elizabeth Maurer, 22, who is a major in English and geography. She has one brother and a sister. Elizabeth loves the works of Austrian composers such as Mozart, Lannier, Strauss and Lehar.

Just outside the city—it takes only seven hours to drive through all of Austria—Elizabeth worked as a ski instructor. Her mother is a German-Hungarian interpreter for the defense department. With a vast linguistic background, Elizabeth has been mastering English for 12 years. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Houlihan, 144 Marlboro St., Wollaston will be hosting her this semester.

Anne Viars has already taught a combined fourth and fifth grade in the suburbs of Paris, even though she has just turned 20 years old. She recently finished her second year at the University of Southern Paris. Five years of piano studies have made her familiar with the classics, and she admits to being a jazz enthusiast as well. She goes to the cinema whenever possible back home.

She came to the States three summers ago to work as a mother's helper. At New Year's Day this year, Anne was an Amity Aide in West Hartford, Conn., and she placed a long-distance telephone call to her parents. Anne's father works in the agricultural machinery division of the Renault Company. The John Nigro family, 245 Winthrop St., Houghs Neck will be her host.

Listening to Radio Holland, Radio England, and to several public stations in France is Bernard Delrue's favorite pastime. He is 23, and lives in Comines, France, near the Belgian border, and is an only child. His father is a customs officer. He is living with Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Dirks of 11 Florence St., Wollaston.

Marie-Therese Crifo, 21, will soon be earning her master's degree from the University of Nice in France. Her thesis has to do with Salem Witchcraft. The University specializes in Puritan culture. Marie-Therese's father is a retired hairdresser.

She is staying with the John Morrissey family, 53 Elm Ave., Wollaston.

MONEY TALKS

Getting Maximal Returns From Your Savings

By Philip J. Lawrence
President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association
of Quincy and Holbrook

8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

Federal sources inform us that Americans saved more than $53.8 billion of their total income last year. For those who managed, this represents a commendable achievement in inflationary times. But it gives rise to a related problem:

How can these savings be best invested to produce a maximal return?

In an earlier column we noted that passbook savings did very well in 1973 in competition with more sophisticated investment opportunities. Moreover, there was none of the red tape associated with many forms of investment, no sales commissions or management fees—and no risk.

Those who opted for high-grade bond funds last year barely came out even, according to an investment firm report. Yields of 8 per cent or more were reduced by declining prices to a mere 1 per cent. The spectacular returns promised by real estate investment trusts [REITs] were dissipated by a soft year in housing construction. Together with a large number of bad loans, this risky market lost REIT investors between 20 and 30 per cent of their stake, according to the Realty Trust Review.

Recognizing that passbook savings are a respectable form of investment even in these times, the saver can do much to improve the return from his savings accounts.

His first step should be to decide the highest amount of ready cash he will need in passbook savings. This will include funds for anticipated expenditures over an extended period of time, as well as a reasonable sum for emergencies that may arise.

He can then make additional savings available for investment in certificates. These offer various rates of interest and maturity dates—the larger the amount and longer the term, the higher the return. To provide a desired flexibility, it may be advantageous to choose certificates with varying maturities. These will insure periodic availability of money if needed in addition to passbook holdings.

Two perspectives should be kept constantly in mind. One is movement upward whenever possible to certificates bearing higher rates of return. The other is that this should be done only when there is reasonable assurance that the certificate can be kept to maturity. Federal regulations impose heavy penalties for premature withdrawal of certificate savings: Reduction of the rate of return to the level of passbook accounts plus the loss of 90 days' interest.

In the event of such interest loss, it should be remembered that earnings on a certificate are reported for tax purposes in the year earned [even though the money was not received but compounded]. If therefore in the succeeding year, the certificate is prematurely terminated, the loss of interest in the preceding year can be corrected by deducting the amount reported for the first year but not actually received because of the penalty.

'Keep Sunshine In Your Heart' Receives Card From President On 90th Birthday

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Mrs. Florence Harvey of 22 Oakland Ave., Wollaston, turned 90 last Friday and received a whopping 127 birthday cards including one from President and Mrs. Gerald Ford.

The card from the Fords read, "Dear Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. Ford and I extend our warmest congratulations on a very special occasion, your 90th birthday. We wish you every happiness. [Signed] Gerald R. Ford."

"I wonder who sent my name in," she said, obviously delighted.

England-born in 1885, Mrs. Harvey, came to America at the age of 10 where she and her parents settled in Lawrence. Not pausing for even an instant's reflection, Mrs. Harvey easily listed her past homes in chronological order.

She lived in Lawrence 15 years, moved to Dorchester where she met her husband John, moved north again two years later to North Andover where she stayed 24 years, then moved to Quincy in 1926.

"I've been in Quincy 50 years - 49 to be exact," she said.

Married on her 21st birthday in 1906, Mrs. Harvey has one daughter, Enid Lee Peterson, with whom she now lives. She has two grown grandchildren Richard Harvey Peterson and Carol Lee Zinkus, both of North Quincy. [Mrs. Harvey supplied the middle names with startling ease].

Her three great grandchildren give Mrs. Harvey much delight.

"I get a great kick out of them," she exclaimed. "They made two birthday cards for me and the little fellow put a nickel in his," she said laughing.

Her grandchildren are all from the Zinkus family: Glenn Allan, 13, Lee Ann, 10, and Mark Peter, 5.

Auxiliary for 30 years, Mrs. Harvey also belongs to the Wollaston Congregational Church, being an active member of the Loyalty Group, the Evening Guild and the Women's Union of the Church. She is also a member of the Senior Citizens Golden Fellowship.

Mrs. Harvey not only enjoys writing her own poetry but also likes giving readings before gatherings. Singing and music are other favorite pastimes.

"I love to sing," she said. "I go around the house singing, in fact."

"But I don't care for that rock music," she confessed. "I like Lawrence Welk - the old-fashioned music. I watch him every week."

Asked to share wise words honed from her 90 years of living, Mrs. Harvey said humbly: "There are a lot wiser than I. I believe in the Bible and in prayer. My advice would be to say your prayers in the morning and to keep sunshine in your heart."

Quincy Comettes Edge Brockton, 2-1

The Quincy Comettes, an all-star team, made up of players from the Quincy Youth Association Girls League, got off to a fine start last week by edging the Brockton girls, 2-1.

Paula Constatas and Sharon O'Leary scored for the Comettes with assists for O'Leary, Terry Flynn, Eileen Marr and Marie McAuliffe. Doreen Hayes and Peggy Rugg excelled in goal and also turning in strong performances were Lisa Norling, Mary Ellen Riordan, Sue Rugg, Maureen Santry, Joanne Troy and Mary Wiedemann.

The Comettes also romped over the Pembroke "B" team, 9-0, at the Hobomack rink in Pembroke.

Marr had the hat trick and added two assists. Riordan and Flynn had two goals apiece and Riordan had two assists. Constatas and O'Leary had the other goals, while Santry had two assists and O'Leary, Kathy Flynn and Marie McAuliffe one each. Hayes and Rugg again were outstanding in goal.

Playing an independent schedule under the coaching of Frank McAuliffe and Paul Hussey, the Comettes have several more games lined up and will play an exhibition game during the Kiwanis tournament at the Quincy Youth Arena.

In the Quincy Girls' League Team Quincy goalie Peggy Rugg earned the shutout as her team defeated Tiffany, 6-0. Among those blanked by Peggy was her sister Sue.

Beth Colman and Mary Ellen Riordan each had hat tricks for all the goals and Riordan added three assists. Mary Ann McCarthy had two assists and Joan Troy, Colman and Squeaker Dacey one each.

The league-leading Red Barons topped Squantum Mobile, 5-3.

It was an up and down game as Betsy Kane gave Squantum the lead early in the first period with two goals, assisted by Laura Light. Kathy Flynn scored unassisted for the Barons and Paula Constatas tied it up with Eileen Marr and Lisa Norling assisting. Joan Lally put the Barons ahead in the third period with Flynn assisting and Constatas scored the winning goal unassisted. Squantum kept the pressure on as Sharon O'Leary scored, with Maureen Santry assisting, but Norling added an insurance goal for the Barons unassisted.

Tonight [Thursday] Team Quincy plays Squantum Mobile at 5:30 and Tiffany challenges the Barons at 7:30.

Police, Fire In Top Place Tie In Midget House

The Police Club moved back into a top tie with Fire in the Midget House League by blasting Fire, 7-0. Paul Lindenfelzler had the hat trick, Dave Gendreau two goals and Jim Constatas and Paul Palmer one each. Constatas had five assists, Lindenfelzler two and Gendreau and Paul O'Brien one each.

Cox blanked last place Suburban, 2-0, on goals by Jim Frye and Ken Johnston. Frank Shea, Paul McCormick, Bob Fibotte and Charlie Dedian had assists.

The standings:

MIDGET HOUSE LEAGUE

	W	L	T	Pts.
Fire	7	3	2	16
Police	7	3	2	16
Cox	7	4	1	15
Suburban	0	11	1	1

Lydton Holds Mite House Lead

Lydton Russell kept its one-point lead over Barry's Deli in the Mite House League with a 2-1 win over Forde Club.

Marc Abboud and Steve McDermott had the Lydton goals with assists for Bob Reidy, Pete Furtado and Mike O'Reilly. Tom Bossy scored for Forde with Rich Marnell and Pat Duffy assisting.

Barry's nipped Balducci's, 1-0, on Tom Ryan's goal. Sean Loughman and Mike McAuliffe assisted.

Davis Insurance topped Village Food, 3-1, with John Reinhardt, Ed Fleming and Sean McGinn having the goals and Jim Milano, McGinn and Jack Burke assisting. Steve Kelly scored for Village.

North Eliminates Quincy, But Has Tough Road Ahead

North Quincy's basketball team, which looked like a safe bet two weeks ago to make the state tourney, must win four of its five remaining games to make it, and last week the Raiders eliminated Quincy from the post-season event.

For the past week the topic on most everyone's lips was that Quincy-North rematch at the jam-packed Voc-Tech gym, won by North, 52-50, in the final second.

To this day no one is certain who scored the winning basket. With the score 50-50 and time running out, North took a shot and missed. With everyone scrambling under the hoop, the Raiders missed two or three taps and finally, with one second showing on the clock, the ball went in.

Asked who scored the winner, Coach Bob Nolan said he thought it was Tim Clifford.

But Clifford said no, it was Jay Nelson. Nelson doubted it was his tip-in and others felt it was Steve Martinelli.

Clifford was given credit but the happy Nolan said, "It doesn't matter who scored it. It was just a tremendous game and the boys just wouldn't quit, I'm proud of every one of them."

Quincy Coach Joe Amoroso, whose Presidents had lost several other heartbreakers, took the defeat graciously. "When two teams give 1000 percent like that, there really isn't a loser in that type of game." That just about summed up the hotly-contested game which gave North the city title with two straight wins over Quincy. Amoroso had high praise for all his players.

Clifford had 13 points and Cooper Jordan, Nelson and Paul Kelleher 10 each for North. For Quincy Bill Dacey had 19 before fouling out late in the game and sophomore Jack Uhlar scored 12.

Last Friday night Brookline's Suburban League leaders made North's road much tougher by topping the Raiders for the second time, 67-54, as 6-10 Mark Young, the league's top scorer, added 37 points.

Clifford had 17 points and Mark Reale and Jordan 12 apiece.

Quincy bounced back with a 70-43 breeze over Weymouth South, as Dacey and Uhlar had 15 points each.

North, now needing another miracle finish to make the tournament, met another major test Tuesday at Brockton, hosts Cambridge Latin Friday and goes to second place Weymouth North, another power, Tuesday. Quincy hosted Brookline Tuesday, goes to Rindge Tech for a 3:30 p.m. game Friday and is home to Brockton Tuesday.

North 9th Graders Sporting 7-2 Record

Ferrara (6-3), Joe Cahill (5-3), Kevin Greene (5-6) and Phil DiCarlo (5-2).

Deane plays the pivot and is an extremely hard worker and rebounder. He is improving all the time on defense.

O'Sullivan plays the weak side forward and is a good crashing rebounder, a fine shooter and blocks many shots. McCormack, the strong side forward, has played well and is always assigned to the opponent's best offensive player. He also scores well.

Wilkinson is a fine ball handling guard, very enthusiastic and a good floor leader. He scores well from the outside and also has the ability to go strongly to the basket.

Larkin is an excellent shooter and a steady point producer. He has also improved his defense tremendously.

Bregoli points to his strong bench as a key to the team's success. In a close game against Broadmeadows the reserves played well.

Reed plays well at guard, Chisholm is a strong, quick forward and is a strong rebounder and scorer, Carroll shows great desire and has the potential to blossom in high school, Pappas and Anderson are good shooters, Ferrara and Marinelli give North good depth at center, while DiCarlo, Cahill and Greene fill in well at guard.

"The team has shown an intense desire to win and have come to appreciate the pride that comes with wearing the uniform of a North team," Bregoli said. "Most of the players go to the varsity home games and Coach Bob Nolan of the varsity is also in close contact with me. He is aware of the team's progress and also the individual player's progress."

"The main strength of the team is its rebounding ability and strong defense. They have come to learn that offense will usually take care of itself. They do, however, run the offense very well becoming patient and disciplined in that respect."

Today (Thursday) North hosts Broadmeadows and next Thursday ends its season with a home game against North.

Meanwhile, Bill Willoughby's Atlantic seventh and eighth grade teams are also having fine seasons with the eighth graders 9-0 and the seventh grade 7-2.

O'Brien Club Edged

The Cranberry Basketball League race tightened up Sunday when the league-leading O'Brien Club of Quincy suffered one of its most frustrating losses, 117-116, to the Boston Stars, in overtime before more than 300 fans at North Quincy High.

The loss dropped the O'Brien Club to 15-3, while the Quincy Gamblers moved to within a half game with a 14-3 record when they defeated the Brockton Huskies, 79-63, Sunday at Brockton. The Stars are also 14-3.

Sunday night at 7 the O'Brien Club will host the Middleboro Brewers at North Quincy High and the Gamblers will be home to the Weymouth Alphas at 6:30 at the old Quincy High gym.

In Sunday's loss to the Stars,

Midget A's In 2nd Place

The Midget A team is in second place in the league, which plays its games at the Charles River Rink, with an 11-5-4 record.

The Midgets lost to Brockton, 4-2, with Mark Paolucci scoring both goals and Dave Peters and Paul Hanton having assists.

The team played to a 2-2 tie with West Roxbury, with Tom Cahill having both goals and Dennis Bertoni, Dave Previte and Dave Perdios having assists.

Joe Cullen and Ronnie Beresniewicz were in goal.

The Midget A's play Randolph Sunday at Charles River.

Quincy Matmen Defeat North, 43-15

In the first Quincy-North Quincy high school wrestling meet in more than 30 years last Friday, Quincy took an easy 43-15 win at North Quincy.

It was the last Suburban League meet for winless North, while Quincy, winless until Friday's meet, hosts Waltham Friday at 3:30 p.m.

North's only actual earned victory was in the 114-pound class when John Minuka won a 5-4 decision over Craig Shea.

The other Raider wins were by default, Dan McGuigan in the 95-pound class and Harry Knudson in the heavyweight class.

In the 107-pound class Quincy's Paul Madden pinned Art Dorgan in 4:38.

Gary Oriola of the Presidents pinned Nathan Belofski in 3:13 in the 119-pound class.

Quincy won the 126-pound bout by default and Tim Cahill decided Mark Donaghue, 10-1, in the 132-pound class.

In the 138-pound division Brian Kelly won over Steve Ketches, 4-0.

Joe Moran of Quincy pinned Paul Stack in 2:14 in the 145-pound class.

Wayne Gardner won a 10-0 decision over Mike McGurl at 155 pounds and Anthony Luongo decided Ted O'Donnell, 7-1, at 167 pounds. In the 185-pound class Brian Brown pinned Tom Joyce in 2:24.

Quincy Girls' Gym Team Strongly Improved

A year ago the high score for the Quincy Girls' gymnastics team was 63 points.

The First Ladies equalled that total in their second meet this year in defeating North Quincy, 63-56.

The Quincy girls also made a creditable showing in their opener, losing to more experienced Brookline, 77-58.

"Scoring 63 points is an excellent accomplishment, as the top scorers on last year's team all graduated," said Coach Gretha Ruark. "The majority of this year's team are sophomores with little or no competitive experience. This year's sophomore class has the best gymnastics ability of any incoming class in the five years I've been at Quincy."

Lone seniors on the team are Co-Captain Vera Smolderen and Cassia Gongolas. The only junior is Co-Captain Sandra Molla.

The rest are sophomores, Sheila Burke, Janice Beaudry, Randa Broughton, Sheila Cullen, Lee Depaulo, Lisa Gold, Lois Golden, Cheryl Machado, Janice Marcel, Michele Murphy, Donna Regiannini and Mary Shattuck. The head manager is Susan Connick.

Sheila Burke is the team's all-around competitor, doing all four events, although only a sophomore. Against North Quincy she scored 25 of the team's 63 points. According to her coach, she should qualify for the state individual meet in March.

The Quincy girls compete at Newton Feb. 7 and the final home meet is Feb. 10 against Waltham. The girls will participate in the league championship meet at Waltham on Feb. 14.

Enrollment Feb. 15 For Y Men's Fitness Program

The Quincy YMCA will hold an enrollment clinic for its physical fitness program for men Saturday, Feb. 15 at 2 p.m. in the YMCA auditorium.

Men, 18 years and older who wish to enter the 15-week fitness program must attend the enrollment clinic with a signed medical clearance form from their physician before they can attend the first class.

Registration fee for the class is $10.

Enrollees will be given strength, flexibility, blood pressure, and cardiovascular tests at the clinic and will be tested again at the conclusion of the 15-week program. This will determine the progress they have made.

The fitness program begins Wednesday, Feb. 19 with six classes at various times during the week under the leadership of a trained professional staff. The schedule:

Monday, Wednesday, Friday,

7 a.m. - 7:45 a.m.

Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, 7:15 p.m. - 8 p.m.

For further information contact Paul Harvey, Bill Johnson, or Jim Rendle at the Quincy YMCA, 479-8500.

Quincy's Tourney Hopes Dim, Raiders Remain Luckless

At the start of the season the Quincy hockey team's hopes of making the state tournament were high.

They stayed that way for the first several games as the Presidents won their first five games and seven of their first eight.

However, things took a turn for the worse and following last Saturday's 5-3 loss to Weymouth North, Quincy must win all five of its remaining games to qualify. And those games include league-leading Brockton and tough Brookline.

Quincy [9-4] yesterday [Wednesday] played Cambridge Latin. It hosts Brookline Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Youth Arena and next Wednesday will play at Brockton's Asiaf rink at 6:30.

Saturday's loss was especially disappointing, as Quincy had walloped Weymouth North, 7-2, earlier. However, Weymouth came along strong and is right behind Brockton in the Suburban League.

After Weymouth had taken a 2-0 first period lead, Ted Wiedemann scored unassisted in the second period and Steve Neville tied it with Pete Raymer and Leo Kearney assisting. Weymouth, however, scored twice later in the period to lead, 4-2. In the final period Weymouth made it 5-2 and Rich Lynch converted passes from Wiedemann and Paul Lynch for a consolation Quincy goal.

Earlier in the week Quincy had romped over Weymouth South, 8-3, in a game the Presidents dedicated to the late Eddie Hansen, who had done much for youth hockey in Quincy and who died two days before the game. The Quincy players had attended the funeral the morning of the game. Hansen coached many of the Quincy players in youth hockey and had coached Wiedemann since he was a Pee Wee.

Wiedemann had two goals and four assists, Billy Hamill two goals and two assists, Frank Guest, Kearney, Brian Nevins and Rick Avery a goal each and Lucier and Lynch an assist apiece.

North Quincy's hard-working but luckless team played a 4-4 tie with Weymouth South Saturday night. North was within two minutes of a win but Weymouth scored the two tying goals four seconds apart.

Steve Cronin had two goals and Mike McLean and Alan Thomas one each for North. Murphy had two assists and Glenn Hanson one.

Earlier in the week North, following a great comeback which tied strong Waltham, 5-5, dropped a 3-1 decision to Brookline with Cronin scoring the only goal and McLean assisting.

North played Newton Tuesday. The Raiders [1-9-3] will play Cambridge Latin Saturday at 5 o'clock at the Youth Arena and next Wednesday at 2:30 will meet Rindge Tech at Boston Arena.

Harrington, O'Connor, Reardon and Mike McArdle one apiece. Durham, O'Connell, Dave Allen and Costello had assists.

Moving up into A League competition, the B team lost to Bridgewater, 4-1, with Ready scoring the goal and Mike Conlon assisting, and lost to Rockland, 7-0.

O'Connell and Tom O'Connor had assists.

The team nipped Hull, 4-3, with goals by Reardon, Durham, O'Connell and O'Connor and assists for Dick Tapper, Harrington, Ready and Dave DiCarlo.

The B's walloped Bridgewater-Raynham, 6-1, with DiCarlo having two goals and

Squirt B Minors Add 3 More Wins

The Squirt B Minor team hiked its league record to 13-3-2 with three wins during the past week.

The B team defeated Abington, 5-1, with Chris Harrington scoring twice and Richie Durham, Dave Allen and Bob Ready once each. Kevin Greene, Rick Reardon, John

Pee Wee A's Qualify For Tourney

The Pee Wee A team, with a 17-4-1 record, walloped Avon, 8-0 in its first game to qualify for the state tournament.

Robbie Zanardelli and Bobby Beniers had two goals each and Paul McGrath, George Mackey, Freddie Palmer and Neil Shea one apiece. Palmer had three assists, and Mackey, Beniers, Tommy Gerry and Zanardelli one each.

Secred Heart Edged By St. Moritz

The Sacred Heart hockey team of North Quincy suffered Hingham, 3-3. Gerry, Robbie Craig and Robbie McHugh had the goals and Neil Shea, Scott Richardson, Mark Messina and Bobby Carrier assists.

Its first loss Monday, bowing to St. Moritz, 5-4, at Shea Rink.

Mike Therrien had two Sacred Heart goals and Marty Mulvey and Bill Bent one each. Mulvey and Jim Cunniff had assists. Quincy had a chance to tie with a penalty shot late in the game but it missed.

Don Heath was the winning goalie and Dennis McDonough was in goal for Sacred Heart.

Sacred Heart will play its Alumni Monday at 9 p.m. at Shea.

Teachers Take Top, Morrisette Moves Up

Quincy Teachers moved into first place in the Pee Wee House League by topping Keohane's, 4-1.

Jim McGregor, Mike McSweeney, Jack Sayers and Mike Abboud had the goals. Ed Butts had two assists, Abboud, Sayers, McSweeney and Paul Connolly one apiece. Jamie Rooney scored for Keohane's.

Morrisette topped Farina, 5-2, to leave the cellar. Kevin Gallo had two Morrisette goals and Jack Leone, John Keely and John Baylis one each. Baylis and Bob Flynn had assists. John Coleman and Phil Phillips scored for Farina and Steve Picot, Jim Roche, Jim Morash and Mark Griffin had assists.

Harold Club defeated UCT, 6-2. Rich McCarthy scored twice for Harold and Mike Smith, Al DiVincentis, Bob Welch and Ed DiTullio once each. Tony Chiochio had three assists, DiTullio two and Welch, Tom Hennessey, Mike Smith, Tom Rooney and McCarthy one apiece. For UCT Rich Isaac had both goals and Steve DeLuca an assist.

Team Quincy defeated Davis, 4-2. Dick Carruth had the hat trick and Glenn Collins the other goal for Quincy, while Tom Smith had two assists and Robbie Murray and John Bowen had assists. Frank McCormack and Bill Mathews scored for Davis and Dick Joyce had two assists and Brian Flynn and Mark Andrews one each.

Morrisette outlasted McInnis, 7-5. Flynn and Ed Doherty had two goals each for Morrisette and John Keeley, Paul Melia and Kevin Gallo one apiece. Leone had four assists, Gallo, Baylis and Doherty two each and Ed Campbell, Fred Sousa, and Melia one apiece. For McInnis Jay Princiotta, Don Reidy, Mark Whalen, Mike Looby and John McInnis had the goals and Jack Mahoney, Steve Ricci, Wayne Cooper and Looby assists.

Carlyle High Rollers In Men's Tourney

The Qualifying rounds of the 22nd annual Greater Quincy Men's Candelpin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy rolled on Sunday afternoon at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys before a full house of spectators and when the action was completed seven teams remained of the 28 entered for the event.

In the top scoring match, defending champion Carlyle Merchants of Whitman bowed high for the day to defeat Adams Heights Mens Club 1807-1597, and gain a bye into the semi-finals Feb. 16.

The remaining six winners from Sunday will return for the quarter finals next Sunday afternoon. They include:

East Weymouth who trounced Blessed Sacrament of Quincy 1772-1531, Colonial Bowl of Weymouth who defeated the Woodshooters 1723-1670, Beau's who eliminated Columbian Square 1704-1615, Quincy Merchants who outlasted Wessagussett of Weymouth 1685-1625, Boston Gear Works who ousted Federal Auto Body 1581-1483, and Penn A.A. who disposed of the Socialites 1576-1504.

Carlyle jumped off to a 68-pin first string lead, gathered in 88 more from Adams Heights in the second and made it a clean sweep with 54 in the final for the 210 pin victory.

Jim Rigo led his team to its lopsided win with a 401 high three string total for the day, and the tourney thus far. Others aiding in the victory were, Dennis Chick, 389, Dick Ewell 350, Bill Robbins 343, and Paul Kirby 324.

For Heights team, Bob MacLeod was top with 358, followed by Larry Curtin 327, Howie Hollis 320, and Reno Guidici 305.

East Weymouth won the first string by only 11 pins from Blessed Sacrament, but roared to a 115-pin second string win and duplicated the feat in the final with 115 more and a 241-pin triumph.

Marty Martell led the winners with 379, and was assisted by Paul Paton 372, Rick Chlingarian 368, Steve Lang 336, and Steve Parker 323.

Bob McDonough with 353 was tops for Blessed Sacrament followed by John Wainwright 331, and Jim Steen 307.

Colonial Bowl jumped to a 33 pin first string lead over the Woodshooters, found their lead shrink to ten pins at the end of two strings, but came on strong in the last string to put the contest out of sight for the losers.

Lou Pagnani led the winners with 371, aided by Mike Fardy 359, Dick Burbine 351, Ron Brewer 333, and Bill Nicholson 309.

Ken Hanson with 358 was top for the losers, followed by Bob Hefner 353, Jim Welch 339, Bob Healy 316, and Wayne Smith 304.

Beau's came up with an 88-pin first string win over Columbian Square, and dropped its second by 7, but won the third by 8, to coast to victory.

Beau's leader was Fred Connelly with 361, Bob Hillier 348, Jim Blake 344, Buster Loud 326, and Paul Mattes 325.

Dave Bates 365 was high but to no avail for the losers. Dick Waiteratis posted a 334, Ray Pino 327, and Jack Hammill 310.

Quincy Merchants found it difficult to subdue Wessagussett of Weymouth winning the first string by 19 pins and the second by 8, but found it a little easier in the third with a 29-pin advantage, and a 56 pin victory.

George Verico with 356 topped the winners while Bob Hurst chipped in 348, Mike Valenti 343, Wes Cobb 321, and Pete Hartford 317.

Wessagussett leading scorer was Tony Grassia 332, Paul Roy 330, Myrie Derbyshire 329, Jim Borsari 320, and Ted Miller 317.

Boston Gear Works could only gain 20 pins from Federal Auto Body in the first string, but took advantage of a second cold string for the losers to gain 51 pins, and made it a sweep with 27 more in the final, for the 98 pin victory.

Paul Young with 346 was top for the Gearmen, Dana Chella had 322, Laurie Eklund 312, and Gene McGann 304.

Federal Auto Body with 335 was top for the losers, while Lennie Simes hit 300.

Penn A.A. had an easy afternoon catching a cold Socialites squad to win the first string by 44 pins and the second by 30.

Dave Molvar showed the way for Penn A.A. with 335, Dick Cummings 328, Frank Durato 314, and Frank Perfecto 307.

John Morella was high for the losers with 325, Ricky Palumbo 315, and Guido Pettinelli 308.

Burke Takes Over Little Loop Lead

The DA George Burke Club took over first place by a mere 33 pinfall edge in the Quincy Bowling Little Loop by defeating Montclair Men's Club, 3-1. The teams are tied with 41-19 records but Burke has a total pinfall of 19,046 to Montclair's 19,013.

Hennessy Plumbing Supply blanketed Atlantic Fuel Oil, 4-0, to move from fifth place to third place.

Behind Burke and Montclair are Hennessy, 37-23 [18,553]; Granite Lodge 1451 AFL-CIO, 35-35 [18,605]; James R. McIntyre Club, 34-26 [18,676]; George F. Bryan VFW Post, 33-27 [18,965]; Rep. Joseph E. Brett Club, 32-28 [18,519];

The 20th annual South Shore Women's Candelpin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy will open Sunday Feb. 16, at 12:30 p.m., at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, 17 Broad St., Quincy.

Applications are available at the alleys, and any South Shore Women's Candelpin Bowling League may participate. Requirements are:

Teams must be from an organized bowling league. "No pick-up teams are allowed. The top five bowlers of the league entered, must have bowled half the season thus far with their respective league, and may only bowl and be registered with one tourney entry.

league's top five averages to be picked for competition. The sixth and seventh bowlers in the standings are used as alternates.

If other bowlers are needed the league officials may choose down according to average. Any violation of the above rules will forfeit the team's participation. All matches will be decided on total pinfall in tourney competition. It is an elimination tournament; and each team must win its match of the day to continue.

Each member of the championship team will receive a trophy, upon completion of the tourney. Trophies will also be awarded for high tourney average, high individual three string total, and high individual single string.

Feb. 1, is the date for the

Angelis, Faiella Pace Sparrows

Nina Angelis and Alice Faiella are tied for high average in the Sparrow Bowling League with 97.8, but Nina leads in total pinfall with 4989 in 51 strings to Angelis's 4109 in 42 strings.

First Ladies Win City Championship

This has been a sad season for the Quincy and North Quincy girls basketball teams but Barbara Webster, who moved to Quincy this season after coaching North for the past three years has one thing to remember -- the city championship.

The First Ladies last week defeated the Raiderettes for the second time, 52-40. Earlier they had won, 54-44.

Facing Quincy was Lois Malvesti with 15 points. Cindy Tozzi scored 13. For Sandra Colletti's North team Elaine Shea scored 20 points and Cheryl Walsh 10.

The win boosted Quincy's record to 3-10 while North fell to 2-11.

Sheets Hopes To Kill Waste Disposal System Proposed For W. Quincy

City Councillor James A. Sheets hopes to defeat in committee a senate bill which would locate a comprehensive solid waste disposal system in West Quincy.

The Senate Committee on Counties will hold a hearing on the bill Friday at 10:30 a.m.

Proposed by the Norfolk County Commissioners, the bill would locate a solid waste disposal system in West Quincy to collect refuse from the towns of Weymouth, Cohasset, Milton and possibly Braintree.

The plant would be located at the present sanitary landfill site in West Quincy. County communities could voluntarily join the new disposal system.

Both Sheets and City Council President Arthur H. Tobin oppose passage of the bill. Sheets said:

"The people of West Quincy have endured enough hardship in terms of truck traffic and vermin and rodents as a result of the dumps having been located once on Quarry St. and now on Ricciuti Dr."

Sheets also said he questions the constitutionality of such county-controlled action. He cited 1965 legislation which granted to the health commissioner of a town or city "the full authority over management and supervision of disposal facilities and sanitary landfill operations." Passage of this bill would supercede that power given to local officials, Sheets said.

County Commissioner George McDonald, a West Quincy resident and former City Councillor, attended a special City Council meeting Monday, seeking the Council's endorsement of the waste disposal bill as well as a bill allowing the continued study of the county's waste disposal problem.

The Council voted 8-1 to allow continued study of the program, with Tobin casting the one dissenting vote. The Council then tabled a motion to endorse the county's solid waste disposal plan.

During the meeting, Tobin took the floor to voice his opposition to the proposed project. He said he agreed with Sheets that the people of West Quincy should not be saddled with disposal of solid wastes of surrounding towns. He told The Quincy Sun:

"I was happy the endorsement did not go through...I hope that residents will contact civic organizations to voice strong opposition to this proposed plan."

Sheets urged all concerned Quincy citizens to attend Friday's hearing on the bill before the Committee on Counties.

'Feeler' Meetings For South -West Community Center

The South-West Community Center will sponsor two preliminary "feeler" meetings to tap people's concerns and problems in the area of welfare.

These general meetings will help to plan a proposed welfare advocacy training program which will deal more specifically with the problem areas pinpointed during the general meetings.

The general sessions, open to both welfare and non-welfare residents in Quincy, will take place Monday, Feb. 10 at 1 p.m. and Thursday, Feb. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the Center, 372 Granite St.

Possible topics to be discussed include Medicaid, social security, supplemental security income, food stamps, day care and the rights of welfare recipients.

JWV To Honor Students For Brotherhood

Three Quincy students chosen by their classmates as best exemplifying brotherhood in their daily activities will be honored at a Feb. 9 breakfast meeting of Quincy Post No. 193 and Auxiliary of the Jewish War Veterans.

Charles F. Park, Jr. of Quincy High School, Lauren Snook of North Quincy High School and Keith W. McElman of Quincy Vocational Technical School will be among the guests of honor at the 9:30 a.m. breakfast meeting.

They will compete with students from 102 other schools participating in the "Classmates Today - Neighbors Tomorrow" project sponsored by the Department of Massachusetts Jewish War Veterans, its JWV Posts and the Northeast Region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Three state-wide winners will be chosen from a final group of six. The three winners will receive the Barney and Sarah Schlossberg Scholarships.

During the breakfast, Program Chairman David Freedman, past commander, and Auxiliary President Dallas Paul will make special presentations to the students.

Other members of the program committee include Irving Isaacson, Al Kofman, David Minkofsky, Ralph Paul, Nathan Goldberg, Ben Rudner, Joseph Litchman, all past commanders; Commander Arnold Levine; Senior Vice-President Bernard Pokat; Murray Cramer and Harvey Solomon.

Other Post offices are Sidney Tallen, Junior Vice-Commander and Past Commander; Edward Rubin, A. Adjutant; and Louis Simons, Quartermaster.

Fire Dept. Has New Captain, 2 Lieutenants

Mayor Walter J. Hannon announced Wednesday three promotions in the Quincy Fire Department.

Promoted to captain is Lt. Robert F. Curtin of 54 Standish Ave., Braintree, who joined the department in 1960, and was promoted to lieutenant in 1970. Firefighters John S.

McDonald and William S. Phelan, were promoted to lieutenant.

McDonald, a resident of 45 Silver St., Quincy Point, has been with the Fire Department 13 years. Phelan, of 92 Colby Rd, North Quincy, has served five and a half years.

The promotions are a result of the retirement of Captain Francis P. Lyons, and the death of Lt. Mario Ricci.

The three were sworn in by City Clerk John Gillis Wednesday. The promotions are effective Saturday.

Public Hearings Tonight On Wetlands

Quincy Conservation Commission will hold two public hearings tonight [Thursday] on MDC notices of intent to alter wetland areas in Quincy.

One hearing will include discussion of proposed reconstruction at Quincy Shore Drive and Fenno St., and improvements at Black's Creek and Caddy Park.

The second hearing will deal with planned improvements at Moswetuset Hummock on East Squantum St.

Clara Yeomans, executive secretary of QCC, said improvement and reconstruction plans will be available for public viewing at 7:15 p.m., 15 minutes before the scheduled 7:30 p.m. hearing.

The hearings will take place in City Council Chambers.

HERITAGE SPECIAL

Quincy, Ill. Most Like Our Quincy Than 18 Others

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

"Quincy" is indeed not a unique name for a city or town.

In fact, 19 other cities, towns, hamlets and villages throughout the country bear the famed name of "Quincy."

Yet, Quincy, Mass. is the sole city which pronounces its name Quin-zee. All the others, without exception, vow the correct pronunciation is "Quin-see."

Other interesting facts have been unearthed about our sister-cities through the research of Robert Waywood, information officer for Quincy Public Schools.

Last March, at the request of School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon, Waywood began a research project on other Quincys in conjunction with the upcoming 350th anniversary of Quincy, Mass.

Waywood prepared a 20-item questionnaire including factual information, interesting anecdotes, pronunciation, tourist attractions and tag names of each Quincy.

To date, Waywood has mailed letters to 15 other Quincys: Quincy, Ill., Fla., Ohio, Wis., Kan., Mich., N.H., Calif., Wash., Ky., W. Va., Pa., Ind., Mo., and Miss. Waywood said zip codes were not available for the other four Quincys located in Iowa, Ore., Tex. and N. M.

He has received, to date, responses from seven sister Quincys: Quincy, Ill., Wash., Pa., Ohio, Mo., Wis. and Calif.

The Quincy most like our own is Quincy, Ill., located on the east bank of the Mississippi River at the western edge of Illinois. Like our own city, Quincy, Ill. boasts a Quincy Bay, a Quincy College (a four-year, accredited, co-educational college), a Quincy Technical School, and a Quincy Symphony Orchestra.

Interestingly, the city operates

Conference Set For Feb. 19 Residents Urged To Air Views On Apartment Growth

Quincy residents will have an opportunity to express their views on apartment development and the city's growth policies Feb. 19.

They will be invited to speak out at a Multi-family Housing Conference conducted by the City Department of Planning and Community Development from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock School Cafeteria, Granite St.

The conference is part of a study being carried out by the Department of Planning at the request of Mayor Walter J. Hannon.

It stems from interest expressed by several city councillors and residents regarding future housing construction policies in the city.

The study will examine what effects apartment development has had on the community. It will also examine Quincy's present growth patterns including demographic changes, density, zoning, and the types of apartment construction to date.

The study will cover such areas as design, neighborhood impact and economic aspects of different types of housing.

The conference will be the first involvement of the community in the study.

"Our purpose is to give Quincy citizens an opportunity to air their views," said Geoffrey A. Davidson, Director of the Department of Planning and Community Development.

"We have compiled much background information on where the city has been regarding apartment development. We will be able to provide this information to people at the conference, but what is most important is the

Economic Deterioration Your Children May Be Eligible For Free Meals

Quincy families experiencing drastic drops in income during the school year may apply for free or reduced-price meals or free milk for their school children.

Quincy Public School officials noted, however, that such children are not automatically or categorically eligible for the free or reduced meal program.

Each affected family must apply and be approved by the designated school official for a free or reduced price meal or free milk in terms of present weekly or monthly total family income. Such total income must include all benefits being received, including union strike benefits. A specific determination must be made in terms of the applicable income guidelines.

Any such temporary eligibility ceases as soon as the family income exceeds the applicable guidelines of the school food authority.

The following guidelines will be used by the school system to determine whether or not a student is eligible for a free or reduced price meal:

Family Size	Max. Gross Income for Free Milk & Free Meals	Max. Gross Income for Reduced Price Meals
One	$ 0 to $ 2,910	$ 2,911 to $ 4,080

Study Committee To Decide Fate Of SPAIS

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

An eight-member study committee has been appointed to review the function and goals of Project SPAIS, the multi-community program of police information processing now in use at the Quincy Police Department.

Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly, chairman of the Special City Council Committee on Federal Funds, said the committee will recommend one of three alternatives after its thorough study:

- * Continue the program as it now functions.
- * Enlarge the program to include the informational processing needs of other city departments.
- * Eliminate the program altogether.

Project SPAIS is now scheduled to be phased out in July.

Members of the Study Committee are Police Chief Francis X. Finn, City Auditor Charles Shea, City Treasurer Robert Foy, Quincy City Hospital Comptroller John Fantucchio, Frank W. Vallier Jr., Principal Clerk of the Fire Department; Quincy Public Library Director Warren Watson, Steven H. Moynihan, Administrative assistant Quincy Public Schools, and Robert D. Brennan, Data Processing Director, Quincy Public Schools.

Project SPAIS - Suburban Police Automated Information System - began in 1968 as a computerized informational system serving Quincy, Braintree, Milton and Weymouth.

System Director Robert Mitchell said Project SPAIS has specifically provided "an improved communications link" with the state police and is continually updating files of wanted persons and providing information on stolen vehicles.

On a local level, Mitchell said SPAIS provides weekly and monthly statistics to various departments, including robbery rates, police vehicle response time and police activity figures.

From 1968-1973, Mitchell said the total cost of the program was $250,000 including $218,000 for police salaries. Quincy's share of that sum over the five year period was $73,000, including $60,000 in police salaries.

The current budget totals $176,000 including $111,000 in police salaries. The remaining $65,000 goes towards payment of civilian personnel. Quincy's share of that budget is $78,000, with $55,000 earmarked for police salaries and $23,000 for civilian personnel.

With the phase-out of Project SPAIS scheduled for July, Mitchell said he will recommend that the city of Quincy purchase the computer system presently in use at the police department for $140,000. The city has been paying rental fees for the computer since 1973 and can now opt to buy the system at about half the original cost.

Mitchell said this recommendation would also include an expansion of the program to serve the informational processing needs of other city departments.

Kelly's committee on federal funds gained insight into computer programming at a Wednesday morning meeting at State Street South.

The committee was then scheduled to meet at City Hall at 11 a.m. with the newly-named Study Committee to discuss guidelines, procedures and goals of Project SPAIS.

Army Engineers Seek

$2.59 Million For Coastal Projects

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has requested $59,000 for its on-going study of Quincy coastal streams and $2 million for the Weymouth Fore and Town River Navigation Projects. Both requests cover fiscal year 1976.

In making the announcement, Cong. James A. Burke said:

"These projects are of vital importance in aiding immediate as well as long-range flood control protection and water-related needs for the entire 11th Congressional District."

'Ending Discrimination'

Burke Bill Would Give Homemakers Full SS Coverage

early hearings on the bill and to analyze any alternative solutions proposed.

WASHINGTON -- Congressman James A. Burke (D-Mass) has co-sponsored legislation providing full social security coverage for homemakers, treating them as self-employed workers.

Under the new measure, a homemaker who becomes severely ill would qualify for social security disability benefits. A widower would also be eligible to apply for survivor's benefits in order to assist in paying for substitute homemaker services.

Burke said passage of this legislation would alleviate "one of the most severe forms of economic discrimination against women" - failure to recognize homemaker services as a valuable contribution to the nation's economy.

Co-sponsored by Rep. Barbara Jordan of Texas, the legislation would give each homemaker three options from which to select his or her "wage", thus enabling homemakers from both low and high-income families to participate in the program.

Burke also noted that under present law, a woman working for a number of years as a homemaker cannot build up social security benefits during the time she performs these homemaker services, even though she may have been employed both before and after her family matures.

Both Burke and Jordan said they realize the significant issues which this new legislation could generate. They hope to hold

Serving utensils placed at right

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
I am a bride and received a serving spoon and fork. Where should they be placed on the buffet table and how are they used? — Mrs. A. C. Berry

Dear Mrs. Berry:
The implements are placed to the right of the dish they go with. The spoon is held in the right hand and takes up the portion of the food. The fork, in the left hand, is used to help transport the portion to the plate.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
I am having a beige lace dress made to wear to my daughter's wedding. The mother of the bridegroom just wrote and said she, too, was planning to wear a beige lace dress. She lives on the East Coast. As the mother of the bride, should I write and tell her to exchange her dress for one of another color? — Distressed

Dear Distressed:
Since your dress is being custom-made it is doubtful if it will be at all like the mother of the bridegroom. There must be dozens of shades of beige and that many patterns for the fabric. Don't spoil the wedding by having the mothers-in-law at odds over a few yards of beige lace.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
I am a widow with two children attending college. I am going to marry a widower who has a married daughter. We both have considerable holdings and I would like to be assured my children will inherit their father's estate. I feel my fiancée's daughter should inherit her father's estate. Would it be proper to discuss this matter with my fiancée? — No Name

Dear No Name:
Certainly. Together you should seek the advice of a lawyer who will advise you on wills and trusts. He will also draw up such papers just the way you want. Complete all the arrangements BEFORE the wedding.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
My girl and I got engaged at Christmas. Would it be OK to wait until Valentine's Day to give her the engagement ring? — Jerry R.

Dear Jerry:
Of course. It would be a lovely gift. Since most girls expect an engagement ring I think you should tell your fiancée what you have in mind.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
Is it proper to serve soft drinks or beer in the can or bottle they come in? — Six-Pack Sam

Dear Sam:
At a picnic, yes, but in your own home the beverage should be served in a chilled glass or stein. Allow the guests to pour their own.

CHILD'S PLAY

This doll won't fall down

By BUROKER & HUNTSINGER
Copley News Service

It seems one is never too old to play with dolls, particularly when it is a funny one that makes people wonder how it came into being.

A Humpty-Dumpty type of roly-poly doll which won't topple over when shoved, is an intriguing little toy and actually very easy to make.

A prominent brand of ladies hose is packaged in an egg-shaped plastic container and sells for less than $1.50 in many supermarkets and department stores. Perhaps one of the women in your household, a relative or neighbor uses this particular product and would be willing to give you the empty container.

Or, perhaps you can rummage around leftover Easter supplies and find the type of plastic egg holder which opens to hold candy at that time of year. If necessary, an oval piece of Styrofoam, such as found in hobby shops, can also be used. Hollow out part of the inside and later cover it with a smooth surface such as contact paper. The important thing, however, is to have a hollow, egg shape.

The next step is to place some plasticine in the bottom of this container. Use a piece about the size of a large walnut and pack it so it will stick firmly in place.

ROLY-POLY — Rolled forward or backward or on its sides, this Humpty Dumpty type doll just won't topple or fall.

Then, seal the egg with tape and decorate it. The best way is to turn the surface into a face. A strip of felt glued around the center will not only hide the sealed section, but also becomes a neat collar to which a contrasting colored bow tie can be glued. Cut-out bits of felt can become eyes and a nose. Use contrasting colors for special effects such as big, bright pupils in the eyes.

Two rounds of felt can become a perky little hat glued to the small tapered top of the egg. It's a good chance to use your imagination and create any sort of character you wish.

That's all there is to it — except to see if you can topple the doll. Push it way over on its side, and the minute your finger is released he will bounce right back into place.

Little folk will love him. And, left by the telephone, you can be sure most adults will find he can add bounce to any conversation.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Make decisions about your true feelings regarding your mate or romantic partner. Everyone appears to be giving advice. Assess it carefully rather than becoming resentful. Your magnetism attracts social fun.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Call on your special talents to try something new now. Success appears assured. Don't be boastful or smug about your improved finances. Something that didn't work in the past could succeed now. Take advice.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — A totally unexpected event will require that you be adaptable. Take action along different paths when your way is blocked. Avoid sullen displays of temper. Think clearly and carefully — then act in open, honest way.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Be realistic in your evaluations. Set your goals and make a list of steps to be taken. Don't be discouraged — aim high. Don't make promises to people on the spur of the moment which you could later regret and be committed to fulfill.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — There is a chance that an investment may increase in value and this may be the time to "sell." Your work area is accented in a favorable way. Things flow smoothly and you are working toward an advancement of status.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — An unusual person may come into your life who is hard for you to understand. Be very realistic regarding finances and budget. Spend only for necessities. Telephone calls and correspondence involve a new project.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Working with higher-ups could now prove very helpful to your business success and prestige. A romantic interest from the past may reappear. Accent service in your career and the artistic approach. Good luck abounds.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Let others take the limelight now — accent is on others, mate, partners, associates. Things started last August are nearing completion now. Apply your efforts productively. Combine business with pleasure.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — An active week when you should be up and at 'em. Efforts toward home redecoration, beautification are rewarding. There is a possibility of change of residence — marriage may be part of your picture.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — You could be making a big decision now as a result of a letter you receive. Your present job is not especially challenging and you feel restless. Opportunities for work paying more money come to you.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Catch your breath and do little routine things around the house. Pay attention to personal appearance — get out and exercise. Relatives are helpful now. Guard important papers, wallet, credit cards against loss or theft.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Financial opportunities are accented now, with the likelihood of substantial gain. You worry about money could evidence in "stingy" actions which bring ridicule upon you. Upgrade your skills with more training.

World getting more crowded

Beef 'n' Beans, Rocky Mountain Style

This Pinto Bean Pot is a recipe to be lazily-simmered in a Dutch oven or in the popular slow-cook electric pots, forgotten for hours. Its origin is in the Rocky Mountain region where, because of unexcelled growing conditions, these buff-colored, dappled-with-brown Pinto beans are grown.

Beef 'n' Beans

- | | |
|---|------------------------------------|
| 2 cups Pinto beans | 1/4 cup diced green pepper |
| 6 cups water | 1 cup chopped onion |
| 3/4 to 1 pound lean beef, cut in 1/2-inch cubes | 3 cloves minced garlic |
| 1/4 pound diced salt pork | 1 teaspoon salt |
| 2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce (2 cups) | 1/2 teaspoon crushed dried oregano |

Soak rinsed beans overnight in measured amount of water. Or bring the water to the boiling point. Add beans; boil 2 minutes. Cover and let stand 1 hour. Bring beans and soaking water to the boiling point. Reduce heat; simmer beans 1 1/2 hours. Add remaining ingredients. Again simmer for 1 1/2 hours or until beef and beans are tender, stirring occasionally. Water or beef stock may be added. Makes 8 to 10 hearty servings.

Serve with a tossed green salad, hot rolls or garlic-buttered French bread and not much else. This dish can change completely by using chili powder to suit the taste instead of oregano. It freezes well. Dry beans are the richest common source of proteins among foods of vegetable origin. By adding to the bean dish some meat, even a little of the animal proteins, you have a good protein team.

HOT WATER

Almost 15 per cent of the energy used in the home is used to heat water, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. — CNS

CALORIE CONSUMPTION

The 630 billion calories of food consumed by Americans every day would provide enough energy to send 56 Saturn rockets to the moon or to heat 2.5 million homes. —

KILLER IN THE GARAGE

Gasoline engines of any kind can kill when operated behind closed doors. They all emit lethal carbon monoxide. Failure to remember this can cost the operator his life and can also be hazardous to building occupants when the garage is located beneath the building. Those who may open the garage doors while running the engine may overlook the fact that exhaust gas needs no door to penetrate sleeping quarters. Any opening, especially at or near the ceiling level can provide a passageway for escaping gas.

A Hamilton, Ontario's minister's wife and the couple's 18-year-old son were killed after carbon monoxide from a car left running in the basement garage seeped into their house. A similar episode happened in Houston, Texas when the Astro's star pitcher, Don Wilson, was found dead with his six-year-old son in their car in the garage and fumes seriously injured his wife and another child in rooms above. They were brought to the hospital in comas.

Quincy AFS Chapter Seeks Families To Host Foreign Students

The Quincy Chapter of the American Field Service is seeking Quincy families to host high-school age foreign exchange students during the coming 1975-1976 academic year.

Chapter President Darlene D'Olimpio of 70 South Walnut St., Quincy Point, said foreign students have lived one year with Quincy families throughout the past decade. The students, aged 16-18, attend Quincy High School, join in all aspects of American life, and become honorary citizens of Quincy.

In past years, Quincy families have welcomed into their homes students from Peru, the Philippines, Spain, Morocco, Brazil, Belgium and Norway, said Miss D'Olimpio.

She invites all interested families, young and old, with and without children, to apply to the exchange program. Additional information may be received by contacting Miss D'Olimpio at 773-7874.

ENGAGED — Mrs. James A. Hunter of 249 Lake View Ave., Cambridge, announces the engagement of her daughter, Pamela Elizabeth, to Richard H. Paulsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Paulsen of Woburn. Miss Hunter, also the daughter of the late James A. Hunter, is a graduate of Cambridge High and Latin School and is an honors graduate of Mary Brook's School in Boston. She received her degree in elementary education from Curry College and is teaching at the Wollaston School. Mr. Paulsen is a graduate of Woburn High School and Lowell Technological Institute. He served in the U.S. Army for two years, stationed in Germany. He is employed as an underwriter with Holyoke Mutual Fire Insurance Co. in Salem. An August wedding is planned.

Dr. David Goodman To Address Wollaston Mothers Club

Dr. David Goodman, chief of obstetrics and gynecology at Quincy City Hospital, will be the guest speaker at today's (Thursday's) luncheon meeting of the Wollaston Mothers' Club.

Dr. Goodman will discuss "A Woman and Her Health," emphasizing basic awareness of the elements of good health as well as prevention of health problems.

A light luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the parish hall of the Wollaston Lutheran Church, 550 Hancock St.

Hosting the meeting will be members of the Literary and Arts Committee, chaired by Mrs. Arthur Rochelle, Jr. Other committee members are Mrs. Matthew McDonnell, Mrs. Thomas Brownell, Mrs. Harold Goodwin, Mrs. Joseph McKenna, Mrs. Robert Rimmer, Mrs. Kenneth Rullis, Mrs. Simon Tutunjian, Mrs. Francis Whalen, Mrs. Kevin Golden, Mrs. James Hooley and Mrs. Robert Plunkett.

Assisting the committee will be members of the Gourmet Committee chaired by Mrs. Robert Walsh, Jr. and including Mrs. William Tyler, Mrs. Robert Noble and Mrs. Frederick Dempsey.

Mrs. Martin Cosgrove will then preside over a short business meeting.

Quantum Seniors To Hear Putnam Borden

Putnam S. Borden, director of the Quincy Council on Aging, will speak at the Tuesday, Feb. 18 meeting of the Squantum Senior Citizen Club.

Borden will discuss the many services offered to senior citizens in Quincy.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Star of the Sea Church. Area senior citizens are invited to join the club or to attend a meeting as a guest.

Refreshments will be served under the direction of Marjorie Holmberg and Edith MacDonald.

The Club is planning many future activities including a trip to the Amish country and the Pocono Mountains.

Valentine's Dance At Morrisette Post

Morrisette Legion Post Auxiliary will hold a Valentine's Day Dance Saturday at the Post Home, 54 Miller St., West Quincy.

William Lowry Easter Seal Coffee Day Chairman

Firefighter William T. Lowry has been named Coffee Day Chairman for Quincy announced Chuck Fairbanks, New England Patriots general manager and head coach, who is chairman of the 1975 Massachusetts Easter Seal Campaign.

A two-week special event beginning Thursday, Jan. 30, and ending Feb. 13, Coffee Day is designed to raise $55,000 across the state through the sale of Coffee Day Buttons. Waitresses, counter personnel and cashiers will urge customers to buy a button for $1., bearing the words, "I Am Helping Crippled Children".

Then on Coffee Day, Thursday, Feb. 13, customers displaying the button may drink coffee in any participating restaurant regardless of where they bought it.

The two-week Coffee Day event is endorsed by the Massachusetts Hotel-Motel and the Massachusetts Restaurant Associations. The purpose is to acquaint the general public with Easter Seal services and enlist financial support for them.

YMCA Indian Guide Enrollment Feb. 20

The Quincy YMCA's Indian Guide Program will hold an enrollment campaign Feb. 20 at the "Y" at 7:30 p.m.

"Y" Indian Guides is a program for fathers and sons (ages 6-8 years). Together they participate as big and little braves in small units consisting of 4-7 fathers and sons known as tribes. Its purpose is to multiply the number of things that fathers and sons can do together.

As the name indicates, the program of "Y" Indian Guides is based upon the lore of the American Indians. Tribal meetings are held in rotation in the homes of the braves. The tribes are given maximum freedom giving boys full opportunity to develop their initiative under the guidance of their dads.

Some of the activities included in the program are: trips, handicrafts, story-telling, study of Indian culture, songs, games, picnics and camping.

The Quincy nations invites all fathers and sons to its organizational meeting Feb. 20. Chiefs from the six tribes will be on hand to discuss and answer questions. After the meeting both fathers and sons are invited to attend the tribal meeting nearest them. This enables new enrollees to view an individual tribe in action.

For further information contact William Johnson at the Quincy YMCA, 479-8500.

QUINCY CITY HALL, erected in 1844, is a handsomely designed granite and pillared building, located in the heart of Quincy Sq.

Residents Urged To Air Apartment Growth Views opportunity residents will have in helping to shape the citizen's direction on future growth."

The study could result in recommendations to the Mayor and City Council regarding alternative growth policies for Quincy.

There is a $3. registration fee to cover the cost of materials and lunch. Free babysitting is also available. Advance registration is requested and can be made by mailing a check to the City of Quincy, Department of Planning and Community Development, 55 Sea St. Quincy, 02169. Registrations may also be made at the door.

Invitations were sent by the Department to 400 clubs and associations in Quincy. Many have registered and completed a checklist covering major aspects of multi-family housing. The checklists were prepared by the Department.

"Filling out checklists telling which issues they considered most important gave people input into determining the direction of the conference," said Miss Mary Weafer, assistant planner, who is organizing the conference.

According to the checklist response, top priority issues include Quincy's image, and the housing characteristics of city neighborhoods, including population, density and the relationship of the design of an apartment building to the surrounding area.

The economics of multi-family housing is also of interest. The costs of city services and tax returns to the City from different types of residential development are important to many. In addition, development which can benefit and enhance the City is a major item of concern.

Miss Weafer said a tentative schedule for the day includes an informational session in the morning with a panel discussion.

Members of the panel include Seth Hirschorn, an assistant professor at Northeastern University, G. Timothy O'Reilly, vice president and director of New England Operations, Gladstone Associates; John Vivian, president of Quincy Bank and William Hicks, associate planner of the Office of Environmental Affairs.

Members of the Department of Planning and Community Development will discuss zoning, the growth of apartments and changing trends in the City's population and housing market.

A case study with participants from the Fire, Water and Building Departments will enact the process developers go through to get building permits.

Workshops are scheduled for most of the afternoon.

Following lunch, participants will choose one of three workshops for an in-depth discussion, of an aspect of multi-family housing.

"These groups will talk about many aspects of apartments and neighborhood life; community image and design; and the effects of multi-family housing on the City's economy," said Miss Weafer. "The group will also be asked to draw up a list of the benefits and problems which should be considered in evaluating apartment proposals."

Quincy, Ill. Most Like Our Quincy

under a combined system of trash and garbage collection, like our own city.

According to the 1970 census, the population in Quincy, Ill. is 45,288, making it the next-to-largest Quincy in the country, second only to Quincy, Mass. with a population about twice as large.

In September 1973, a new "mid-high" and vocational school opened, financed by the passage of a $7,950,000 bond issue. A downtown shopping mall is under construction in the city which already boasts two shopping centers and two in-city shopping areas.

City officials not only gave their community the middle name of John Quincy Adams, they also used his first and last names to honor the sixth president of their nation. The public square was called "John's Square" (now changed to Washington Park) and the county was named Adams.

The sixth of the famous Lincoln-Douglas debates took place in John's Square where a throng of 15,000 heard Lincoln elicit from Douglas the admission that he favored the settling of the slavery question state-by-state. Although the statement won a Senate seat for Douglas that year, it won the presidency for Lincoln two years later.

Quincy, Calif., located in Plumas County, is the second largest other Quincy having a population of 5,000. Settled by gold seekers, the county still abounds with traces of the romantic gold-rush days. A brochure distributed by the Plumas County Chamber of Commerce reports:

"Abandoned stone work, tunnels, tailings, mining equipment, ghost towns and once-rich bars along the rivers and canyons are nostalgic reminders of the roaring days when men toiled and fought for the precious yellow metal."

This Quincy was not named after John Quincy Adams like so many other sister Quincys but for someone who came from a Quincy.

Norma J. Carr, assistant curator of the Plumas County Museum, answered Waywood's questionnaire, writing that citizens named their community in honor of John Bradley, a pioneer settler who hailed from Quincy, Ill.

She also noted logging and cattle ranching as the main industries in Quincy, Calif.

The chief industry in Quincy, Wash., a community of 3,380, is farming. Located in the Columbia Basin, the town was recently irrigated by the Grand Coulee Dam, bringing fertile soil to the area.

A post card sent to Waywood by Mrs. Jessie Overman, secretary of the town's Chamber of Commerce, describes Quincy, Wash. as "an ideal place to work and play," having "excellent hunting and fishing, a dry climate and sunny days."

A letter from Mrs. John E. Geesaman, postmaster in Quincy, Pa., tells of a small village of 600, located at the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Mrs. Geesaman reported the village went through a series of name changes but many town records were destroyed in the burning of Cambridgebury - then the county seat - during the Civil War.

Located only 25 miles from Gettysburg, Quincy, Pa. is a fertile farming land, abounding with cherry, peach and apple orchards.

A tornado all but destroyed the town of Quincy, Ohio in 1872, 33 years after it was incorporated as a village. Located in the southwest corner of Logan County and situated on a high bluff overlooking the Great Miami River, Quincy, Ohio has a population of 634.

Mrs. Helen R. Wirick answered Waywood's questionnaire, telling of the centennial celebration in the village from May 25-28, 1939. She reported the presentation of a home talent pageant depicting the early history of the village.

Quincy, she said, used to mark the meeting of east and west on the Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus and Indianapolis railroad. To celebrate the completion of the railway, Mrs. Wirick related that the townswomen planned a huge feast for all the laborers. But "a band of ruffians" ran through the town, upsetting the tables and food.

A Mrs. Daria Rogers, town clerk in Quincy, Wis., pinpointed her town's population at 444. Originally called Kingsburg Crossing, this Quincy is located in Adams County and was the county seat until 1859.

Despite the small population, Mrs. Rogers lists a tourist attraction in her town - Castle Rock Lake. She reports, too, that her Quincy is famous for making palettes.

The tiniest Quincy to reply to Waywood's questionnaire is also the final one to reply to date. Quincy, Mo. has a total population of . . . 25.

Kathryn Gilbert, postmaster in Quincy, Mo., said the village consists of "one general store, a post office and a shop where a mechanic repairs motor vehicles and tractors."

She said the community was "quite thriving" from the close of the Civil War until the Depression. Yet the people in the tiny hamlet seem content. She closes her letter writing:

"We are happy to be here out in the so-called 'boon-docks' with clean air to breathe, good fishing and just plain 'good living!' Come to see us sometime."

Trust Fund Started For Guard Shot In Inmate Escape

The Massachusetts County Correctional Officer's Association has established a Joseph Stroy Trust Fund to benefit the Norfolk County correctional officer shot in the Jan. 29 inmate escape.

Both Sheriff Clifford Marshall and Deputy Master Robert Campbell met in executive session Feb. 10 with the Association which then voted to begin the fund with a $100 contribution.

Stroy, 49, was shot in the back during the recent escape of four House of Correction inmates. He is still hospitalized and doctors say it is likely his left leg will be permanently paralyzed as a result of the gunshot wound.

Contributions to the Joseph Stroy Trust Fund can be sent to the Norfolk County House of Correction and Jail, Box 149, Dedham, Mass. 02026.

Deputy Master Campbell is fund chairman, James Riley is fund treasurer and Mrs. Mary Schofield is fund secretary.

Marshall said some inmates at the Dedham Jail have volunteered to contribute to the fund.

S.S. Alcoholism Clinic On WJDA Spotlight Feb. 19

The South Shore Alcoholism Clinic Without Walls will be the topic of discussion during WJDA's Community Spotlight, Wednesday, Feb. 19 at 3 p.m. Robert Walsh, co-ordinator of the Clinic, and Mary Vallier, R.N., clinical director, will tell listeners of the Clinic services provided to both individuals and families plagued by alcohol problems.

The Spotlight interview is part of WJDA series focusing on community mental health services and issues pertaining to South Shore residents.

The Feb. 19 program will be produced by Ed Pieczenik, South Shore Mental Health Center intern from the Smith College School for Social Work in Northampton.

Max Zides: A Man Of Two Worlds

By HENRY BOSWORTH

"Max was the finest man I've ever known..."

It was Tom Currier speaking of his long-time partner and friend, Max Zides, as we drove back from snow blanketed Knesseth Israel Cemetery in Woburn.

Tom had flown up from his home in Reston, Va. to attend the services for Max who died last Thursday after collapsing outside his Beaconsfield Rd, Brookline, home.

Joe Gildea of North Quincy, a friend of both and one of the first to hear, called me early that morning. And I was the one who was to break the sad news to Tom.

I reached him in Reston by telephone and told him as gently as possible. "Oh, no," he said.

Death had broken up the famed harmony team of Hum 'n Strum and taken from us one of those rare real nice human beings, that don't come along often enough in our lifetime.

Only 12 days before, Max and Tom had been honored by the Montclair Men's Club at its 25th annual awards dinner.

They were cited for their outstanding contributions to the field of entertainment and for the countless hours they gave to charitable causes. They could never say "no" when it came to a worthy cause.

I remember Max's son, Alan, beaming proudly as his Dad and Tom received their plaques.

And who could forget all the fun and enjoyment of that night as Max and Tom sang several of their old but lasting hits: "Heart of My Heart", "Steve O'Donnell's Wake", "If I Knock The L Out of Kelly", etc.

None of us realized then that this was the final performance of Hum 'n Strum - an act that went back to 1924 and which even retirement in 1958 couldn't keep from getting together again from time to time.

Harry Carlson who was with us that night at Montclair couldn't make it back from Florida in time for the services. His son-in-law and business assistant, Alan Patrick had gone with me to the airport to meet Tom. And with us now was Lawrence Herman, owner of the Archer Kent store chain.

As we rode down Rte. 93 heading back to Boston from the cemetery, Tom was thinking of that night at the Montclair Men's Club.

"Wasn't it wonderful that we had that time?" he asked. "Max was so happy that night. He really enjoyed himself. You know it was almost as though fate..." And his thoughts trailed off.

We thought also of the words of Rabbi Abraham Koolyk who officiated at the services for Max.

He noted that Max had lived in two worlds. One was the world of entertainment and the other "the world of his heart."

Max, he said, never let the glamorous world of show business interfere with his personal life.

"His real world was the world of his heart," said the Rabbi. "He loved and lived for his family. He was a devoted husband and father."

Tom was then recalling how he and Max got together. They had gone to Commerce High School together but did not really know each other then.

In 1924, Tom accompanied a friend to a Boston music publishing firm and Max happened to be there. They got to talking.

Max had a ukulele with him and had gone to the studio to rehearse. He was appearing on that new thing called radio as Ukulele Ike or Ukulele Luke. Tom couldn't remember for sure.

Tom mentioned he played the ukulele, too, but "backhanded". And he gave Max a sample.

"Too bad you can't sing," Max said. "I can, a little," Tom replied.

"Can you harmonize?" Max asked. "Sure," replied Tom. And, they did.

Sounds pretty good," someone in the studio said.

The pair shook hands and the harmony team of Hum 'n Strum was born. They started singing together over an early Medford radio station. Radio was still in its infancy and if you were lucky you owned a crystal set made from a Quaker Oats cereal box.

"We never realized the impact radio was having even in those early days," Tom mused.

One day an agent came to them and asked them if they would like to play Loew's State. "Give you $100 each a week," he said.

Tom and Max were flabbergasted. That was a lot of money and it probably saved the act. Both their mothers had been telling them to stop the music nonsense and get a decent job.

"When we arrived at Loew's State," recalled Tom, "there was a long line of people waiting to get tickets. I said to Max, 'There must be a good picture playing.'"

They soon found out that the crowd had come to see them. Radio had made them local celebrities. The rest is history.

They went from there to the Palace in New York, along the top vaudeville circuits, NBC radio, records and television, entertaining millions over a 35-year team career. And, of course, became a Quincy institution at the old Fox & Hounds.

They were the first vaudeville act to use a P.A. system, an offshoot of their early radio days. They taught George Burns and Grace Allen how to talk into a microphone. And sent them and a young Phil Silvers on their way to radio and show business stardom.

That night we drove Tom to the airport and bid him farewell.

It would take just a little over an hour to fly to Washington. But we all knew as he walked away from his plane it would be a much longer trip home that night for a man alone with his thoughts of someone who had been closer to him than a brother.

In Quincy's Honor

Bishop Fulton Sheen At St. Mary's Mass

Archbishop Fulton Sheen will deliver the sermon at a concelebrated Mass Saturday, commemorating the 350th anniversary of the founding of Mt. Wollaston.

The 5 p.m. Mass will be offered at St. Mary's Church, Crescent St., West Quincy.

Principal celebrant of the Mass will be Msgr. John Mullarkey, a life-long resident of West Quincy. He will be assisted by the pastors of the city's nine Catholic parishes: Msgr. Mark Keohane of the Star of the Sea Church, Squantum; Msgr. Richard Hawk of Sacred Heart, North Quincy; Msgr. James Scally of St. Ann's, Wollaston; Rev. John Tierney of St. John's, Quincy; Rev. John Dacey of St. Boniface's, Germantown; Rev. James Hart of Blessed Sacrament, Houghs Neck; Rev.

Thomas Croke of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Merrymount; Rev. Joseph Downey of St. Joseph's, Quincy Point; and Rev. John McMahon of St. Mary's, West Quincy.

Also assisting will be two auxiliary bishops of Boston, Bishop Joseph Maguire and Bishop Lawrence Riley.

In his sermon, Archbishop Sheen will pay tribute to the religious and civic achievements of Quincy.

Joining the procession before the Mass will be Rev. Robert Sheridan of Boston College High School, Rev. Cornelius Heery, vicar apostolic of the South Shore; Rev. Thomas Donovan of the Immaculate Conception Church, Boston; and Rev. Joseph Deacon of St. Mary's, Scituate.

Many local Protestant ministers and their wives will attend the Mass, including Rev. and Mrs. Timothy Smith, Rev. and Mrs. Douglas MacIntosh, Pastor and Mrs. Frank Bauer, Rev. and Mrs. Ronald Cebik and Rev. John Graham.

The Archdiocesan Choir of St. Paul's, Cambridge, under the direction of Theodore Marier, will provide music at the Mass. Composed of 50 boys, the choir is nationally known.

Invited guests include Congressman James A. Burke, Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti, Mayor Walter J. Hannon, James McIntyre, Amelia Della Chiesa and Thomas Burgin, all former Quincy mayors, Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Rep. Joseph Brett, Rep. William Delahunt, Rep. Robert Cerasoli and Dist. Atty. George Burke.

Bishop Joseph Maguire To Speak At Morrissette Military Mass

Bishop Joseph F. Maguire, auxiliary bishop of Boston, will give the sermon at the 46th Annual Military Mass of Morrissette Legion Post, Monday, Feb. 17.

The Mass, said in honor of deceased Post members, will begin at 10 a.m. in St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

At 8 a.m. memorial wreaths will be placed on the graves of Cyril P. Morrissette and John A. Boyd, after whom the John A. Boyd Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, was named.

Flag raising ceremonies will take place on the Post grounds, 54 Miller St., West Quincy, at 9 a.m. A parade will then form at 9:15 a.m. and proceed to the church.

Leading the parade will be the Quincy Police Department color guard as well as American Legion state and county color guards. Bishop Maguire, honorary chaplain, Eugene Young, chaplain, and Chief Marshall Paul W. O'Neill, a past Post commander, will march in the leading contingent.

Invited guests will include American Legion Department officers, city officials, headed by Mayor Walter J. Hannon, and county and state officials.

Commander Mario A. Ghilardi will lead the Morrissette Post members and Past Commander Alfred Peruzzi will lead the Post drill team.

All other veterans organizations and their colors will also march in the parade.

Commander Ghilardi and Mayor Hannon will place wreaths at the West Quincy War Veterans Memorial adjacent to the West Quincy Fire Station at 9:30 a.m.

After the formal church ceremonies, the parade will reform and return to the Post Home where there will be an open house for the rest of the day. Honored guests will include the Gold Star Mothers and the families of all deceased.

Ordained in 1945 by the Most Reverend Richard J. Cushing, Bishop Maguire served at parishes in Lynn, Readeville, Jamaica Plain and Milton. From 1956-1959 he served as national guard chaplain of the U.S. Army. Bishop Maguire has served as secretary to both Cardinal Richard Cushing and Archbishop Humberto Medeiros.

In 1971, Bishop Maguire became pastor of St. John's Church, Quincy until he was elevated to auxiliary bishop of Boston on Feb. 2, 1972.

Letter Box

Agrees With Brett On N.Q. Police Sub-Station Site

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I think that Mayor Walter J. Hannon should give considerable consideration to Rep. Joseph Brett's suggestions concerning the Quincy Police Sub-Station as out-lined on Page 14 of the Quincy Sun, Thursday Jan. 30, 1975.

Mr. Brett has been a successful business man and a leader in our city for many years, and it has been my observation that he don't talk "Off the top of his head".

Having been in construction for many years, I agree, why spend thousands of dollars to remodel and renovate privately-owned property, probably owned by some big conglomerate, when you can up-date your own facilities to suit your needs.

I would much rather see

$50,000 spent on doing what renovations are needed to the North Quincy Fire Station for this purpose than $10,000 to remodel someone else's property.

SINGING 'GRAMS

On Feb. 10, 1933, the Postal Telegraph Co. introduced a new service, singing telegrams.

Youth Speaks Out

- College is interesting - you pay tuition so you can get a diploma and eventually become unemployed.
- President Ford spent a few weeks skiing last month. He took a needed lift to the top while the economy stayed at the base lodge.
- Although most of the public is upset about the cost of electricity, when a protest meeting was recently held only a few people showed up - talk is cheap even if electricity is not.
- We'll be paying $6 - $10 more for water this year - chemicals and pollution are free, however.
- President Ford says he plans to run for re-election in 1976. Shouldn't someone remind him that he wasn't elected in the first place, so he can't run for Re-election.
- Wouldn't it be refreshing and a lot more believable if a politician when announcing his candidacy would say "I want to be President" rather than tell us all the things he's going to do for us, which don't come true.

Valentine's Day

Valentine's Day is a Special Occasion, dedicated to Love Supreme; powerful enough To melt one's heart with C o m p a s s i o n and Understanding.

Show that you care, By offering the Flower of Love

To your loved ones - Greetings of Sentimentality Are in order, in helping them To heal and mend their hearts By revealing the warmth of Your affection, both in Words and Demonstration.

Only in this graceful fashion Can you truly say, "This, Indeed, is a Day of Devotion!"

'Soul'

Christian Science

Topic Sunday

"SOUL" is the subject of Sunday's Lesson-Sermon at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy.

Scriptural selections include Psalms 66: "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard: Which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved."

Church service and Sunday School are at 10:45 a.m.

William Woolsey Elected St. Chrysostom's Moderator

William Woolsey of 129 Granger St., Wollaston, was elected to serve two years as senior warden of St. Chrysostom's Church during the recent annual parish meeting.

Woolsey had held the office of treasurer for two years.

Also elected during the meeting were Thelma Rice, treasurer, two years; Carl Larson, Alice Marshall and Bruce Shannon, vestrypersons, three years; Myrtle Holland, vestryperson, two years; Janice Williams and Milton White, convention delegates; Gertrude Daffine and Eleanor Sprague, convention alternates; Janice Williams, Milton White and Alfred Dook, district delegates; Roy Woodbridge, Lois Woolsey and Edmund Cutler, nominating committee.

The 58 voting members present at the meeting voted to strike out the by-law restricting the warden's office to men. The amendment will be effective only after Diocesan approval and passage on a second vote.

A budget of $49,850 was adopted for 1975, based on pledged income of $37,550 and affording only $1,200 for the diocesan missionary quota and $400 for clergy assistance (vacation and illness needs).

Provision was voted for the treasurer to borrow and return up to $6,000 as needed for Legacy Funds to serve as a cash flow reserve fund. The church closed 1974 in the black, having borrowed and returned $3,000.

Beth Israel Brotherhood To Honor Fire Dept.

The Quincy Fire Department will be honored Sunday at services marking the annual Brotherhood Sunday of Beth Israel Brotherhood.

Each year the Brotherhood cites civic leaders, prominent personalities or important organizations in the Quincy community which have promoted brotherhood and better community relations.

The Brotherhood's observance is a part of National Brotherhood Week commemorating the birthdays of Presidents Abraham Lincoln and George Washington.

Rabbi Jacob Mann will officiate at the 8:30 a.m. service to be held at Beth Israel Synagogue, 33 Grafton St., Quincy Point. A citation program will follow in the Morris Silverman Social Hall.

Fire Chief Edward Barry, civic and city officials, state and community dignitaries will be introduced by Brotherhood President Irving Isaacson.

The Brotherhood will serve the traditional bagel and lox breakfast.

LaRaia Urges Rebates To Aid Local Economy

Councillor Joseph LaRaia, newly-announced candidate for mayor, has asked the cooperation of Quincy businessmen in helping to recharge the nation's economy. In a letter to 25 local businessmen, LaRaia urged the offering of rebates to employees and/or customers, following the lead of the automobile industry rebates.

Citing the all-encompassing impact of the auto industry, LaRaia said in Massachusetts alone a total of 7,500 establishments either manufacture, distribute or service motor vehicles. He said, too, the industry employs 63,000 Massachusetts residents with payrolls exceeding $440 million.

LaRaia said businessmen could, for example, offer rebates to employees - even customers - who buy an automobile. He said:

"This is not an effort to promote an industry. But whatever we like it or not, the automobile industry permeates our economy. It's the backbone of our economy to a large degree. The practice of offering rebates is an incentive to stimulate our economy. "I feel the cash incentives will encourage sales and set our economy moving again."

LaRaia noted the practice of rebate offers has filtered into other businesses including banks, insurance companies, publishers, appliance makers, tire companies and boat builders.

While admitting the suggested rebate incentive is "not a cure-all" for the nation's economic woes, LaRaia did say the program could be "a new beginning."

Quincy Rotary Days On WJDA Feb. 22,23

Quincy Rotarians will again man the local air waves Feb. 22 and 23 in an effort to raise money for the Quincy Rotary Charity Fund.

Quincy companies and businesses will advertise during the 1-4:30 p.m. time slot on Saturday and Sunday. All advertising proceeds will benefit Rotary-supported community agencies such as the United Way, Quincy Council on Aging, Quincy Junior Baseball, Quincy City Hospital, Survival, Inc., the South Shore Area Cerebral Palsy, Inc. and other social service and community-oriented organizations.

Gerald Dacey and Edward Keohane are gathering Rotarians to announce the news and commercials and to spin the records during the weekend hours of "WJDA Days."

A committee consisting of Jack Bettes, Charles Peterson, Will Davis and Russ Scammell are encouraging companies and businesses to advertise during the time slots.

Rotary Club officers are Edward Keohane, president; Robert Quinn, vice-president; Philip Lawrence, secretary; and Ken Fallon, Jr., treasurer.

Adams School PTA Honors 3 Heritage Poster Winners

Three Adams School students selected as winners in the Quincy Heritage poster contest co-sponsored by the Quincy Savings Bank and The Quincy Sun were honored at Tuesday's Adams School PTA meeting held in the school's Media Center.

Robert MacLennan, Michael Coska and Christopher Chevalier were given special award certificates by PTA President Pat DiStefano and Adams School Principal Dr. Henry Paterson.

The Adams School was the only one in the city to be honored with three contest winners.

Featured guest at the meeting was John R. Graham, executive director of Quincy Heritage, who presented a film and lecture on Quincy's historic past.

Graham also spoke of his research into the two Adams homesteads, places of particular interest to the parents and students of the Adams School.

NQHS Choir Hosts Canadian Students In Cultural Exchange

The North Quincy High School Choir will host students from Vaudreuil High School, Canada, this weekend in the final phase of a cultural exchange program begun last May.

Maurice Carbonneau, North Quincy High School choir director, said the guest group will arrive Thursday, bringing a contingent of dramatists and a small band called "L'Harmonie."

A total of 66 Canadian students will stay with North Quincy High School choir members during their three-day visit to Quincy.

This educational, cultural exchange will culminate Saturday in a joint performance at the North Quincy High School auditorium. Last May, members of the North Quincy High School Choir visited Vaudreuil, Canada for the first phase of the exchange.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m., featuring selections from "Jesus Christ Superstar," a performance of Randall Thompson's "Alleluia" and other assorted numbers.

The dramatists from Canada recently completed a production of "The Crucible" and will tour historic Salem on Friday to complement their learning experience.

A Valentine's Day dance sponsored by the senior class will also be held Friday for both guests and hosts.

Students will tour Boston on Saturday, visiting the Aquarium, the Museum of Science, the Prudential Center and other places of interest.

Sunday morning is the scheduled time of departure for the Vaudreuil students and chaperones, bringing to a close the two-part cultural exchange.

Peace Corps, Vista Recruiting Drive

A five-day Eastern Massachusetts drive by the Peace Corps and VISTA [Volunteers In Service To America] will take place Feb. 10-14 to recruit much-needed tradesmen to volunteer their services to people in developing countries throughout the world.

The Carlton House in North Quincy will be the area headquarters for the drive. Interviews with Peace Corps members will be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Skills needed include carpentry, plumbing, general construction, drafting, auto mechanic, electrician, masonry, pipefitter, metal worker, printer, industrial arts and vocational education, tool and die maker, welder, millwright, diesel maker, iron worker, boiler maker, and others.

Dante Memmo, recruiting expert for VISTA and the Peace Corps, expects a total of 400 applications from the five-day session.

Last year, a similar program at the Carlton House triggered a total of almost 250 applications, he said.

According to Peace Corps statistics, Memmo said, 20 out of every 100 applicants are invited to join the Peace Corps of VISTA. Ten out of those 20 accept, he said, and seven out of the 10 complete the three-month training and their two-year assignment.

Prospective members have a choice of 61 countries in which to do their work. Both men and women are needed and married couples are permitted in some cases. If the couple has a child, both parents must be highly skilled in a technical field.

Memmo said the Peace Corps provides all living and medical expenses for the volunteer, and after two years of service, the corpsman receives $1,800. Members are also given top priority for civil service positions after their tour of duty.

Maureen Burke Accepted At Mount St. Mary College

Miss Maureen Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Burke of North Quincy has been accepted for admission to Mount Saint Mary College, Hooksett, N.H.

Miss Burke, a graduate of North Quincy High School is presently attending Labourer Junior College. She plans to major in nutrition.

Edward Monahan Assigned To Chanute

Airman Edward H. Monahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Vincent Monahan of 10 Shoreham St., Squantum, has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

He has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Chanute for specialized training as a fire protection specialist.

He is a 1971 graduate of North Quincy High School.

NORTH QUINCY

Aids Union Contract

North Quincy Man Returns From Mission To W. Virginia Coal Mines

John F. Doherty of 11 Becket St., North Quincy, has returned home after a week-long sojourn in West Virginia, where he helped acquaint hundreds of coal miners with their newly signed union contract.

Doherty, an audio-media specialist with Boston Gas Company's training department, presented a video-taped message about the contract to approximately 300 coal mine foremen, all of them employed by Eastern Associated Coal Corporation, like Boston Gas a subsidiary of Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates.

The 40-minute video-tape was of John J. Higgins, EACC's vice president of production, who traveled to Boston in December. Doherty recorded him on video-tape at Boston Gas' training studio in the company's Jamaica Plain headquarters building.

Higgins was filmed explaining sections of the new contract between the United Mine Workers and EACC and other coal companies. Among the subjects discussed on the video-tape were the training of new mine workers, grievance procedures, and seniority rights.

The Quincy man then transported the equipment by air to Beckley, W. Va., where he was based the entire week of Jan. 5. Doherty visited five different coal mines around Beckley, located in the southern part of the state.

He had to show the film of Higgins three times at all five mines in order to reach foremen from each of the three shifts the miners work. Accompanying Doherty on his educational rounds was Thomas Snow, assistant manager of labor relations for EACC, who answered queries the foremen had about the contract during the question-and-answer sessions which followed the presentations.

Doherty has been employed for Boston Gas since 1939 and has worked in the training department for seven years. He and his wife, Claire, have lived in Quincy for the past 17 years, and have four children.

Brett Urges No Delay In Track Facility

Rep. Joseph Brett has urged Gov. Michael S. Dukakis not to delay construction of the proposed $3 million MDC track facility to be located near Neponset Circle.

Fearful of a possible moratorium on all building projects authorized by the state, Brett said the track facility "is of extreme importance to all students in the metropolitan area."

Brett told Dukakis of the many frustrations and delays endured in promoting this facility for the past 12 years. He said, too, he was "in partial agreement" with Dukakis over cutting governmental costs but urged the governor to "help us expedite the construction of the track facility" for the benefit of all students of metropolitan Boston.

Brett said the MDC has acquired the proposed land site located at the former Hallet St. dump area near the Neponset Open Air Theatre which borders the Southeast Expressway.

Legislation passed in 1972 authorized $3 million for the construction of the track arena, Brett said. He noted that the MDC is in the process of contract negotiations with an architect and said he is looking forward to a ground-breaking ceremony in the early spring.

"We have waited many years for this," Brett told Gov. Dukakis. "Let us not suffer any more delays or frustrations," he urged.

Stedman Beckwith Installed President Quincy, South Shore Realtors Board

Quincy realtor Stedman Beckwith was installed president of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors at the 37th annual ball recently at the Neighborhood Club, Quincy.

Beckwith has served the board as vice president, secretary, director, M.L.S. Chairman, and was selected in 1974 as Realtor of the Year.

Also installed by Peter Georges, President of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors were:

Gerald C. Melanson, vice president; Vito A. Barresi, secretary; A. Virginia Delaney, treasurer, and members of the Board of Directors, Frank L. Becker, John A. Belcastro, Virginia M. Crismond, Frank R. Damigella, J. Joseph Doran, Dorothy Edgerly, Edward P. Flavin, Kenneth B. Hammerle,

STEDMAN BECKWITH
Marilyn A. Moran, F. Lester Morrill, Russell S. Stranberg and Harold D. Thomson.
Toastmaster, Samuel J.

McDonald, First Vice President of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, presented a gift and plaque to outgoing president Virginia M. Crismond.

Beckwith told the audience that although the total number of sales in 1974 was off, Multiple Listing Service sales in the area had actually increased. This, he said, proved the value of dealing with a realtor.

Beckwith said he believes 1975 will be a good year for real estate sales. He noted that mortgage money was already becoming more plentiful. He predicted that the many prospective buyers who had postponed buying because of all the pessimistic publicity about the economy were tired of waiting and will be out buying in 1975.

Doris Day to appear in special

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Doris Day's hopes of making a new movie with Rock Hudson and Tony Randall (her colleagues in past screen comedy-romances) were dashed when the trio received their script. "It just wasn't right for us," Doris is sad to say.

However, her fans, legion in number, will get to see her in a new production Feb. 19 by way of a CBS television special, "Doris Day Today," in which she appears with Tim Conway, Rich Little, the Lockers and special guest star John Denver.

Further, Doris had such a good time doing the special, her first in four years, that others probably will follow. "George (Schlatter, the producer of the show) and I have already talked about doing other specials," Doris admitted over breakfast at the Beverly Hills Hotel Polo Lounge.

"I'd never worked with him before we did the show," Doris said, "but at the outset he said, 'This is going to be fun,' and it was. 'I'd never worked with Tim Conway or Rich Little, either, and I adored both of them.'"

It went without saying that Doris liked Denver, because she'd guest starred on his ABC special, "The John Denver Show," which aired Dec. 1, and if she hadn't enjoyed working with him then, she would scarcely have welcomed him to her hour-long outing.

Asked how she decided to do a special, Doris wasn't sure. "I didn't really decide to do one," she said, "but my son thought it would be a good idea, and now I'm glad that I did it.

"I read scripts all the time, but don't find much I like, and, when you're not under contract and don't have a husband pushing you, you're more selective.

"Marty (Doris' late husband) used to make the decisions, so I was committed to things before I knew it.

"For instance, I was signed for my television series without my knowledge, but I was happy about it because I loved the show."

While Doris enjoys working from time to time, she wouldn't consider doing a Las Vegas act or going out on the road with a show.

"I like to stay at home and be quiet," she said. "However, I do go to Las Vegas occasionally. When we were collecting items from celebrities to auction for the benefit of Actors and Others for Animals, we thought, 'Where would we find the most celebrities?', and since the answer was Las Vegas, I went over and collected, among other things, a pair of Tom Jones' pants.

"They were even split. You know he splits his pants at every performance.

"No, I don't know what they brought at the auction."

Doris is famous for her dedication to animals, but, oddly, she can't remember when it began.

"I've been asked that before," she said, "and I'm not sure. When I was a little girl, I liked pets all right, but I didn't feel about them the way I do now.

"But one day I read a book called 'Kinship With All Life,' and it was after that, I think, that my feelings began to change."

Point Girls' Gymnastics Group In Special 'Peter Pan'

The acclaimed production of Peter Pan by the Quincy Point Junior High School girls' gymnastic group, under the direction of Miss Kathleen Bertrand, is being revived for two special showings.

The first performance will be held at Bridgewater State College for the Physical Education Majors Club tonight (Friday) at 8 p.m., in the college gymnasium.

The production, originally scheduled only for in-building performances, met with such acclaim that it was scheduled for performances throughout the Quincy Public School System. A cast of over 40 girls is involved in this adaptation of Sir James Barrie's classic.

The second showing will be

McCann is great as singer too

By ROBIN WELLES
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Les McCann came out a while back with a great two-record album that contained some of the best jazz piano around. McCann is a chubby guy and he sort of reminds you of Fats Waller in the way he looks and the way he plays.

So it was a shock, indeed, when the new McCann LP came out via Atlantic Records and you put it on the stereo and out comes McCann the Singer. It's called "Another Beginning" and it is all of that. McCann also has a sound reminiscent of Waller in his vocals, but he's quite a bit deeper than Fats and far more dreamy and romantic.

So this is McCann singing and backing himself up on the piano, plus some slick arrangements that include the full sound of strings and horns.

One more thing: McCann wrote most of the pieces, as he did on his last album. Composer, singer, pianist — and he's top drawer in all. If you're tired of hearing some of the phonies who made it strictly via promotion and you want to hear a real musician, try McCann.

Heart Fund Theater Party Memorial To John Daniels

Richard J. Koch, Special Events Chairman of the Quincy Heart Fund Drive, announces that the sixth annual Heart Fund Theatre Party would be held Tuesday, March 4, at 7:30 p.m., at the Strand Theatre, Quincy Center.

Koch said this year's program would be named the "John J. Daniels Memorial Night" in memory of Mr. Daniels who, as ticket chairman, personally solicited over half of the total tickets sold for the past five years and sought all the door prizes for the annual occasion personally.

Mr. Daniels participated in last year's event for the fifth year and shortly after in April died suddenly of a heart attack.

Koch said a large part of the success of the program for the past five years was due to Mr. Daniels' efforts and energies.

Since 1970, when the Heart Fund Theatre Party was initiated, $5,435 has been realized for this cause, with last year's program the most successful with $1,409 raised. Koch is setting a goal of $1,500 for 1975, with the hopes that the total will exceed this amount.

Anyone unable to attend the affair but wishing to donate to the Heart Fund cause may make checks payable to:

"Heart Fund", c/o John J. Daniels Memorial Night" and deposit them with John J. McGue, manager of the North Quincy Branch of the Hancock Bank, who will be Treasurer of the Quincy Special Events Programs of the Heart Fund for the sixth year.

Any person wishing to assist in the sale of tickets or any part of the program may contact Koch at 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Bowling

Quincy Merchants, Boston Gear Win

The quarterfinals of the 22nd annual greater Quincy men's candlepin bowling tourney were held Sunday afternoon at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys with the Quincy Merchants team bowling high pinfall for the day to oust the East Weymouth Five 1758-1619.

The tourney is sponsored by the Koch Club.

The Boston Gear Works upset Colonial Bowl of South Weymouth 1711-1692, and in the lowest scoring match of the afternoon Beau's defeated Penn A. A. 1588-1536.

Quincy Merchants topped East Weymouth by only 14 pins in the first string, but found the range in the second adding 81 pins to their lead, and swept by the losers in the third by 44 pins more for the easy 139-pin victory.

Consistency and team effort was the story of the Quincy Merchants victory as Pete Hartford led with 363, and was aided in the win by Mike Valenti 358, George Verlicco 353, and Wes Cobb and Bob Hurst who chipped in 342 each to round out the scoring.

Steve Parker was tops for the losers with 340 followed by Rick Chilingarian 335, Marty Martell 323, Paul Paton 312, and Steve Lang 309.

Boston Gear Works jumped off to a 66-pin lead at the end of the first string over the strong Colonial Bowl, picked up 9 more in the second and the winners held on as Colonial roared back to win the third string by 56 pins with too little and too late for the losers, and a semi-final berth for Boston Gear Works.

Dana Chella with 369 was tops for the gearmen and was assisted by Laurie Eklund 352, Paul Young 344, Gene McGann 324, and Bill Earley 322.

Jim Powers with 414 high for the day and the tourney, was no avail for Colonial, while Dick Burbines 367 was in vain. Sal Fanara with 331, was the Owls other to top 300 for the losers.

Beau's took advantage of the Penn A.A. slow start to win the first string by 26 pins, add 29 more in the second, and coast to the win.

Paul Mattes with 337 led Beau's with help from Jim Blake 321, Buster Loud 320, Fred Connelly 310, and Bob Hillier 300.

Frank Durante was high for the losers with 337, Frank Perfetuo with 323 next, and Romeo Magnarelli 310 third on the squad to hit 300.

Carlyle of Whitman sitting out a bye yesterday will return next Sunday in the tourney semi-finals to join Sunday's winners.

The championship team will receive a $100 cash prize, and a team trophy from The Koch Club tourney sponsor.

Tammy McGrath Team Termite First-Half Winners

Tammy McGrath's team made up of Loretta Foley, Michelle Mahoney and Patricia Coce, won the first half of the Koch Club Termites Bowling League.

The second half is underway with Kelly, Puleo, McGrath and Suppy tied for the lead with 16-0 records, followed by MacDonald, 14-2; Caldwell, 12-4; McCoy, 11-5; Sullivan and Rooney, 10-6; Christie, Fitzgerald, Doolan and Campbell, 8-8; Riley, 7-9; Bray, Walsh, L. Boyne, Kiley, Fahey and Miller, 6-10; Greene and P. Boyne, 4-12; Garrigan and Smith, 2-14; O'Toole and Koch, 0-16.

Maureen O'Toole leads the Top Ten with a 94.7 average, followed by Kathy Kelly, 92.3; Paula Puleo, 85.8; Lori Boyne, 83.8; Tammy McGrath, 82.8; Paula Boyne, 82.0; Loretta Garrigan, 81.6; Mary Fahey, 80.9; Patricia McKay, 80.3, and Michelle Mahoney, 79.0.

Kelly has high three of 327 and high single of 121, while Puleo's team has high three of 971 and high single of 363.

Norling Paces Barons

The league Red Barons thumped Tiffany, 7-0, in the Girls division of the Quincy Youth Hockey League.

Liss Norling scored four goals and assisted on another to spark the Barons, while Eileen Marr scored twice and had four assists. Kathy Flynn had a goal and Paula Constat had two assists and Tracey Bowe and Joan Lally one each.

Team Quincy wallopped Squantum Mobile, 5-0, as Mary Ellen Riordan and Mary Ann McCarthy scored twice each and Beth Colman once, Riordan and McCarthy had two assists apiece and Squeaker Dacey and Colman one each.

Tonight [Thursday] Team Quincy meets the Red Barons in the opening game and Tiffany meets Squantum in the second at Quincy Youth Arena.

The Quincy Comettes, the league's all-star team, dropped a 4-3 squeaker to the South Shore Shooting Stars Sunday at Hobomock Rink in Pembroke.

Terry Flynn, Paula Constat and Mary Ellen Riordan had the Quincy goals and Shawn O'Leary had two assists and Maureen Santry one.

Sunday at 4 p.m. the Comettes will play the Randolph girls at Randolph.

Moment of Silence For Max Zides

Burke Club Holds Lead

A moment of silence was observed in memory of the late Max Zides before the start of last week's Quincy Bowling Little Loop matches.

Zides, who died suddenly last week, had been a director of the Little Loop since its inception 21 years ago.

The DA George G. Burke Club holds a one-point lead over the Montclair Men's Club. Burke is 45-19 with a total pinfall of 20,418, and Montclair is 44-20 [20,345]. Following are James R. Announcement

In compliance with Chapter 766, the QUINCY PUBLIC SCHOOLS will conduct a SCREENING PROGRAM for the children of Quincy three and four years old.

The process involves: a parent interview, an examination of the child's health, vision, hearing, language ability, and motor skills.

Parents who believe their child has special needs that may interfere with future educational progress should notify MRS. JANET POWELL, who chairs the Pre-School Core Evaluation Team at St. John's Early Childhood Center, before March 1, 1975. She may be reached at 471-8180.

Children entering kindergarten next September are excluded from this program; they will be screened at registration time.

North Winds Up Season With Win Over Quincy

The North Quincy track team recently finished its first Suburban League season with an easy 64-22 win over Quincy. The Raiders, with a 5-3-1 league record and overall 9-3-1 mark, are unbeaten in their last eight meets and the nine wins are a record for a North winter track team. Quincy, winless after its opening meet, finished with a disappointing 1-8 record.

Three North runners last week qualified for Saturday's Class B state championships at Reading. Brian Doherty qualified at the state trials at Reading for the 300-yard run, Jerry MacKenzie for the 1000 and Bart Petracca the mile. Quincy's Bob Thorne qualified for the Class A two-mile.

North Quincy swept the 1000 with Tex Vorrasso, Ken O'Brien and Ian Sheridan finishing in that order, the 600 with Mark Canavan, John Mackey and Phil Strungis 1-2-3, and the dash with Paul Doherty, Matty King and Mike Adams. Paul Doherty was a double winner, also winning the shot put, and other North winners were Jerry MacKenzie in the mile, Brian Doherty in the 300 and the relay team of O'Brien, Canavan, Vorrasso and MacKenzie.

Quincy had only one winner, Art DeLoreto, who won both the high jump and hurdles.

"The Mile was one of the best races of the year with only three-tenths of a second separating the first three finishers," Tozzi said. North's Bart Petracca was second to MacKenzie and Quincy's Bob Thorne third.

In the relay North's Ken O'Brien and his brother, Kevin of Quincy, was second in the two-mile, faced each other on one leg of the relay, Ken having a slight edge.

"I'm very proud of our boys for finishing with a winning league record," Tozzi said. "This is a strong league and in two of our three losses we went down to the final event, the relay, before losing."

Y Road Race Monday

The Quincy YMCA will sponsor its annual five-mile Cherry Tree Festival road race Monday at noon. It is sanctioned by the AAU.

This is an open race for runners 14 years and older and proof of age is required. Trophies will be awarded to the first five finishers and the top three female finishers in the following age groups: 14-17, 18-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-44, 45-49, 50-54, 55-59, 60-64, 65-69 and 70 and over.

Runners are eligible for one prize and a trophy will go to the first Quincy YMCA finisher. All entries must be AAU registered and registration can be obtained at 69 Canal St., Boston. Entry fee is $1.50. Each entrant must bring his own soap and towel.

Entries should be sent with fee to Road Race Committee, Quincy YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy, 02169.

In cooperation with Quincy Heritage, the Y has incorporated this event as part of its participation in Quincy's 350th anniversary.

Further information can be obtained from Paul Harvey, men and boys' director of the Y, at 479-8500.

Sacred Heart Bows To Alumni

The Sacred Heart hockey team of North Quincy lost to its Alumni, 5-2, Monday night at Shea Rink.

Jim Kelley, Bob Marsters, Bob Threlfall, Pete Whalen and John Collins had the Alumni goals and Kelly and Joe O'Brien had assists.

Marty Mulvey had both Sacred Heart goals with assists for Mike Bowes and Tom Nee. Dennis McDonough was in goal for the Alumni and Gary Kearney for Sacred Heart.

Monday night at 7, Sacred Heart will play St. Moritz at Shea.

Basketball At Central Everybody Plays

By TOM SULLIVAN

At Central Junior High School Coach Mike Casali's main objective, especially in the seventh and eighth grades, is to give as many boys as possible a chance to play basketball.

Mike Casali, the dean of junior high coaches, has his ninth grade team rolling along with an 8-2 record and tied with North Quincy for the league lead going into this week's final games.

"I have 35 boys on the eighth grade team and 48 in the seventh grade program," the veteran coach said. "In our eighth grade games we try to play 20 to 25 boys equally. In one game I'll have to leave 15 boys behind but in the next game I will play those 15 and leave 15 others back. This does not win games but gives all the boys a good amount of playing time." The eighth grade team is 2-8.

"As far as the seventh grade is concerned, we still play an earlybird schedule," Casali continued. "Each morning at 7:15, a game is played. There are six teams and the idea is for every boy that signs up for basketball to play the same amount of time regardless of ability. Poor players play the same amount of time as good players.

"Teams for varsity games are picked each week and everyone from the earlybird league gets a chance to play against the other schools. I try to pick a ninth grader each year to handle the teams and also coach them during varsity games. He has the responsibility for securing officials, make sure all boys play the same amount of time, that teams show up on time, scorers, timers and the conduct of the spectators. He also must get up very early to be there before the teams.

"This year Mitch Finnegan was chosen and is doing a tremendous job. Working with him are Louie Venturelli, Jim Oriola, Mike Oriola, Mike Romano, Joe DiVello, John Norton, Greg MacDonald and Mark Roberts."

The seventh grade varsity record is 2-8.

"Central has a tradition of good basketball teams and this is a combination of many things," Mike went on. "Good players, hard work, spirit, the ability to play as a team, and the most important of all, good sportsmanship. In all the years I have been at Central we have never had a fight with another team or players. This promotes a good feeling between schools, even though there is intense competition.

"This year the league is very well balanced. Atlantic-North should have the top teams with all others close behind. Central should be very competitive."

Taking part in the seventh grade program are Joe Flynn, Paul Forbes, Dan Flannery, Bob Hayes, Scott MacDonald, Rich Finnegan, Dave Hamburger, Bobby Biagini, John Kavanaugh, Tom Mullen, Jim Hacunda, Ron Pulsifer, Pete Golden, Jim Meehan, Paul Mezzetti, Dave Cavanaugh, Marty McGovern, Joe Duggan, Kevin O'Hanley, John Sullivan, Joe Dicesare, Dave Panora, Dave Murray, Jim O'Hara and Todd Vea.

Businessmen Urged To Testify At S.Q. MBTA Hearing

MAYOR Walter J. Hannon and members of the Quincy Business Council of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce watch slide presentation of realignment plans for Route 3 and reconstruction proposal Capen's Circle during a recent meeting.

The Quincy Business Council of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce urged members of Quincy's business community to be prepared to testify at the final March hearing on the proposed South Quincy MBTA Station.

Both opponents and proponents of the station aired their views before the recent Business Council meeting attended by Mayor Walter J. Hannon and many local businessmen.

Jack Leary, South Quincy MBTA study manager, said the building of the proposed station could reduce Quincy Center traffic by 25 per cent - the amount of Quincy Center traffic originating from the South Shore. He said the distribution of the building cost throughout the 79 towns and cities of the "T" district should lower Quincy's portion of deficit assessment now paid to the MBTA.

But several Quincy businessmen present raised questions of landtaking which would affect their local businesses.

The Council agreed the South Quincy issue is now "at a critical decision stage" and stressed the importance of understanding both the costs and the impacts of the proposals.

The council also discussed plans for the realignment of Route 3, a proposal costing an estimated $7.3 million, and the reconstruction of Capen's Circle, a $3.7 million project, which would both be undertaken along with the proposed new station.

Discussion also centered around the Upland Rd. extension and Town Brook relocation.

$531,000 In Improvements Scheduled For Sea St.

An open meeting was to be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St., to discuss the $531,000 re-paving and improvements of Sea St.

State and city public works officials were invited to attend the meeting planned jointly by Mayor Walter J. Hannon and Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly.

The road improvements - scheduled to begin in early summer - will extend from Palmer St. to the intersection of Winthrop and Rockland Sts.

Funding for the project comes under Chapter 90 which provides that the state pay one-half of the total project cost while both city and county each pay one-quarter of the total cost. The state will therefore pay $265,500 while Quincy and Norfolk County will each pay $132,750.

Kelly urged interested Quincy residents to attend the meeting to give city and state officials citizen input regarding the project.

This $531,000 project marks the second phase of work on Sea St. Last year the section of Sea St. extending from the Police Station to Palmer St. was improved.

Net Gain Of Only 13 Single Family Homes In 4 Years

Surging Trend Toward Apartment Construction

Quincy residents and members of the City Planning Department met Wednesday to weigh the advantages and disadvantages of a surging trend toward apartment construction in Quincy.

Figures disclosed at a Multi-Family Housing Conference at the Lincoln-Hancock School showed:

• A net gain of only 13 single-family homes in Quincy in a four-year period from January, 1970 to December, 1974.

• A gain of 125 apartment buildings with a total of 5,632 units in a 10-year period from 1964 to 1974.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon, addressing those attending the all-day conference in the school's cafeteria, urged residents to carefully consider both sides of an issue about which he said, "everyone seems to have strong feelings." He said:

"There is something to be said on both sides. The points and problems raised cannot be ignored or treated lightly. This is where your role becomes very important. You know the problems and you know the benefits. Express yourself. But be open minded. Be willing to listen."

Hannon said some residents call apartment housing "the best thing which has happened to the city" while others contend apartments are wielding "a detrimental effect on their neighborhoods."

A total of 114 building permits for single family house construction were issued during January 1970 through December 1974.

Yet over the same period, 101 permits for demolition of single family homes were issued, leaving a net gain of only 13 homes.

Ten of the 125 apartments built since 1964 were specifically designed for senior citizens. They contain a total of 1,817 units, representing an average of 182 units per building.

The other 115 apartments are privately owned, containing a total of 3,815 units with an average size of 36 units per building.

Calling apartment construction "one of the most important issues in the city today," Hannon said city government now faces the challenge of preserving the quality of neighborhoods while maintaining the economic viability of the city.

He reminded the audience that almost four years have past since the revision of the city's zoning ordinance. Hannon asked:

"What have we accomplished? Preliminary analysis has shown that since the revision of the zoning ordinance, the density of apartment buildings has been successfully decreased while the open space areas surrounding these buildings have been increased. These are important factors affecting the quality of our neighborhoods. But have we accomplished enough?"

Other statistics compiled by the city's planning department showed a per centage drop in the Quincy's single-family homes from 57.9 per cent of all housing units in 1960 to 42.8 per cent at the end of 1974.

The number of apartment units in Quincy has increased from 1,396 in 1960 to 3,784 units in 1970 to 5,632 units in 1974.

34 Quincy Police Officers At Funeral For Slain Westwood Patrolman

An estimated 3,000 police officers including 34 from Quincy attended the funeral Saturday of slain Westwood Patrolman William E. Sheehan.

Sheehan, 57-year-old veteran of the Westwood Police Department, was shot and killed Feb. 11 when he and his partner stopped their cruiser on Canton St., Westwood to investigate a parked car.

Leading the Quincy contingent were Capt. William Daley, Joseph Shea, executive secretary to Mayor Walter J. Hannon, and the officers of the Quincy Relief Association: Sgt. Jack Doyle, president; Sgt. James Buhl, treasurer; and officer Frank Johnson, recording secretary.

They were followed by 30 other members of the Quincy Police force: Sgt. Frank Buckley, Sgt. Michael Barry, Sgt. Hugo Carderelli, and Patrolmen James Buchanan, Robert Forde, Paul Quinn, William O'Donnell, George Taylor, James McNeil, Frank Spring.

Peter Kendall, Louis McDonald, Paul Curtin, Robert Costa, Thomas Malvesti, Robert Edgar, Vincent Flaherty, Daniel Dowling, John McTiernan, Henry Bradley.

Joseph Gillan, Steven O'Brien, Joseph Malloy, David Doherty, Richard Curran, Harry Williams, Thomas Connors, Ralph Bergonzi, Peter Flynn and William Falco.

Holder of Westwood Police Badge No. 1, Sheehan was the first officer of that community to die in the line of duty.

The funeral mass took place in St. Margaret Mary Church in Westwood and burial was in Westwood Cemetery.

Police delegations hailing from New England and as far as South Carolina paid tribute to Patrolman Sheehan.

Boston Auxiliary Bishop Joseph Maguire, former pastor of St. John's Church, the Norfolk County court officers and representatives of the Massachusetts Correctional Officers Association also attended the rites.

$25,000 Grant To Acquire Mound St. Beach Area Land

Congressman James A. Burke announces that the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the U.S. Department of the Interior has awarded a grant of $25,000 to Quincy.

The grant is for the acquisition of 2.34 acres as an addition to the existing 7.5 acre Mound Street Beach, located near Follett St., in Quincy Point. The tract to be acquired has been used in the past as an unauthorized dumping area, and the city of Quincy envisions transforming the entire 10-acre site into an outdoor recreational area.

Funds for this grant are provided by the Land and Water Conservation Fund, and must be matched by the local government in an amount equal to that of the grant. The Fund was created to assist State and local governments in the purchase of land and the development of facilities for recreational purposes.

Quincy Sun Moving To New Downtown Quarters Feb. 27

The Quincy Sun will be in its new home Feb. 27.

The new and larger quarters are located in the old Quincy Savings Bank building at 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

Equipment and furniture will be moved into the street floor location as soon as next week's issue hits the street.

The equipment will be swiftly set up and The Sun will be quickly back in operation without missing an issue.

The Sun will occupy the left-hand side of the building on the street floor and the bank's former conference room below.

The Quincy Savings Bank will continue to occupy the right hand side of the building as its downtown branch offering all bank services including mortgage transactions.

The new quarters, the first street-floor location for The Sun since it was established Sept. 26, 1968, will have more than four times the space as the present 1601 Hancock St. location.

The additional space is needed not only for production of The Sun but for the rapidly expanding commercial printing division.

Beginning Feb. 27 all news releases and other correspondence should be sent to: The Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy, 02169.

Classified and display advertising and commercial printing may be placed there beginning that date.

News carriers will start paying their route bills there that date also.

The Sun's telephone numbers will remain the same: 471-3100, 471-3101, 471-3102.

QUINCY POLICE DETECTIVE - Patrolman Barbara DiNatale is briefed by Sgt. Daniel Lyons on an assignment. She says real police work is far from being as glamorous as Angie Dickinson's Pepper Anderson portrayal on television.

Barbara DiNatale Finds: TV Image Of Woman Police Officer Far From Real Thing

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Ingenious Christie Love dashes aboard a London-bound jet just minutes before take-off, posing as a stewardess in order to protect her boss from a gun-wielding abductor.

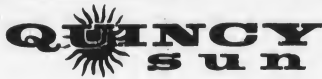

And doe-eyed Pepper Anderson looks pleadingly, almost tenderly, into the eyes of a bleeding dying crook, trying to coax from him all the names of his myriad accomplices.

But Detective-Patrolwoman Barbara DiNatale, a former provisional and now permanent officer in the Quincy Police Department, says that TV image of police officers is far from the real thing.

At 24, Barbara has already worked nearly a year as an undercover agent for the Quincy drug unit, posing as a potential heroin buyer in the streets of Quincy and other surrounding South Shore towns. She speaks, then, from experience in a highly secretive job demanding fearlessness, confidence and guts.

"Police work is an interesting job," she said, [Cont'd on Page 12]

3,363 Quincy Junior Students In Spring Classes

A total of 3,363 Quincy Junior College students began spring semester classes last month, marking the largest enrollment in the college's seven-year history.

The college has almost doubled its size since the fall of 1968 when enrollment was 1,687 students.

College President Dr. Edward Pierce attributes this enrollment surge to the college's reputation. He said:

"We're proud to say that student satisfaction with an excellent teaching staff and the wide variety of course offerings are the college's best advertising assets."

To accommodate the needs of all students, Quincy Junior College is continuing to expand its services. A new administrative aide has been added to the evening division counseling staff to offer individual attention to students planning their educational programs.

In addition, a representative from the Veterans Administration now visits the college every Thursday to counsel the large numbers of veterans returning to school.

The newly-formed women's center at the college offers many vocational and educational programs for all community women. In the fall of this year, women will be able to take advantage of a co-operative baby-sitting service planned by the college, making it easier for mothers to pursue their educational goals while raising a family.

Additional information about the college programs and services can be obtained by contacting Day Division Dean Hugo Saulti and Evening Division Dean Richard Mula.

McCourt Helps Launch Missile

Airman First Class John B. McCourt, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. McCourt of 78 Bird St., Houghs Neck, recently helped launch a U.S. Air Force Titan II intercontinental ballistic missile from Vandenberg AFB, Calif.

McCourt, a missile electronic equipment specialist with the 308th Strategic Missile Wing at Little Rock AFB, Ark., traveled to Vandenberg for the mission.

The launch was one in a series of operational testing launches conducted by the Strategic Air Command [SAC]. The missile, selected at random from those on alert at Little Rock, was transported--with its maintenance and launch crews--to the California base.

Thousands Aided

Survival, Inc. Has Come A Long Way In Helping Others

"The work has been long, hard, often frustrating and discouraging, but the rewards of helping others make it worth the time and effort," says Robert Hassey, Executive Director of Survival, Inc., the Quincy-based youth and drug program.

"After seeing the diligent effort of so many people for our program I think they should take pride in their successful efforts to help others help themselves."

These comments now come easily to Hassey. After four and a half years of existence, Survival Inc., has proved that its efforts are successful. Funding increased, services expanded, and thousands of South Shore residents were assisted in 1974 making it the best year for the agency since its stormy beginning.

Survival was established in May 1970 by the late Dr. Charles Djerf, a Quincy pediatrician who decided to do something about the growing drug abuse in the city. He contacted community leaders, doctors, lawyers, educators, police officials, and other concerned people and brought them together to discuss a solution. They formed Survival as a drug rehabilitation center in the Faxon Ave. office donated by Dr. Djerf.

Since then Survival has expanded from that five room office to include four buildings and over 70 staff and volunteers. The services of the program have been broadened to include counseling around the family and social problems of youth.

Today each of those four buildings has its own function in the overall services. The Joseph H. Whiteman House on Hancock St. is Survival's 24-hour residential supportive community for adolescents ages 13-19. Therapy is based on the self-help concept which asks each person to admit his or her conflicts and deal with them through individual or group counseling.

The house is run as a family with each person having a job responsibility ranging from maintenance to house coordination. Recreational and cultural activities are a regular part of the program. An educational or work-related program is worked out with each resident during the 3-6 month stay. In 1974, the house provided therapy for 86 South Shore youths.

The Counseling Center, an out-patient facility located in the original office on Faxon Ave., serves adolescents and adults with problems relating to drugs, family crises, and other areas. Counseling is available on an individual, family and group basis. Groups, which run in the evenings, concentrate on problem-solving, personal growth, and task orientation, and range from young adults to parents groups.

The Center is open days for individual counseling and has weekend hours from 12-5 on Sundays. Assistance was provided for 259 people last year.

Over 6,400 crisis calls concerning drugs, sex, alcohol, and personal difficulties were answered by the Crisis Line in 1974. The line is run by volunteers who must participate in several training sessions and on-the-line training. Referrals are made to appropriate agencies from an updated list of checked sources if Survival can't help the caller. The line, whose number is 471-7100, is kept open 24 hours.

A new administration office on Southern Artery opened last August. Along with coordinating the program, this office is responsible for prospective clients. People interested in entering the house or counseling contact the administration office for an interview at 773-5704. Referrals to more appropriate agencies are also made, and over 300 people were referred last year.

Community affairs are run through the administration office. These include open houses, street fairs, sports events, holiday parties for various community groups, and floats in the Christmas parades. Over 15,000 people were reached through the speakers bureau in schools, churches, and businesses in 1974.

Survival expanded its youth services during the past year to include sponsorship of a drop-in center, participation in a host homes program, and increased court liaison service. The drop-in center, opened in December on Roberts St., South Quincy, is co-sponsored by the Southwest Quincy Teen Council for the area youths.

The host homes program, initiated in November, is developing a network of foster families throughout the South Shore for youths in crisis situations. Service will begin sometime in February. Over 69 court-involved people were assisted through the court liaison. Survival provided an alternative to prison for many of them.

There is no charge for services. Improved funding in 1974 increased the budget to $220,000, with 60 per cent provided by federal sources, 25 per cent by state, 10 per cent by private, and 5 per cent by municipal. Although 55 percent of Survival's clients are Quincy residents, people from Milton, Hingham, Weymouth, Randolph, Braintree, Holbrook, Cohasset, Hull and Scituate utilize the services.

To serve the increased number of clients, the staff has grown to 21 paid full and part-time people. Most are young, and all have professional or para-professional training including counseling, teaching, social work, clinical administration, ex-addiction, management, and crisis intervention.

Over 50 trained volunteers from all over the South Shore assist in all parts of the program. They range from a retired nurse to a welfare worker, from a housewife and mother to a U. Mass student. Several college students spend internships with the Whiteman House and Counseling Center where they are gaining college credit while feeling they're doing something worthwhile.

Hassey is optimistic about Survival's future. Besides expanding Survival's community involvement, he hopes to make people more aware of adolescent problems through increased speaking engagements. Other future goals are to sponsor other alternative drug programs, and to increase advocacy of adolescents and their rights.

"I'm pleased to be a part of helping Survival to survive and become such a viable helping resource for South Shore youth," he says. "Our reputation and services have grown to where more and more people are being referred to us. We continue to rely heavily on community support financially and personally because serving so many people at no cost is sometimes difficult to maintain."

"I hope that added community support in 1975 will allow us to reach more young people who could use some help in dealing with their adolescent problems."

At St. Mary's Church West Quincy Meeting Tonight On Proposed Disposal System

The St. Moritz Association of West Quincy will hold an open meeting tonight (Thursday) to explain to Quincy residents the facts of the county-proposed comprehensive waster disposal system.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in St. Mary's Church, Crescent St., West Quincy.

Two weeks ago, County Commissioner George McDonald, a West Quincy resident and former City Councillor, attended a special City Council meeting, urging endorsement of a county-authored bill proposing construction of such a disposal system in West Quincy.

The Council voted to table discussion of the matter.

The plant would collect refuse from the towns of Weymouth, Cohasset, Milton and possibly Braintree and would be located at the present sanitary landfill site in West Quincy.

St. Moritz President Robert Meenan said both Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin and City Councillor James A. Sheets will speak at the open meeting.

The purpose of the meeting Meenan said, is "to dissect the Norfolk County proposal... and to break it into layman's language. He emphasized that Quincy residents can only support or oppose the disposal system after proper and thorough explanation of the facts.

Meenan invited all interested Quincy residents to attend the public meeting.

Brownell Asks Stiffer Penalties For Crimes Against Elderly

Responding to a rise in crimes against the elderly, Rep. Thomas Brownell has filed legislation to increase the criminal penalty for acts of violence against the elderly.

The bill makes it a separate crime not only to commit an aggravated assault on an elderly person, defined as someone over the age of 62 - but also to break and enter elderly housing.

Kelly Supports $1.3 Million Black's Creek Improvements

Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly, who is chairman of the Public Works Committee, expressed his support of a $1.3 million MDC improvement program for the Black's Creek area, in a letter to the Quincy Conservation Commission.

The reconstruction, beautification, and recreational improvements to Black's Creek would cover an area from Greenberg Memorial Bridge to Fenno St.

"The proposal will eliminate parking on the beach side at Quincy Shore Drive in the Black's Creek area, providing safety for pedestrians and motorists as well," Kelly said.

"Parking facilities at Caddy Park and Rufe's Hummock will have pedestrian signal lights and crosswalks. There will also be signal lights and a crosswalk at Fenno St."

He urged the Conservation Committee to follow suit in support of the program, which he said he feels will be in the best interest of the community.

Sheets Calls Flood - Damage Guidelines Unrealistic

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets, chairman of the sub-committee on flood plain zoning, has introduced a City Council resolve requesting federal review and study of certain guidelines dealing with the rebuilding of flood-damaged homes.

Sheets labelled certain existing guidelines as "extreme and unrealistic."

$74,056 In New Wiring

Wire Inspector William H. Pitts reports 77 wiring permits for an estimated $74,056 in wiring were issued during the month of January.

A total of $2,018.50 was collected in fees. Forty-four certificates of approval were awarded during the month. A total of 170 inspections were made and 15 defects were noted. There were 11 re-inspections and four fire calls during the month.

The major wiring project for January was a new 225-unit apartment building at 95 West Squantum St.

"This would place great financial burden on the owner and in cases would discourage property owners from undertaking renovations on their properties."

Sheets said he hopes a review of these rebuilding guidelines will make them "more flexible and realistic."

STRICTLY PERSONAL 'General' may face mutiny

By PAT and MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
My husband thinks that our marriage is like the army. He is the general and I am the private. He tries to make all the major decisions, have the last word with the children, and handle the money. This has resulted in some pretty wild arguments. Thank goodness he is a good, kind, and intelligent man. Nearly all of his decisions are fair and he makes each one with a great deal of consideration.

However, I still would like to be thought of as an equal partner. He does not seem to realize that he could be wrong once in a while. In order to truly communicate, both of us should share in the decision making. How can I get through to him?

The Private

Dear Private:

Inform the general that there are rumors of a mutiny if he doesn't talk with you instead of at you. As long as you allow him to rule with no holds barred, he can see no reason to do otherwise. If he persists in having his own way, suggest a few counseling sessions to improve the situation.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

Why is school such a waste of time? I go to high school and am not getting anything that I can use when I graduate. I don't see any reason why I should stay around to get that dumb piece of paper. They require a lot of English courses, history, and a for-sign language. I don't need to know about Shakespeare, Chaucer, or Keats, and I don't know anyone who converses in Latin. What good will these courses do me if I want to be a mechanic? Am I suppose to speak a foreign language to the car? All I need is shop and a few basics. Why some of these other requirements?

Dan

Dear Dan:

Because not everyone in the world is a mechanic and even you may change your mind. In order to function, we all need certain basic knowledge.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

My husband's boss has called me several times when my husband has been out of town. He has asked me out to dinner saying that he realizes how lonely I must be with Guy gone so much. The boss is old enough to be my father so there would be no harm in such a dinner. His wife is a lovely woman and I am quite certain they have a happy marriage. I do get lonesome. Would it be wrong to have an occasional dinner with this man?

Alone

Dear Alone:

I've got a hunch that the boss may be old enough to be your father but is thinking along the lines of a sugar daddy. Don't wait for the go-ahead from me unless his wife is also included.

Leftovers aid budget

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

This is the time of year when food budgets come under the closest scrutiny. Christmas has drained bank accounts and income tax time is fast approaching.

The average homemaker, figuratively speaking, must tighten her food belt.

Meat claims the biggest share of the food dollar, so this is where she first starts cutting. She does this by buying economy cuts and by utilizing leftover meats in meal planning.

This need not lead to dull meals. By imaginative combinations of ingredients and eye-pleasing presentations she can lure her family to partaking of and enjoying those low-cost meats and leftovers. The recipes which follow will meet both requirements.

DIXIE YAM AND FRANK SKILLET

2 medium green peppers, thinly sliced
8 frankfurters cut in 1-inch diagonal slices

1 clove garlic, halved
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

¼ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon instant minced onion

2½ cups grapefruit juice
1 teaspoon soy sauce
4 medium yams, cooked, peeled and quartered or 2 cans (16 ounces each) yams, drained

Cook green peppers, frankfurters and garlic in butter in large skillet until peppers are tender; remove garlic. Mix together brown sugar, cornstarch, salt and onion; gradually stir in grapefruit juice. Add to frankfurters along with soy sauce. Cook and stir until sauce thickens; add yams and heat. Serves four.

YAMS AND FRANKS — This yam and frank skillet dish features the two in combination with a green pepper and seasoned grapefruit juice glaze.

LOUISIANA YAM HAM CAKES

2 eggs
Salt and pepper
1½ teaspoons prepared mustard

1 pound ground cooked ham
½ cup dry bread crumbs
One-third cup chopped onion

Butter or margarine, softened

2 cans (16 or 17-ounces each) Louisiana yams, drained and quartered or 4 medium Louisiana yams, cooked, peeled and quartered.

Beat eggs with ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and the mustard in large bowl. Blend in ham, bread crumbs and onion. Shape mixture into 6 round patties about ¾ inches wide. Melt 2 tablespoons of the butter in skillet over medium heat. Add ham cakes and saute until browned on each side. Add more butter as needed. Place patties on warm serving plate and keep warm. Melt about 3 tablespoons butter in skillet; add yams and saute until hot; stir occasionally and season to taste with salt and pepper. Spoon yams over ham patties and serve. Serves six.

Announcement

In compliance with Chapter 766, the QUINCY PUBLIC SCHOOLS will conduct a SCREENING PROGRAM for the children of Quincy three and four years old.

The process involves: a parent interview, an examination of the child's health, vision, hearing, language ability, and motor skills.

Parents who believe their child has special needs that may interfere with future educational progress should notify MRS. JANET POWELL, who chairs the Pre-School Core Evaluation Team at St. John's Early Childhood Center, before March 1, 1975. She may be reached at 471-8180.

Children entering kindergarten next September are excluded from this program; they will be screened at registration time.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Be philosophical about discouraging news. Be cautious about investing money in a business with friends. Get some good advice from family and professionals. Good time for study to improve career performance.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Strong possibility of a promotion in career. Use care in driving — obey all laws. You could meet someone important romantically. Your intuition is keen and sharp. Follow it. Add to your wardrobe and enjoy social life.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — You could be introduced to someone now whom you have previously admired. Romance could bloom. Stand by a friend who is going through emotional turmoil. You can come to dramatic realizations in career life.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Curb your tendency to be overly aggressive with mate or partner. Use diplomacy, tact and persuasion instead of force. Add to wardrobe, enhance personal appearance. Be discreet in public. Know who are your friends.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Others are more cooperative now. Be willing to compromise where differences exist. Not the time to loan money to a friend. Evaluate new acquaintances carefully — they may not be all they appear to be.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — You feel romantic but somewhat self-willed. Be honest and considerate in pursuing your loved one. Intuition is strong. Direct energies toward learning — expand your mind. Stick to routine on the job.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Work done alone is accented now. Someone new may come into your romantic life. Activities in and around the home are pleasant and fulfilling to you. You are building toward a career future, so concentrate on your work.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — An active period regarding work and social activity. Your talents are on display, and your ego gets a boost. Be especially cautious about forming a romantic alliance. Don't rush impulsively into marriage.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — A business trip is possible. Be cooperative, lest career advancement is affected. Investment opportunities are accented. Investigate advice given and good financial news could result. Have medical checkups too.

LOTS OF LEISURE
It is estimated that by the year 2000 there will be 50 million people with 20 years of unorganized leisure time ahead of them. — CNS

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
What is the rule about a woman wearing a wrist watch with a formal gown?

Mrs. A.J. Bailey
Dear Mrs. Bailey:
A bracelet watch or one with a jeweled band is considered appropriate. The large sporty ones with heavy straps, now so much in vogue, would of course, look out of place with a formal gown. By the way, a man may wear a watch at any time but, again, a gold band rather than a heavy strap, looks better with dinner clothes.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
I keep my quarter-pound sticks of butter on a special dish that has a cover. I place the dish right on the table. I wonder if I should remove the lid and leave it in the kitchen?

Marilyn B.
Dear Marilyn:
Yes, leave the cover in the kitchen. It is necessary to protect the butter from refrigerator odors. Of course, your butter dish is fine for breakfast and informal lunches or suppers. More formal meals call for individual butter pats on separate bread and butter plates. When you use your butter dish be sure and use a butter knife for individual servings. The dinner knife is NEVER used to cut off a serving of butter.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
While visiting my son and daughter-in-law she served cake topped with fresh frozen red raspberries. I wear dentures and the seeds get caught between my plates and gums and the pain is distressing. I refused my daughter-in-law's dessert and she and my son both bombarded me for my reason for declining, which I refused to give. I'm not sure anyone knows I wear dentures — even my son. There were other guests present at the dinner and the whole thing caused me great embarrassment. What should I have said?

Granny T.
Dear Granny:
Your son and daughter-in-law deserve an oral spanking. You should have said, loud and clear, "Please drop the subject and right now!" I would now explain, in privacy, to your daughter-in-law, your reasons for refusing her dessert. When a guest refuses any dish, a thoughtful hostess does not press.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
Who gives a housewarming party, the new householders or their friends?

Jay McC.
Dear Jay:
Generally it is the new householders who issue the invitations but in the south-western part of our country friends may ask to do the honors. A housewarming party should never be a surprise! A housewarming is a tacit invitation in apple pie order, the basement and attic. The lady of the house will want everything in apple pie order. Wouldn't you?

Stay Alive!
By Jack Silverstein

ACID INDIGESTION
If you are over 45, your chances of suffering digestive disorders are three times greater than in younger persons. Such ills as ulcers are not always apparent. An x-ray study of 8,000 executives revealed that one-third of the men who had peptic ulcers had no symptoms — they suffered no pain. Yet, painless ulcers are as likely to hemorrhage or cause perforation as painful ulcers.
The executives most likely to develop digestive disorders, according to medical experts, is one who is physically inactive. Work, pressure, highly seasoned foods, coffee and cigarettes also contribute to indigestion.
If you suffer from stomach distress, see your physician. To avoid such disorders, embark on an exercise program — with a smile. Why? Because a cheery optimistic person is far likely to suffer distress.

For Conduct And Dedication

24 Quincy Police Officers Win Commendations

Twenty-four Quincy police officers have been formally commended by Police Chief Francis X. Finn for professional conduct and dedication to duty in making arrests last year.

Officers John Kelley and Robert Crowley were commended three times for arrests effected together. They were first cited for their "keen observation and professional manner" in recognizing from a composite drawing a man wanted for kidnaping, attempted rape and armed robbery.

They were also commended for "initiative and perseverance" in a case involving the recovery of a stolen color T.V. Oct. 4.

Lastly, they were cited for recovering a dozen bags of marijuana and 2000 class B pills as well as making three arrests Oct. 24.

Officers John Barnes and Frank Spring were commended for apprehending five individuals who perpetrated an armed hold-up at the Washington St. Quincy Oil Gas Station Nov. 10.

Officer Barnes was commended again for helping to capture five suspects in a hold-up of the Southern Artery Quincy Oil Gas Station. Also commended for their "perseverance and professional manner" in making the Oct. 25 arrests were Sgt. Dennis Cronin, Officers Frank Deveau, John McTiernan, William Whalen, Robert Forde and Dispatcher Stanley Crammond who kept the officers "well-informed and coordinated" throughout a long chase of the suspects.

Officer Forde and Canine Officer James Buchanan were both commended for their alertness in discovering the fire Oct. 22 at Kimberly's Restaurant on Quincy Shore Drive. Chief Finn said the early detection of the blaze was instrumental in determining the suspicious origin of the fire.

Detectives Robert Furtado and Richard MacDonald were commended for apprehending Aug. 30 a man forcing a woman to accompany him at knife-point.

Detective MacDonald was again commended for his "diligence and professional manner" in arresting Oct. 19 a person who held up Murphy's Package Store in North Quincy and attempted to rob the Ritz Motel.

Officers Donald Riley and Thomas Laitenen were cited "for the disregard for their own safety and for their professional conduct" during a March 22 house fire on Tyler St., North Quincy. The officers rescued an invalid trapped on the second floor of the burning house by forcing the door and groping through heavy smoke.

Officer William Stenmon was commended "for the professional manner in which he conducted himself in a trying situation." Stenmon diligently administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to a drowning person, but the man died.

Officer Stephen E. DiMattio was commended "for his alertness and dedication to duty" in chasing a robbery suspect while off duty Sept. 2. Two suspects were apprehended, one of which DiMattio identified as the person running from the store. Stolen contraband was recovered.

Officer Richard Curran was commended "for his good judgment and disregard for his own safety" in arresting two armed men who robbed Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Store Oct. 30.

Cited for his dedication - even though off duty - was Officer Paul Smith. Smith jumped an armed man attempting to hold-up a Citgo Gas Station Nov. 10.

Three detectives were commended for their role in recovering on Dec. 13 great quantities of gaming records as well as $15,000 in U.S. currency illegally gathered from a football card gaming operation. Chief Finn said:

"For their dedication in contributing to a major blow against organized crime and providing the Quincy Police Department with a highly professional image in law enforcement circles in the Commonwealth as well as in Federal enforcement circles, Detectives Richard Bergeron, Peter Gallagher and Paul Snow are hereby officially commended."

Officer David Schofield was commended for "his keen observation and professional manner" in arresting two individuals who had broken into a home on Highland Ave. Dec. 17. The culprits had forced into another home on the street and Officer Schofield recovered stolen property from both homes.

Officer Edward Weddleton was commended for pursuing and apprehending a man who attempted to pass a stolen check in a supermarket. Although the suspect made a motion as if to reach for a gun, Officer Weddleton did not fire but fell to the ground, ordering the man to surrender. He pursued the fleeing suspect further and apprehended him in a nearby apartment house. Chief Finn said:

"For his professional conduct in maintaining his composure and not firing his weapon, together with his diligent pursuit at the risk of his own safety, Officer Weddleton is hereby officially commended."

13 U-Mass. Students In Quincy Teacher Training Program

Thirteen students of the University of Massachusetts at Boston have been appointed to teacher training programs in Quincy schools.

They are among 85 students that have been placed in schools throughout the Greater Boston area, as a result of the U Mass-Boston Teacher Certification program and the cooperation of school officials.

Assigned to Montclair elementary school are Linda Bresnahan of 46 Botolph St., North Quincy; Elizabeth Buccini of Malden; Carol Mills of Dorchester; Dianne C. Rich of Abington; and Margaret F. Yelle of Norton.

Assisting at Quincy High School are Marcia Gannon, 455A Sea St., and William Gunning, 45A Spear St., both of Quincy; Stephen Lynch, Braintree; Carol Vallee, Easton; Barbara Sullivan of Weymouth and Steven Meaney of Rosindale.

Cecile Collins, 316 Atlantic St., North Quincy and Maura O'Brien of Jamaica Plain have been appointed to work at North Quincy High.

Host Families Sought For Youths

Quincy families who are willing to act as temporary host families to youths in crisis situations are needed by the Host Homes Program, a newly developed program for South Shore youth.

Sheila Rega, coordinator of the program, is currently developing a network of host families throughout the South Shore. These families, after participating in a training program, will take in youths aged 13-18 who need a place to stay for one to 30 days. During this period the youths are evaluated, their family or crisis situation is assessed, and future plans are decided upon. The youths will be runaways, or be referred through the courts, police, or self-help programs. A training session will be held in February to help prepare families.

Single people, couples, families, and grandparents may act as host families. Anyone interested in the program, or who wants more information, should contact one of the Quincy representatives.

Susan Dare of Survival, Inc. is answering calls at 773-5704. Survival serves many drug-involved youths. Families who have dealt with drug problems would be especially helpful in housing youths who have this problem. Louise Foley of the South Shore Council on Alcoholism, is answering calls at 472-6027.

The South Shore Council on Alcoholism helps those youths with alcohol problems, and families with experience in this area would be helpful.

Robert Coughlin Elected PMMI First Vice President

Robert W. Coughlin, vice-president of Quincy's Pneumatic Scale Corp., has been elected first vice-president of the Packaging Machinery Manufacturers Institute (PMMI).

As a PMMI vice-president, Coughlin will serve on the PMMI Board of Directors.

He has served as PMMI Show Committee Chairman and is currently Budget Committee Chairman for the packaging machinery association.

PMMI is a Washington-based trade association whose 133 company membership represents the major American manufacturers of packaging machinery.

Before becoming vice-president of Pneumatic Scale, Coughlin served as the company's sales manager.

He has also served as vice-president and director of the Packaging Institute, U.S.A., a professional society.

ELECTED -- Robert H. Rollins of 65 Haviland St., Wollaston, a public accountant, has been elected a director and clerk of The Bankette Company, Inc., Wollaston. Announcement was made by Jack Williams, president of Bankette.

Howard Back's Economy Barometer

Construction Of Just One House

Provides Income For Over 100 Persons

For years, the automobile industry has been hailed as the all-time accurate economic barometer, giving a forecast, fair or foul, of the country's economic outlook.

Yet the construction industry may well register an economic reading even more accurate and reliable.

According to this barometer, the country is now well beyond freezing, hovering near zero.

Last year, the country seemed to be sinking deeper into an economic mire as the energy crisis and the devalued American dollar forced automotive manufacturers to announce production cutbacks and employee lay-offs.

This year, that trend is reversing. The country's automobile giants have announced rebates as high as $600 in an effort to lure consumers to buy now.

And it seems to be working. Car dealers have reported rises in sales, seemingly attributable to the attractive rebates.

Many economic observers feel that if the construction industry - now at a near standstill - can be revived, our country will be well on its way to full economic recovery and prosperity. For hundreds, even thousands, of people are adversely affected by the inability to build even one house.

For example, Realtor Howard

Back of Quincy-Braintree, said an entire web of businesses which rely on real estate industry is hurt by construction halts.

He has compiled a long list of individuals directly affected by the construction of just one house. The list includes:

Builders and developers [7], surveyors [2], road builders [10], machine operators [2], foundation men [6], framers [6], cement finishers [3], real estate broker [1], insulator [3], plasterers [4], window manufacturers [numerous], bricklayers [2], lumber suppliers [numerous], finished carpenters [4].

Asphalt tile men [2], wall-to-wall carpet installers [4], kitchen installers [3], ceramic tile installers [2], driveway contractors [4], painters [4], wallpaper hangers [2], laborers [4], electricians [2], plumbers [4], landscaping architects [5], heating contractors [2].

Insurance brokers [2], numerous personnel from the telephone, light and gas companies, movers [5], buyers [5] and numerous truck drivers and banks totaling well over 100 individuals directly affected by a building freeze on just one home.

Back also said that manufacturers and suppliers for each of the above tradesmen would be indirectly affected by a loss of income caused by the inability to build one home.

For example, the carpenter would not need nails and lumber, the painters would not need paint, brushes and ladders, the road builders would not need concrete and blacktop, ad infinitum.

In addition, Back said office personnel, warehouse workers, production-line employees and scores of truck drivers would suffer from a single building cut-back.

This phenomenon also snowballs to include local grocery, department and liquor stores, restaurants and clothing manufacturers, all of which lose potential customer sales and profits - all because one home-would not be built.

Yet when money is available and houses are built, Back said the entire community prospers. Tradesmen and service company personnel are employed, manufacturers and suppliers are busy, cities and towns realize greater revenue - everyone benefits.

Eventually, as interest rates wind down, as mortgage money becomes more available, as the economy stabilizes, thousands of building tradesmen, manufacturers and suppliers will once again be in business, and our economic forecast will perhaps change from cloudy to clear.

Concelebrated Mass At St. Mary's Church

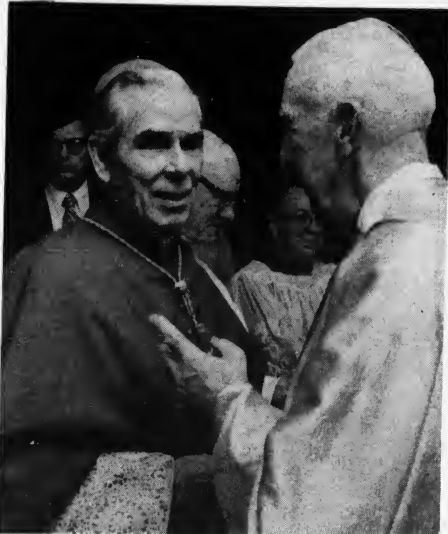

Bishop Fulton Sheen Helps Quincy Celebrate Birthday

PARISHIONERS are greeted by Archbishop Fulton Sheen. Behind him are Rev. John J. McMahon, pastor St. Mary's Church, and Msgr. John J. Mullarkey.

A FAMOUS FACE to television viewers the nation over Archbishop Fulton Sheen of New York came to Quincy Saturday to help commemorate the 350th anniversary of Quincy's founding, and the 135th birthday of St. Mary's. He delivered the sermon at a Concelebrated Mass at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

UNDERSCORING A POINT with pointed finger, Archbishop Fulton Sheen delivers sermon at Concelebrated Mass at St. Mary's Church. Pastors of the city's Catholic churches assisted.

WITH A GESTURE, Archbishop Fulton Sheen chats with parishioners as he arrives at banquet following the Concelebrated Mass. St. Mary's is marking its 135th anniversary. Beside Bishop Sheen is Rev. John J. McMahon, St. Mary's pastor.

Women Detective's Life Not As Glamorous As On TV

"but it's not as glamorous as the TV shows portray it to be. They don't show the timing and the planning which goes into making a successful arrest. They don't show all the paper work, the preparator and the team work."

Such paper work, preparation and team work within the Quincy Police Department resulted in the arrest of 56 heroin pushers during the year-long investigation in 1972. She estimates that roughly $5,000 worth of heroin was confiscated during that drug detail.

Born and raised in Milton and schooled at Thayer Academy and Wheaton College, Barbara said her interest in police work blossomed in high school as she heard the many tales told by four uncles - two active and two now retired police officers.

She first came to the Quincy Police Department in 1971, working as a secretary to the department's then legal counsel, Rep. William Delahunt. The next year, an opportunity opened within the force. Barbara explained: "They weren't ready to put a woman in uniform but they were looking for a woman to do undercover work - someone who would be less suspicious than a man in that role. It was a novel thing never tried before in this area."

Barbara worked with three different partners during her year-long stint as an undercover agent and one time she found herself caught alone in an apartment in an unexpected situation: the pushers wanted her to 'shoot up' there before making a sale.

Though Pepper Anderson or Christie Love might have used a well-placed karate kick to the floating ribs as a means of escape, Barbara used common sense and calm to meet safely with her partner outside. Barbara said:

"Television shows try to make women super-human. They are the best targets, they can flip any man, they can out-smart any criminal. These are rare qualities in any one person - male or female. Few people are all that, all at once."

Following her undercover assignment, Barbara worked in both the juvenile and drug departments. Asked about her goals within the police field, she said:

"I enjoy being where I am. I get to work with a lot of young people. It's an all-round job, even semi social work. We work out programs of diversion - instead of court for arrested juveniles...It's very rewarding work."

Yet Barbara admits her work sometimes waxes depressing and futile within the realm of drugs.

"Our goal is to remove the source of the drug," she said. "It can be depressing to see the pushers and sources not going to jail or not receiving meaningful sentences."

Now undergoing a 10-week training program at the Quincy Police Academy, Barbara will return to the juvenile and drug divisions upon graduation March 20. A total of 39 people are enrolled in the course, 12 of them Quincy residents and three of them women.

In addition to her Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. training schedule, Barbara is also enrolled as a part-time student at Northeastern University, working towards her master's degree in criminal justice. She will complete her studies there in September.

Barbara said teamwork is an essential ingredient of successful, organized police work.

"There isn't one star," she said. "It's a combination of people working together as a unit. No one tries to outshine the other."

And no one disobeys orders, she added, as do many young TV detectives.

"They don't follow orders on TV," Barbara said. "They come up with the right lead by not following orders. That only produces chaos within a department."

Though Barbara says a woman officer brings "a second side to an issue...a different perspective," she adds that this perspective is not necessarily a better one.

"If you could combine the good qualities of both the male and female officer," she said, "you'd have a near-perfect officer."

Denying the label of 'woman's libber', Barbara said:

"It's tough for anyone to do police work. You're supposed to be so many things: a medical technician, a social worker, a street fighter... Sometimes women officers can be more understanding but I'm not a woman's libber at all."

"Women have a place in police work," she continued. "We are just beginning to get into police work and we can only hope to be as good as the men are."

Surging Trend Toward Apartment Construction

several factors have influenced this trend in increased apartment construction. She said:

"High land cost, scarcity of land, zoning, our proximity to Boston, high housing demand, and high construction costs are all factors which have influenced this shift from single family housing to apartment development."

Despite the evident upsurge in apartment development in Quincy, the city's population has increased only 4.9 per cent in the past 20 years, according to planning department figures. Although hailed as the fastest growing city in the state during the 1930's, Quincy's population is now increasing at a much slower rate.

A random sample of 777 Quincy apartment dwellers showed 41 per cent between the ages of 18 and 30. A total of 25 per cent were over 55 years old and 28 per cent were between the ages of 30 and 55.

A fact sheet prepared by the Planning Department pointed to this survey as an indication that apartment dwellers in Quincy are primarily young adults, senior citizens or middle-aged persons beyond the child-bearing years.

Speakers at the conference also noted that housing demands and needs will change as a family goes through its life style of childless early years, young children years, crowded peak years to childless later years.

In 1950, family households in Quincy [homes where two or more related individuals live] represented 91.7 per cent of all households. Yet that percentage dropped to 78.9 in 1970, while the percentage of non-family households increased from 8.3 - 21.1 per cent during the same time period.

An important area discussed during the session was an analysis of the costs versus the returns of Quincy's apartments.

According to planning department figures, Quincy apartments brought $26,332,275 in tax revenues into the city as of January 1974. This figure represents about 11 per cent of the total assessed value of real estate in Quincy, a figure totaling $229,377,150.

The planning department estimated the cost of providing city services per unit [with each unit containing two people] at $463 for each of four apartment types. These city services include water and sewer facilities, police and fire protection as well as recreation, park, education and transportation facilities.

Calculation of the net return per unit - revenue minus costs - showed the high rise apartment as producing the greatest return per unit [$234-252], mid-rise the next [$176-214], low rise garden the next [$142-181] and low rise the least [$35-92].

The planning department emphasized this study represents only the beginning of a cost-revenue analysis of apartment construction in Quincy - an analysis which needs much refinement.

Following the morning session of individual presentations, residents had the opportunity to join one of three small discussion groups dealing with "Apartments and Neighborhood Life", "Community Image and Design", and "Apartments and the City's Economy".

Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson said the unique meeting of Quincy residents and planning department staff provides "an excellent means" of learning residents' views on apartment and condominium development. He said:

"These views will become an important element in our studies and recommendations to the mayor and to the City Council concerning future development policies."

$290,320 In Plumbing

Inspector of Plumbing and Gas Fittings James A. Erwin Jr., reports 67 plumbing applications for an estimated $290,320 in plumbing were filed during the month of January.

A total of $315 was received for permits. One-hundred thirty-two plumbing inspections were made.

Erwin also reported the filing of 64 applications for gas installations costing an estimated $8,248.

Eighty-five inspections were made and $94 was received for permits.

THE MAGIC TREE

Once I saw, a tree that turned into an elephant. The roots on the tree were his veins. And the trunk on the tree was his nose. The leaves on the tree were growing in funny ways of circles for the shape of his ears. The twigs on the tree were his tail. Then the elephant started to roar at me. Again and again! All of a sudden my mother called me. Then the elephant turned back into a tree.

Would Limit Campaign Spending To 25¢ Per Head

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Paul Harold, a past and future candidate, wants to limit the amount of money that can be spent in local election campaigns. "It would give the man who hasn't a lot of money a chance to win," says Harold.

Harold who was barely edged by Leo Kelly for the Ward 1 council seat in 1973 is considering a rematch or a run for an at-large seat this year.

He has had a bill filed in his behalf by Rep. Michael Flaherty of Dorchester which calls for a 25-cents per person limit formula, which would work like this:

A candidate could spend no more than 25 cents per person living in the district he is running in. That's 25 cents total per person for both the preliminary and final elections—not each.

There are, for example, an estimated 90,000 persons living in Quincy. Thus, a candidate running for mayor, council at-large or school committee would be allowed to spend 90,000 quarters or a total of $22,500.

The $22,500 would be the total a candidate could spend in the preliminary and final elections—not $22,500 for each election.

[Observers, incidentally, estimate it would take approximately $35,000 to launch an effective campaign against an incumbent mayor under the present no-limit spending.]

Under Harold's plan if Quincy's population is 90,000, [the state census would determine the exact figure] each of Quincy's six wards would be allocated 15,000 persons. So, a ward council candidate could spend 15,000 quarters—or $3,750 in the two elections.

The bill was scheduled for a hearing Tuesday before the legislative Election Law Committee on which two Quincy representatives, William Delahunt and Robert Cerasoli, are serving.

Harold may have the right idea and something like this may eventually come about.

One argument against it might be that it gives the incumbent the upper hand. He's better known and would just as soon limit campaign spending. He campaigns free every day in office.

But it's something to think about.

JOYCE BAKER, who ran for state representative in the Fourth Norfolk District last year, reportedly is a serious contender for chairmanship of the Republican State Committee.

She has been interviewed by Senator Edward Brooke's Screening Committee. But insiders say she will remove herself from consideration in favor of Mary Newman, former Manpower Secretary of the Commonwealth.

And, that of course, will open up speculation that Joyce, has other political thoughts. Perhaps as a candidate in this year's city election.

WELL, there's one school committee seat that won't be open this year. Frank McCauley says he definitely will seek re-election. There has been speculation that he might attempt to return to the City Council.

McCauley finds the school committee interesting and really enjoys serving on it. So much so that he has personally visited most of the schools to observe first hand how Quincy's children are being educated.

STILL A QUESTION though is what School Committeeman Daniel Raymondi and Harold Davis will do this year. Both are up for re-election but will they make city council runs instead?

Raymondi has everyone guessing with a one-word auto bumper sticker: "Raymondi". The sticker could be used for a school committee, Ward 2 or council at-large campaign.

Insiders figure he will go for the Ward 2 seat where he now lives and where his wife, Sharyn, grew up. However, he could still make a bid at-large depending on the situation just before filing deadline.

DAVIS, meanwhile, has given no public indication so far that he may pass up a re-election bid this year for a council run.

Observers figure he might go for the Ward 3 council seat if incumbent John Lydon decides to run at-large. Or run at-large himself for the seat being vacated by Joseph LaRaia who is challenging Mayor Walter Hannan.

YOU CAN ELIMINATE James Papile as a candidate for the Ward 2 council seat. Says he's not interested, except as a voter.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "Wisdom, if it comes, usually comes with age—too late to do much good."

Thumbnail Thoughts

Old politicians become statesmen, old people become wise and the young have the only thing that counts going for them — their youth and health.

If the bearers of bad tidings had their heads chopped off as in the old days, we wouldn't have so many economic experts. And that would be nice.

Neal Urges Better Traffic Enforcement In MBTA Communities

Fearing the loss of federal subsidy funds, MBTA Presiding Officer Forrest I. Neal has urged district municipalities to institute better traffic control procedures within their communities.

Neal said new federal legislation provides operating subsidies but the act strictly requires the establishment of exclusive traffic lanes for buses.

Emphasizing that traffic enforcement is not under MBTA control, Neal said:

"It is up to the 79 cities and towns that form the transit district to carry out this task."

Neal noted, too, that improved enforcement of general traffic regulations would help buses to meet schedules, reduce operating costs and conserve fuel.

"I am especially upset," said Neal, "whenever I see a crowded bus stalled in a traffic jam because existing parking regulations are not enforced."

He continued, "If we are serious about making mass transit work, and if we are genuinely interested in conserving energy, we must institute better traffic control procedures."

Testing Discussion Feb. 24 At Broad Meadows Junior

Counselors at Broad Meadows Junior High School will hold a special meeting Monday, Feb. 24 to discuss with parents the school's standardized testing program.

During the meeting parents will receive individual test results for their son or daughter.

Counselors will present a brief overview of tests offered at the school and parents will then divide into discussion groups according to interest.

The California tests and the Ohio Vocational Inventory will be reviewed with Grade 8 parents and the Differential Aptitude Test will be discussed with Grade 9 parents.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the school's Media Center.

Refreshments will be provided by the Parent Board.

Edelin Trial Makes Her Wonder

Editor, Quincy Sun: While reading about the Edelin manslaughter trial in the press, I began to wonder: How can a nation long endure, a nation which has legalized the destruction of its own most defenseless citizens, the unborn child? Whether the baby is inside or outside of the womb, it is the same baby, perfectly complete in every way, except for the growth process. Do women, simply because they are women, think a human fetus can be disposed of at will? On the contrary, the majority of women know that one new life has begun, it should be protected by its own natural protector, the mother.

The experts on the defense for Dr. Edelin tell the jury that the baby "probably" would have died, or that it only had a slim chance of survival. Does any doctor have the right to take away another person's chance to live, even though it be only a small chance? Because the fetus is hidden within the womb, the abortionists do not admit that abortion is taking a life. Well then, what is it? It is not an appendix or a piece of tissue, it is a living developing human being!

Down On Your Luck?

Editor, Quincy Sun: Isn't it strange how our government has conditioned us into believing the welfare recipient is a social parasite; that anyone who is in a financial bind has no right to receive assistance without guilt; that most of those in need are the takers, not the givers?

Did you know that the budget "they" receive to exist on is lower than the lowest paying job in this state? If you are fortunate enough to have a job this year, do you begrudge your neighbor who may be unemployed or unable to work a small subsidy for his family? Recipients have families who work and pay taxes! How many large industries pay no taxes? Recipients pay state taxes continually, the same way as the "working person." Yes, everything but food and clothing is taxed for everyone.

What the Massachusetts American is not aware of is that although one-half the state budget may be spent on the needy, the Federal government reimburses half of that, so in essence only one-quarter is actually spent: the Welfare Department brings in more Federal money than all other departments combined, and gives jobs to thousands of people who otherwise might join the ever-growing ranks of the unemployed.

Children are the main recipients of A.F.D.C. Who of you can say to them, "You have no right to eat or have a roof over your head?" Who wants to cast the first stone?

Do you know how degrading it is for a parent to ask for assistance in this devastating time of their lives? Before you are eligible for assistance, virtually all of your assets must be depleted, so don't get the idea it's a gravy train. The recipient lives well below the property level.

Many widows and their families are forced to live on less money than they are entitled to because they cannot face the stigma society has placed on the recipient on public assistance. Is this not an unfair burden for her to carry? Let's give everybody the dignity they so deserve.

Over 90% of all women with children are only one man away from welfare. Think about it.

Question Of Week

'How Do I Apply For Food Stamps?'

"How do I apply for food stamps?" asked a caller to the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone.

The volunteer VIFone operator replied that application is made at your local welfare service office. [If you don't know where that is located, ask your Town or City Clerk.] People there will help you fill out the six pages of affidavit concerning your family income. You should take with you:

- Your Social Security Number
 - One month's pay stubs
 - Proof of other incomes, such as rental income, pensions, child support, alimony, strike benefits, workmen's compensation, veterans's benefits, annuities, unemployment compensation.
- If you already receive Public Assistance [Aid to Families of Dependent Children, General Relief], you automatically qualify to receive food stamps. You should have received a two-page affidavit form in the mail.

If you do not already receive relief, you may qualify if you earn low wages; work part time; are unemployed; have high medical, dental or necessary household expenses; receive social security or a small pension.

This question is one of the many now being received by the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIFone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

Youth Speaks Out

- Baseball players are now in the process of arbitration; Charley Finley has so many players involved that it will cost him more in legal fees than to pay the difference in salaries.
- President Ford said recently that he would allow gas rationing over his dead body — we don't think we need to comment.
- Many teenagers are criticized for the way they act, but why do adults imitate them — or is it the other way around?
- If a new tax is put on gasoline, it may lead to something else being taxed — our legs.
- Bill Russell's refusal to attend his induction into the Hall of Fame makes a big man look rather small.
- The president spends his free time skiing. At least two things are going downhill — the president and the economy.

MONEY TALKS
Handling Of Money
Reflects A Philosophy Of Life

By Philip J. Lawrence
 President

Colonial Federal Savings
 And Loan Association
 of Quincy, Holbrook and Wareham
 8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

Each of us has developed with passing years his own philosophy of life. We can become annoyed when we encounter persons who do not share the same outlook.

Part of that philosophy is revealed in the attitude toward money. Loan officers in institutions like ours could write books about the wide range of concepts about money and its uses that can be found in American families.

There are the excessively frugal, for example, whose spartan approach to spending borders upon or is even symptomatic of irrational behavior.

Far more common, however, are those who spend as they earn—or exceed this limit as much as others will let them—with no regard for consequences.

People who borrow from us are carefully screened not only in terms of present or potential income but in relation to the responsibility they demonstrate in handling their monetary resources.

Some would-be borrowers with impressive incomes are disappointed or even indignant to learn that their loan application has been rejected. It matters not to them that their assets are extremely limited in relation to the amounts they have handled and that their credit is under severe strain.

People with substantially lower salary income who have a record of faithful payment of obligations reasonably limited installment credit, and savings reserves are far better risks when it comes to negotiating a home mortgage loan.

The precarious approach to living is reflected in the frequency with which improvident couples wind up in the divorce courts. It is a common occurrence that the prelude to divorce is the foreclosed home, to which other creditors have come to add their own claims. Frequently the children display the same lack of restraint as they get into trouble in their schools and communities.

A common forerunner of the oncoming crash is a final flurry of spending with the same intensity that must have enveloped the kamikaze pilot as he plunged to his doom.

Changing people's points of view with regard to money and its management is about as difficult as persuading the alcoholic or the drug addict to alter his ways. Habits of thrift get learned in the home before the child is ready for school. In this respect, as in so many others, the child is likely to be what his parents have been.

It pleases, therefore, to see a youngster come in and add a few dollars to his small savings account. Somehow, it makes us feel he's going to be all right.

MDC Explains Mystery Of Fresh Water In Black's Creek

Stop logs since removed from the tidal gate area of Black's Creek salt marsh caused the water there to turn temporarily fresh during a dredging operation, according to MDC Commissioner John Sears.

Rep. Joseph Brett had written Sears concerning a noted change in the water from salt to fresh since the installation of new tidal gates where Black's Creek enters Quincy Bay.

He said this change "could have a deleterious effect of the future stability of the salt marsh" and had urged Sears to review and investigate the situation.

According to Sears, the stop logs, used to permit the dredging of the Creek, were removed Jan. 20. He said the new system of operation allows more salt water into the marsh than before the installation of the tide gates.

He noted that the presence of fresh water in the creek did not adversely affect the salt marsh, in the opinion of the MDC. He added:

"The return to normal operations insures the continuation of the salt marsh."

Sears said the tide gates will remain open except during storms and the stop logs will be re-inserted in July and August to maintain the level of the creek.

MDC Lifeguards Must Have Red Cross Certificates

Lifeguards at Wollaston Beach during the 1975 season must have American Red Cross senior lifesaving certificates, according to the Massachusetts Division of Civil Service.

Certificates must be exhibited by the potential lifeguards before they are allowed to take the practical test in lifesaving administered by the Division of Civil Service.

In past years the more than 400 lifeguards employed each year by the MDC have been required only to take a swimming test and to show a current Red Cross certificate in first aid.

Anyone seeking information relative to employment as lifeguards by the MDC this year should contact the Division of Civil Service, Labor Bureau, Room 930, 294 Washington St., Boston. Those who have served as MDC lifeguards in the past and those seeking such positions this year for the first time are urged to take such action as soon as possible.

Seniors Can Apply For Work Through CETA

Senior citizens living in the 10 outlying towns served through the local Quincy-based CETA program (Comprehensive Training and Employment Act) can apply for full or part-time employment at the Mass. Division of Employment Office, 1433 Hancock St., Quincy.

Senior citizens in Quincy have been taking advantage of the program and fellow senior citizens in Weymouth, Braintree, Milton, Hull, Hingham, Scituate, Randolph, Cohasset, Norwell and Holbrook are also invited to participate in the CETA program.

Carl Streifred, CETA employment counselor, said jobs available for women include positions as bookkeepers, clerks, cooks, housekeepers, nurses' aides and factory workers, to name only a few. Openings for men include bartenders, bookkeepers, laborers, watchman, security guard, custodian, and handyman, again naming only a few.

Applicants must be 60 years of age or over and reside in one of the 11 South Shore towns and cities served by the Quincy-based CETA program.

Both Streifred and Employment Counselor Edmund Ferry will be available Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. to assist job applicants.

Judo, Karate Courses At QJC

Quincy Junior College is now offering 10-week courses in judo and karate.

Classes began Monday but interested people may still register for either course.

Mitchell Harding, instructor of the two courses, describes karate as "the art of foot and hand strikes." A self-defense technique, karate can also be considered a sport since it involves the control of one's movements.

Harding said women as well as men can learn karate and judo since it involves the development of skill, not strength.

Jiu-jitsu or judo is strictly the art of self-defense, says Harding. Both beginning courses will teach basic techniques. Proficiency in both arts requires years of practice.

The judo course meets Mondays at 5:30 p.m. and the karate course meets Mondays at 7:30 p.m. Course fee is $30 for Quincy residents and $35 for non-residents.

Quincy Vo-Tech LPN Graduates Scores High

The September 1973 graduates of the Quincy Vocational Technical School practical nursing program compiled a 643.1 average score on the nationally administered Licensed Practical Nurses exam, topping both the national and state averages.

Figures released by the state's Board of Registration shows a national score average of 516.1 and a state average of 552.3.

Board statistics also showed the 30 graduates of the 1973 program placing highest among a cluster of 39 other practical nursing schools in Massachusetts.

Statistics are based upon the LPN exam administered from the Fall of 1973 to the Fall of 1974 and taken by 39,859 students across the nation and 1,308 students in this state.

A total of 43 of the 75 LPNs employed at Quincy City Hospital are graduates of Quincy Vocational Technical School. Currently, 44 students are enrolled in the practical nursing program.

THE WORLD OF MUSIC

Sonny and Cher join in songs

By ROBIN WELLES
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Sonny and Cher have split up now, but they're still together for a few moments in a collection of some of their greatest hits. Many of the songs on the MCA album were written by Sonny Bono: "You Better Sit Down Kids," "I Got You Babe" (the one they did at the end of their TV program), "A Cowboy's Work Is Never Done," "Mama Was a Rock and Roll Singer," and the surging, swinging "The Beat Goes On."

They also do a beautiful "What Now My Love." This one could become a collector's classic now that Sonny and Cher have gone their separate ways.

You run out of adjectives when you try to tell someone how good Sam Neely is. He's only 26 and he's lived in Corpus Christi for the last 15 years where he sings and plays some of the finest Texas-style country and rock music in the nation.

This is an original talent, one of those guys who sounds like himself and no one else. Neely makes his living doing rock at the Electric Eel in Corpus, a job that leaves him at the end of a long night, in his words, "tired and disgusted," and more than a little drunk. He writes his music at home after the gig, and you can hear what it sounds like on his "Down Home" album that has just been released by A&M Records.

As Neely says, on one of his songs, "Everybody learns to sing the blues." Especially late at night when it's all over again.

News for jazz addicts: Budah Records is out with an LP by Peter (Snake Hips) Dean called "Four or Five Times."

Dean has one of those soft, caring voices that sort of breathes the vocals. The backup is superb. Buddy Weed did the arrangements and also plays the piano background. Best cuts are "If I Could Be With You," "How Come You Do Me Like You Do," and "One More Time."

The old ukelele will never be the same. Herb Ohta, the brilliant Hawaiian ukelele stylist, has lifted the instrument into a different dimension. He's long been famous in Hawaii and is becoming increasingly so on the mainland, where he appeared on TV a while back doing his haunting "Song for Anna."

That hit, and some other great listening, is on an Ohta LP just released by A&M Records.

Andy Kim's summer smash, "Rock Me Gently," is the headline on the Canadian-born singer's new album for Capitol. Kim is an introspective young man who can see beyond the Billboard charts: "I think God put people on earth to enjoy life. That's the feeling I try to recreate in my music. That — and the frustration of why we're here on earth. I also try to deal with that, make sense of it." A fresh, natural talent from the northland.

Henry Mancini calls his latest for RCA "Hangin' Out," but don't let the title fool you. Mancini still is Mr. Sophistication, and he's so smooth he hardly ripples on cuts like "The Sex Symbol," "Love's Theme," and "Song for Anna." Of course he is a bit bawdy with his hit, "The Stripper," but primarily this is still the Henry you know from the last time the lights were down low.

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Charo, Xavier Cugat's saucy, spritely, young wife, famous for her figure and her "cuchi-cuchi," is slated to star in her own television series next fall her agent, Norman Brokaw, says.

However, series or no, Charo says she can only concentrate upon her career for another five years, because Cogie wants a baby when he's 80.

"That will be five years from now," Charo bubbles. "Cogie says he wants to be like Charlie Chaplin.

"So, when he's 80, we'll have a baby, and maybe I won't have so much time to work.

"I think we'll name the baby for our chihuahua, Dellah, if it's a girl, and Pepe if it's a boy."

Born in Murcia, Spain, Charo was convent educated and considers herself a faithful if unorthodox Catholic, despite the fact she was married out of the church to a divorced man.

"My uncle is a bishop and I have many cousins who are nuns," Charo says. "I went to my uncle to see whether we could get our marriage recognized by the church, but he couldn't help us.

"I think Cogie got a little offended.

CHARO

"If we have a baby, this may be a little problem, since the church doesn't consider us married. But we don't have to worry about that for five years.

"Anyway, I don't think I'm doing something wrong living with Cogie."

Asked whether she'd recommend a May-December union such as hers to every young girl, Charo answers with an emphatic, "No."

"There are many things to marriage including character and respect," she says, "and I respect Cogie for his character and his mind. Robert Redford should have Cogie's brain!"

"I love Cogie like a husband and also like a father and a brother and a friend. He brought me and my sister from Spain, and I am very grateful. I could never leave him.

"But when someone my age is married to a man 75, there is no balance. In that case, the husband is king of the family.

"It takes principal and character to have a marriage like that.

"But Cogie and I get along well, because we have so much in common. We talk about music and writing and all sorts of things."

On the other hand, Charo admits, "My parents thought I'd go crazy when I married.

"My father met Cogie for the first time two years after our marriage, and he said, 'You married that thing?'"

"Cogie answered, 'I am not a thing. I am king of the rhumba.'

"Now he and my father are good friends. My father calls Cogie about twice a month."

Charo is proud of her husband's artistic talent which not only allows him to sell his paintings at substantial prices but cuts down on the cost of wardrobe upkeep.

Pointing to the handpainted flowers on her close-fitting leather trousers, Charo beamed, "Cogie painted these to cover grease spots. When I got a spot on these pants, Cogie painted a flower over another spot, and another. And now I have flowered pants."

U.S. Navy Band Here March 10

The official U.S. Navy Band will hold a special concert for senior citizens March 10 at 1 p.m. at the Quincy Vocational-Technical School gymnasium.

Sponsored by Quincy Heritage, Inc., and the Quincy public schools, the 55-member Navy Band will present the concert for senior citizens at the reduced rate of $2 per person. Admission to a second concert at 8 p.m. will be $4 per person.

Point Congregational Backs Norfolk Prison Fellowship

The Missionary Committee of Quincy Point Congregational Church is seeking to maintain the Norfolk Prison Fellowship, now jeopardized by withdrawal of federal funding.

Through the efforts of Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin and John Mulloy of Braintree, active in the Fellowship program, a bill has been introduced into the Massachusetts legislature to provide for state funding to continue the program. A hearing on the bill is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 27 at 1 p.m. in Room 466 in the State House.

Quincy Point Congregational Church had been involved for many years in the program which seeks to reduce the return rate of inmates to the prison. The Mission Committee urges church members not only to write to their state senators and representatives in support of the Senate bill but also to attend the scheduled hearing.

Lenten Services At Lutheran Churches

The three Lutheran churches of Quincy have planned inter-parish worship services during the Lenten season.

"The Personalities of Lent" will be the theme of the sermons, delivered on successive Wednesdays.

The Church of the Good Shepherd, 308 West Squantum St., North Quincy, was to be the host parish of Wednesday's service with Interim Pastor Harry Carlson preaching.

Wollaston Lutheran Church Pastor Frank Bauer will deliver the sermon at the Feb. 26 service to be held at the Wollaston Lutheran Church, 550 Hancock St.

James Kimmell, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church, 201

Granite St., will officiate at the March 5 service at his church.

The Church of the Good Shepard will again host a service March 12, followed by Wollaston Lutheran on March 19 and ending with Faith Lutheran on March 26, the last Wednesday before Easter Sunday.

All services will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Lenten Services Sermon At Bethany Integrated With Hymns

The Lenten services at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy, will feature minister's sermons integrated with some of the outstanding evangelistic hymns of the past.

Preaching at the 10 a.m. worship services on the theme of "Wellsprings of Faith" will be the Reverend John D. Banks, pastor, whose themes also include:

Feb. 16 - "Seeing is Believing"; John 8:25; Feb. 23 - "The Whole World in His Hands"; Jeremiah 18:4; March 2 - "Have You Heard the Great Invitation?" Revelations 22:17; March 9 - "Where Do You Take Your Stand?" 1 Corinthians 3:10-15; March 16 - "Who Are Your Friends?" John 15:15; March 23 - "Are You a Soldier of the Cross?" Ephesians 6:10-17; and March 30 - "A Round Trip to Emmaus", Luke 24:33.

The sermons-with-a-song began Ash Wednesday at Bethany Church when the choir and congregation united in hymns that stressed the same thoughts as Mr. Banks' commentary.

The Chancel Choir of the church, which will have an important role in the worship services, is directed by Lambert W. Brandes of the faculty of Eastern Nazarene College, Quincy.

Quincy Loses Tourney Bid, North Finishes Strong

The Quincy hockey team, which won its first five games and seven of its first eight, was eliminated from state tourney contention Monday when Brockton broke a close game wide open in the final minutes to oust the Presidents, 10-5, at Brockton.

Quincy had to win or tie its final five games to make the tournament.

Quincy took a 2-0 lead in the first minute and a half on goals by Rich Lucier and Frank Guest but Brockton took a 3-2 lead before Billy Hamill scored for Quincy to tie it, 3-3, after a period.

After Brockton had scored twice in the second period, Guest scored unassisted and it was Brockton, 5-4, after two.

Guest scored his third goal in the third period to make it Brockton 6, Quincy 5, but the turning point occurred minutes later when Guest was given a penalty shot. He went in on goalie Phil DeCelle all alone but Brockton then scored three goals in 20 seconds to wrap it up.

Despite giving up 10 goals, most of them when the defense left him all alone, Quincy goalie Mark Fanning was outstanding with numerous spectacular saves.

Brockton out-shot Quincy, 34-19.

The Presidents tuned up for the Brockton showdown with two big offensive performances last week.

Saturday at the Quincy Youth Arena they bombed Newton, 8-2.

Frank Guest, one of the Suburban League's outstanding juniors, had another hat trick.

Also scoring were Ted Wiedemann, Brian Nevins, Billy Hamill, Rick Avery and Bill Brooks.

Avery, who has the most assists of any player in the league, added three more, and Leo Kearney, Rich Lucier, Hamill, Guest and Wiedemann had one apiece.

Friday Quincy romped over Cambridge Latin, 9-4, as Wiedemann had the hat trick, Steve Neville two goals and Bob Barry, Hamill, Guest and Kearney one apiece. Guest had three assists, Avery and Barry two each, Hamill, Brooks, Lucier, Dennis Bertoni, Nick Cyr and Pete Raymer one apiece.

Ron Erikson's North Quincy team, which came on strong over the second half of the season, had a four-game unbeaten streak ended Saturday when it was walloped by league-leading Brockton, 7-2.

Steve Cronin and Joe Pistorino had the Raider goals and Mike McLean had two assists and Pistorino one.

Earlier in the week North ran its unbeaten string to four with a 6-4 win over Rindge Tech.

McLean had the hat trick and Alan Thomas, Kevin Murphy and Glenn Hanson one goal each. Paul O'Donnell had three assists, Hanson two and Murphy, Cronin and Thomas one each.

In their previous two games the Raiders had defeated Newton and tied Weymouth South.

Quincy, North Trackmen In Good Performances

The Quincy and North Quincy track teams made fine showings in last week's Suburban League meet at Newton.

North, which is unbeaten in its last eight meets and posted a 5-3-1 Suburban League record, had four scorers in the all-league meet.

Brian Doherty finished in a dead heat with Pat Samuels of Rindge Tech in the 300, Paul Doherty was fourth in the shot put, Jerry MacKenzie fourth in the 1000 and John Mackey fifth in the 600. Coach Lou Tozzi's top qualifier, Art Barrett [two mile] was ineligible to compete.

Quincy, which finished with only a 1-8 record, had one of the meet's top surprises in Art DiLoreto. DiLoreto, who had to sit out the first half of the season, came back to be one of the bright spots in a dismal season for Coach Pete Gallagher's team.

In the all-league meet he won the hurdles in 6.2 seconds and finished a close second in the high jump, clearing 6-2.

Bob Thorne took second in the two-mile and Leo Barron placed fourth in the high jump.

In the state championship meet Saturday at Reading, North's Petracca placed fourth in the mile but broke the school record with a 4:31.4 effort, and MacKenzie was fourth in the 1000.

North finishes its season today [Thursday] with a non-league meet against Boston Latin at Commonwealth Armory.

O'Brien Club Regains Cranberry Lead

The O'Brien Club of Quincy regained first place in the Cranberry Basketball League Sunday night with a 100-96 win over the Boston Stars, who shared the title with the O'Briens last year, before a large crowd at North Quincy High.

The league championship will ride on the O'Brien Club-Quincy Gamblers game for which a time and site have not been decided.

The O'Brien Club has a 17-3 record with one game to play, the Gamblers are 16-3 with two remaining, the Stars 16-4 with a game left and the Brockton Huskies 12-9 with the season completed.

Saturday both the O'Brien Club and Gamblers are playing in the annual DiBari Memorial Tournament at Brockton's West Junior High School. The tourney will have preliminary rounds Saturday and the semifinals and finals Sunday.

The league playoffs will be played March 1 at West Jr. High in Brockton and March 2 at North Quincy High with the top four teams competing.

North Quincy's Eddie Miller sparked Sunday's O'Brien Club win by scoring 14 of his 18 points in the final period after the Stars had taken an 80-73 lead into the period. Gary Bowen had 22 points, Miller and Alan Dalton 18 each, North Quincy's Mark Jellison 17, Bob McNamara 11, Ron Bradley of North Quincy 10, while Fred Cabral was outstanding on the boards.

The Gamblers, idle Sunday, had earlier topped the Huskies, 90-74, and walloped the Weymouth Alphas, 108-67.

Against the Alphas Vin Costello and Carleton Chandler each had 16 points, John Hassan 14, North Quincy's Mike Greenlaw 11 and Billy Evans and Dennis Doble 10 each.

ENC Girls' Team In R.I. Tourney

The Eastern Nazarene College women's basketball team, coached by Nancy Detwiler, has 6-4 record this season and is playing in the Women's Christian College Tournament in Barrington, R.I., today [Thursday] and Friday.

Jean Macchi, former Quincy High player and a second-year ENC starter, has been the key to the team's fast break. She has an average of 15 points a game, hitting her high with 20 against Wheaton.

Another former Quincy High player, freshman Donna Brickley, is an excellent shooter and a fine defensive player. She scored 14 points last week against Wheaton.

"The team as a whole is fairly new at working together," Mrs.

Detwiler said. "There are three freshmen and four second year players, so we lack the experience of playing together. However, after a nervous beginning, the girls have started to put their play together and are very optimistic about the rest of the season."

The team will host Emmanuel Tuesday at 6 p.m. and will finish up at Gordon College March 1.

Harry Carlson Elected President BoSox Club

Harry Carlson, prominent Milton-Dorchester businessman, is the new president of the BoSox Club.

He was elected at a recent meeting attended by more than 400 members of the Red Sox boosters' club.

Clarence Marsh of Saugus is the new vice president and the board of directors includes two former North Quincy residents, Ken Coleman and Dick Donovan, both now of Cohasset.

Other directors are John Busfield, Dick Casey, Bob

Cheyne, Tom Feenan, John Hurley, Tom Kinneally, Ted Lepcio, Lefty Nelson and Eddie Pellegriani.

The club is planning its annual trip to Winter Haven, Fla., where the Red Sox train, from March 6 to March 15. They plan to attend seven spring training games, including one with the Chunichi Dragons of Japan.

● Basketball North Out Of Tourney, Quincy Topples Newton

North Quincy's basketball team was eliminated from state tournament contention in heart-breaking fashion last week when Weymouth North, trailing, 74-67, with only 1:47 remaining, rallied to nip the Raiders, 77-75.

Leading North was Steve Martinelli with 22 points. Cooper Jordan scored 16, Tim Clifford 14 and Mark Reale 12.

"It was a very disappointing loss," Coach Bob Nolan said. "I feel especially bad for our seniors, for their sake I would like to have gone to the tournament."

North rebounded last Friday to top Weymouth South, 85-76, for its season's high score. Clifford had a big night with 25 points, Reale had 18, Martinelli 12 and Jordan 10.

Two Raiders, Martinelli and Clifford were named to the Suburban League all-star team which plays league champion Brookline Saturday.

Quincy exhibited a strong defense to topple Newton, 75-60, last Friday as Sophomore Jack Uhlar scored 15 points, Steve Connolly had 13, Bob Dacey 12 and Bill Dacey, also named to the all-star team, 10, one of his low outputs for the season. Earlier in the week the Presidents, after a fine first half showing, collapsed and suffered their worst defeat at the hands of Brockton, 68-39.

Quincy's defense was superb in the first half as they led, 17-16, but Brockton had a 21-12 third period bulge and outclassed the Presidents, 31-10, in the final quarter.

Bill Dacey was the only player in double figures with 10 points.

Quincy finished its season Friday with a non-league home game against New Bedford.

A - N Wrestling Team Wins City Title

Conefrey Wins YMCA Road Race-Again

Brockton's George Conefrey, one of New England's top runners, won the annual Quincy YMCA five-mile road race Monday, run in conjunction with the Cherry Tree Festival.

It was the third year in a row he has won.

Conefrey's winning time was 24 minutes, 20 seconds, 13 seconds better than his winning time in another Y race last October.

Two outstanding schoolboy runners, North Quincy's Bart Petracca and Quincy's Bob Thorne, finished 2-3, Petracca's time being 24 minutes, 56 seconds and Thorne's 25 minutes, 35 seconds.

Rounding out the top 20 among the 77 finishers were, in order, Pete Kuchinsky of Whitman, Michael Baxten of Stoughton, Bob Grandfield of Weymouth, Ronald Gaff of Allston, Howard Rodenhiser of Malden, John Babington of Cambridge, Paul Louis of Dorchester, Jake Mahoney of Quincy, Jim Boyce of Braintree, Kevin O'Brien and Kenett O'Brien of Quincy, Charles Hanson of Weymouth, Stephen Palmer of Braintree, N. Siciliano of Quincy, John Spinney of Hanson and Bob Levenson of Quincy. Mike Morin of Quincy was 21st.

The O'Brien brothers run for Quincy and North Quincy High schools respectively, while Barrett, Levenson and Morin are also North runners.

Crew Members To Attend Presentation Of USS Quincy Bell

When the 1,600-pound bell of the second USS Quincy is presented to the city during a U.S. Navy Band concert March 10, Quincy Heritage hopes to have about 200 of her crew here for the event.

Bruce W. McLain, assistant director of Quincy Heritage, said Mayor Walter Hannon's office is making arrangements in cooperation with USS Quincy reunion committee secretary, Joseph Sepe of New York. Invitations have gone out to more than 500 shipmates of the cruiser USS Quincy.

Sepe said he believes the Quincy's crew will be anxious to participate in the ceremony honoring the gallant ship which was the first craft to engage the enemy in the Normandy invasion at Utah Beach June 6, 1944.

The ship's bell has already arrived in the city and is being stored at the Naval Reserve Training Center on Sea St.

The presentation of the bell to Mayor Hannon will be at approximately 9 p.m. March 10 during the intermission break of the U.S. Navy Band Concert.

Discussions are presently being held as to the proper place at which the bell should be housed, according to McLain.

In addition, the Quincy's quarterdeck wheel and builder's nameplate, is being sent to the city and will be accepted at another ceremony yet to be scheduled.

CA-71, built at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co., now General Dynamics, had been commissioned just six months prior to the Normandy invasion. She took the name of CA-39, a heavy cruiser sunk by a Japanese fleet off Savo Island in the Pacific on Aug. 8, 1942.

The U.S. Navy Band concert, co-sponsored by the Quincy Public Schools and Quincy Heritage, is open to the public.

Special Needs Screening

In accordance with the new special education act Chapter 766, Quincy Public Schools are now conducting a special needs screening program for three and four-year-old Quincy children.

Parents who believe their child may have a special need which could interfere with future educational progress are urged to contact Mrs. Janet Powell, pre-school core evaluation team chairlady, at St.

Ticket information is available by calling Quincy Heritage at Quincy City Hall.

John's School, Phipps St., Quincy, 471-8180.

The screening process includes a parent interview as well as health, vision, hearing motor and language screening of the child. Parents should bring their children to be tested on or before Saturday, March 1.

Children who will enter kindergarten in September 1975 are not eligible

Site Study Committee Named

Hannon To Meet With Sen. Kennedy On JFK Library

Mayor Walter J. Hannon plans to meet with Senator Edward M. Kennedy in Washington, D.C. next Wednesday to discuss the possibility of locating the proposed JFK Memorial Library in Quincy.

The Kennedy Library Corporation recently released criteria which will be considered in deciding the location of the proposed $15 million memorial to the late President Kennedy. These criteria include:

- Ten to 15 acres of land with no land lost to the Corporation.
- close proximity to a regional highway and public transportation, particularly the MBTA.
- proximity to a college or university.
- community relevance to the life of the late President.

In view of these criteria, Mayor Hannon said the city of Quincy offers "several possible site locations," including the State Street Bank area, the federally-owned land near East Squantum St. and Quincy Shore Drive, the Old Squantum Air Base and the state-owned land in the Broad Meadows area.

Funding to build the presidential museum dropped from $27 million to $15 million when a proposed Harvard University site was recently abandoned due to citizen opposition.

Robert Burke, technical representative of the Corporation, said the original $27 million included $10 million as an endowment to the Institute of Politics, a newly-formed, non-degree-conferring segment of Harvard University. Another $2 million had been allocated to build a facility to house the Institute, reducing the total amount of funding to approximately $15 million.

He noted that the bulk of the funding was gathered from public donations while "a substantial but smaller amount" was received through anonymous contributions.

A seven-member committee has been formed by Hannon to investigate a possible Quincy site for the library. The committee consists of Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, former Mayor James R. McIntyre, Councillor Dennis Harrington, Commissioner of Natural Resources Richard Koch, Director of Planning and Community Development Geoffrey Davidson, Development Coordinator John Cheney and Joseph M. Lydon, president of the Boston District Council 45, AFSCME AFL-CIO.

Tobin Vows Fight Against Attempts To Put Quincy In Forced Busing Plan

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin says the City will fight any attempts to include Quincy in a proposed forced busing plan.

House Bill 2439, introduced by Rep. Michael Daly and Boston School Committee member Kathleen Sullivan, would require suburban communities with a median income above $12,059 to open 10 per cent of their school seats to inner-city students, as far as the seats are available.

Quincy, with an average median income of $11,094, would be exempt from this proposed legislation as it now stands.

Yet, fearing possible amendments to the bill - amendments which might include Quincy within the bill's jurisdiction - Tobin introduced a City-Council resolve urging state senators and representatives to vote against any so-called "metropolitanization" of schools.

The resolve, approved by Mayor Walter J. Hannon, was passed by an 8-0 vote with Clifford Marshall absent at the time of the roll call.

The resolve was forwarded to the Joint Committee on Education which will hold a hearing on the bill April 2.

Emphasizing the Council's opposition to the forced plan,

Tobin said the resolve "gets the jump" on any possible revisions to the present bill. He said:

"When a bill is in committee, members can accept it, re-write it, amend it or reject it. I was afraid, because I know the process involved, that someone would say, 'Let's include all communities within a 20-30 mile radius of Boston'... This resolve gets the jump and shows the

If Legislation Fails

Brett Calls For Referendum On Repealing 18-Year Old Drinking

Rep. Joseph Brett [D-Quincy] has suggested a state-wide referendum on the legal drinking age if his bill to repeal the present 18-year-old legal age is not approved.

Brett, a former liquor store owner, said he is "not very optimistic" about the passage of his repeal legislation, categorizing some members of the committee as "very liberal".

The referendum would appear on the 1976 state election ballot, Brett said.

Citing "frighteningly increases" in car accidents resulting from the lowered drinking age, Brett said:

"I'm inclined to think that the people of the state would vote overwhelmingly in favor of returning the legal drinking age to 21 years as it had consistently been from 1932 to 1973."

Brett said he had always opposed the lowering of the age to 18 since, he said, he could foresee the consequences of passing such a law.

"One of the arguments of the proponents of a lowered drinking age was that the 18-year-olds were getting the liquor anyways," Brett said. "But with the 18-year-olds buying, the 15, 16 and 17-year-olds would get it, too. That's exactly the case today. It's a very tragic thing. I know what problems alcohol can cause. It can ruin a kid's life."

Brett continued: "Some people can handle alcohol, can control it. With others it becomes a habit. That's where the danger come in. Alcohol is the same as a drug. It can create physical and mental problems and people can become burdens on their families, causing grief and unhappiness."

Brett emphasized that referendum on the question would "ascertain the will of the majority of voters throughout the state." He said the committee is accepting written but not oral testimony concerning the 18-year-old drinking age.

Raymondi To Seek Ward 2 Council Seat

School Committeeman Daniel G. Raymondi, Wednesday became the first official candidate for the City Council in this fall's city election.

Raymondi formally announced he will seek the Ward 2 city council seat being vacated by incumbent Clifford H. Marshall to devote full-time to his new duties as Norfolk County sheriff.

It means that Raymondi's school committee seat will be open in this year's election.

Raymondi, an attorney who lives at 88 Elm St., is in his fourth year as a member of the School Committee. He is a public defender at Quincy District Court.

He is a lifelong resident of Quincy and graduated from Quincy Point Junior High School and Quincy High School.

He received his Bachelor of Arts degree in History from the College of the Holy Cross and his Juris Doctorate from Boston College Law School.

In 1972, Raymondi, a former member of the Quincy Park and Recreation Board, was elected to the Quincy Democratic City Committee and is still serving in that capacity.

Raymondi is a member of the Quincy Bar Association, Massachusetts Bar Association, Norfolk County District Attorneys Association, Quincy Citizens Association, Knights of Columbus, Sons of Italy, Order of Eagles and the Torrei Dei Passerei Social Club.

Raymondi, who was cited recently in Who's Who in Massachusetts is married to the former Sharyn Thibodeau of 20 Winthrop Park, Quincy, and is a practicing attorney with law offices at 88 Elm St.

In announcing his candidacy, Raymondi noted that in the city-wide redistricting process prior to the last city election the old Ward 2 was expanded to include precincts one and five of the old Ward 3 and precinct two of the old Ward 1, making the new Ward 2 the largest Ward in the City of Quincy.

He said, if elected, he "will serve the people of this ward with aggressive, capable and experienced leadership on the City Council."

He also stressed that integrity, accessibility and accountability in government are the concepts that will be preserved in Ward 2 in meeting the needs and concerns of the community.

Food Stamp Intake Workers At A.S. Library Tonight

No More Reservations For Heritage Bottles

Quincy Heritage has cancelled reservations for its numbered commemorative bottles of John Adams, John Hancock and General Joseph Palmer and will now sell them to the general public on a first-come, first-served basis.

The new policy was set at the request of many people who wanted to purchase the registered bottles after those reserving them had failed to pick them up after several notices.

Funds realized from the sale of the hand-blown bottles, which are the city of Quincy's official items marking its 350th anniversary, help finance 350th anniversary and bicentennial activities.

New Harborview Residents Agreement 'Spells Out Rights'

The Quincy Housing Authority [QHA] and the Harborview Residents Committee, Inc. signed a new lease last week, bringing to a close one and one-half years of discussion and negotiation.

Under the terms of the lease, residents can now follow a formal grievance procedure in case of any disagreement in the interpretation of his lease.

QHA Administrator Clement O'Brien said the new agreement "spells out the rights of the tenants in more detail than before."

He said overdue rent will carry no late fee, certain sanitary standards will be met and maintained, and necessary defects will be repaired within 21 working days.

Members of the Harborview Residents Committee, Inc. who worked towards the new lease agreement include Lawrence Higgins, chairman; Mrs. Patricia O'Brien, Mrs. Terrance Martin and Mrs. Thelma Rogers.

RSVP Volunteers Offer Free Income Tax Return Help

Need help in filing your short or simplified income tax form?

In order to help those persons who due to illness or other reasons are unable to get out to an Internal Revenue Service office, a group of volunteers from the South Shore Retired Senior Volunteer Program have recently completed a course in Income Tax Instruction, taught by the IRS.

These volunteers are now ready to offer their assistance on a no-charge basis.

Winifred L. Pulsifer, Director of the R.S.V.P. activities for the South Shore suggested that those persons needing help in filing short or simplified income tax forms call his office anytime during the day. The telephone number is 471-3600.

"We are arranging schedules now," he said, "so that our volunteers will be able to set up stations throughout the South Shore area which will enable anyone wishing help, to get it.

"We are also trying to bring this assistance directly to the homes of those people who will be unable to get to one of our helping stations."

Pulsifer emphasized that the service was for the short income tax form only.

Kelly Urges Secondary Sewerage Facility At Peddocks Island

Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly urges that secondary sewerage treatment facilities proposed by the MDC be constructed at Peddocks Island rather than in Quincy Bay adjacent to Nut Island.

A recent decision of the U.S. Supreme Court freed $9 billion in federal water pollution control funds impounded by President Nixon in 1973. Release of these funds means that several major projects, including the proposed $200-$400 million conversion of Deer Island and Nut Island in Boston Harbor to secondary sewage treatment facilities could move ahead.

Kelly said, "If these funds will be available then the MDC should build their new facility on Peddocks Island rather than fill 25 acres of Quincy Bay. Why should the Bay be destroyed for a sewerage treatment plant when the MDC owns 113 acres of land at Peddocks Island?"

The MDC has recommended a program which calls for three regional sewage treatment plants—in Wellesley, Canton and Dedham—to handle needs in the upper Charles River area. The recommendation also calls for upgrading the Deer Island and Nut Island plants by expanding present primary treatment and to perform secondary treatment to purify the water further.

Other plans called for piping of the primary-treated effluent from the upper Charles River area south to areas around Plymouth for treatment and dispersal over land, rather than dumping in Quincy Bay, and for decentralized treatment plants which would dump the effluent into various rivers in the metropolitan area. The plan would dump effluent from the upper Charles, Neponset and Aberjona Rivers as well as Quincy Bay.

Kelly noted that officials and residents of Quincy and surrounding communities have constantly emphasized the Nut Island plant is presently overloaded and possibly not working properly.

He cited the Labor Day weekend incidence of raw sewage on the beaches from overflows at Nut Island, Boston's Moon Island outfall, the Columbia Point outfall or other sources. MDC officials have been unable to determine the source of that sewerage.

"Sewerage treatment facilities and outfalls should be located as far into the sea as possible to avoid the kind of problems we've had in the past. Peddocks Island is there, it is further out beyond the immediate bay and won't require the filling of Quincy Bay," said Kelly.

Priority On Employment

City-Wide Land Use Survey Being Conducted

Quincy's Planning Department is conducting a city-wide land use survey, placing "high priority" on potential facilities which could accommodate Quincy's legion of unemployed.

A 10-point questionnaire sent to 400 local businesses is designed to estimate plant expansion needs throughout the city as well as to compile information on Quincy's work force.

In a letter accompanying the questionnaire, Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson told local businessmen:

"While all potential uses of land are being evaluated, we are placing high priority on those that give promise of absorbing unemployed Quincy residents."

for expansion, type of space facility needed (manufacturing, warehouse, office or other), and projected time of expansion.

Question number two asks where the intended expansion will take place, in or outside Quincy. If the respondent answers 'outside Quincy,' the questionnaire asks for an explanation.

The last two questions deal with Quincy's work force. One asks for the per centage breakdown of Quincy and non-Quincy employees in the particular business. The other asks, "Are you generally able to find Quincy residents to fill your job openings?" If the answer is negative, the questionnaire asks for which positions the employer must recruit outside of Quincy.

The State Street Consulting Group of Boston has been retained to conduct the research for the Planning Department. Results of the survey should be complete early in March.

Child Discussion Studies

The Child Study Association of Massachusetts began its series of discussion programs at the Thomas Crane Public Library this week.

The series will be conducted in three sections: at the Main Library Wednesdays at 10:30 a.m. beginning March 5; at the Wollaston Branch Library Thursdays at 10 a.m. beginning March 6; and continuing at the North Quincy Branch Library Wednesdays at 10 a.m.

Parents and adults interested in children are welcome

Powers Proposes Posting Of Council Agendas

Ward 5 Councillor Warren Powers has requested the posting of City Council agendas at various key locations throughout the city to notify residents of upcoming council business.

Powers suggested posting the agendas at North Quincy

High School, Quincy High School, Quincy Vocational Technical School, The Quincy Sun's new office at 1372 Hancock St., and The Patriot Ledger. He also proposed announcing the agenda over Radio Station WJDA at noon on the day of the Council meeting. He said:

"This would not only provide prior information to the public but would also enable those interested in attending the meeting to, arrange their evening schedule accordingly.

"Where's a kid gonna' get one hundred bucks"?

Imagine. A bank asking for $100 to open a child's account.

Pushy? Yes; and you'll be glad we got you into it. Certainly we'll allow you to open an account with any reasonable amount...but...we want you to invest in our paid-up shares. These are the best money-making investments you can make with your children's money [or your own]. Every time you get $100 scraped together we'll give you one [by means of a passbook entry] and you'll be getting the highest interest possible without any notice to withdraw. In the meantime while you're waiting for your $100 to mount up you can use a regular savings account in our bank. Investing money is serious business but we can make it child's play. We know of no better savings arrangement for average people. Remember, you can only get paid-up shares at a co-operated bank...a bank like Granite Co-Operative Bank.

NEW SHOWER HEAD SAVES YOU UP TO $120 A YEAR!

The revolutionary new Nova Shower Head saves you big money by reducing your water bill and water heating costs! And it delivers a consistently great shower! The secret is in its uniquely designed water flow control. Ordinary shower heads use up to 8 gallons of water every minute. Nova operates at peak efficiency and it uses less than 20 gallons of water. That's not only saving 55 gallons of water during an average 10 minute shower, but also the money you pay for it and the high cost of heating it! The Nova can save the average family about $120 a year, and that doesn't even include the money saved from reduced sewage costs. The price of water and heating continues to mount, so Nova will probably save you much more!

Weed widow frets over mate

By FAT and MARILYN DAVIS
 Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
 I am a weed widow. Each weekend my husband disappears into the back yard to pull weeds. His ulterior motive is a buxom gal who lives next door. Luckily for my guy, he sees fit only to pick weeds near her house while she saunters around in a brief swimsuit. Just how can I move this weekend rover?
 Jane

Dear Jane:
 Plant crabgrass in the front yard and put on your tskini.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
 Why do parents snoop around? My mom is OK, but my dad acts like I am some horrible kind of streetwalker. I am 17 and have never gone on anything wilder than a hayride. Yet, my father sneaks into my room, reads my mail, and looks through my purse. I have no idea why. My grades are good and my friends nice. Dad also insists on driving me to school every day. I can't take this Dick Tracy act any longer.
 Haunted

Dear Haunted:
 Your family could use a little counseling. Talk with a teacher or minister. Perhaps they can refer you and your parents to an outside source for help. Your present lines of communication need to be improved. It is not healthy for any of you to continue as you are.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
 I am 16 years old and my IQ is close to 150. Since the beginning of my educational experiences, my parents have sought to place me with my intellectual peers. I have attended private schools with students who are older. At times, this was difficult because for all the benefits I still had no companions. I was always considered too young. I grew up with few friends and it is not an experience I would like to repeat.

I am now in high school and for the first time I have friends. The problem is that I am academically beyond what this school can offer. My parents want to send me to college next semester, and I have the necessary units. However, I want to graduate with my friends and enter college in the fall. My parents insist that I must strive to reach my potential. Can you say something to my parents?
 Brain

Dear Brain:
 Yes. Mom and Dad, a semester is not that long. Wouldn't you prefer your son to be happy and well adjusted? Life is not all school. The social aspects are also important. Next fall is soon enough for college. Let your son out of that pressure cooker.

Today's Women
 ONCE OVER LIGHTLY
He's content with old clothes

By ANN RUDY
 Copley News Service

My husband is the kind of guy who takes great care of his old clothes. And I don't mean his radical-chick Levi's. I mean his old clothes.

He has a knit golf shirt he wore 20 pounds ago that makes him look like Alice in Wonderland's Tweedledum. With it, he wears a pair of cords that are splattered with the complete paint-history of our last three houses.

Framed, the right knee might pass for an early Miro. Wearing this getup, he could be arrested for vagrancy should he slow his pace in public.

"Look," I said to him recently, keeping in mind the fragile male ego, "You look rotten."

He looked at me a long minute after I said this and then got up from his chair with great dignity. At first, I thought he was going to strangle me, but he passed me by and went into our bedroom and closed the door behind himself.

Gee, I worried, I hope he isn't going to take an overdose of turns. But I needn't have worried. He was out again in five minutes, this time attired in a shirt of dubious origin and a pair of equally mysterious pants.

"Where'd you get that outfit?" I asked.

"Don't you remember?" he answered, looking hurt, "These are my wedding trousers and I wore this shirt on our first date."

It all came back to me on a tide of nostalgia.

"Yeah," I said, "I remember. The shirt still has taco sauce stains."

He put his arm around me and looked into my eyes.

Ironing Board Gets New Face

By BETTY W. KINSER

What does your ironing board look like? Well, if it is anything like mine, it looks like it has a bad case of the Brown Crud. Let's give it a face lift, OK?

Spread an old sheet (or piece of fabric) wrong side up on the floor. On top of this, place your ironing board upside down. With chalk, mark around the board onto the fabric. Remove ironing board.

Measure out from this chalk outline about six inches. Make a second chalk outline. Cut on this line. Turn under a one-inch hem around raw edge and machine stitch in place, leaving a small opening. Insert either a heavy drawing or elastic. And — behold — a new ironing board cover for pennies.

Make two or three so your board can have a new face once a month.

'You look rotten.'

"And guess what," he said, "the pockets in my wedding trousers are still empty."

We smiled. He almost had me, but I struggled back to the present.

I told him what my mother always said about dressing: do it carefully from the skin out, even on your way to mail

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19) — Also Aries Ascendant) — Your feeling that past efforts are about to pay off is reliable. People are cooperative and your enthusiasm is at a new high. Give credit to others who have helped. Respond with practical wisdom to exciting news.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20) — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Charisma is high and you attract others. Your knowledge and training are strong factors in present success. Be honest and "real" — don't display ego. Someone met now can powerfully influence your future success.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20) — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Always appear at your best — pay attention to dress and manner. Unusual opportunities are around you, so make a good impression. Resist impulse in romance. Give relationships the test of time. Avoid excesses.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22) — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Your greatest potential lies in concentrating on the future, not the past. Don't waste your energies in vain regret. Keep communication open with mate and children. Some unexpected honor or joy will come to you.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22) — Also Leo Ascendant) — Extend yourself to help others. Do good deeds and you help yourself. Show love and consideration for children. Be selfless. Entertain at home and enjoy your friends. Unexpected good news comes through a telephone call.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Resist the tendency to rest on your laurels instead of concentrating on your work. Some Virgoans may marry now. If you take a vacation now try to relax and let go of nervous tension. Project kindness to relatives.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Also Libra Ascendant) — Use your creativity in career for greatest benefit now. Superiors can become aware of your quality performance and a raise or promotion could result. Don't force issues, finish old projects and use charm in dealings.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Someone of a conservative, practical nature can help you with your plans. A journey could be involved. Fulfill obligations to relatives cheerfully. Guard your health by conserving energy. Curb emotional outbursts.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — If you need financing or loans, now could be a good time to apply. Be willing to sacrifice personal pleasure to help someone in need. The pain of past romantic separations is relieved by a new love interest.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Improved finances could now allow you to make plans for a more favorable place of residence. Admiration and praise comes from relatives and friends for a job well done. Don't discuss personal money matters with coworkers.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Work goes well, performance is top-notch and so is your appearance. In romantic matters, evaluate the other person realistically — you may be drawn to someone unsuitable. Curb extravagance. Protect valuables.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20) — Also Pisces Ascendant) — You may have a hard-to-please relative for a house guest — try to not let it bother you too much. Resist tendency to brood. Spend your alone times in meditation and inner search. Spend necessary time on career requirements.

Pen strokes show Skelton's emotion

By JOANNE B. ROMINE
Copley News Service

RED SKELTON

Born 61 years ago in Vincennes, Ind., Red (Richard) Skelton is still going strong, and bringing laughter into the lives of a third generation of people.

It has been said that beneath the surface, comedians are really sad people. Does the comic joke and laugh to hide his sadness, or is it possible that a comedian is made because he is determined to conquer the problems and sorrow of life? You be the judge, as you read what Red Skelton's writing reveals.

Note the heavy pressured, broad pen strokes in his writing. The heavy pressure reveals his deep, long-lasting emotion. When he loves, it's a total commitment; when he's been hurt he never forgets, and when he's happy he's on top of the world. The broadness of the stroke reveals a sensuous nature and lends talent to painting or cooking.

Red literally throws himself into whatever he does. He concentrates his efforts on one thing at a time, almost becoming part of the project, situation or experience. This becomes apparent to those who have watched him in various skits.

In a particularly funny situation, Red is the first one to break up with laughter. The capacity to become so thoroughly involved has good and bad points, depending upon the situation.

During the good times, it is an asset as he can enjoy every minute of fun and happiness. However, when life becomes troubled, he may temporarily lose sight of that "brighter tomorrow," and he can become terribly depressed.

Mentally he is no slouch. He has the eager curiosity of a little boy — a desire to learn and the ability to work things out for himself. He is open and receptive to new ideas and is constantly searching for ways to improve himself. When angry or frustrated, he will rarely lash out at others. He is more inclined to become withdrawn, silent and depressed.

For Skelton fans, write to him at: 37-715 Thompson Road, Rancho Mirage, Calif. 92270. For art enthusiasts, ask him about his paintings, he'll enjoy hearing from you.

*But my thank's
Red Skelton*

Children lose lives through inattention

Studies by the National Fire Protection Association show that one of every four children who die in fire is alone at the time of the tragedy. This means that in the United States some 900 unattended children lose their lives — lives that might have been saved had they been under competent supervision. — CNS

Safety Q's And A's

QUESTION: When driving behind a motorcycle should you follow closer or further back than it you were following another car?

ANSWER: Follow farther back because the motorcycle can stop in a shorter distance than a car so you need more stopping distance.

QUESTION: If your car wheels start shaking off to the right, should you turn your steering wheel to the right or to the left?

ANSWER: Turn steering wheel to the right, in the direction of the wobble. Otherwise, you're apt to end up sideways or possibly spin all the way around.

QUESTION: What is the most important factor in tire safety and mileage?

ANSWER: Proper inflation. Under-inflated tires can be ridden right off the rims on tight turns, increase the wear and create inadequate traction on ice and snow.

McIntyre Still Eyeing Council Bid

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Insiders report that former Mayor-Senator James McIntyre is still toying with the thought of returning to the Quincy political arena as a candidate this fall.

They say he would come back not as a mayoralty contender but to run for a city council at-large seat.

And, of course, that will be seen in some political quarters as further evidence that City Council President-Senator Arthur Tobin is moving closer to announcing for mayor. McIntyre would in effect, be running for the at-large seat Tobin would have to vacate to run for mayor.

McIntyre's present job as Senate counsel would not bar him from running for the council or, for that matter, for mayor. And a former Quincy mayor returning to the City Council is not without precedence.

Thomas Burgin, mayor under Plan A, was elected city councillor and then mayor [by the council] under the ill-fated Plan E form of government back in the early 1950's.

Well, will McIntyre really run? Tune in at a later column.

ALSO MAKING THE rounds is a report that County Commissioner George McDonald is also doing some thinking about returning to the municipal ring as a councillor at-large candidate.

McDonald has held both the Ward 4 and a council at-large seat in the past before going county-wide. In his last venture out, he lost a bid for the Norfolk County Sheriff's badge.

He apparently would have his eye on the at-large seat being vacated by Joseph LaRaia to challenge Mayor Walter Hannon for the big City Hall second floor office with the window on Hancock St.

AND, you could possibly find School Committeeman John Sullivan in that at-large race before the deadline for filing nomination papers. He'd make it pretty interesting.

SCHOOL COMMITTEEMAN Daniel Raymond's official announcement this week that he will seek the Ward 2 City Council seat confirms a forecast here.

BUSINESS NOTE: Mrs. Mary Cerasoli, mother of Rep. Robert Cerasoli [D-Quincy] is proud of the fact that she is the oldest women's hair stylist in the city of Quincy. Started her career back in-1931. Her salon, Cera's Coiffures, is on Billings Rd., North Quincy.

HOW'S YOUR MEMORY? Well, Lt. Comdr. Ned Muffley, conductor of the U.S. Navy Band, does pretty well in that department. He will conduct, from memory, all the numbers the band will play during its concert appearance March 10 at Quincy Vocational Technical School gym. Muffley, they say, can conduct from memory any of the Navy band's 25,000 musical selections.

AS ANY RED-BLOODED Welshman knows, Saturday is St. David's Day. It's a day for celebration and one is planned at Plymouth Congregational Church, Belmont at 7 p.m. Anyone of Welsh heritage from Quincy is welcome to attend.

The late Billy DeWolfe of Quincy was Welsh. And there are a number still living in Quincy. Like Edwin Roberts and family of 3 Gannet Rd., Adams Shore, who flys both the American and Welsh flags year round.

REASON FOR THE big smile Ted Johnson, co-owner of Granite City Hardware, is wearing: he won $1,000 in The Game. [You'd smile, too.]

Youth Speaks Out

- One third of all Welfare Recipients in Mass. are either paid too much money or are legally not eligible. Instead of spending money on these studies, why don't we spend it on tracing these errors.
- God said "Let There Be Light", and the Electric Company said "Let There Be A Big Profit with the Light".
- With the price of hospitals - you can't afford to get sick, and with the price of cemetery plots - you can't afford to die.

MULTI-FAMILY HOUSING Conference at Lincoln-Hancock School giving residents the opportunity to meet with City Planning Department representatives and air their views on the current apartment house construction trend, drew a large turnout. Here Rev. William Underhill, conference chairman, addresses audience.

Over 80 At Multi-Housing Conference Residents Cite Family Housing Need, Stricter Code Enforcement

More than 80 Quincy residents voiced divergent opinions on apartment development during last Wednesday's day-long Multi-Family Housing Conference held by the city's Planning Department at the Lincoln-Hancock School.

The need for family housing, stricter code enforcement, more community involvement in the granting of variances and design of buildings, as well as controlled and directed growth were the major areas of interests expressed.

Discussion groups gave residents a chance to express their views.

"We are pleased with the number of people who participated and the many pertinent ideas which were raised," said Rev. William Underhill, chairman of the conference.

"Almost all the groups discussed the need for family housing and a good population mix in Quincy," noted Geoffrey A. Davidson, Director of Planning and Community Development. Presentations in the morning sessions revealed that the 25-44 year old age group had decreased significantly in Quincy, while the 18-24 and 65 and over age groups have increased.

Moreover, it was shown that most apartment dwellers are in the 18-30 or over 55 age group. It was felt that new housing should be designed to be attractive to families.

The groups discussing apartments and neighborhoods identified variances, traffic, open space and play areas for children, and deteriorating property as their major concerns. Residents felt that variances had a disrupting effect on their neighborhood and urged greater community involvement in the decision to grant a variance.

It was also strongly felt that when apartments are built consideration should be given to the height and density of the surrounding area. Many people felt that high-rise apartments could benefit the city in commercial areas such as the downtown or in industrial areas, but that there was a need to provide a transition in residential areas.

They also referred to the "shoebox" building—the smaller box-shaped apartment in the middle of an older residential area—as having a disrupting effect.

Discussing the benefits of apartment construction, the participants said that more attention is given to neighborhood problems—such as water and traffic—when new developments are built and an area can be upgraded when a new development replaces a deteriorated building.

Compatibility with the surrounding area, the need for more control over the design of apartment buildings, and the need for a greater variety of styles were the primary concerns of the design groups.

Several persons noted that design of an apartment building is a major factor in determining whether or not an apartment building is acceptable to a neighborhood. "Many people stressed the need for design control, a design review board, or requiring that plans be prepared by a registered architect," said Davidson.

The groups discussing the economics of apartments felt that overall the apartments built to date had a positive or neutral effect on the economy. Tax returns, creation of jobs, the purchasing power of apartment dwellers were the benefits stated. Overall, however, they felt a need to be concerned with the population mix in the city, the future growth of the city, and the effects of this development on city services.

Following the discussions, the general group was asked to draw a list of criteria which should be used to evaluate apartment proposals.

Adequate parking and fire access, design, open space, setbacks and landscaping, childrens play areas, as well as the impact on the surrounding land uses, the future projection of the city, and human values were listed.

Many people also felt consideration should be given to preservation of the shoreline; maximum and minimum limit to height in different areas of the city; the adequate provision of city services; traffic congestion; "quality of life" in the city; and a balanced population and housing mix.

"There were many diverse views expressed at the conference and we learned much today about the people's interests in apartment construction," said Rev. Mr. Underhill. "We are particularly pleased with the turnout and the variety of groups represented."

Over 3,500 Weighing, Measuring Devices

Mayor Walter J. Hannon has proclaimed March 1-7 as Weights and Measures Week and recognizes one of the most important but least known public services - that of keeping accurate weights and measures.

Hannon cited the contributions of weights and measures officials to the economic welfare of the city through the testing and measuring of weighing devices used in all commercial transactions.

"The official inspection of weights and measures is a local function in our community," Hannon noted, "and its department is recognized as one of the city's oldest, dating back to 1883.

According to Inspector of Weights and Measures, Henry Kyllonen, there are over 3,500 weighing and measuring devices used commercially in the city. They include every type of scale from fine drug scales to heavy railroad scales, linear measures used in selling yard goods, gasoline in fuel oil meters, truck and trailer tanks, and taxi meters.

In addition to testing equipment weight and measures, Kyllonen and Asst. Inspector George Alcott spend numerous hours inspecting and reweighing packages put up for sale to be sure prices and weights are accurate.

"It is because of the precise standards of weighing and measuring, and the vigilance of our weights and measures officials, that citizens can buy with confidence and trust," Hannon said.

Unless you can see into the future, shouldn't you start saving for it?

Now more than ever you need to save. Starting the savings habit isn't hard at all. All you have to do is set aside a certain part of your budget each month. When you deposit a little regularly your money will grow amazingly fast. And you'll have a good feeling knowing you have money for emergencies or perhaps a new home, vacation or education.

Norfolk offers six convenient ways to help you save. Each pays interest at the highest rates we are permitted to pay under current regulations. By selecting the right savings plan, you can combine the most advantageous rate of return with the method best suited to your individual needs. You can have a savings account that allows you to make deposits or withdrawals anytime yet pays interest every day. Or for money you can put away for a while, a special notice account pays even higher interest. Or for still higher rates of interest you may want to place your money in any one of several thrift certificates.

Now is the time to invest your money in a Norfolk savings plan. Stop in at any of our 33 convenient offices. You'll find our pleasant, knowledgeable staff ready to help you protect your future with a savings plan that's right for you.

Mrs. Anna Olson Celebrates 96th Birthday At 3 Parties

Mrs. Anna Olson of 84 Colby Rd., North Quincy, was guest of honor last Wednesday at a party to celebrate her 96th birthday.

More than 25 guests attended the affair given by the Ladies' Aid Circle of Covenant Congregational Church at the home of Mrs. Olson's daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Johnson of 84 Colby Rd.

Also extending congratulations was the church's minister, Rev. Kenneth P. Carlson. Flowers and gifts marked the occasion.

Mrs. Olson attends church services and activities quite regularly at the church on Whitwell St., Quincy. She continues to maintain a wide correspondence, and is noted for her skills in Swedish baked goods and needlework which she still does.

Mrs. Olson also was feted last Monday when women from the Riverside Covenant Church in Seekonk, R.I., visited and brought gifts. Another party was held Saturday when relatives and friends gathered to honor her birthday.

Brett Asks Neponset Circle Barrier Restored

Rep. Joseph Brett has requested the restoration of the protective barrier at the Neponset Circle on-ramp of the Southeast Expressway to correct "a dangerous and horrendous traffic situation" there.

In a letter to State Public

Works Commissioner John J. Carroll, Brett said the two traffic lanes converging into the breakdown lane of the Expressway has created a situation which could trigger accidents.

He noted, too, traffic back-ups as long as half-mile on Hancock St. and Quincy Shore Drive as a result of the absence of the barrier, with much time lost for commuters.

Brett enlisted Carroll's cooperation in correcting the traffic problems.

Henry Strong In 'Operation Deep Freeze'

Navy Equipment Operator Third Class Henry B. Strong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett G. Strong of 111 Montclair Ave., North Quincy, is scheduled to return to the U.S. after the conclusion of "Operation Deep Freeze '75" in Antarctica.

As a member of the Navy Support Group there, he helped provide logistical support for research projects conducted by scientists from 80 universities and government agencies.

Strong will return to his homebase in Ventura County, Calif., via New Zealand, American Samoa and Hawaii.

A 1970 graduate of Norfolk County Agricultural High School, Walpole, he joined the Navy in April 1971.

Delahunt On 'Elder Cast' Senior Talk Show Saturday

Rep. William D. Delahunt [D-Quincy] will appear on the first program of "Elder Cast" over WBUR-FM Saturday at 1 p.m.

The hour-length talk show is for senior citizens.

Delahunt was invited, with Frank Manning, Executive Director of the Legislative Council of Older Americans, to appear on the first program hosted by Harry Barnett, advocate of Senior Power.

Delahunt was invited because of his sponsorship of House Bill No. 4001, the so-called "Circuit Breaker Legislation", which provides property tax rebates to over-burdened homeowners and tenants through a state income tax credit.

Delahunt says this legislation would give large families and retired people a much-needed relief from the regressive effects of the property tax, while at the same time, maintaining the right of cities and towns to collect local property taxes and pay for essential municipal services.

The legislation has the support of the Legislative Council for Older Americans. Manning and Delahunt will discuss other legislation affecting retired citizens and will review proposed cuts in the State Budget as they affect the elderly. Delahunt's excellent record of support for legislation favorable to the elderly led to his selection as the 1st elected official to appear in the program.

Tobin Asks Pot Holes Be Checked

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin has requested Public Works Commissioner James Ricciutti to determine the extent of damage to city streets from recent storms.

Tobin asked Ricciutti to report to the City Council on the amount of the patching needed, cost of necessary repairs, and the time schedule involved in filling and patching the pot holes.

Tobin said he has received many calls the past week following the disappearance of snow. As one caller put it, "Some of the pot holes are so large that there have been reports of VW's completely disappearing."

William Novelli To Be Honored At Dinner

Adult Book Store Closes, Obscenity Charges Dropped

Robert H. Claffin of Manomet, Adult Bookstore proprietor charged with possession and dissemination of obscene material, has vacated his store at 953 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Quincy District Court Judge John M. Eaton Jr., dismissed Friday, the charges filed against Claffin when he agreed to close his bookstore, ceasing operation, and agreed not to open another such store in Quincy for at least 10 years.

In exchange, materials seized during the November police raid on the store will be returned to Claffin.

Quincy police officers had confiscated magazines, films, books and mechanical sexual devices at the bookstore in November.

Civil as well as criminal action had been taken against Claffin. City Councillor Warren Powers, an attorney, had initiated civil eviction proceedings against Claffin, on behalf of Ray Rivera, owner of the building housing Claffin's bookstore. Claffin received a notice to vacate the premises of his bookstore by Jan. 25 for non-payment of his rent. Explaining the intent of the civil proceedings, Powers said:

"The pressure of eviction as well as criminal proceedings would be an inducement for Claffin to say good-by to the city of Quincy permanently."

In response to the November raid, Quincy residents led by Powers and Mgr. James Scally of St. Ann's Parish Council, circulated throughout the city petitions stating the community standard on obscenity.

Drafted by Powers, the petition defined obscenity and was turned over to Prosecutor David Trainor as an indication of community sentiment on obscenity.

Powers said between 1,500 and 2,000 signatures were gathered through the efforts of several Quincy residents. He said

Wendell Caley Jr., of 17 Canton Rd., North Quincy, a physics professor at Eastern Nazarene College, volunteered to canvass the North Quincy area to obtain a more balanced sounding of the community standard.

Maurice Dunn of 29 Gilmore St., Wollaston, a member of St. Ann's Parish Council, concentrated on the Wollaston area and the Knights of Columbus.

Active in contacting civic and religious organizations to participate in the city-wide drive was James McNamara of 115 Clay St., Wollaston, also a member of the St. Ann's Parish Council.

Powers, pleased with the success of the petition drive, said:

"The drive not only indicated the community standards, as was intended, but it also activated the community in a sense of a combined effort to eliminate this type of pornography that the people of Wollaston in particular, and of Quincy in general, do not want sold."

She Misses Mary

Valerie And Rhoda Now Synonymous

By ROBERT J. DONOVAN
(Quincy Sun Writer)

The flashbulbs popped and the confetti flew as Valerie Harper came to town. The star of the CBS television series "Rhoda" was proclaimed Woman of the Year by Harvard University's Hasty Pudding Theatricals at ceremonies held last week.

A crowd of over 3,000 screaming fans mobbed Holyoke St. in Cambridge to welcome the parade which brought "Rhoda" to the Hasty Pudding Clubhouse just off of Harvard Square.

The annual Woman of the Year Award is given in tribute to an outstanding woman in the theater who best shows great artistic skills and feminine qualities.

Previous winners over the past 25 years have included Liza Minnelli, Katherine Hepburn, Gertrude Lawrence and Carol Burnett. This year marks the first time that the award has been given to an actress who is known primarily for her work in television.

Valerie was presented the traditional pudding pot onstage at the Club's theatre before settling down in the audience to watch two production numbers from the upcoming Hasty Pudding musical, "Put Up Your Dukes", which opens Feb. 27.

First however, club members had their fun by presenting a comical mock-version of This Is Your Life. Valerie was "reunited" with a speech therapist, a psychiatrist, and a weight specialist, who had all supposedly had a hand in shaping the lady into a star.

After receiving her award, Valerie replied, "I am really honored. Harvard is big stuff." Immediately a cheer rose from the assembled group. "I think this is my favorite award...not that I've received that many, but this is the cutest."

One might wonder how Rhoda has survived the transition from a supporting role on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" to a starring role on her own series.

Added pressures are there, of course, as is a new wave of popularity. At a press conference held later in the afternoon, Valerie said that above all, she misses her former co-worker.

"I didn't realize how much I missed Mary until last Tuesday. She taped a show for us. In it, Mary comes to New York to visit just as Joe and Rhoda are leaving town. I miss her very much, but we do go to see each other on the lot at the studio."

There is no formality with Valerie Harper. She answered readily to cries of both "Valerie" and "Rhoda", as the two have become synonymous. Few questions or compliments were directed to "Miss Harper" and she seemed to prefer it that way.

Viewers may be interested that Rhoda will soon be out in the working world on a regular basis. While she has previously done freelance work in window design, Rhoda will be opening up a shop all her own in the weeks ahead. Naturally it will have its share of comical confusion.

"The writers didn't want me to just pop into a perfect career," she said. "They wanted more reality."

She credits much of the show's success to the writers, who she describes as "brilliant". Originally she was against Rhoda's getting married, but the writers were so insistent that she finally gave in and went along with it. She now feels that the move was a good one.

What will the writers decide next? Perhaps a baby for Joe and Rhoda? If Valerie knows, she's not telling. She says that she has no idea what the writers will come up with, or where the show will go in future episodes.

She did explain, however, that the writers are not out to do "issue shows". While they don't skirt topical ideas, their methods are much subtler in getting the point across.

She also commented that "Drama is a wasteland as far as women are concerned. In comedy there's much more of a chance. MTM productions [Mary Tyler Moore's production company] has been a frontrunner in getting women into key positions."

Valerie was also asked about the casting couch syndrome which many actresses have had to submit to in order to get a role.

"Unfortunately, it has never affected me," she said as the room roared with laughter. "I know of more actors who have been approached. I wouldn't want that kind of part, but I don't think the casting couch is as prevalent any more. With MTM productions, if you're right for the part, you'll get it."

The fashionable lady in the black pants suit and bright green sweater fielded questions from the many members of the press, answering quickly, directly, and with the same down-to-earth honesty that has made "Rhoda" a lovable Monday night favorite.

What will the future hold for Valerie? After surviving the crushing mob that greeted her on Holyoke St., she quipped, "Maybe I'll go into parade duty."

I spoke briefly with Peter Zurkow, President of the Theatricals, who said that Valerie Harper was the unanimous choice for this year's Woman of the Year award. In spite of the light hearted merriment of the all-male Pudding shows, the Theatricals are quite serious about their award and give it with great sincerity.

However, after bestowing the honors on Valerie Harper, they added a comic touch by presenting the star of "Rhoda" with a dozen roses...and a bouquet of "Rhoda-dendrons".

Bacharach gives own tunes twist

By ROBIN WELLES
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — When Burt Bacharach performs his own music, it sounds quite different than the way you often hear it. The composer puts more tension into the melodic line, so that the song bends and stretches.

For instance, "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head" is usually done in a rollicking fashion with a lilt to it. But a Bacharach arrangement of the song will transform the carefree lilt into a tortuous twisting and turning. The effect is not bad — just different.

To hear how Bacharach regards his own music, you can tune into his "Greatest Hits" LP put out by A&M Records. All the songs you've hummed in recent years are there.

Bobbi Humphrey's latest album, "Satin Doll" on the Blue Note label features a real, live black baby doll on the jacket, but don't be misled. There's nothing juvenile about this music — it's sophisticated jazz by a sophisticated lady who has made music with Roland Kirk, Cannonball Adderley, Herbie Mann and Stevie Wonder.

Bobbi sings and plays the flute with skill and style. She has a great backup crew and together they have assembled an innovative program including the title track, a vibrant outing of an old classic and "Fun House," combining funk with jazz to achieve an up tempo delight.

What a lineup: Dick Hyman, Roland Hanna, Marian McPartland and Hank Jones. They are the components of "The Jazz Piano Quartet" which does some fancy strutting on a new RCA album. The songs range from old standards "Lover Come Back to Me" and "How High the Moon" to Stevie Wonder's "You Are the Sunshine of My Life."

This is great piano — not all jazz, as you would expect, but a lot of classical overtones that evoke the impressionism of Debussy. "Improvising" is almost purely classical.

Don Gibson fans can latch on to some of his hits of recent years with his "Just One Time" album released by RCA-Camden. For instance: "Headin' Down the Wrong Highway," "Somebody Loves You Darlin'," "Someday," "Ashes of Love" and "I Walk Alone."

Peggy Lee just goes on and on. Her latest album, "Let's Love" on the Atlantic label, is a loving collection of songs done in that warm, caressing Peggy Lee style. "Let's Love," "Always," "You Make Me Feel Brand New" and "Sometimes" are among the top cuts.

SCANNING THE CLASSICS — RCA has released a magnificent package of piano concertos played by Arthur Schnabel and various symphonies. All of the best concertos are there: Rachmaninoff's Second; Grieg's A-Minor; Beethoven's Emperor; Schumann's A-Minor; Tchaikovsky's B-Flat Minor; Mozart's Concerto No. 21 in C; Chopin's E-Minor; Liszt's No. 1 in E-Flat; Brahms' No. 2 in B-Flat; and Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini. Will Rubinstein go on forever? Music lovers hope so.

Quincy Resident In Children's Theatre 'Aladdin'

Maya Christie of Quincy is a member of the cast of "Aladdin" to be presented by the Boston Children's Theatre Touring Company which opens its spring season March 8.

The cast is selected from the Creative Drama classes offered by the theatre.

"Aladdin" will be presented to communities outside the Boston area on weekends through mid-May. An adaptation of one of the favorite "Tales From The Arabian Nights," it will be directed by Joy Graustark with Mark Greenglass as technical director. Settings are by Jack Werner and costumes are by Vivian Dooley.

Fr. McMahon In Tribute

St. Mary's Celebrates 135th Anniversary As 'Cathedral Of South Shore'

St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, is celebrating its 135th anniversary as "The Cathedral of the South Shore."

That is how Rev. John J. McMahon, pastor, described both the edifice and parish at a recent anniversary banquet attended by 550. Said he:

"We like to call our church the cathedral of the South Shore."

"It is indeed a monument of cathedral proportions to the generosity, the willingness to sacrifice, the dedication to religion, of those founding fathers who built the church many years ago."

Father McMahon also paid tribute to the historic celebration of Quincy's 350th anniversary this year. Calling Quincy "that ancient matron of cities," he said:
"It is vibrant with youth on its 350th birthday."

Through the banquet celebration that evening, Fr.

Sacred Heart

The Sacred Heart Holy Name Society of North Quincy will sponsor a Penance Service tonight [Thursday] at 8 p.m. in the church.

Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will follow the Mass. All parishioners are invited to

'Jesus' Christian Science Lesson

"Christ Jesus" is Sunday's lesson-sermon theme at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy.

"Then he called his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases. And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick." Luke 9:1,2.

REV. JOHN McMAHON

McMahon said those present were recalling "the spirit of the Maypole" born years ago by the spirited Thomas Morton.

He noted, too, that the celebration also recalled another symbol of the city - Quincy's capture the spirit of Lent. Coffee will be served in the lower rectory.

Penance Service

Officers of the Holy Name Society are Thomas Dowling, president; Thomas Ward, vice-president; Don King, secretary; Eugene Raux, treasurer.

granite. St. Mary's Church is not only built of Quincy granite, said Father McMahon, but its early founders and parishioners were people of granite-like fortitude.

"There was a granite firmness and endurance to the spirit of those men and a granite determination to make themselves a better life in a new world," Fr. McMahon told the audience.

The banquet, held in St. Mary's Hall, followed a 5 p.m. concelebrated Mass commemorating the 350th anniversary of the founding of Mt. Wollaston. Seven of the nine pastors of Quincy's Catholic churches assisted in the Mass offered by main celebrant Rt. Msgr. John Mullarkey.

Also participating in the Mass were Bishops Joseph Maguire and Lawrence Riley.

Archbishop Fulton Sheen of New York delivered the sermon, paying tribute to the religious and civic achievements of Quincy.

Among the officials attending the banquet were Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Mrs. Francis X. Bellotti representing the attorney general, Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Congressman James A. Burke, Representatives Joseph Brett, Robert Cerasoli and William Delahunt, City Councilors Leo Kelly, Dennis Harrington, James Sheets and Joseph LaRaia.

Pee Wee A's Sweep To Kiwanis Title

The Quincy Pee Wee A team, with a tremendous team effort, swept to the International Kiwanis Tournament championship at the Hingham Arena.

The team won five games to become the only Quincy champion.

In their opener the A's edged Cheshire, Conn., 3-2, with Kenny Mann outstanding in goal. George Mackey, Scott Richardson and Neil Shea scored the goals and Mackey and Tommy Gerry had assists.

In the next four games Jimmy Campbell was the goalie with P. T. Kelly backup man. Campbell was outstanding, especially in the last two games as he came up with spectacular save after save.

In the second game Quincy defeated Winthrop, 5-3. Robbie Craig had two goals and Bobby Currier, Tom Joe Connolly and Mark Messina one each. Richardson had three assists, Bobby Beniers, Robbie Zanardelli and Sean Dennis one apiece.

The next victim was Hingham, 3-0, with Robbie McHugh scoring twice and Neil Shea once. Gerry had two assists and Connolly one.

Quincy went on to top Merrimac Valley, N.H., 5-3, with McHugh, Shea, Richardson, Mackey and Currier scoring the goals. Shea had two assists and Gerry, Craig, Messina, Zanardelli and Connolly one each.

The A's won the coveted title with a 3-2 overtime win over Canton. Canton took a quick 2-0 lead but Campbell made many great saves to prevent more goals. Paul McGrath scored for Quincy with Shea and Gerry assisting. Shea tied the score with Gerry and McHugh having assists, and at 2:54 of overtime Richardson scored the clincher with assists for Messina and Craig.

Credit must go to Mark Veasey, who filled in for a sidelined defenseman and played superbly. The coaches were Harry Messina and his assistant, Bucky Zanardelli.

Earlier in the week in a qualifying game for the state tournament, the Pee Wee A's lost to Wellesley, 3-2, with Messina and Craig scoring and Richardson having two assists.

● St. Ann's Hockey

Bruins, Crestview Division Leaders

The Bruins moved into first place a point ahead of Dairy Queen as they defeated the Flyers, 3-1, while Dairy Queen was tied by Stone's Jewelry, 2-2, in the Pee Wee Division of St. Ann's Youth Hockey League.

Greg Therrien had two of the Bruins' goals and Al Vasile the other. Mike Capone had an assist. For the Flyers Craig DiBona scored unassisted. Mark Kintogas was in goal for the Bruins.

Steve Nazzaro and Steve Hogan scored for Dairy Queen with Hogan assisting on Nazzaro's. Joe McKenna had both Stone's goals with Paul Furey and Scott Brennan having assists.

Keohane's nipped Dunkin Donuts, 2-1, on goals by John Keller and Joe LaPierre. LaPierre had an assist. Mike Bellotti excelled in goal. For Donuts John Hogan had the unassisted goal. Jim Boudreau played well in goal despite the loss.

In the Bantam Division

Crestview widened its lead over Bike 'n Blade to eight points by edging B 'n B, 3-2. Paul Howe scored twice and Brian Schmitt once for Crestview with assists for Carl Bergstrom, Paul Schmitt, Howe and Brian Schmitt. Mike DeAngelo and Pete Orlando scored for B 'n B with Larry Cyr having an assist.

Blackwood nipped Plaza Olds, 3-2. John Cronin, Tom Nazzaro and Joe Carr scored for the winner with Pat Wilkinson, Nazzaro, O'Leary and Falsetta having assists. Bob Jordan was the goalie. Chuck Winters had both Plaza goals and Rick Carroll, Brian McMahon, Rick Collins and Tom McNamara had assists.

Chuck Wagon and North Quincy K. of C. played to a 2-2 tie. Ken Olson had both Chuck Wagon goals with assists for Bill Shine, John Capone and Steve Bulger. John Cronin and Denis Rush scored for K. of C. with Bob Stevens, Rush, Bob Maloney and Jay Leith having assists.

● Executive League

Golds Defeat Reds

The Gold team defeated the Reds, 4-2, Sunday in the Quincy Executive Hockey League at the Youth Arena.

Bucky Zanardelli had two goals for the Golds and Bernie Toland and Buster Robinson one each. Tom Boussy and Toland had assists. For the Reds Jack Hurley and Dick Reinhardt had the goals and John Murphy, Bob Kallstrom, Bill Curran and Russ Ericson assists.

The Blues and Oranges tied, 3-3. For the Blues Dick McCabe had two goals and Ed Holt one.

Quincy Frosh Finish On Top With Waltham

Quincy's freshman hockey team finished in a top tie with Waltham in the Suburban League following a 14-0 romp over Rindge Tech.

Waltham topped North Quincy, 3-1, to break a three-way tie on the final day.

John Perkins' Quincy team finished with a 7-2-0 record. Waltham was 6-1-2 and Ed Grogan's North Quincy club 5-2-2.

Dave Towle and Jay Evans had two assists each and McCabe and John Cummings one apiece. For the Oranges Bob Hayes, Fran Moriarty and Skip Ryan scored, all unassisted.

The Whites and Golds also played to a 3-3 tie. Kevin White had two goals for the Whites and Dave Sheehan one. Jack Powers had two assists and White and Ted Miller one each. For the Golds Marty Tolson, Fran Whalen and Tom Roberts had the goals and Whalen, Art Boyle, Tom Connolly and Dick O'Brien assists.

Quincy's co-captains, Brian Bertoni and Tom Cahill, each had four goals and four assists in the final game, while Mark Giordani had three goals and two assists. Pete Cedrone, Tom Brennan and Don Perdios had the other goals.

Billy Deitsch was in goal and turned in another outstanding performance.

Quincy's game puck was awarded to Perkins' assistant coach, Richard Fowler.

Junior B's Defeat Misfits

The Junior B team defeated the Pilgrim Misfits, 5-4, at the Hingham Pilgrim arena.

Paul Galasso had two goals and Jack Erickson, Walter Pimental and Bill Radcliffe one apiece. Erickson, John Ryan, Mark Hurley and Dave Noonan each had an assist.

Earlier the B's had defeated Rockland, 6-4, in a league game.

Bantam A's Edge Brookline For Berth

The Bantam A team defeated Brookline, 6-5, to become the Norfolk County representative in the state tournament.

Brookline tied the game with 24 seconds left to play but with just two seconds left on the clock Tom Brennan scored the winning goal. Brennan and Jim Moore had two goals each and Mark Giordani and Brian Bertoni one apiece. Brennan and Bertoni had two assists each and Moore and Jim Fitzpatrick one apiece.

In the International Kiwanis Tournament the Bantam A's won their first game over Falmouth, 5-2, but were eliminated in the second round by Hingham in a 2-1 squeaker.

Weymouth won the Bantam title with a 2-1 win over Kingston, Ontario.

Brennan and Giordani one apiece. Fitzpatrick and Bob Hayes had two assists each and Bertoni, Kane and Giordani one apiece.

In the Hingham game Bertoni had the only Quincy goal unassisted.

Weymouth won the Bantam title with a 2-1 win over Kingston, Ontario.

Comettes Breeze By Brockton, 8-0

The Quincy Comettes, an all-star team from the Quincy Youth Hockey Association Girls League, continued to roll merrily along Sunday with an 8-0 breeze over Brockton.

The game was close only in the first period when Mary Ellen Reardon put Quincy ahead, 1-0, with the Flynn sisters, Terry and Kathy assisting.

The Comettes clinched the win in the second period as they exploded for six goals. Riordan and Eileen Marr each scored twice and Shawn O'Leary and Terry Flynn one each. Riordan, Terry Flynn and O'Leary had two assists apiece and Paula Constat and Maureen Santry one each.

The final goal in the third period was unassisted by Riordan, her fourth of the game.

Santry, Marie McAuliffe, Lisa Norling, Joanne Troy played fine defense and goalies Doreen Hayes and Peggy Rugg were again outstanding.

Sunday the Comettes will play Marblehead at noon at the Peabody rink.

Squirt A's Win, Lose

The Squirt A team defeated Hingham, 7-1, but lost to Scituate, 6-3, and Braintree, 5-4, in overtime in the International Kiwanis Tournament.

In the romp over Hingham Andy Shannon and Tommy Corliss were in goal. Mike Marshall had the hat trick, Mike Cullen two goals and Rich Stevens and Kevin Craig one each. Craig and Tommy Murphy had two assists each and Mike Sullivan, Cullen, Stevens, Tommy Schofield, Paul McCabe and Bobby Lynch one each.

Against Scituate, Marshall, John Cummings and Craig had the goals and Murphy, Dennis Furtado and Stevens assists.

In the loss to Braintree Craig, McCabe, Cullen and Murphy had the goals with assists for Stevens and McCabe.

Difficult For Ralph To Resign

Frazier's Successor Interviews To Start

By TOM SULLIVAN

Candidates for the head football coaching job at North Quincy High are expected to be interviewed within a week, according to Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone.

"We are advertising within the school system as well as outside the system," Leone said. "Anyone interested should send applications to John Osterman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel."

It is the usual procedure to promote from within the system, if possible, but if it is felt an outsider is more qualified, he will be named. It is known that some coaches from within the Quincy system, including North Quincy assistants, are applying for the job vacated by the recent resignation of Ralph Frazier.

Frazier's wife tried to talk him out of it, Leone tried to talk him out of it and others also tried.

But, after thinking it over and doing a lot of soul-searching, Frazier recently decided to end a 23-year career as a football coach and player and submitted his resignation as North's coach.

"Ralph had talked to me about resigning a couple of weeks before he made his decision and I tried to talk him out of it," Leone said. "He had done such a tremendous job, I hate to see him quit. He has been a standout coach and great for the boys and we will all miss him. This was no spur of the moment thing for him. He talked to me, to Dr. Crendon [Supt. of Schools], to Ken Rickson [coordinator of physical education] and to North Quincy principal Peter Chrisom. He thought about it for a long time and I know it was a most difficult decision for him to make."

His attractive wife, Sheila, knew what a hard decision it was for him to make, too.

"We talked about it for some time and I tried to talk him out of it," she said. "He was all wrapped up in football and he thought so much of the boys, I know he really hated to resign. But, he has his objectives and I know he had the best interests of the children [Suzanne, 7; Katie, 6, and Glenn, 19 months] and me at heart when he finally made the decision."

"It was a very difficult decision to make and I kept wondering if I was doing the right thing, but despite many people trying to make me change my mind, I felt I was making the right decision," Ralph said. "I have certain obligations to my family and I've set specified goals which I intend to pursue in an administrative career in education."

"Being a head football coach takes a phenomenal amount of time. Not only is there the actual season with games and practices, but for us there is summer camp for a week, weightlifting year round, working on playbooks, going to clinics and meetings and all the rest that goes along with it."

Ralph found it easy writing his resignation and submitting it to Leone, but he found it difficult telling his players of his decision, which came as a surprise to most people.

When Frazier, 35, took over the head coaching reins from Leone in 1969, he said he knew he faced a tremendous challenge because of the fine job Leone had done, but he certainly met that challenge well.

Ralph was an all-scholastic lineman at North, starred for three years and was captain his senior year in 1957. He then played at Boston University and his first coaching job was at Medway High, where he was head coach for three years and his teams compiled a 16-8-3 record.

Frazier, in beating Quincy in 1971, '72 and '73, is the only North coach to win three in a row from the Presidents.

Two of Frazier's former assistants went on to head coaching jobs, Jack Bowes at Milton and Bill Pagnano at Duxbury.

Ralph's first year as North head coach was disappointing as the Raiders were only 2-7 and absorbed a 53-0 wallop at the hands of Quincy. But his next four teams were 6-2-1, 6-3-0, 7-2-0 and 6-1-1. His 1970 team had lost to Malden, 21-20, and tied Revere, 6-6, before losing to Quincy, 16-6. The 1973 team won its last five games.

Last fall North was 4-1 and appeared headed for another banner year but lost its last five to finish with a 4-6 record and was shocked by Quincy, 14-13.

Ralph will be missed by the sportswriters, with whom he was extremely cooperative, whether his team won or lost. "That's all part of the game," he said. "I see no reason why you shouldn't be just as cooperative and friendly with the writers when you lose as when you win. And, I have to say all the writers were extremely nice to me, and I thank them all."

Seeks Financial Help

Martin Hopes To Enter 2 Quincy Teams In Soccer Boston League

Quincy High Soccer Coach Ron Martin hopes to enter two Quincy teams this spring in the Boston Area Youth Soccer League, which plays in April, May and June, and is seeking financial aid from Quincy residents.

"This league is comprised of teams from Quincy, Braintree, Lexington, Needham, Brockton, Wellesley and Newton among other cities and towns in the Greater Boston area," Martin said. "Traditionally Quincy has had only one team in the league while Braintree has had four, Lexington 14, Needham 12, Brockton six, Wellesley eight and Newton five.

"The lack of teams in the Quincy area has been due primarily to the non-existence of supportive individuals. The results have been clear during the season in Quincy's inability to compete with these towns due to the lack of competitive experience.

"I hope to enter two teams this season consisting of boys in the 15, 16, 17 and 18 age groups. The total cost of league entry is $330 and, in addition, uniforms and equipment must be purchased."

Martin went on to explain that the boys have raised about half of the total cost. He said he doesn't believe in having the boys collect door to door on street corners.

I am therefore asking for the aid of Quincy residents and any small contribution will be deeply appreciated and utilized in a worthy manner," Martin concluded.

Anyone wishing to help can send a contribution in any amount to Ron Martin, 213 Cochituate Road, RFD #1, Plymouth, Mass. 02360.

QJC Finishes Strong

Although playing with one of the smallest squads around, a maximum of 13 players, the Quincy junior college hockey team finished strong, winning its last three games for a 6-5-1 record.

In its final game last week QJC topped Mass. College of Pharmacy, 5-3.

Jim Cooney of Quincy sparked the Collejiuns with two goals. Jerry McEleney of North Quincy, Ed Guppy of North Quincy and Bill Smith of Braintree had the other goals.

In its previous game QJC had bombed Emerson College, 9-2, with McEleney exploding for five goals. Smith, Cooney, Dave Sullivan of Braintree and Phil McHugh of Weymouth had a goal each. Cooney had three assists, Guppy two, Mike Lake of Weymouth, Steve Arnold of Quincy, McHugh, Sullivan and Mike McMann one apiece.

Earlier the Collejiuns had defeated Bunker Hill Junior College, 7-5.

Smith and Quincy's Lou Maggio each had the hat trick and Cooney scored the other goal.

McEleney was the team's leading scorer with 27 points. Cooney was second with 24 and Smith third with 20.

Quincy's Doug Kemp and John Toomey of Weymouth were excellent in goal throughout the season.

"The players deserve a lot of credit," said first year coach Ken Hayes, a former goalie at North Quincy who coached the Quincy freshmen the past few years. "We had only a 13-man squad and in a number of games we played with only 10 or 11 due to illness or injuries. It is a pretty tough job facing teams with many more men. We might have been outmanned in many games, but we were never outfought. I'm very pleased with our season."

Defeat Beau's, 1730-1618

Carlyle Men's Tourney Champs

Carlyle Merchants of Whitman captured the 22nd annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney Sunday at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys defeating Beau's of Quincy Point, 1730-1618.

Following the match, a check for $100 and a team trophy, emblematic of the championship, was presented to the winners by Dick Koch Tourney Director representing the Koch Club sponsor of the yearly event.

Carlyle started slow in the first string bowling a 544, but Beau's failed to take advantage, hitting for a cold 506.

In the second string, Carlyle led a 638 to Beau's 522, and led a 154 pin lead into the final string. The winners coasted in the third string as the losing Beau's could only pick up 42 pins of the deficit far short of the number needed.

Showing a steady and strong team effort with scoring consistency, Dick Ewell led

Hull Rolls High

14 Teams Left In Women's Tournament

The opening rounds of the 20th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney continued Sunday afternoon at the Merrymount Daylight Alley.

The Koch Club of Quincy sponsored event saw 14 remaining teams meeting in competition:

Hull Women bowled high for the afternoon to defeat the Montclair Couples Women 1541-1387; Carlyle Community League of Whitman ousted the Koch Club Girl Seniors, 1530-1468; the Alley Kats eliminated the Rollerettes 1507-1447; the Rag Dolls topped the Socialites 1492-1432; the High Nooners triumphed over the Hi-Nooners 1487-1322; the Woodshooters swept over the Broom Sticks 1428-1321, and the Eight O'clock Rollers were victorious over the Bowling Bugs 1402-1348.

The Monday Night League of Hull jumped off to a 67-pin first string lead, picked up 40 more in the second, and made it a clean sweep in the third winning the string by 47, and the match by 154 pins over Montclair Couples Women.

Lois Peacock with 333 led the winners, followed by Diane Schwede 317, Linda Levine 314, Tina Goodwin 303, and Sheila Hurst 274. Lois Peacock 127 was high single for the day.

Top scorer for Montclair Couples Women was Anna Hutchinson 293; Iz McCabe, 283; Shirley Locke 275, and Mary Martin 273.

The men champion counterpart Carlyle Community League Women of Whitman showed a steady scoring punch with scores of 500-516-514 for their impressive 62 pin victory.

Helen Riley with 355 top three string total for the afternoon was high for Carlyle and was aided in the win by Joan Rollins 305, Bev Blanchard 300, Shirley Grillone 296, and Lee Hunt 274.

Adrienne White led the Koch Club Young Ladies and was followed by Jackie Little 308, Marie Nestor 307, and Carol Flynn 276.

The Alley Kats picked up 23 pins over the Rollerettes in the first string, could only gain 4 in Carlyle with 360 followed by Jim Rigo 347, Paul Kirby 346, Bill Robbins 345, and Dennis Chick 332.

Fred Connelly was top scorer for Beau's with 356, Paul Mattes 338, Jim Blake 322, Buster Loud 302, and Bob Hillier 300.

Carlyle proved the best of the 28 teams entered, and took honors for the second consecutive year.

Carlyle tied a record of topping the 1,800 mark in two tourney matches this year, Colonial of Weymouth had attained the feat in 1972, and South Shore Holy Name in 1965.

Colonial Bowl still holds the high three string total record of 1869 in 1972, and Carlyle the top team single string 675 last year.

The individual three string total mark is owned by Roger Delgiacco 441 for Quincy Center in 1968, and Ralph Devito top single 167 in 1969 with the Abington Merchants.

THE CHAMPS - Carlyle Merchants of Whitman display handsome trophy after winning the Koch Club sponsored Men's Candlepin Tourney in which a total of 28 teams entered. From the left, Paul Kirby, Dick Ewell, Dennis Chick, Director Dick Koch, Jim Rigo and Bill Robbins.

'Mixed Company' Heart Fund Theater Party Feature Movie

"Mixed Company" will be the feature movie at the sixth annual Heart Fund Theater party to be held Tuesday, March 4, at 7:30 p.m. at the Strand Theatre, Quincy Sq.

Richard J. Koch is special events chairman of the Quincy Heart Fund.

This year's event is named the John J. Daniels Memorial Night in tribute to the late Mr. Daniels who for the previous five years as ticket chairman personally was responsible for raising over half of the $5,440. total.

Mr. Daniels solicited the door prizes and was largely responsible for contributing to the annual success of the affair.

Mr. Daniels died last April of a heart attack, after supervising the fifth and most successful theatre party when $1,409 was realized.

Those unable to attend the theatre party but wishing to donate to the heart fund cause in memory of Mr. Daniels may make checks payable to Quincy Heart Fund, John J. Daniels Memorial Night, and leave them with Mrs. Rita Daniels Ideal Dress Shoppe, 17A Beale St., Wollaston, John T. McGue manager of the North Quincy Branch of the Hancock Bank, 415 Hancock St. and special events treasurer, or Mr. Koch at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St. Quincy Center, where Mr. Daniels was employed as a health inspector for the City of Quincy.

Quincy.

John McGowan is general chairman of the Quincy Heart Fund. Councillor James Sheets is Heart Fund Sunday chairman which is the last Sunday in February, when volunteers solicit house to house for the Heart Fund cause.

Roger Hamil is business solicitation chairman of the Quincy Heart Fund.

Richard Morrissey Winner In Speaking Contest

Richard F. Morrissey Jr., of 80 Woodcliff Rd, West Quincy, a former Quincy Sun newscaster, captured second place in the recent tri-county public speaking contest on agriculture.

Morrissey, a senior at Norfolk County Agricultural School in Wolpole, wrote and delivered a speech entitled "Who Shall Feed the 21st Century?"

Contestants were judged on composition and grammar of their speeches, delivery, voice, poise and the ability to answer the judges' questions.

[Cont'd from Page 1]
City Council's opposition to the bill."

Tobin continued: "We have our own school problems in Quincy - North Quincy High School, overcrowding, accreditation. Why should we become involved in other people's problems?"

Tobin Vows Forced Busing Fight

Referring specifically to South Boston, Tobin continued: "Busing doesn't give you quality education. No one is going to convince me of the logic that a kid gets quality education through busing. The people of South Boston have their own neighborhood schools, churches, shopping centers and communities. And now the kids are being bused out of their own schools to neighborhoods where they are not wanted, neighborhoods where they throw rocks and return buses."

House Bill 2439, now reads: "Any community within a 20-mile radius of a city of the Commonwealth and with a median income above the average income in its Standards Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) shall open 10 per cent of its school seats to inner-city children, black and white, as far as the seats are available."

There are eight SMSA districts throughout the state: Boston, Brockton, Fall River, Lawrence-Haverhill, Lowell, New Bedford, Springfield-Chicopee-Holyoke and Worcester.

The Boston SMSA consists of 17 cities including Quincy and 61 towns with the city of Boston as its core. This geographic and economic area cuts across county lines encompassing all of Suffolk County and parts of Norfolk, Essex, Middlesex and Plymouth Counties.

The $12,059 figure computed as the average income in the Boston SMSA does not include Boston and was based on the 1970 census and 1975 income figures.

Maura McGroarty, aide to Kathleen Sullivan, explained the intent of the bill as an effort "to equalize the monies available to communities for education." She said:

"There is more money available in suburban communities not just because they have higher incomes and can pull in more taxes, but they don't have to outlay it on large police, fire and public works departments as a city does... Boston spends from 30-35 per cent on its tax dollar on education while the suburbs spend anywhere from 50-75 per cent of their tax dollars on education."

A total of 37 cities and towns within the Boston SMSA exceed the $12,059 average income computed for the Boston SMSA excluding Boston and would thus be required to open 10 per cent of their school seats as available to inner city children. Those cities and towns are:

Arlington, Bedford, Belmont, Braintree, Brookline, Burlington, Canton, Concord, Dedham, Dover, Hingham, Lexington, Lincoln, Lynnfield, Marblehead, Medfield, Melrose, Milton, Nahant, Natick, Needham, Newton, North Reading, Norwood, Randolph, Reading, Sharon, Sherborn, Stoneham, Swampscott, Wakefield, Walpole, Wayland, Wellesley, Weston, Westwood and Winchester.

Hannon To Meet On JFK Library Proposal

the Kennedy Library Corporation, inviting him and other site-selection officials to view the potential Quincy sites for the library.

Singling out the State Street Bank area as his most preferred site, Hannon said this location is ideally situated near both the MBTA and the Southeast Expressway and is within easy access of the University of Massachusetts.

Citing the many benefits of the proposed library to Quincy, Hannon said:

"The library would bring in so many more people per year. Tourists traditionally spend money and I assume they would visit the downtown area. It would also give Quincy the opportunity to get a hotel complex in downtown Quincy or near the site location. More jobs would be created and Quincy would have the prestige of being a city where three presidents are recognized."

Hannon said the cost of locating the library in Quincy would depend upon the specific site selected. If utilities as well as water and sewer services already existed at the site, the cost to the city would be minimal if anything, he said.

Burke said close to 70 cities and towns throughout the nation have submitted invitation to the Corporation, asking for consideration as the site for the JFK Memorial Library. Queries have come from as far as Jacksonville, Fla. said Burke. He said the Corporation is reviewing what he called "meaningful, serious and comprehensive invitations" from the University of Massachusetts, both at Boston and at Amherst. He said, too, that a Barnstable site is being "seriously considered" and that a Quincy site is "a possibility". Burke said:

"We know Mayor Hannon has been in contact with Senator Kennedy but we haven't yet had the opportunity to follow up on it."

Burke said he expects the Corporation to decide on a suitable location for the library within 60-90 days.

Impact Study Report Predicts

Shipyard To Close Or Suffer Unless New FR Bridge Built

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

According to a recently-completed study, General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard will either go out of business or operate below capacity in 1985-2000 if a new Fore River Bridge is not built.

The study - prepared by Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Quade & Douglas - indicated a high workload potential with the present bridge until 1985.

But after that date, a projected demand for larger vessels - ships too big to be built at the yard and too big to navigate safely through the present bridge - would cripple the shipyard's competitive position.

The study estimates that approximately 37 per cent of Quincy Shipyard's post-1985 workload potential will be dependent on a new bridge.

The study - called the Fore

River Bridge Reconstruction Evaluation Study - began in June 1974 under the joint sponsorship of the Mass. Department of Public Works and the Executive Office of Manpower Affairs.

Two years ago, a Fore River Bridge Replacement Action Team [BRAT] was organized and members recommended the building of a new bridge, contending the present one restricted the shipyard's ability to bid on large tankers and offshore drilling rigs.

Individuals and organizations participating in BRAT include Mayor Walter J. Hannon, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, General Dynamics, Congressmen James A. Burke and Gerry Studds, Senator Allan McKinnon, Quincy and Weymouth Conservation Commissions, Mass. Department of Commerce and Development, and the Mass. Department of Natural Resources.

Assuming the shipyard is forced to close, the authors of the study said the resulting loss in state tax revenues at existing tax rates in the period 1986-2000 would range between $27.5 million and $33.2 million. Both of these estimates exceed

Belly Dancing

Fun Way To Exercise

Several years ago, a craze called belly dancing infiltrated the country - that sensual, sometimes-provocative, always-intriguing Oriental art of movement.

The so-called 'craze' has endured, attracting scores of women as its new disciples.

Just last year, the Quincy YMCA began to offer belly dancing to its regular and social women members. Now in its second year, the course attracts both the novice and the more experienced belly dancer.

According to course instructor Diane Flanigan, her students hail from all walks of life - secretaries, office workers, housewives, waitresses, teachers and travel agents - and they come in all shapes, sizes, and ages.

And all come for the same reason: to get in shape and enjoy doing it.

Mrs. Flanigan, herself a student of belly dancing, said: "People are sick of a regimented exercise program. Belly dancing is a fun way to exercise. You are toning your muscles, burning calories, having a good time and learning a skill."

Confessing that students are sometimes inhibited about belly dancing, an art oftentimes associated with the burlesque and the bawdy, Mrs. Flanigan said:

"I stress the exercise value rather than the cultural art value of belly dancing... And enthusiasm takes over when inhibitions leave."

Apparently, the YMCA was at one time inhibited and hesitant about offering a course in belly dancing. Mrs. Flanigan said:

"It was a great stride for the 'Y' to include belly dancing in their program. Attitudes are changing towards the dance."

A teacher part-time at the "Diane Flanigan School of Dance" in North Quincy, Mrs. Flanigan said men have no interest in learning the art of belly dancing.

"I'm sure there are courses for men," she said, "but there is no demand for it here in Quincy."

She paused a moment, a smile slowly creeping across her face. Then she added:

Kanavos Project Hailed As 'Positive Step' For City

Eric Swider, vice-president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce has hailed the 1,986-unit Kanavos condominium project as "an extremely positive step for the city of Quincy."

Referring to the 1973 Hilgenhurst Study which cited a market for 10,000 such units through 1985, Swider said Kanavos' contribution of nearly 2,000 condominium units "will go a long way towards attaining that goal."

"I am highly encouraged by the City Council's approval of the project," Swider said. "It shows that they are fully aware of the economics of making a city work... The project is part of a 'master plan', if you will, for improving and increasing business for the city and for retaining jobs."

Groundbreaking for the $60 million, 11-building condominium project will begin within 18 months.

The four-phase project, to be spread out over 10 years, received initial approval at Monday's City Council meeting when councilors voted 7-2 to grant the Dedham developers a special permit for the Quarry St. site. Dissenting were Councilors James Sheets and John Lydon.

The Council, however, attached a total of 10 amendments to the project, reducing the amount of land housing the 11 buildings to 3.5 acres. They include:

- A "fail-safe" stipulation introduced by Councilor Warren Powers requiring a review of the project after the completion of the first two stages.

- Holding of a public hearing to elicit public comment on the impact of the project.

- Seeking of further City Council comment and recommendation before final reports are submitted to the building inspector.

- Height reduction of three buildings from 16 to 14 stories.

- Conveyance of two acres of the land site to build a one-million-gallon city water tank.

- Conveyance of 15.3 acres of the land site for park and recreation purposes.

- Conveyance of 1.3 acres of the land site to the Order of the Sons of Italy for parking purposes, helping to ease a hazardous traffic situation at Smith and Quarry Sts.

- Barring of any access through residential areas, specifically no access to Whitwell and Common Sts.

Expressway Barrier

3,700-Foot Chain Link Fence For California Ave.

Rep. William D. Delahunt [D-Quincy] announces that the state DPW has awarded a contract to install 3,700 feet of chain link fence along California Ave., West Quincy, parallel to the Southeast Expressway.

Delahunt was contacted by residents in this section of West Quincy who expressed their concern about the dangers to young children who might venture onto the Expressway, as well as the possibility of speeding cars hurtling down the embankment along this particular area into the back yards of residences.

Delahunt recently met with officials from the Secretary of Transportation's office, and it was agreed that this situation was dangerous and should receive priority attention. Work is expected to begin shortly, and the installation should be completed sometime in April.

Repeated requests for a fence between the residential area and the Expressway had brought no action for three years. Delahunt expressed his appreciation "that the new administration had deemed it proper to take swift action to remedy this dangerous condition."

Public Hearing Monday On NQHS Landtaking

The Quincy City Council will hold a public hearing next Monday to discuss land-taking for an addition and renovations to North Quincy High School.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Council Chambers.

A Little Traveling Music At Quincy MBTA Station

While some MBTA riders agree with the poet Christina Rossetti and consider "silence more musical than any song," the vast majority of T-passengers have requested that the playing of music be resumed at Quincy Center and Park St. Stations on the Red Line.

Taped music at these stations had been discontinued last September while the public address system was inspected and repaired. The MBTA, rather than arbitrarily putting the music back, decided to poll its passengers as to their preference. The results were an overwhelming vote in favor of Euterpe, the Muse of music, with 75 per cent of the votes cast indicating a wish for the resumption of music in the stations.

So, bowing to the will of the majority, the Authority has resumed the playing of taped music hoping that waiting will thereby be made a bit more pleasant for the Red Line riders.

Lincoln-Hancock Students Study City Government

The Elementary Laboratory Center sixth grade students will abandon their regular area at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School for a week to study in depth the political processes of Quincy city government, under the direction of their teachers Lorraine Sholler and Gerald Butler.

With the cooperation of Mayor Walter J. Hannon and City Clerk John Gillis, the students will spend the weeks of March 3-7 and March 17-23 at City Hall.

Some of the learning activities planned are: study of the use of City Hall by residents of Quincy, workshops and interview periods with city officials, attendance at the City Council and License Board meetings, and an analysis of how city officials and residents are affected by decisions made at City Hall.

U.S. Navy Band In 2 Concert Performances Here Monday

Under the direction of energetic conductor Lt. Cmdr. Ned Muffley, the U.S. Navy Band will perform a diverse selection of musical scores at Monday's two-hour evening concert in the Quincy Vocational-Technical gymnasium.

The 52-member band will entertain Quincy residents in two concerts: a special one-hour performance for senior citizens and students, and a two-hour evening program for the general public.

Concert day will also mark the formal presentation of the 950-pound USS Quincy bell to the city of Quincy. Cmdr. James Schneider of the Naval Air Reserve Training Center in Quincy is scheduled to present Mayor Walter J. Hannon with the bell during intermission at the evening concert.

Intermission time will also include a long-distance phone conversation piped into the Quincy Vocational-Technical gymnasium. Through the courtesy of Donald Buron, manager of the Quincy office of the New England Telephone Co., and with the cooperation of the Quincy Public Schools, Retired Admiral Thomas Senn, past commander of the USS Quincy who is now living in California, will send his greetings to Hannon, citizens of Quincy and the ship's crew members expected to return to Quincy for the concert.

The U.S. Navy Band will launch its evening performance at 8 p.m. with Clifton Williams' "Sinfonians."

Heidi Hunter, soprano soloist, will be featured in "Highlights from Godspell," clarinetist John Coulehan will perform Mendelssohn's "Concerto in E

LARRY SKINNER

Minor," and trumpeter Larry Skinner will delight the audience with Claude Smith's "Fantasy for Trumpet." Overtures, suites and processions will also be performed.

In honor of the concert, Mayor Hannon has declared Monday, March 10 as "U.S. Navy Band Day" throughout the city of Quincy. He said the appearance of the Navy Band gives Quincy an opportunity "to host the outstanding musicians" of the band and "to hear and see a musical organization that has been acclaimed throughout America."

U.S. Navy Band Conductor Lt. Cmdr. Ned Muffley directs all scores from memory. Honored by a personal invitation from Arthur Fielder to guest-conduct the Boston Pops, Muffley assumed command of the U.S. Navy Band June 29, 1973.

A young and eager conductor, he brought with him the experience of more than 20 years' service in Navy music. He sums up his philosophy on music like this:

"Total entertainment! I want an excitement in this band, a spirit so intense that anyone can feel the vibrations and know there's something happening!... I want the audience on the edges of their chairs, hearts thumping, completely turned on with excitement... so totally involved... that nothing else exists for them in the world except The United States Navy Band."

Muffley will be interviewed Monday at 10:05 a.m. during WJDA's South Shore Hour.

Sponsored by Quincy Heritage, the event will cost $3,500. Quincy School System has donated $500 to help finance the concert and 12 local businesses have each contributed $200, helping Quincy Heritage to bring the U.S. Navy Band to Quincy.

Those businesses are L. Antonelli Iron Works, Richard J. Buccheri, Colonial Federal Savings and Loan Association, Jason's Luggage and Music Shop, O'Connell Brothers Construction Co., Postal Instant Press, Presidential Co-Operative Bank, Quincy Co-Operative Bank, Quincy Savings Bank, Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co., South Shore National Bank and Wollaston Credit Union.

Quincy Junior College Training Veterans

The Massachusetts Board of Higher Education has approved Quincy Junior College programs for the purpose of training veterans and others who are eligible for benefits under the Veteran Administration Program.

Included in this approval are curriculum leading to an Associate Degree in Computer Science, Early Childhood Education, General Studies, and Business Administration.

One year certificate programs in Executive Secretary, Medical Secretary, and Pre-Nursing are also approved courses of study for the Veterans program.

These programs are offered in both the day and evening divisions for students who desire to pursue their education on a part-time or full-time basis.

Due to a large number of veterans enrolling in courses at QJC a special service has been arranged so that a representative from the Veterans Administration is at the College every Thursday to answer questions and solve problems relating to the College Veterans.

Those seeking additional information concerning any college program are asked to call Dean Hugo Saluti, 471-2470.

Site For USS Quincy Bell Sought

The city is looking for an appropriate place to permanently display the 1,550 pound bell that has been suggested for the bell site, Mayor Hannon said.

The bell will be formally accepted by Mayor Hannon at a concert of the U.S. Navy Band March 10 in the Vocational-Technical School gymnasium.

The Public Works Department is presently steam-cleaning and polishing the bell.

2 From Quincy In Students 'Who's Who'

Two Curry college seniors from Quincy have been included in the 1974-1975 edition of Who's Who Among Students In American Universities and Colleges.

Both Charles R. Higgins of 8

The lawn of the Thomas Crane Public Library and McIntyre Mall are two possible sites that have been suggested for the bell site, Mayor Hannon said.

In addition, it could be placed in the Adams Academy which the Quincy Historical Society is turning into a museum, Mayor Hannon said.

Persons wishing to suggest other sites for the bell should contact Quincy Heritage at city hall.

Captains Walk and James Bucchianeni, recently of 22 Clarendon St., were selected for inclusion on the basis of their academic achievements, their leadership in extra-curricular activities, and considered future potential.

Panel Discussion On Juvenile Justice

The League of Women Voters of Quincy will sponsor a panel discussion on juvenile justice at Quincy District Court, Chestnut St., Thursday, March 13 at 8 p.m.

Judge Albert L. Kramer, presiding justice of Quincy District Court, will welcome the audience in the main session courtroom.

Alicia Coletti, chairwoman of the League's Judiciary Committee, will first present a half-hour film entitled CHILDREN IN TROUBLE which depicts the treatment of juveniles in detention homes throughout the country.

Richard A. Venna, Assistant Chief Probation Officer of the Quincy Court, has arranged for the following members of the panel to describe their functions in the treatment of juveniles:

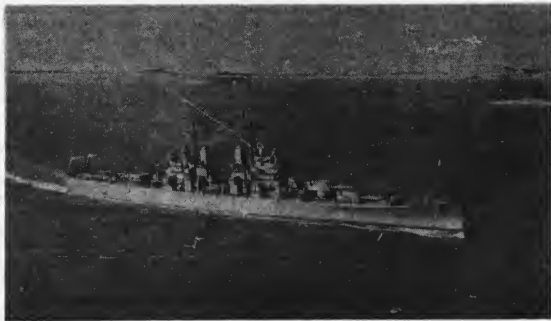

Sgt. Daniel Lyons, Quincy Police Department, Mary Lynch, juvenile probation officer; William Spencer, attendance officer in the Quincy Public Schools; Daniel Raymond, Norfolk County Public Defender and Sister Rita McCarthy, director of a halfway house for girls in Quincy.

Judge Kramer and Venna will join the panel as participants. The panel moderator will be Ruth Paven, attorney and Quincy League member.

After the panel's initial presentation, questions from the audience will be directed to the panel. Refreshments and a tour of the courthouse for those interested will complete the evening. The public is invited to attend.

Little brother likes to shock

By PAT and MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
I have a problem that is causing a lot of trouble. My little brother has the habit of singing dirty songs. He has heard them from some of the older kids on the block. He knows that it is embarrassing for me and that Mom and Dad would not allow this. So his plan of attack is to sing when I have friends over. There is not a thing I can do because he isn't afraid of me. I've told Mom but she just laughed and really didn't believe that Little Brother knew such language. What can I do aside from strangling him?

Embarrassed
Dear Embarrassed:
We have all heard of tape recorders. If you don't own one, borrow one. The next time Little Brother auditions, put it on tape. Then play it for your parents. Hearing will be believing!

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
How old do you think a person should be before he is allowed to make his own decisions? My parents want to run my life from the time I wake up until I go to bed at night. I'm told to finish my meals, what to wear, and how long to study.

I am 16 years old and should make my own decisions. My friends feel uncomfortable around my parents, and I am about ready to leave home. I am an only child so I can understand my parents' concern. My brother died when he was 4 and perhaps this is one excuse. However, I must live my own life. How can I talk them into letting go?

Trapped

Dear Trapped:
You and your parents should consult a family counselor. With a little help, these hurdles can be cleared. Talk to your parents today. Remember they are on your side.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
My husband and I have moved five times in the last eight years. His job requires this. Each time the children have had to adjust to a new school and new friends. So far so good.

We have now moved into a lovely town and our oldest son has enrolled in the university. He is very serious about his girl; and from what he has told me, he wants to marry her. The problem is with his father. We are due to transfer in 18 months and my son wants to remain here. He would be 21, but Dad says the entire family must move. Last night we all discussed the problem. Now we are having a cold war. Can you referee?

Mom in the Middle

Dear Mom:
Time is on your side. Do not try to make a final decision now. Let everyone cool off. If your son does marry, he will have a wife to support and school to finish. And Dad could no longer issue the marching orders.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
Last month a new boy moved next door. He is really cute and he is a junior in my high school. I am a sophomore. I've said "Hi" and he smiles. That is all.

When school started, I told him that I'd show him around but he said he would go with the boys. I don't want to chase him but I'm not getting anywhere. How can I get him to notice me?

Strike 3

Dear Strike 3:
He may not be interested. Go out with other boys and see your friends. Don't appear too eager, and keep in mind that a little healthy competition is a good thing.

Opera star kneads dough to relax

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

JOHN STEWART

...breadmaking is very relaxing pasta machine back with me the next time I return from Europe," he said.

Next to singing a perfect aria, opera-star John Stewart's highest ambition is to make a perfect loaf of bread.

"Breadmaking is very relaxing for me," he said. "At my apartment in New York I often spend the hours before an opening opera performance cooking and baking. I get any nervousness out of my system by measuring, beating and kneading."

Stewart says he always tries to find an apartment when he is spending any length of time away from New York.

"I like to cook for myself — restaurant food is so poor," he said. "Unless you go to an expensive restaurant the meat is poorly prepared and the vegetables are overcooked. This is not true in Europe. Even the cheaper restaurants there serve well-cooked food."

The opera star spends part of the year singing in Europe, where he maintains an apartment in Frankfurt, Germany.

He says his next amateur-chef project is to learn to make pasta.

"I have a friend in Frankfurt who says he will teach me. I'm planning to bring a

- 2 tbsps. honey
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1 cake compressed yeast
- 2 cups lukewarm water
- 1 tbsps. soft shortening

In large bowl of electric mixer crumble yeast into 1/2 cup lukewarm water. Let stand for a few minutes; stir until dissolved. Add honey, remainder of lukewarm water, about half of each of the flours, the salt and shortening. Blend at low speed, then beat for two minutes at medium speed, stir in rest of flour to make stiff dough. Knead several minutes on floured board. Divide the dough in halves. Place each in a 4x by 2x by 1 1/2-inch greased pan. Shape tops of loaves with floured hands. Place in warm place, such as oven with a pilot light, and let rise for 20 minutes. Bake in 375-degree oven for about 35 minutes — five minutes longer if crust is desired.

VARIATION: After bread rises, roll out flat and sprinkle with three-fourth cup chopped nuts, two tablespoons cinnamon and one-third cup brown sugar. Roll up and bake in 375-degree oven for 35 minutes. Add water until the dough doesn't stick to the sides of the bowl. It should be shiny and elastic.

Stewart says his favorite cuisine is Italian, with French next.

"I like gourmet food, but like all midwesterners — I'm from Ohio — I like hamburgers. When I'm rehearsing and am pressed for time, I usually order a hamburger."

His favorite bread recipe, which he calls an "easy, all-purpose, no-hassle" bread, is shared with readers. He also shares a favorite variation.

Girl, 11, wants braces

By DR. WILLARD ABRAHAM
Copley News Service

Q. Our daughter is 11 and is nagging us for what seems to be a strange reason. She wants braces on her teeth. All of her friends have them, and she doesn't want to be left out.

A. No, I wouldn't. Share the dentist's recommendation with her, and explain to her that everyone develops physically at their own rate. Point out how different from each other children of her age are in height, weight, and strength. Their teeth don't all develop at the same rate either.

Q. Is it true that older mothers have more of a chance to have Mongoloid babies than young mothers do?

A. Yes, research points in that direction. Although only a small minority of even older mothers have such babies, a significant proportion of these children are born to mothers in their late thirties and forties.

By the way, the current term is "Down's Syndrome," rather than "Mongoloid," using the name of the man who was first involved to some depth in identifying many of the specific characteristics such children have.

By the way, does every one of her friends really have braces? If so, don't you have a basis for indicating to her that they too differ from the others she wants to imitate.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Creative projects referring to career pay off for you now. A promotion, raise or offer of something better is likely. Rely on your intuition and inspiration. Your understanding grows.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Procrastination will make you uncomfortable. Get busy and do your chores. Evaluate other people carefully. Your emotions could lead you into a wrong judgment. Don't lose money.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Home projects, real estate matters are favored. Use remodeled, renovated items. Make plans about bills that are due, your whole financial picture. Get off by yourself to meditate and ponder.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Your mind is sharp and new mental attitudes give you answers. Pay attention to your appearance and wardrobe. Reactivate a past project. Romance brightens. Listen to ideas from others.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Career demands are heavy and rewarding. Important decisions, conferences and projects are part of the picture. Problems and indecisions in romance are temporary. Curb extravagance.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Work can be done quite effortlessly now. The pace is fast. Children and friends are accented. Relax and enjoy life — let ambition take a back seat. Good news about career is cause to celebrate.

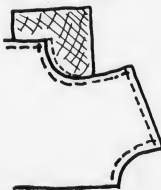

STITCHING WITCHERY Bandanas make good napkins

By BETTY W. KINSER
Copley News Service

If you pay attention, you sure can learn a lot. Like last weekend. For a spaghetti dinner, my sister-in-law set a lovely table using freshly ironed bandana handkerchiefs as napkins! (It is such a good idea — how come she thought of it first?)

Dear Betty:
Could you please tell me how to make armholes on a sleeveless dress smaller when the dress fits fine otherwise? — Mrs. C. Buterbaugh, Punxsutawney, Pa.

Place a large piece of tissue paper behind the armhole area of the pattern. On this paper, extend the side cutting line of the bodice up as far as you need. Connect this line to the armhole curve by redrawing the armhole (see sketch). You will need to make the same change the armhole facings. For dresses with sleeves, a small amount of fullness must be removed from the sleeve cap.

Dear Betty:
Can you help me? I'm on my first try at velvet. It tends to pucker on the top side, whereas the underside seam lies nice and flat. Is there an easy way to sew velvet and have the seams come out nice and smooth? — Rose Lucas, Hernando, Fla.

There sure is — in fact, there is more than one way. When working with velvet, you must BASTE each and every seam. Use a silk thread and fine needle. Take small, close stitches.

Check the pressure on your presser foot. If it is too heavy, it will cause puckering. Check the tension. It should be a bit loose for velvet and other thick fabrics.

Never, but never, press velvet. If it does need a little steaming, you can place it FACE DOWN on a needle board or another piece of velvet and hold the iron close to — but not on! — the fabric, allowing the steam to do the work.

QUICK STITCH: If you have lots and lots of bandana handkerchiefs, you can do all kinds of things. For one, you can make a quilt.

We had a Bandana Quilt, but now we have something new — and better — a Hobo Blanket. It takes 23 blue handkerchiefs, 12 red ones, 18 solid blocks and 24 appliqued ones. For filling, we used a sheet blanket and for lining a permanent press sheet. You'll like it — 20 cents per copy, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ear Piercing Danger

There are two dangers to be considered when piercing ears — viral hepatitis and the lesser-known nickel sensitivity.

More than two million Americans are allergic to nickel sulphate, which is used in inexpensive jewelry. Naturally, a person who puts inexpensive earrings in freshly pierced areas is especially susceptible. Even those who have never reacted to nickel sulphate in jewelry before may develop a sensitivity to it if nickel-plated or nickel-gold alloy earrings are inserted too soon.

A significant number of cases of viral hepatitis have been reportedly caused by inadequate sterilization of the needles used to pierce women's ears. Alcohol solutions do not destroy hepatitis virus.

These risks are good reason to have your ears pierced by a doctor. He can be expected to follow proper sterilization techniques. The lady next door or your best friend's older sister are not substitutes for a qualified physician.

10 Quincy Women Ch.2 Auction 'Go-Getters'

Ten Quincy women have volunteered as "Go-Getters" to collect antiques for the 10th anniversary Channel 2 Auction to be held May 30-June 7.

They are Mrs. Kathleen Mitchell, team captain, assisted by Mrs. Ann Pegg, Mrs. Mary Collins, Mrs. Betty Swanson, Mrs. Maureen Roche, Mrs. Jolene Hack, Mrs. Mary Denneen, Mrs. Martha Regan, Mrs. Ann McInness and Mrs. Ellen Harrington.

All proceeds from the auction will benefit Channel 2, WGBH, which is totally dependent on public funds to maintain its programming.

Over 2,000 "Go-Getters" from three states will begin Monday to contact local merchants and private citizens, seeking donations of articles valued at $35 or more. Last year, the "Go-Getters" raised over $600,000 for Channel 2, representing over one-quarter of the unrestricted funds necessary to run the station.

During the 10-year history of the auction, over $3 million has been raised for the station, averaging 6,000 donors per year. Last year's "Go-Getters" collected many articles ranging from an African ceremonial mask to a mile of beads to 280 pounds of bananas and strawberry shortcake to feed 150.

Anyone interested in donating items for the auction can contact Mrs. Mitchell at 479-6236.

Davis 'City Council' Bumper Stickers Debut

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Two School Committee seats will be wide open and up for grabs this fall.

Harold Davis, like Daniel Raymondi, will vacate his board seat to seek greener political pasture in the City Council.

Davis "City Council" auto bumper stickers are making their appearance this week confirming reports here that he will run for the council.

But will he go at-large or seek the Ward 3 seat now occupied by John Lydon. The Davis City Council bumper stickers could be used in either race.

If Lydon vacates his seat to run at-large Davis would probably zero in on it. But the odds are that he plans to go at-large because his campaign style is geared for a city-wide bid. He no doubt would make a strong bid in an at-large race.

Last week, Raymondi formally announced his candidacy for the Ward 2 City Council seat being left by new Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall.

That leaves Frank McCauley the only school committee incumbent seeking re-election this year. He says he is not interested in the council where he formerly served.

SPEAKING OF MARSHALL, former Sheriff Charles Hedges reportedly is considering a possible run for the Ward 2 seat Marshall is vacating. Hedges has returned as a resident of Quincy and lives in Ward 2.

And that would be quite a turnaround if he ran and won: Marshall taking his badge and Hedges taking over Marshall's council seat.

The City Council would be nothing new for Hedges. He served there back in the 1940's.

AND, SPEAKING OF LYDON he seems to turn up at just about every function in town ala a council at-large candidate. Maybe he will make a city-wide bid.

INCIDENTALLY, Lydon suggests that Mayor Walter Hannon and the City Council march in South Boston's St. Patrick's Day parade March 17. He also would have representatives from Quincy Heritage make the march.

And, to top it all off, he would like to have Hancock St. changed to St. Patrick's Boulevard for March 17.

THOSE "CERASOLI CARES" bumper stickers you see around town don't mean Rep. Robert Cerasoli is running for anything in this year's city election.

Cerasoli says they are mainly being distributed because of concern over the proposed South Quincy MBTA station.

"But," he muses, "they could also be used in a political race. But not this year. Honest."

NICE GESTURE DEPT: The Quincy Bowling Little Loop is having three trees planted in Israel as a memorial to Max Zides of Hum 'n' Strum fame, who died in February.

Max was a director of the Little Loop and public relations director at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowldrome where the youngsters bowl.

The three trees will have engraved plates with Max's name, his birth and death dates and the name of the Little Loop.

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH: A note came across our desk that Larry Antonelli, popular Quincy businessman and civic leader recently turned 75. For the past 25 years he has always looked fit and fresh.

He celebrated the milestone with long-time friend Ernest Montilio and TV actor Raymond Burr at a luncheon at Jimmy's Harborside. Wish Larry would tell us where he has the fountain of youth hidden.

Youth Speaks Out

• Only a few more months before seniors graduate. Now all they have to worry about is whether their parents are wealthy enough to get them accepted to some college.

• A couple of weeks ago, President Ford was skiing. A few days ago, he was playing golf. Why doesn't he do something to help the country - like PLAY President.

• It's no wonder kids do some dumb things. Especially when they watch adults pay 65 cents for 20 sticks of tobacco, which will probably eventually, kill them. If you're going to kill yourself, you shouldn't have to pay for it.

• Boston is a City of Traditions - the annual firing of the Bruins Coach when the team fails to win the cup is only a few months away.

• There certainly are a large number of banks in Quincy, but what could they possibly have in them - nobody has any money.

• Poster Slogan - If you were arrested for kindness, could enough evidence be found to convict you.

Kanavos Project Hailed As 'Positive Step'

The Council also adopted a resolve introduced by Sheets stipulating that 100 per cent of the construction workers for the Kanavos project be hired through Quincy construction trade locals.

The first phase of the project calls for the construction of three buildings containing 471 units. One building with 218 units will be erected in the second phase after which a review of the project will be conducted.

Four buildings with 808 units will be constructed in the third phase and the remaining three buildings housing 489 units will complete the project in phase four.

According to the developer, the multi-million dollar project, described as bigger than State Street South, would create an additional 500 retail jobs in Quincy, create an estimated 3,000 construction jobs with a $40 million payroll, increase retail sales by $20 million, return to Quincy over $1.7 million in real estate tax revenue yearly and increase bank deposits by $16 million.

Despite hydraulic studies conducted at the site, Sheets said he still fears the existing flood and sewage problems in the area could be aggravated by the project.

He also said the condominiums would add another 4,000 people and 3,000 cars to Ward 3, boosting the Ward's population by 25 per cent.

Fontbonne Girls To 'Dribble' For Muscular Dystrophy

Six members of the Girls' Athletic Association at Fontbonne Academy - two of them from Quincy - will "dribble for muscular dystrophy" Saturday.

Mary Anderson of 58 Royal St., North Quincy, Kathy Dolbec of 117 Lansdowne St., Squantum, Christine Barce of Randolph and Debbie Falconi, Mary Norton and Sue Scannell, all of Milton, will dribble basketballs in shifts of three beginning at 8 a.m.

Each shift will last one hour. By the 6 p.m. stopping time, each girl will have dribbled for five hours.

Players are now seeking sponsors to pledge a donation per hour for any one player for the five-hour period. All proceeds will benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Anyone interested in making a pledge can contact Mrs. Maureen Rugo, public relations officer at Fontbonne Academy or can write to the school in care of Muscular Dystrophy, 930 Brook Rd, Milton.

Businesses With 2-Way Radios Asked To Alert Police

Mayor Walter J. Hannon and Chief of Police Francis X. Finn have issued an appeal to community businesses utilizing two-way radios to participate in the city's Radio Alert Program.

In a letter to approximately 20 local businessmen, they asked that drivers of vehicles equipped with two-way radios report suspicious acts and situations as they see them to their dispatcher for relay to the police department.

"This single procedure will increase the effectiveness of the police department beyond its present number," Chief Finn said. "In other communities where this program has been operating the program has been able to claim credit for the apprehension of a number of serious criminal offenders."

"We are asking companies to help us in this effort as the benefit to them will be considerable. As with the very successful Operation Watch Program, having additional eyes and ears observing our neighborhoods and businesses provides a greater overall security to the community."

Fire Dept. Drop-Off Center For Salvation Army

The Quincy Fire Department is among those fire departments in the Greater Boston area cooperating with the Salvation Army in getting help to the poor. The fire stations are being used as drop-off points for donations of food and clothing by members of the community. These contributions are then picked up by the Salvation Army and distributed amongst the needy.

Letter Box

She Criticizes 'Piemanship'

Editor, Quincy Sun:
A perfect example of "piemanship" is the fiasco of the proposed Kennedy Memorial in Harvard Square. - And not because it was designed by Pei, the architect of the ill-proportioned plywood palace in Boston.

The "piemanship" problem was that the memorial was funded and predetermined for Cambridge, without prior desire and consent of the supposedly sovereign people of the city.

"Piemanship" ["Show me first your money"] is primarily the placement of the payment [cart] ahead of the people [horses] and their needs. It's both inefficient and expensive.

The switch of horse and cart is imposed by manipulative planning and militaristic budgeting. For ages, the Army Corps of Engineers has been infamous for this boondoggle type of finance, which fleeces the taxpayers. [If not wanted, it's no bargain. But the Corps' projects employ plenty of incompetent nincompoops, who mostly make studies.]

Quincy's development patterns are plausible only as "piemanship" plans. They are unpalatably tasteless, unprincipled and preposterously overpriced.

We, the people, must observe the deceptive political shell-games with the public purse and determine that our peanuts go only for necessary recompense of governmental purposes. The prevailing policies of proliferating partisan, parading patronage, for personal publicity, must be stopped.

Pan the "Piemen". May their packaged pater be paddled until it palls!

He's The 'Unidentified' Wrestler On QHS 1942 Team

Editor, Quincy Sun:
As a Quincy High alumnus, I enjoyed your Jan. 9 story about the revival of wrestling and the mention of the 1942 state championship team.

But as a member of that 1942 team, I was hurt to discover I am the only wrestler listed as "unidentified". So this is to tell you that I am the third man from the left in the middle row of the picture.

Pound-for-pound I was probably the poorest wrestler who earned a letter, but I am never-the-less proud of being on that team and do not want to remain "unidentified".

Incidentally I believe the manager's last name was Stenberg or close to that. Also, I should mention in fond memory that Coach Leland Anderson was a dedicated, inspirational leader who never lost patience, even with this limited talent.

Question Of Week

How Long Is Long Hair?

"How long is long hair?" asked a caller to the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone recently.

The caller was questioning the practice of waiters and waitresses with long hair not wearing hair nets while serving food.

The VIP volunteer explained that the Department of Public Health does have regulations applicable to those people working in the preparation and serving of food, and one of the regulations specifies that such persons must use some form of hair restraint. Hair nets, however, are only one form of restraint. Other forms, including head bands and hair spray, are also acceptable. It is up to the local Health Officer to enforce this regulation.

The definition of "long hair" has never been determined in the Department of Public Health. However, many local Health Officers are now proposing that a minimum length of three inches be incorporated into the regulations.

This question is one of the many now being received by the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIPhone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

Cyclone Victims In Mauritius

Navy Seaman Recruit James E. King, husband of the former Miss Mary B. Collins of 14 Moscow St., North Quincy, is helping provide disaster relief to the people of Mauritius, an island in the Indian Ocean.

He is a crewmember aboard the Quincy-built nuclear-powered guided missile cruiser USS Long Beach, which was dispatched to render aid after a cyclone struck the island.

His ship is assigned to escort the nuclear-powered attack aircraft carrier USS Enterprise, which was also diverted to the island while embarked on a routine cruise in that area.

Upon resuming the cruise, King is scheduled to visit Singapore.

Blessed Sacrament Church To Celebrate 60th Anniversary

Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Sea St., Houghs Neck, will celebrate its 60th anniversary Saturday May 10 at a dinner-dance to be held at The Lantana, Randolph.

The event will be preceded by a 5 p.m. consecrated Mass offered by Rev. James Hart, pastor, and former pastors.

Special invited guests include former pastors and curates of the church as well as men and women who grew up in the parish and later took their religious vows.

Plans are being made to print a special 60th anniversary book to commemorate the church's history.

Members of the committee planning the event are Al Walsh, chairman; Joseph Brophy, toastmaster; Dan Herlihy and Kathy McIntyre, publicity; Peggy O'Connor and Fran Denver, program; Pat O'Hare, Mary Ann Kohut and Fred Mayhew, tickets; Mary Collins, Theresa Harcourt and Robert McKinnon, transportation; Ellie Pimental and Maureen McCann, invitations; William Nugent, treasurer.

Church Women United Observe World Day Of Prayer Friday

On World Day of Prayer, Friday, Church Women United in Quincy, will join millions of people in a chain of prayer spanning six continents.

This 89th celebration of World Day of Prayer will be observed in a thousand languages and dialects by Protestant, Orthodox and Catholic Christians in 169 lands.

Bethany Congregational Church is the host church. Participating in the ceremony will be Miss Muriel Jean Goudey, President of Bethany Women's Union and Mrs. Irene M. Larrington, past leader of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Quincy.

Chairman is Mrs. Arthur Shattuck assisted by Miss Marian Reinhardt and Ushers Miss Dorothy Coe, Miss Eleanor Brown, members of Bethany Congregational Church.

Guest speaker will be Miss Janet K. Yarlott, Chaplain in Training at Boston University School of Theology, a member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston.

The International Committee for the World Day of Prayer has designated Church Women United as the official sponsor of the World Day of Prayer in the U.S. The International Committee chooses a theme and appoints a group of women from a different part of the world to write the worship materials for each year.

The theme for 1975 is "Become Perfectly One", a search for the meaning of Christian unity in the broader context of a pluralistic society. The worship service has been prepared by the Women's Ecumenical Prayer Fellowship of Egypt. Thousands of Christian women who are outside the Orthodox tradition will be able to savor a service that includes elements from a liturgy dating back to the early centuries of Christendom as well as elements of the Arab experience of Protestantism and Catholicism.

World Day of Prayer provides an occasion for participation in a nationwide offering which goes into a fund called Intercontinental Mission—the process by which Church Women United carries forward its stewardship through annual grants to agencies around the world in these five major concerns: higher education for women in overseas Christian colleges; preparation and distribution of Christian literature for women and children in Asia, Africa, and Latin America; education for minority women in new careers and for American Indian youth; ministries among migrant farm workers; support for the Christian ministry in national parks.

In addition, offerings make possible gifts to short-term projects to meet emerging opportunities and needs such as: reconstruction and rehabilitation services to women and children victimized by war; ecumenical ventures and international conferences for women; pilot projects in self-help programs for refugee women; day care centers; family planning, health and nutrition education and clinics.

MONEY TALKS
S&Ls Are Needed Today-- More Than Ever
 By Philip J. Lawrence
 President
Colonial Federal Savings
 And Loan Association
 of Quincy, Holbrook and Wareham
 8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

Once upon a time in this country, practically every village and town had its own bank -- but no place where the average fellow could put his money. It was assumed that either he had to save it all or, if he managed to save a little, there was always a teacup or mattress in which he could hide it.

This was the situation that prompted a group of Philadelphians early in the nineteenth century to bring over from Scotland a Scottish minister's concept of savings institutions that would accept the savings of the little people. Banks were not interested in them, being concerned only with the deposits of business interests or the estates of wealthy people.

To the annoyance of the banking community, these new savings institutions not only accepted the pennies and dollars of poor people but paid them interest on their savings and encouraged them to save more. The principal thing that bothered the banking community, however, was that these new institutions were "mutuals", owned not by stockholders but by the people themselves who deposited in them. The cry of creeping socialism was raised against the new institutions.

The concept proved so popular, however, that a multi-billion-dollar industry came into being. By the end of 1973, there were 4,163 institutions whose savings were insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the United States Government. Their total assets at that time were in excess of $264 billion. Approximately half were Federally chartered and half State chartered.

By Federal regulations, savings and loans have been limited in their business operation principally to investing savers' dollars in homes and home improvements through loans to home owners. In this capacity, they have become the principal source of financing in this country for the huge housing and related industries.

Why have savings and loans throughout the past century and a half had to contend with the opposition of the banking community? A best seller of ten years ago, The Banker, provided this explanation in the words of a chief executive of the largest [fictional] New York bank:

"Those Scot ministers planted a seed that grew into a tree. Nobody needs the tree, but it keeps on growing... It has deep roots. They've spread out and they keep spreading. And they're stealing the nourishment from the ground on which we're planted."

Most people are unaware that it was the lack of interest on the part of banks in the ordinary citizen that brought the savings and loan associations and the savings bank into existence in this country. As the bank executive in the novel claimed, "The commercial banks stopped turning up their noses at him [the average wage earner]. They welcomed his savings... The savings banks have outlived their usefulness. Nobody needs them any more."

That savings and loans are needed today, probably more than ever before, is attested by the shortage of money in this country for home investment. Banks can get higher returns elsewhere. As the president of the National League of Insured Savings Associations, Gilbert G. Roessner, observed recently, "Families cannot afford to compete for home mortgage loans against giant corporations that also seek funds. The home buyer needs protection from that kind of a market place... The home buyer has no one to whom he can charge off those high rates. The corporation merely passes the higher costs along to the consumer."

To get savings funds into thrift institutions, Roessner maintains that the Federal Government should preserve a one-half per cent savings rate of S&Ls over banks for housing purposes and that the Government should stop bidding for funds against the home buyer through Treasury bills.

Mrs. Virginia Cohen Hemophilia Chairman

Mrs. Virginia Cohen of 150 Bromfield St., Wollaston, has been named 1975 Chairman for the Harvest of Hope campaign against hemophilia Quincy.

Announcement was made by Cong. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., Massachusetts drive chairman. The campaign will get underway Saturday, March 22, with a community-wide house to house canvass.

Mrs. Cohen has served as residential chairman for annual Cancer Crusades for the past three years. Last year she headed the annual hemophilia campaign and has served as an active leader for both cerebral palsy and muscular dystrophy programs. She is also a member of the Quincy Civic Association.

Hemophilia campaign treasurer is Joanne Botelho of the Hancock Bank, Quincy.

Directed by the New England Hemophilia Association, Chapter of the National Hemophilia Foundation, the multi-phased effort will support patient service, scholarship and campership programs for hemophilia victims. Donations will also fund the Association's Massachusetts research fellowship program at hemophilia treatment centers. Research seeks to provide a low-cost control for the costly bleeding disease. Suzanne's happy — and has legs

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

SUZANNE PLESHETTE
...always want things to be better

HOLLYWOOD — It seems as though the questions you hear asked most often about Suzanne Pleshette are:

Is it true that Suzanne is dissatisfied with "The Bob Newhart Show"?

Does Suzanne still have legs, and, if not, what became of them?

The first question is a product of the ever maliciously grinding Hollywood rumor mill, and the second stems from the fact that Suzi's stems have seldom if ever been visible on hers and Newhart's series in which she usually wears trousers or floor-length skirts.

So to get the facts of the matter, I went to Suzanne. She guffawed at both questions.

"The leg question I can understand," she said, "but let's take the first question first.

"If I were truly dissatisfied with the show, I wouldn't be there.

"However, I think anybody who knows me knows that I'm structured so I'm always going to want things to be better. But that's true of every actor on our show. That's true of the producer, of the writers, of everybody.

"We are all constantly working to make the show better and richer, and we each make a contribution toward that.

"When you're satisfied, that's the beginning of the end.

"As long as you're asking, 'Couldn't we try this? Or couldn't we do that? Or mightn't she say?' you're making a valuable contribution to the total picture.

"And I think the beauty of actors is that they are basically ensemble players who feel a responsibility to the whole piece.

"There are weeks," Suzanne confessed, "when I can't stand what Emily has to to wear classic clothes but with a little more flair than Emily's.

"On the show I try to do what most women do, mix and match, double my clothes. You'll see me wearing the same thing three or four times a season. In fact I'm still wearing clothes from the first season."

"Peyton Place" characters were forbidden use of the word "crazy" for fear of offending the series viewers (which says something sort of interesting about "Peyton Place" fans).

However, "The Bob Newhart Show," in which Bob plays a psychologist with a group of looney adherents, not only deals with emotional imbalance but treats some of the sufferers as comic figures. Bob doesn't treat them that way; the scripts do.

And what's been the reaction? Have mental health groups protested?

"Quite the contrary," Suzanne declared. "We've had an extraordinary effect, and I mean a very positive one, particularly upon children.

"Both Bob and I have had people come up to us and say, 'We had to take our child to a child psychologist or to the school psychologist, and the child was receptive, because he'd seen your show and was expecting to meet someone like Bob, a warm, available human being.'

"So if we've helped even one child in this way, there's reason for the show to be on the air.

"And basically the advice Bob gives in his role is good. The fact that some of the characters are larger than life is to be expected, because that's what happens in a situation comedy."

Martha Reardon In Hasty Pudding

Martha Reardon of Cambridge, a staff member of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, will perform in the 127th annual Hasty Pudding benefit show Monday, March 17. Proceeds from the event will benefit the Republican Camp Fund founded by the Republican Club to send needy boys and girls to camp.

This year the Hasty Pudding Theatricals will perform "Put Up Your Dukes", a musical farce staged in the Kingdom of Lower Echelon. The play will begin at 8 p.m., March 17 in the Hasty Pudding Club Theatre, 12 Holyoke St., Cambridge. For reservations call 227-2478.

John Geller Horn Soloist

Quincy Symphony Orchestra Mid-Winter Concert March 11

Horn soloist John Geller will be featured at the Quincy Symphony Orchestra's rescheduled mid-winter concert Tuesday, March 11 at 8:30 p.m. at North Quincy High School Auditorium. Tickets are available at the door. No reservations are necessary.

This concert was originally scheduled for Feb. 12, but was postponed due to inclement weather.

Geller, principal horn with the Brockton Symphony Orchestra, is a faculty member of the South Shore Conservatory. He is assistant director of the Strawberry Bank Chamber Music Festival, Portsmouth, N.H. and has appeared at the festival four seasons as guest artist.

Last season he appeared with the Quincy Symphony Orchestra in Mozart's Sinfonia Concertante.

Geller received his B.M. degree from the New England Conservatory as a student of Paul Kearney. He was a member of the Conservatory Symphony and wind ensemble. In 1966 he toured Spain and the Soviet Union with the Conservatory Chorus under the auspices of the State Department as both singer and instrumentalist.

The program is Suite for Orchestra from "Colas Breugnon," op. 24 by Dmitri Kabalansky; Concert for Horn and Orchestra No. 3 by W. Mozart, John Geller, Horn; also Symphony No. 9, op. 95, The New World by Antonin Dvorak.

TV MAILBAG

Ludden wasn't married to Jane

By RICK ROBERTS
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — The TV Mailbag:

Q. Was Allen Ludden ever married to Jane Wyatt? Or has he been married only to Betty White? Would appreciate an answer as we have a debate going. — D.D.S., Milford, Conn.

A. Ludden, the popular host of "Password," was married once before, but not to Jane Wyatt.

His first wife died after several years of marriage. In 1962, while appearing in summer stock theater, he met Miss White. They were married the following year.

Ludden has three children from his first marriage.

Q. Recently, a reader asked about the "Planet of the Apes," movies. You said there were four movies made. There were really five filmed in the following order: "Planet of the Apes," "Beneath the Planet of the Apes," "Escape from Planet of the Apes," "Battle for the Planet of the Apes," and "Conquest of the Planet of the Apes." — S.C., Fredericton, N.B., Canada.

A. Right you are. Thanks for the correction.

Q. My friends and I are interested in finding out more about the stars of the afternoon soap operas "Another World" and "Somerset" and where these shows are filmed. Could you please tell us where we could write for this information? — M.D., Truro, N.S., Canada.

A. Your best bet would be to write to the public relations department of the NBC Network, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, Calif. 91523.

CONGRATULATING -- S. Gunnar Myrbeck congratulates Steve Viegas and Robert Brandt after promotions announcement.

SGM Promotions

Brandt Elected President, Viegas Vice Chairman

Steve Viegas was elected to Vice Chairman of the Board and Robert Brandt, was elected to President of SGM & Company, advertising firm in Quincy and Palm Beach at the firm's annual meeting.

In making the announcement, S. Gunnar Myrbeck, Chairman of the Board, pointed out that both promotions were well deserved since the two men in their combined efforts has led the agency to growth and profitability in the face of very difficult continuing business conditions.

Viegas, a Quincy resident, has been an officer and director of SGM & Company for over 25 years and handles the agency's major accounts. Brandt, also a Quincy resident, has been with the company over 20 years. He is a member of its board, and serves as general manager of the organization.

Howard Johnson Awarded Connecticut Contract

Howard Johnson Company has been awarded a 10-year contract to operate eight restaurant facilities along the Connecticut Turnpike, announces Howard B. Johnson, chairman and president.

Johnson said this contract represents a further expansion of the Quincy based company's railway restaurant program and raises the total of Howard Johnson's tollway food service units to 85.

Connecticut Transportation Commissioner Joseph B. Burns said Howard Johnson's is committed to spend approximately $2.3 million to enhance the physical interior and exterior of the existing state-owned Turnpike facilities. He said the buildings will be remodeled to provide more convenient and efficient food services for motorists traveling the road.

He added that Howard Johnson's will spend about 80 per cent of the total expenditure for improvements in the first year of operation. Under terms of the contract, Connecticut will receive 16 per cent of gross revenues.

Howard Johnson's is the world's largest full-service restaurant chain, with more than 900 restaurants and 500 motor lodges in 42 states, Puerto Rico, Canada and the Bahamas. The company also operates and licenses the Ground Round chain of restaurants and Red Coach Grilles around the country.

FALL

Fall is such a pretty season. Every day more leaves fall to the ground. It's fun to watch the children play around in piles of red and gold. But... as fall comes to an end and the trees go bare and the red and gold isn't here any more. I always feel sad. Because fall is such a pretty season.

ONE BLIZZARD DAY

Once upon a time there was a very blizzard day. The snow was around 10 feet high. A boy named John and two other kids Bob and Joe had a snowball fight. But John said to himself, "I think I'm too young to play that rough game." So he went on and said, "I think I'll build a snowman." And so he did. After he made it, he was proud of himself and he named it Frosty.

SNOW

Snow is nice. It can last for a week. It reminds me about our first blizzard we had. It was up to my knee! When I woke up I saw the snow. I ate breakfast and put on my leggings and boots and my coat. I went out to play in the snow. Then I made an angel. Then I jumped in the snow. I got so wet that I had to go in. Then I put on warm pants and I had lunch. I had soup and hot cocoa. It warmed me up. Then I went into my room to read some books.

SNOW

Snow is nice.
Snow looks like rice.
Snow comes every winter.
And is fun to play in.
It doesn't hurt.
Snow is like feathers in your bed.
I love snow.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE - Mrs. Irene Larrington [left] of 10 Knollwood Rd, Squantum, and Mrs. Phyllis Harlow of Marshfield are members of the advisory committee which planned the spring lecture series of Harvard Divinity School's theological opportunities program. The program begins March 11 with a series entitled 'Women and Religion'.

Atlantic Neighborhood Association Formed

Some 30 Atlantic residents formed an Atlantic Neighborhood Association Sunday, agreeing such an organization was "long overdue".

"Involvement Makes A Difference" was the theme of the first meeting. Guest speaker Robert Murphy, active in the Squantum Community Association, told the gathering how the Squantum group developed and offered suggestions to the Atlantic residents.

Joann Moore of Botoolph St. chaired the meeting.

As one of its first orders of business, the group opposed the taking of nine Atlantic area homes for an addition to North Quincy High School. The group also urged all interested citizens to attend the Monday, March 10 public hearing on the building of an addition.

The new organization plans to focus upon many areas of interest including environmental planning and research, public safety, social and youth activities, as well as home and neighborhood improvements.

The Association will hold its next meeting Wednesday, March 12 at 7 p.m. in the Atlantic Methodist Church, East Squantum St. All Atlantic residents are urged to attend.

Sacred Heart HNS Plans Tours To National Shrine

The Sacred Heart Holy Name Society is planning Holy Year tours to the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D.C.

The first tour will begin

Friday, March 14. Any parishioner is eligible to make the pilgrimage tours. More information may be obtained from Thomas Dowling, president of the Society.

The Society is also instituting a Fellowship Program in which men of the parish visit inmates at the Deer Island House of Correction. No special training or skills are needed. Interested men should contact Dowling or Rev. John T. Caltar.

Squantum Students Visit Engineering Dept.

The Squantum School sixth grade geography class of Marshall Levy, recently visited the Quincy City Engineering Department.

Edward Leone, head of the department, gave the students a tour and staff members showed the students how maps are made, the tools used to make them, and how to read the various types of maps. Project

LINC sponsored the trip.

Students received enlarged maps of their individual streets.

Those who made the field trip were, Bobby McCormick, Paul Hickey, Mary O'Neil, Nancy Burnhauser, Ted Duggan, Robin Attridge, Kerry Doherty and Karen Sorenson.

Southern MDAA Chapter Annual Meeting March 12

The Southern Mass. Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association will hold its annual meeting Wednesday, March 12 in the Tara East Room at the Sheraton-Tara Hotel, Braintree.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. to elect an executive committee, to present reports and to transact other business which may properly come before the meeting.

Guest speaker for the evening will be James Knight, professional hypnotist and vice-president of the American Society of Research and Clinical Hypnosis.

"Always Friends", filmed last summer at Camp Florian, MDA's young adult camp in Haverhill, will also be shown during the meeting.

Reservations to attend the meeting can be made by calling 843-2797. Refreshments will be served.

O'Brien Club Eyes Cranberry Title Sunday

The O'Brien Club of Quincy will try to clinch the Cranberry Basketball League playoffs Sunday at 7 p.m. when it plays the winner of Saturday's Quincy Gamblers-Boston Stars game.

That game will be played at 7 p.m. at Brockton's North Junior High.

The O'Brien's took the double elimination playoff lead with two impressive wins last weekend.

Saturday night they walloped the Brockton Huskies, 114-90, while the Gamblers topped the Stars, 97-80, at Brockton.

Gary Bowen scored 25 points for O'Brien, Mark Jellison 23, Fred Cabral and Alan Dalton 20 each, John Douglas seven while playing an outstanding defensive game, and Ron Bradley, playing only a few minutes because of a knee injury, six. Bob McNamara was sidelined with a broken foot, which will keep him out of the entire playoffs.

Sunday the O'Brien Club, playing with only six men, topped the Gamblers for the third time this year, 111-90, at North Quincy, while the Stars eliminated the Huskies from the playoffs, 121-82.

Bowen had 27 points, Bradley 26, Dalton 24, Eddie Miller 18, Douglas nine and Cabral, who was superb off both boards, five.

More than 500 fans watched the Sunday games at North Quincy.

Disappointment For Quincy, Unhappiness For Raiders

The Quincy hockey team enjoyed another excellent season [13-5] but missed out by one tie or win of making the state tournament.

Missing the tournament for one of the few times in Coach Bob Sylvia's reign was disappointing for the Presidents, who won their first five games of the season and seven of their first eight.

But the Presidents showing great pride, bounced back from its 10-5 walloping at Brockton which knocked them out of the tournament to hand North Quincy a 5-0 defeat last week in the season's finale.

"It was disappointing not to make the tournament, naturally, but we had a good hockey team and I feel the boys deserved to make the tournament," Sylvia said.

"Maybe we just started off too fast with a 7-1 record. Some of the losses were hard to take but each boy represented himself and his school to the best of his ability and it was no different in the North Quincy game. It didn't turn out to be the happiest of seasons, but it was a happy ending."

North Coach Ron Erikson, whose team had made a strong showing over the second half of the season [The Raiders were unbeaten in four straight games until losing the last two to Brockton and Quincy] was far from happy.

"It is hard to believe that a North Quincy team wouldn't get up for a Quincy game," he said. "I can't believe our players didn't have enough pride and yet they didn't. There was so much to hope for in this game and they just weren't interested."

"We lost to Quincy, 6-1, earlier but everyone gave it everything he had. They held their heads up after that game but after this one, I'm embarrassed for them. Dick Wilson, our goalie, was the only player who really tried and he was excellent."

"Quincy played extremely well but I think we helped them by just not playing at all. I'll tell you one thing, this won't happen again. We might lose but in the future it won't be for lack of trying."

Quincy, which had to win or tie its last five games to make the tournament, won four of them.

Against North Brian Nevins put the Presidents ahead, 1-0, midway in the first period with Ted Wiedemann assisting. Bob Barry scored twice in the second period, Frank Guest and Billy Hamill assisting on each. Rich Lucier scored in the third period with Wiedemann and Bill Brooks assisting and Guest, only a junior but being eyed by many college scouts, finished off a brilliant season with an unassisted goal.

Guest finished the season with 46 points on 30 goals and 16 assists. Wiedemann, one of several outstanding seniors, had 35 points on 17 goals and 18 assists and Rick Avery led the Suburban League in assists with 29 and scored 31 points.

North finished a disappointing season with a 4-11-3 record.

Quincy Wrestlers In Sit-A-Thon Saturday

Quincy and North Quincy High Schools this year had their first varsity wrestling teams since 1942 and, according to Quincy Coach Carmen Mariano, the new program encountered a number of problems, "not the least of which involved finding a place in the city with Quincy's already 'crowded' budget."

"Now that the wrestling season is over, the boys on the team are directing their efforts toward raising money to pay for some essentials of their sport they were forced to do without this past year," Mariano said. "The boys are not looking for handouts. They are willing to work for what they need by doing situps and all they ask is for residents of Quincy to sign up as situp sponsors."

"A sit-a-thon will take place Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Quincy Vo-Tech upper gym. All sponsors are more than welcome to stop in and check the results."

The Quincy coach explained that the boys have spent the past two weeks rounding up sponsors and the response has been outstanding. Each of the 18 boys participating has collected a minimum of $5 in pledges for each 100 situps and all are capable of a minimum of 500 as they do that in a normal wrestling practice.

Quincy Iceman Meet Alumni

The Quincy High hockey team, which recently enjoyed a fine season [13-5] but lost out in its bid to make the state tournament, will play the Alumni Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena. Tickets will be available at the door.

Davis Club, 32-44 [23,434]; Hutchinson Fuel Oil, 29-47 [23,292]; Atlantic Fuel Oil, 27-49 [22,994]; Quincy Elks, 17-59 [23,036].

Mike Manning, an alternate, rolled the week's high single of 129, the first time in the league's 21-year history that an alternate has dominated this event.

Brian O'Toole of Brett Club had the week's high three of 307. Brett had high team three of 1380 and Bowldrome high single of 488.

Mike Regan tops the league with an average of 102.56, followed by Jim McAllister, 100.31; Brian O'Toole, 97.47; Joe Godas, 93.22; Paul O'Toole, 93.11; John Andrews, 93.3; John Gullins, 92.38; Ken Brodie, 91.8; Jim Little, 90.34 and Paul Anastas, 89.41.

Belly Dancing Fun Way To Exercise

A lot of men, though, want to be spectators!... They gape through the windows in the gym, watching us."

The key to belly dancing, said Mrs. Flanigan, involves isolating and moving one part of the body while holding other parts still. Students then learn specific dance steps which they later combine with body isolation and movement.

The last learning phase is the most difficult, according to Mrs. Flanigan. Students learn to use zils - finger cymbals - to complement and to professionalize their dance routines.

"It's mind-bending to learn to co-ordinate the zils and body movement," said Mrs. Flanigan. "It must become second nature."

Several of Mrs. Flanigan's students are studying belly dancing seriously, seeking to become professional performers. Yet all students, regardless of professional aspirations, are exercising seriously to slim, trim and tighten their bodies.

Both belly dancing courses meet on Monday in the YMCA second-floor auditorium. Some 30 beginning students meet at 6:30 p.m. and seven advanced dancers meet at 7:30 p.m.

The present session is entering its last week. But another eight-week session will begin Monday, March 17. All interested women are invited to join this next belly dancing session.

Bleak Future For Shipyard Without New Bridge

the bridge cost estimated at $32.5 million.

However, losses in state tax revenues would not exceed the cost of the bridge if the shipyard did not close but instead suffered a drop in output. Yet the study shows that the combined state and local tax revenue losses would in fact exceed the bridge cost.

Although the report acknowledged the inability to predict a shipyard shut-down at the present time, it did state:

"Construction of a new bridge could be expected to reduce this probability and help to insure against heavy losses of jobs, income and tax revenues.

The shipyard now directly employs a total of 4,895 workers. Indirect employment created by the purchase of material and services adds another 4,712 people to the employment rosters, bringing the total number of people employed in the state to 9,607 in 1975.

The study projects total employment [direct and indirect] in 1980 as 17,348, assuming a new bridge is built. Without the new bridge, an estimated 16,050 workers [direct and indirect] will be employed - a differential of 1,298 workers.

This differential jumps to 5,936 in 1985. Assuming the shipyard is forced to close in that year, the state will lose a total of 11,885 jobs by 1995, 6,330 direct shipyard employment and 5,555 indirect employment.

The study indicated that the Quincy Shipyard's principal impact upon the economy of the Boston metropolitan area occurs through wage and salary payments.

Through a systematic input-output analysis, researchers were able to obtain an accurate measurement of how shipyard expenditures trigger further expenditures within the regional economy. The shipyard's purchases [inputs] create a demand for the services of labor as well as the products and services of other industries [outputs].

This input-output model was applied to the Liquefied Natural Gas [LNG] ship program now underway at the Quincy yard. Findings showed that for every dollar spent by the shipyard on wages, materials and overhead within the Boston metropolitan area [including 78 cities and towns], some 77 cents of additional wage income is generated.

In addition, approximately 11.7 cents worth of local taxes and approximately 8.1 cents worth of state tax revenues are generated per dollar's worth of shipyard expenditures.

Of the 26 cities and towns most affected by shipyard wage payments, Quincy would be the city most impacted by wage and tax losses after a shipyard shut-down after 1985.

One of the many tables included in the 74-page study shows Quincy's average annual shipyard-dependent local taxes from 1975-1999 as $2,979,500 - all of which would be lost if the yard closed. That tax figure represents 5.64 per cent of the city's local taxes - the highest per centage of all 26 cities and towns in the South Shore area.

The study shows that the building basin capacity at the shipyard can be expanded to accommodate ships of up to 1100 feet in length, a size equivalent to a 300,000 Dead-Weight Ton [DWT] tanker.

Estimated cost of these modifications is $20-25 million for larger ships and $10-12 million for smaller ships. These expenditures are all above and beyond the approximate $40 million being currently invested in building basins, steel fabrication facilities, a Goliath crane and other improvements in the shipyard's modernization program.

TIGHT SQUEEZE - The Fore River Bridge Replacement Action Team [BRAT] favors the building of a new Fore River Bridge in order to maintain the Quincy shipyard's competitive market position in future years. The present bridge has a horizontal opening span of 175 feet, sufficient to permit safe passage of ships with a beam of less than 150 feet.

A shipbuilding market forecast - including the number and types of vessel expected to be in future demand - was singled out in the study as "the most important single factor in determining whether the bridge should be replaced."

Two consultants, Harbridge House and Booz, Allen, were retained to analyze the overall market for U.S. shipbuilding and Quincy's competitive position in that market. A comparison of the two workload estimates for Quincy up to 1985 is as follows:

- Agreement that the shipyard can operate "at a high level of activity" with the existing bridge in place.

- A market for additional LNG ships with Harbridge House making a more conservative estimate.

- A significant number of general cargo ships - forecast by Harbridge House while Booz, Allen predicts no such market.

- Some market for barge carriers [Booz, Allen] while Harbridge House foresees no market.

- Some conventional tankers predicted by both.

Estimates of the shipyard's revenue potential in the pre-1985 period are substantially the same with and without a new bridge. Without a new bridge, the estimated revenue totals from contracts $1.49 billion and versus $1.66 billion with a new bridge.

But in the post-1985 period, revenue potential increases from $1.88 billion with the existing bridge to $3.02 billion with a new bridge.

The consultants do not offer a conclusive settlement to the bridge problem, seeing their role as fact-finder rather than arbitrator.

BRAT feels the findings of the study support its position to build a new Fore River Bridge.

Harold Davis, economic development manager of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce urged the state to approve the building of a new bridge. He said:

"It would be a sound investment for the state to invest in a new Fore River Bridge because the state will receive back more than the cost of building the bridge in state and local taxes and increased job opportunities, both direct and indirect."

BRAT has now recommended the initiation of environmental impact studies as well as preliminary design work on the bridge. The committee also hopes to schedule soon a meeting with Governor Michael Dukakis' aides in order to discuss the implementation of the study.

Navy Band In Thrilling Concerts

'The USS Quincy Comes Home'

By HENRY BOSWORTH and MARY ANN DUGGAN

The USS Quincy has come home.

In effect, the second of two gallant vessels to bear the name of the City of Presidents during World War II came home Monday night when her 950-pound bell was presented to the city.

The ship herself, however, is being scrapped on the West Coast. She will never sail again. But the pride of a city that built her and some of the men who sailed her swelled like a tidal wave Monday night during stirring ceremonies and an electrifying concert by the U.S. Navy Band at the Quincy Vo-Tech gym. There were many misty eyes in the audience.

In accepting the bell, Mayor Walter Hannon said it would have "a fitting place in Quincy". It will probably be located at a mall near City Hall.

Also turned over to the city was the ship's wheel and the builder's [Bethlehem Steel] plate.

USS Quincy's softball team in Lima, Peru in the 1930's was also presented. The first Quincy went down with guns blazing in the Pacific during the early months of World War II.

The second Quincy served as President Franklin Roosevelt's flagship at one point. On her decks trod General Dwight Eisenhower, Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden, and other notables of that era.

John Graham, executive director of Quincy Heritage who arranged the concert and ceremonies summed it up best: "The USS Quincy has come home."

Participating in the ceremonies were Commander James Schneider of the Naval Air Training Center in Quincy who made the presentation; Capt. Henry Cassani, commanding officer of the South Weymouth Naval Air Station and a former Quincy resident; School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Crendon, and 30

Council Amendments Seen 'Safeguard'

N. Y. Bank Takes 'Positive' Attitude On Kanavos Project

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

A New York banking firm appears ready to proceed with the financing of the multi-million dollar Kanavos condominium project in West Quincy.

City Development Coordinator John Cheney termed the attitude of Bankers Trust Co. of New York as "positive" following a meeting late Tuesday with Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Harry Kanavos of Kanavos Enterprises, and Anthony J. LoPinto, assistant treasurer of the bank.

"The bank's representatives are talking in a positive way and they are interested in seeing development take place," City Development Coordinator John Cheney told The Quincy Sun.

The bank, Cheney said, has already loaned Kanavos Enterprises $5 million for preliminary site work.

The 1,986-unit 11-building project costing an estimated $60 million, was given the green-light by the City Council last week on a 7-2 vote.

The matter awaits Mayor Hannon's approval or rejection.

"I'll take the next day to think about it," Hannon told The Sun.

If Hannon vetoes the proposal, it would be sent back to the City Council. The council would then have seven days in which to over-ride or sustain the veto.

Hannon emphasized that a series of amendments tacked onto the proposal by the City Council served to "safeguard" the city's interests "keeping it well protected."

The meeting Tuesday followed an Associated Press disclosure that the Detroit Police-Fire Pension Board foreclosed a $3.7 million mortgage granted to Kanavos Enterprises in 1973 for two motels.

The Board took control of both motels - the Lewiston Inn in Lewiston, Me., and Motel 128, according to the story.

City Councillor James A. Sheets, one of two opponents of the project, said he was concerned that such foreclosure and default information was not made available to the City Council during last week's meeting when the Council gave the project initial approval, attaching a total of 10 amendments to the plan.

Although Sheets said the foreclosure "raises definite questions", about the West Quincy project, he added that Council amendments have safeguarded the interests of the city:

"I am glad we [the Council] built in safety mechanisms in terms of amendments which prohibit the selling of the special permit [granted by the City Council] with the selling of the land should Kanavos decide to sell. There can't be any quick profit. Any new buyer would have to come back to the City Council. The value of the land thus remains the same."

The other opponent of the project, Councillor John J. Lydon, said the foreclosure and defaults have raised doubts about the financial stability of Kanavos Enterprises. He said the

Strong Opposition Voiced

Kelly Asks Joint Council Committee Meetings On N.Q. Landtaking

Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly plans to call a joint meeting of the Public Works Committee and the Finance Committee within two weeks to consider the land-taking proposal for the proposed addition and renovations to North Quincy High School.

Both committees are full-membership including all city council members. This planned meeting will follow up Monday night's public hearing on the proposed $15 million project involving the taking of nine homes on Hunt and Oliver Sts.

More than 25 Quincy residents voiced strong opposition to the land-taking project which has received approval from the state School Building Assistance Bureau for educational specifications on a site requiring the land-taking.

The hearing followed the Council's appropriation of $100,000 which allowed Architect Barry Colletti to begin preliminary drawings and educational specifications for the proposed addition at the present North Quincy High School site.

Senator-City President Arthur H. Tobin told the gathering he would vote against the landtaking.

Councillor Joseph LaRaia also voiced his opposition to land-taking, reaffirming the council's initial aversion to home-taking when the $12 million bond issue was first passed.

Some speakers addressing the council noted the $15 million addition-renovation project equals the $15 million estimated cost of the proposed Squantum site even without any land-taking.

Petitions bearing some 400 signatures were submitted to the council in opposition to the Hunt and Oliver St. proposal. In addition, Councillor Dennis Harrington presented nine letters from homeowners on Oliver and Hunt Sts., all expressing opposition to the planned land-taking.

The Council's original plan to construct a 100,000 square-foot addition as well as to renovate the present school site has been modified in order to meet state requirements. The proposed addition is now 140,000 square-feet with 105,000 square-feet of net space.

Police Dept. Has New 479-RAPE Number

The Quincy Police Department now has a special phone number, 479-RAPE, which may be used at any hour of the day or night for reporting of Rape.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn said the new line will be answered by police officers trained in relating to persons victimized by crimes of rape and sexual abuse.

He said the new number would bring the city into compliance with the state's new rape law which orders cities and towns to provide special services for prosecuting rape cases and counseling of rape victims.

"We want to make it as easy as possible for persons to report rape," Chief Finn said: "In order for the police to pursue sex crime investigations, victims are going to have to overcome the traditional concepts of guarding information."

He noted that all conversations between police officers and victims of these types of offenses shall be maintained by the police department in a manner which will insure their confidentiality.

Lt. James Fay, under the direction of Cpt. Frederick Tighe, Chief of Detectives, will conduct a special in-service training seminar in the investigation, prosecution and prevention of rape for detectives, women police officers, and other selected police personnel. These officers will constitute a special rape prevention and prosecution unit within the police department.

In addition Lt. Fay will be working in cooperation with Mayor Hannon's office to utilize counsellors, medical personnel, women's groups, clergy, and others, as are necessary to provide a broad range of therapeutic services for victims of rape.

He will also ask New England Telephone, who cooperated in making the necessary changes to establish the new line, to include the Rape line under emergency numbers in the phone directory.

Alongi Vermillion Turn Authors

2 Quincy Men Co-Write Chapter In 'Therapeutic Recreation'

By CINDY NATURALE

"Day Camping For The Retarded" is the title of the chapter co-authored by two Quincy men, Charles Alongi Jr., Assistant Director of the Quincy Recreation Department, and Earl Vermillion, Director of the Happy Acres Day Camp, for Frank Robinson Jr.'s recently published book, Therapeutic Recreation.

The book is a compilation of articles written by former students of Robinson, who is a professor in Northeastern University's Department of Recreation Education, describing their workday experiences in the field.

Although used as a textbook, the approach of Therapeutic Recreation is that of a practical handbook which cites specific existing programs, the problems they face, and how they have been dealt with.

The chapter on day camping begins with an explanation of how Quincy Recreation programs for the mentally retarded progressed from a 1956 pilot project in a city playground, to the organization of Happy Acres Day Camp in 1963 as a result of a Joseph F. Kennedy Jr. Foundation grant.

The authors then go on to combine a description of the camp's physical and administrative structure, as well as its recreational programs, with advice on the organization and maintenance of a successful day camp for the retarded.

Charles Alongi began working at Happy Acres while still attending graduate school at Northeastern. In 1965 he joined the staff of Quincy's Recreation Department, and in July 1970 was promoted to assistant director. When Robinson approached him about writing the chapter, Alongi decided to first discuss the idea with Earl Vermillion, who then agreed to co-author the article.

Director of Happy Acres since 1971, Vermillion has worked with the camp for nine years. He is also a special needs teacher in the Quincy school system, in which he is involved in the prototype program of the recently passed Massachusetts State law, 766.

This law requires that there be public provision of educational opportunities for all children of special needs, including as much as 100 per cent integration into normal classroom environments, depending on the individual child's situation.

This attitude of striving for a normal environment for these children is reflected in Vermillion's work at Happy Acres, where he attempts to recreate as typical a day camp program as possible. For example, sports are an important part of the Happy Acres' agenda. Located in Pageant Field, the 10-acre camp has softball diamonds, an 1/3 mile track, and a salt water lagoon which they use for their small craft program.

The Quincy Recreation Department was the first organization in the East to conduct a Special Olympics Competition, and this has become a premier activity at the camp. Other activities described in "Day Camping..." are Arts and Crafts, Dramatics, and Folk Dancing.

The camp depends heavily on its large crew of full-time teenage volunteers, who are trained by the 16 member staff of persons in the special and recreation education fields, before the seven week summer session begins. There is also a 25 week winter program held Saturday mornings in North Quincy H.S..

Although volunteers help the campers on a one to one basis, emphasis is placed on group action. According to the chapter:

"The social values of ... Working and playing in groups is of prime importance in selecting activities. Even though individual activities necessary for physical and mental growth are often scheduled for younger children, the main impetus is toward group interaction."

Both men feel this type of focus helps the campers in dealing with their lives outside of Happy Acres.

The men point out that every retarded person in the city of Quincy is eligible for the camp. Ages amongst campers range from 4 to 78, the only requirement being that the person is toilet trained and capable of caring for his personal needs. Since 1973, many elderly persons have found the camp a delightful alternative to the routine existence of nursing homes.

Both Alongi and Vermillion are excited about the success of the Happy Acres project, and pleased at the opportunity to relate their experiences to others in their field, which Therapeutic Recreation has afforded them. Each feel that a text book such as this will be invaluable to people setting up their own programs.

Lt. James Fay Trained As Rape Investigator Specialist

Lt. James Fay of the Quincy Police Department has completed a course of instruction as a training coordinator for police officers assigned to specialized rape investigation units.

Mrs. Kitty Dukakis, wife of the Governor, presented diplomas to 25 police officers from across the State at recent graduation ceremonies.

The 5-day training program was presented at Brandeis University.

The program was developed by the Massachusetts Criminal Justice Training Council in response to State legislation requiring every Massachusetts police department to establish a specially trained rape investigation unit. The legislation placed particular emphasis on increasing police sensitivity in dealing with the victims of sexual assaults.

Lt. Fay received training in the psychological impact of rape, counselling techniques, evidence collection, and the special problem of the child victim. In addition to his investigative duties, Fay will assist Bernard Milton of the Training Council staff in training other police officers in this part of the State.

Lesley Maltman Named Survival Office Assistant

Survival Inc., the youth and drug program serving the South Shore, has appointed an office assistant.

Lesley Maltman, a graduate of Stoughton High School, will be responsible for general office work with Survival. She will also assist in interviewing prospective participants and referring people to other helping agencies.

A former resident of the Joseph H. Whiteman House,

Survival's residential house, Miss Maltman acted as house coordinator and assisted the staff in running the house. She is now a graduate of Survival and a Boston resident.

School Committee To Decide 4 Salary Hike Plans

For School Administrators

The Quincy School Committee was expected to select Wednesday night one of four plans for proposed administrative pay increases.

A plan proposed by School Committeeman Frank Anselmo is a non-plan, calling for no raises whatsoever.

The administrators are seeking a "nine and nine" pay hike: a nine per cent raise effective July 1975 and another nine per cent boost July 1976.

School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley has submitted an alternative to the management "nine and nine" increase, proposing instead, a flat $2,500 pay hike over two years for eight administrators and a $2,000 raise over two years for 18 others.

His $57,779 plan would save a total of $75,920 over the management's $133,699 proposed package.

In addition, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon was reportedly working on a "compromise plan" to submit to the School Committee for consideration. Creedon, however, declined to comment on the so-called compromise since the School Committee had discussed the entire salary matter in an executive session. "I could be reprimanded for talking about it," Creedon told the Quincy Sun.

McCauley said he planned to request discussion of the salary matter in open session Wednesday rather than in executive session.

The pay hikes under discussion involve a total of 26 management personnel. The three assistant superintendents in the city currently receive an annual salary of $29,563. The requested nine and nine raise would bring their salary to $35,125 in two years.

Under McCauley's plan, assistant superintendents and four of the five members of the Learning Management Team would receive a flat pay hike of $2,500 over a two-year period - $1,500 in July 1975 and $1,000 in July 1976. The administrative assistant for business would receive a $1,779 level increase in addition to the $2,500 boost, equalizing the salary to that of the director of staff development and the co-ordinator of elementary education.

The management plan also contains the same $1,779 level increase for the administrative assistant for business.

Within these two categories, McCauley's plan saves a total of $22,333.

The present salaries of the learning management team are as follows: director of pupil personnel, $28,112; director of staff development, $27,331; co-ordinator of elementary education, $27,331; co-ordinator of secondary education, $26,296; administrative assistant for business, $25,552.

Under McCauley's plan, the three members of the Learning Management Team Resource [LMTR] and the 15 members of the Instructional Planning Team [IPT] would receive a $2,000 pay hike - $1,200 in July 1975 and $800 in July 1976, saving a total of $53,587 over the management's nine and nine proposal.

Present salaries of the members of the LMTR are: director of plant facilities, $25,552; assistant director, personnel, $23,320; federal co-ordinator, $24,490.

The Instructional Planning Team consists of co-ordinators of various departments within the school system, such as language, arts and social studies, music, science, special education and athletics. Present IPT salaries range from a high of $22,539 to a low of $19,706. In addition to the nine and nine raise, members of the IPT are also requesting a 6.5 per cent increase effective January 1976 for an extension of their present 206-day work-year.

Calling his plan "fair to the administrators and to the taxpayers," McCauley said:

"I'm not objecting to the work or competence of the administrators. They work hard for the School Committee and for the School Department. But we must level off the salary increases and eliminate the percentage increases, replacing them with a flat amount."

Disagreeing with Anselmo's plan to freeze the administrative salaries, McCauley said:

"It's not fair. There have been other negotiated salaries with maintenance, teachers and the clerical force. I'm opposed to a complete freeze. We'd be picking on one group."

Yet Anselmo vows he will "flatly and absolutely" vote against any administrative pay raises.

Citing Quincy's skyrocketing rate of unemployment and the rising cost of fuel, Anselmo said taxpayers are finding it difficult to keep their homes. He said:

"I have compassion for the average taxpayer - not for the affluent...Administrators are fairly well-paid. They are not going to suffer. As educators, they should be attuned to the times. They should set an example to the students, teaching them to be good citizens. They should have more than individual and selfish interests at heart."

Anselmo said the School Committee could "reconsider" the administrative raises next year. But he emphasized his present opposition to any raises saying:

"I am absolutely going to vote against any pay raises for the administration, regardless of other proposals submitted, regardless of any compromises...An additional nine per cent raise, when the state is cutting down on welfare, is not a good public image...I will vote flatly against any pay raises."

' Kindergarten Registration Set For March 25

Registration for kindergarten for the school year 1975-1976 will be held Tuesday, March 25, from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at every public elementary school in Quincy for all children who will be five years of age in the calendar year of 1975.

Parents must present a birth certificate at the time of registration and evidence of immunization for D.P.T., measles and polio to comply with state law, Chapter 590.

A child may be admitted to kindergarten if in the opinion of a doctor he is not in a condition to be immunized and issues a certificate indicating this fact.

Appointment will be made on registration day for vision, hearing, and entry screening assessments as required by state law, Chapter 766.

Children who will be five years of age on or before Dec. 31, 1975 will be eligible for kindergarten.

Children who will be six years of age on or before Dec. 31, 1975 and who have not attended public kindergarten may be registered for Grade one on the same day.

Money for any good reason. Vacation. Home repairs. School. Taxes. Money to take advantage of the rebates offered these days. We'll be glad to help you out with a Customer Option Loan.

A Customer Option Loan is the best way to borrow - for a number of different reasons. For one thing, the Customer Option Loan is based on simple interest, which can save you money when you borrow. You're charged interest only on your actual daily outstanding balance. You only pay for the actual amount of money you borrow - for the time you use it. Moreover, you can receive a Preferred Rate by arranging to have your payments automatically deducted from your Norfolk Checking Account.

A Norfolk County Trust Customer Option Loan lets you take a "Payment Holiday" and skip a payment from time to time. There is no charge for using the payment holiday other than the interest which continues to accrue on the outstanding principal balance. The monthly payments in your Option Loan can be made on whatever day of the month you choose - and you can switch it from month to month to suit your own convenience. So, if you need some money for any reason, just let us know. Stop in and visit any of Norfolk's 33 offices or simply fill out and mail the coupon.

STRICTLY PERSONAL Marriage doesn't interest boyfriend

By PAT and MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I hope you can solve my problem. I've been dating Jim for two years. He eats most of his meals at my apartment, and I've even washed and ironed his shirts. When he moved 500 miles away, I quit my job and followed in order to be near him. But if I mention marriage, he always has some excuse to wait. What is the answer?

Sally

Dear Sally:

The answer is that Jim isn't buying what you're selling. Maybe you made it too easy.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I disagree with the stand you always take on marijuana. I say we should legalize pot. I've smoked it and it hasn't hurt me. I'll bet you have never tried it.

Smoker

Dear Smoker:

You win the bet — but I don't have to jump off a building to know it would be unwise. New findings about marijuana prove that it is not a mild herb and that it is impossible to predict the effects on users.

There is not one sound argument for marijuana. Once legalized many young people who have not experimented with this drug will be tempted. What is the advantage of a drug that has been proven to curdle your chromosomes?

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I found a bottle of pills in my mother's medicine cabinet. These pills were not labeled and they looked like the stuff the kids take at school. I took one to the pharmacy and the pharmacist told me they were seconal. Since this drug is used for medicinal purposes, I didn't give it too much thought until last night when I noticed that the bottle was half empty. This means that Mom must be taking at least eight pills a day.

I don't know what to do. Should I tell my dad? Should I let my mother know what I have discovered?

Daughter

Dear Daughter:

Ask Mom and Dad about the pills. There may be a logical explanation.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

This situation is more than I can take. My parents are getting a divorce. I think it is all my fault. Last month my father was driving by my school and our class was outside for a fire drill. He had a lady with him and I told my mother. She didn't say a word.

I am in the eighth grade and I know some parents run around. But I simply could not believe that my father was doing this. Well, my parents had a fight and I heard my dad admit that he was seeing another woman. If I had not opened my big mouth, maybe the whole thing would have blown over. Now my parents hate each other. How can I get them back together?

Guilty

Dear Guilty:

Do not blame yourself. This sort of thing always comes out sooner or later. This is a problem that must be solved by the two people involved — your parents.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

His thank you is short, sweet

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

I don't know what's worse, receiving a thank-you note from a child or trying to get him to write one.

Frankly, I'd hate to get the one my kid sent last week after his birthday gift deluge.

I mean, when his Aunt Charlotte opens that envelope she's going to be looking for a letter and what she's going to get is something that rivals Hemingway for short, clear sentences. After that, the resemblance to Hemingway is negligible.

"Dear Aunt Charlotte," he began. "Thanks."

He brought this to me for final approval and I asked, "Aren't you going to say what you're thanking her for?"

"Naw," he answered, "she knows."

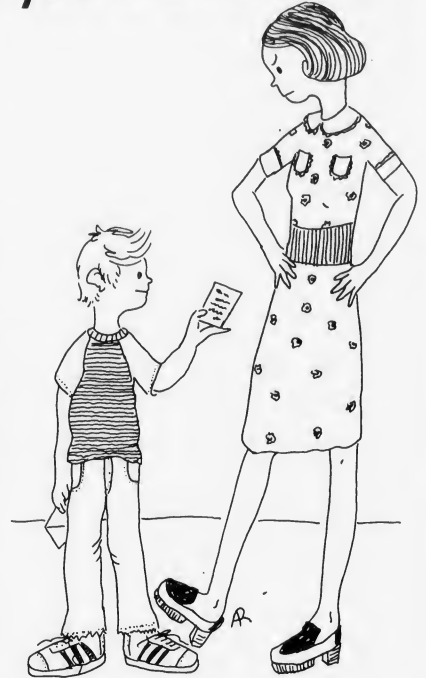

This remark brought forth a short speech from me on the importance of being earnest and an order to return to his desk and write something meaty and imaginative about the socks Aunt Charlotte had so generously sent.

He disappeared into his room and turned his radio up another twist for inspiration. I set the stop watch. He was out in just under 47 seconds with another note. I've written better ones to my milkman.

"I'll tell you something, kid," I said, turning now to threats, "you'll never get another birthday present from anybody if you don't write a decent acknowledgement." He didn't look the least bit frightened.

Pushing on, I added: "Do you want to grow up to be a lout?"

He thought a minute. "Will

A lecture on being earnest.

it keep me out of the draft?" he asked.

Sometimes it's better not to tamper with nature, so I let him send the note. He wrote three others, equally bad, and then settled himself down in front of television with three bananas and a quart of milk.

"Sure makes a guy feel good to have done the right thing," he said, turning a banana-filled grin in my direction.

I wonder if being a lout will keep him out of the draft.

How Do You Plan Longer Garment?

By BETTY W. KINSER
Copley News Service

Dear Betty:

When you make a garment longer than the pattern calls for, how do you estimate how much extra material to buy? The pattern I have in mind is a man's robe. My husband prefers his robes longer than today's styles.

Mrs. Dolores Neely, Gridley, Kan.

First of all, Dolores, take a look at the cutting layout on your instruction sheet. Sometimes the layout will allow for more length in your main pieces.

If not, buy at least as much more as you are going to lengthen the pieces. For example: if you wish to make the robe six inches longer, buy an extra 12 inches to allow six inches more on the back and front pattern sections (otherwise, he is going to look funny from the rear). In fact, if you feel uneasy about it, buy even more. It's always better to have too much than too little, right?

Dear Betty:

I am hoping to use down from an old comforter to make a puff quilt. Is there any way to make the down more manageable?

Sylvia Bartlett
No promises, but you might try this. Spray the down with an aerosol fabric softener that you buy for your dryer. This should remove some of the static electricity and make it easier to handle. For those of you working with shredded foam, take note. It works on that, also.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Work meticulously now because others are observing. A promotion or raise could result. Wishes could begin to come true. Changes are in store also. Budget money carefully — be realistic.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Don't let depression or discontentment cause you to shirk responsibility. Be good for your word at all costs. Face problems squarely and work them out intellectually. Be cautious with machinery.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Curb your feelings of resentment against authority figures. Adopt a feeling of cooperation and plug away, even though it may not be exciting. Think twice before speaking. Delay important decisions.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Take care of your responsibilities promptly in order to stay on top of your work load. Emotional stress in relationships may be part of the picture. Someone exciting from the past could reappear.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Your emotional life is accented. Glamorous dates for the single Leos, new acquaintances for all. Give attention to your appearance. Career matters could get worked up because you aren't concentrating.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Your creative imagination is sharpened now and you have a sense of well-being. Excitement about a wish or hope which could come true should be tempered with realistic appraisal of your values and standards.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Finish projects in process. Rely on intuition and inspiration. A business trip could prove favorable. Curb tendency toward extravagance. An unexpected expense could arise. Let others take the lead.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — The cycle is changing. New opportunities open up. Trust your intuition. Romance brightens. There is the possibility of an unexpected financial windfall. Beautifying, redecorating projects are favored.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — You are entering a cycle of new beginnings. New acquaintances, new romances could excite you. Devote adequate time to researching professional projects. Creative imagination pays off now.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Curb the impulse to act without caution. Apply yourself seriously to work and put out your best efforts. Unnecessary spending on luxuries is not wise. Someone could influence you toward a destiny change.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — While you feel quite comfortable and at peace there is also the urge for a new venture. Curb feelings of impatience about a hope or wish. Get professional help if needed to deal with a young person.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Don't criticize yourself or others for delays encountered in work projects. Correspondence with friends at a distance stimulates creative ideas. Keep any changes you contemplate to yourself for now.

QUESTIONS WOMEN ASK

Aging brings lines, wrinkles

By ELEANOR B. RODGERSON, M.D.
Copley News Service

Q. What goes wrong with an otherwise healthy woman who now finds herself getting ugly lines around her mouth? What can be done to avoid such aging?

A. Lines and wrinkles in the skin come with aging. There is loss of fatty and elastic tissue. Some women notice these changes earlier than others, some women retain more pliable skin than others. Perhaps facial expression, the way a woman has held her mouth throughout her life, has something to do with it.

When a woman approaches the menopause (the last of her menstrual periods) and her estrogen level drops, we know the soft stretchable mucus membrane of the vagina atrophies, thins and shrinks. Hormones are closely connected with the aging process and artificial application of estrogens, where indicated, softens the tissue again.

Facial beauty aids have also made use of estrogens, but the results are not as dramatic as in treatment of the vagina and there are possible undesirable side-effects and contraindications for their use in the first place.

There is a lot we do not know about aging. I think we have to accept its changes gracefully and make the best of it. There are compensations for having gotten through the hectic younger years. Each decade has its unique advantages and disadvantages. We cannot turn the pages back and we may as well dwell upon the positive aspects.

Wives need life insurance, too

Two-thirds of the public believe it "makes sense" to insure the life of the wife even if the husband is the breadwinner, according to the Institute of Life Insurance.

Women should be insured, they say, including working wives and housewives whose spouses couldn't afford housekeeper, cook and child care in case of the wife's death. — CNS

Hair Spray Danger

Hair spray can help make you more alluring - but it can get you in trouble too if you are not aware of some of its dangers. Many hair sprays [according to the National Safety Council] are highly flammable both during and after use - especially dangerous quality since today's long, loose hair styles can dangle near open flames.

Aerosol can explosions occur when warnings about incineration, puncture or high heat are ignored. Remember to store and dispose of spray can properly at home, and be alert to explosive possibilities if it travels with you. Don't leave it in a car where the hot sun beats on it.

Hair spray users should minimize exposure to the spray can contents by keeping the cap tilted away from the face while spraying, shielding the eyes with a free hand, spraying in a larger room rather than a small bathroom, having plenty of ventilation while spraying, and leaving the sprayed area quickly. Be beautiful - but be safe.

Massachusetts Electric
Attn. Marketing Dept.
Box 540, Westboro, MA 01581
Offer void after March 31, 1975.

Since the energy crisis began we've been giving you tips on how to conserve electricity. Like using your dishwasher, washing machine and dryer only when you have a full load. And installing your air conditioner on the shady side of the house.

But we think some of you ladies—or maybe the man of the house, may have discovered ways to save electricity we haven't thought of.

And we'd like you to tell us about them so we can share your ideas with others.

We'll be publishing a helpful booklet of the tips suggested by you, our customers. Filled with ideas that save electricity and will benefit everybody. A copy will be sent to anyone who requests one or sends an idea. Meanwhile to thank you for your suggestions, we'll send you a couple of energy-saver 50-Watt bulbs that give almost as much light as 60-Watt bulbs, but use 17% less electricity. Using electricity wisely is one of our first concerns. And these days anything that helps cut the cost of electricity is a bright idea.

Share your bright ideas on saving electricity.

Quincy's Yesterdays

● 50 YEARS AGO MARCH 13-19, 1925

Coolidge Invited To Quincy's 300th Birthday

By PAUL HAROLD

Col. Warren Sweetser, chairman of Quincy Tercentenary Committee called upon Mayor Perley Barbour to personally visit President Coolidge to persuade the President to accept the committee's invitation to visit Quincy during the 300th anniversary celebration.

The committee also received word from Congressman Frothingham that an order for $5,000 had been approved for construction of a monument to John and John Quincy Adams.

NEW POLICE STATION SITE OPPOSED

The Coddington School Parent-Teachers Organization and the Quincy Women's Club passed resolutions this week opposing location of the new Quincy police station on Coddington St. at the corner of Newcomb St.

Despite Chief Alfred Goodhue's arguments in favor of the central location, both organizations voted against the site, noting the proximity to the Coddington School, the High School and the "proposed" Faxon Playground.

The Coddington School group stated that the erection of a police station across from the schools would be a detriment to the peace of mind of children and would serve as a bad moral influence.

Mrs. James Hinds, president of the Women's Club, said in part, "... the mere presence of a building in such close proximity to the school would have its effect on pupils and serve to create a desire on their part to find out what is going on and that they would become more likely to read accounts of crime."

HIBERNIANS CELEBRATE ST. PATRICK'S DAY

The united divisions of the Hibernians and Ladies Auxiliary celebrated St. Patrick's Day with a concert and banquet in the Grill at the Quincy Elks' Club.

John Ryan, president of division 5 A.O.H. presided. Rev. Michael Owens, pastor of St. John's Church gave the prayer.

Mayor Perley Barbour was represented by his secretary William Murphy who gave the major address of the evening.

Murphy compared the Celt to the Pilgrim, both of whom came to America seeking religious freedom.

He went on to say, "Through the years the two have been kept apart, but I see the day coming when both will unite in bonds of common fraternity..."

NEAR RIOTS IN WOLLASTON

A Wollaston Improvement Association's publicity gimmick almost resulted in riots this week at the Wollaston station.

In an effort to win a dollar from "hidden" persons, crowds of boys and others besieged passengers at the Wollaston station every evening with the question, "Are you a member of the Wollaston Improvement Association?" Eventually the police had to dispel the crowds.

The association had given the dollars to "hidden" persons and upon being asked the right question, the dollar would be given away.

NO SEARCH WARRANT

Police responding to a routine call at Clay St. in Wollaston, found that the caller wanted them to capture a skunk that had gotten into the cellar.

The police refused to act, using as their excuse, that they had no right to remove any item from the home because they did not have a search warrant.

HEARING TO ACCEPT STREETS

The City Council ordered a public hearing for the acceptance of the following streets:

Swan, Babcock, Rhoda, Carlson, Parker, Narraganset, Harrison, Sixth, Commonwealth, Hughes, Nightingale, Lurton, Barry, Campbell, Wesson, Hayden.

Dunbarton, Cheriton, Everett, Ferndale, Willett, Willow, Cushing, Oxenbridge, Franklin Ave., Merrymount Ave., Marshall, Russell, Hovey and Park.

QUINCY-ISMS

Foy and Sons market advertised a special demonstration of the new "Battle Creek Sanitarium Foods" ... Rep. Sandberg filed a bill for construction of a seawall along Dorchester St. in Squantum ... "Seeing is Believing" was the sermon of Rev. Charles Noble of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church of Christ ... The will of the late Henry Hardwick was filed in Probate Court, allowing $185,796 ... the proceeds from Kiwanis Club concert were used to purchase new uniforms for the high school band ... "My Irish Rose" was presented at the Parker School by the Sacred Heart Parish to benefit the re-building of the church ... Quincy representatives cited the need for passing legislation which would build the proposed Southern Artery ... Quincy Rotarians saw a film on how paper towels are made ... Barry's Shorthand Institute of Quincy awarded gold medals to Lida LaVangie and Bernice Everett ... Dr. Berger advertised false teeth (uppers and lowers) for $15 ... Grossman Coal Company was selling firewood for $5 a truck load ... The Massachusetts Senate voted down repeal of the hat pin law, which outlawed women's hat pins ... A resolution debated at the meeting of Clan McGregor - "Whether the saxophone should replace the bagpipe as the national musical instrument of Scotland."

U.S. NAVY BAND conducted by Lt. Comdr. Ned Muffley thrilled crowd of 800 in concert at Quincy Vo-Tech gym Monday evening. Earlier, 1,300, including students and senior citizens heard the 51-member band in a matinee performance.

members of the Quincy crew including Quincy residents Police Sgt. Daniel Lyons and Vernon Whitman, North Quincy truck company owner.

The crew members who also attended the concert, heard their former skipper, Retired Admiral Thomas Senn send his greetings to them, Mayor Hannon and residents of Quincy from California. He is now in his 70's.

Also present were crew members of the USS Raleigh undergoing repair work at General Dynamics.

The 51-member Navy Band, conducted by Lt. Comdr. Ned Muffley, thrilled audiences Monday evening and Monday afternoon.

The band was accorded four standing ovations during the evening performance which it wound up with a rousing rendition of "Anchors Aweigh".

At both performances the band opened with a startling and deafening drum roll, jolting listeners to a rapt and electric attention which never strayed.

Some 300 senior citizens and 20 special education students occupied seats of honor at the matinee with the more than 1,000 high school and junior high school musicians packing the bleachers skirting the gym floor.

Immediately, the band launched into a fast-paced performance of the National Anthem, bringing the audience to its feet.

All in all, the Band played 12 numbers including a vocal encore demanded by an enthused audience.

The matinee's highlight performance came near the close of the Band's hour-long concert when vocalist Barry Craig bridged any existing gap between the older and younger listening audience.

While the younger audience delighted in Craig's three-song "Soul Medley", giving him a raucous, whistling and wild-standing ovation, the older audience seemed to delight even more in this frenzied and youthful response of the students, watching them cheer, clap and sway to the music and song.

The applause was thunderous for Craig and immediately the bleacher audience began to shout, "More, more, more!" Craig, seemingly reluctant to do an encore, at last stepped to the microphone once more. But he did not perform another soul song obviously wanted by the chanting kids. Growing serious, Craig dedicated his encore number "to the lovely people sitting out front." He chose "Didn't We Almost Make It", a haunting ballad about love once had but now lost, a song almost made for Craig's versatile voice - powerful yet sensitive.

That performance drew an immediate, more tame, yet obviously sincere standing ovation from everyone - students and senior citizens alike. Craig walked to meet the outstretched hand of Conductor Muffley and the two communicated their respect for each other in a silent and swift embrace.

A little more than mid-way through the concert, 10 high school musicians - five from Quincy High and five from North Quincy High - joined the U.S. Navy Band in the performance of Henry Fillmore's "Americans We". A cheering war was waged as each high school tried to outshine the other in whistles, shouts and applause for their respective band members who became momentary musicians in the U.S. Navy Band.

Band members from North Quincy High School were Karenann Frazer, flute; Roger MacLeod, trumpet; Thomas McKillop, string bass; Karen Jenatits, trombone; and Alan Henry, drums.

Members from Quincy High School Band were Elizabeth Sullivan, flute; Philip Girard, clarinet; David Prescott, trombone; Joseph Pearson, alto saxophone; and Richard Aramian, trumpet.

Throughout the concert, individual musicians as well as sections of the band were featured.

The two-hour evening concert drew a total of four standing ovations from the crowd of 800. The Band performed a program completely different from the matinee selections.

John Coulehan was featured on the clarinet in a performance of Mendelssohn's "Concerto in E Minor". Later, trumpeter Larry Skinner mesmerized the audience with the playing of "Fantasy for Trumpet".

Other features included selection from "Gypsy", the performance of Stravinsky's "Fire Bird Suite", "Tulsa", a professional from "Viva Mexico", and the always stirring but never quite played like this before the "Stars And Stripes Forever".

The latter March, a patriotic rouser and the "Anchors Aweigh" finale left many a moistened eye in the crowd.

Old fashioned patriotism had also come back to Quincy.

Delahunt To Announce Decision In 2 Or 3 Weeks

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Rep. William Delahunt will announce within two or three weeks whether he will run for mayor this fall.

Delahunt, who at one time looked like a positive candidate, reportedly is now "up in the air" about running. He will make his decision by the end of this month or the first week in April.

Delahunt has not appeared too strong in a number of voter preference polls taken in recent weeks. His biggest problem seems to be voter visibility. Not enough voters know him.

But, on the other hand, his negative rating among voters is good—perhaps the best of all the announced and potential candidates for mayor.

With a good campaign, he could possibly overcome the visibility problem.

But another factor in his decision is that he may be in line for advancement at the State House.

House Speaker David Bartley reportedly will be leaving in April to become president of Holyoke Community College. Rep. Thomas McGee of Lynn is expected to succeed him as Speaker.

McGee and Delahunt are close friends. Delahunt reportedly could win the vice-chairmanship or chairmanship of the Committee on Redistricting.

The committee will play a major role in Quincy's legislative future in the reduction of the House to 160 members. This will be done in 1976, effective for the 1978 elections.

Quincy could be faced with the prospect of losing two or three of its four House seats in the re-shuffle with Boston legislators trying to pull sections of Quincy into their districts.

At the moment, Delahunt is wrestling with his big decision. But if he should decide not to run for mayor, don't rule out the possibility of a bid for a City Council at-large seat.

And, as a councillor at-large, he would have the opportunity to build voter visibility for a run for mayor two or four years from now. He's young enough to wait.

MEANWHILE, City Council President Arthur Tobin reportedly is "still thinking" about tossing his hat into this year's mayoralty ring.

Some observers doubt he will run. But others—including some quite close to him—think he will step in shortly before filing deadline.

WHILE IN WASHINGTON last week seeking federal funds and to talk with Senator Edward Kennedy about locating the JFK Library in Quincy, Mayor Walter Hannon bumped into actor Robert Redford in the Mayflower Hotel.

"I'm a great fan of yours," said His Honor. "I want you to meet a friend of mine."

And with that he led Redford over to meet Miss Ann Minukus, Hannon's assistant, who was quite startled to suddenly have Redford appear in person.

Redford was in town making a movie of a book based on President Nixon and the men around him during Watergate.

Also with Hannon on the trip were Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson and Development Coordinator John Cheney.

Ann thought Redford was as handsome in person as on the screen. Her sister, Elaine, is still jealous about it all, though. Redford is her super-duper favorite.

ONE OF THE NICEST testimonials of them all happened Saturday night at the Adams Heights Men's Club to one of the nicest guys of them all: Vin Contrino, the South Quincy barber. Club members and other friends gave him quite a "roasting" but Contrino gave it right back to them. William McDonald as emcee and Pat Carey and Harold Merrill in several of the skits were priceless.

Among those on hand were Mayor Hannon, who presented a citation, City Clerk John Gillis and his brother State Police Sgt. Edward Gillis who are former neighbors and long-time friends.

SCHOOL COMMITTEEMAN Harold Davis and his wife, Bobby Kay, are expecting a little pupil of their own any day now. She's a former teacher at Sacred Heart School, North Quincy and the Weymouth school system.

WILLIAM O'CONNELL, former executive vice-president of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, hasn't lost his touch as a salesman. He's now vice-president and membership chairman of the Quincy Historical Society. In that role, he reports the society's membership is now up to 1,070. And in addition to that, he has already sold 80 tickets for Quincy's April 11 birthday dinner party and expects to go over the 100 mark.

PAUL HAROLD of Quincy recently appeared on Cha. 22, the NBC affiliate station in Springfield to discuss the bill he introduced to limit local campaign expenditures to 25 cents per person, living in the area in which a candidate is running.

Harold may get some favorable action on his plan although the House committee could present a different formula.

'Kissinger Diplomacy' UN Topic

Charlotte Saikowski, chief editorial writer for the Christian Science Monitor, will speak on "Kissinger Diplomacy" at a program co-sponsored by the United Nations Council of the South Shore and the Altrusa Clubs of Quincy and Plymouth County.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Parish Hall of the Church of the Presidents, Quincy Square. Admission is free. After the talk there will be a question period.

Miss Saikowski, formerly the chief correspondent for the Monitor, first in Tokyo, then Moscow and later in the Washington Bureau where she covered the State Department and Kissinger's journeys. She has received numerous awards for her work. Among the latest is one from the International Press Club for her overseas reporting.

Altrusa is nonpartisan and nonsectarian, and international. There are clubs in Australia, Bermuda, Canada and England. Each club is made up of one member from a different profession. At this meeting the International Chairpersons are Dr. Mebooba Anwar, a physician from Quincy, and Miss Barbara

G. Walsh, a social worker who lives in Braintree. Mrs. Carolyn Hennessey, of Scituate, a business woman, is President of the Plymouth County Club. Mrs. Mildred Ambrosia is President of the Quincy Club.

Before the meeting there will be a catered dinner at 7 p.m. in the Parish Hall. For information about the charge and reservations call before March 10, either Miss Eleanor Brown, 59 Andrews Road, or Miss Vera Call or Miss Edith Coulman, 1000 Southern Artery, all of Quincy. A few places are reserved for students at a reduced price.

Brett Opposes Quincy Sq. Underpass

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I wish to express my strong opposition to this latest plan unveiled by Mayor Hannon which would construct an underpass through Quincy Square at an estimated cost of one million dollars.

A two-lane underpass at that location would result in horrendous traffic back-ups with motorists being subjected to sitting in an ugly tunnel while waiting traffic light changes at Granite and Chestnut Sts.

The tunnel and proposed mall would also result in the elimination of a large number of parking spaces and we all know we don't even have enough spaces now for the potential Quincy Center shoppers. It would also create greater difficulty for persons to reach the shops and offices in the area between City Hall and Granite and Chestnut Sts.

A tunnel is a most unpleasant place in which to be and it would certainly be most destructive of the pleasant view one now has as we travel between the Church of the Presidents, our historic City Hall, and the revered Hancock Cemetery. Let us not deny visitors to our city the privilege of viewing these historic masterpieces as they drive through the area.

All things considered, the tunnel proposal would be a terrible waste of a million [or more] dollars of taxpayers' money. Let us throw this plan into the waste basket at once.

Rep. Joseph E. Brett, Quincy

P.S. Let us also discourage the use of the degrading term of "downtown Quincy". Let us say "uptown Quincy" or Quincy Center.

Would Like To See Dave Burke North Quincy Coach

Editor, Quincy Sun:

In a by line, Thursday February 27, 1975, by your sports writer Tom Sullivan, I note where he quotes that it's difficult for Ralph Frazier, former coach of North Quincy High to resign. This write up also states that Frazier's successor interviews are to start.

Last January 9th a local sports writer of another paper interviewed Coach Frazier on his retirement. At that time Frazier said, as for an eventual successor he left a note of optimism. His quote went as follows: "There can be no better place in the whole world to coach than at North Quincy High School. I say that sincerely. The kids are absolutely super. It's the unbelievable tradition, it's in the walls."

My vote would go to former football great and captain of Norths "45" football team, Dave Burke. Dave went on to Bowdoin College in Maine and after graduation settled down as an assistant football coach at Quincy High. I strongly feel he's what we need to keep the tradition going at North. Let's hope Coach Burke is applying for the position.

A 'Thank You From Survival

Editor, Quincy Sun:

On behalf of the Board of Directors of Survival, let me extend my sincere thanks to you for allowing us so much space for the recent article about our agency in your newspaper. For sure, the exposure such articles bring to our efforts can only help our work with young persons in the community.

The Quincy Sun has always been a great help to us in many ways, and it's heartening to know that such a valuable community resource exists for the city of Quincy. Again, our thanks.

National Poison Prevention Week

Editor, Quincy Sun:

March 16 - 22 is National Poison Prevention Week.

Massachusetts has always been in the forefront in supporting this week and bringing appropriate lay and professional attention to bear on this important area. Governor Dukakis will proclaim March 16-22 as a special week. Further, our pharmacists throughout this state will contribute to Poison Prevention Week with the giving of Ipecac Syrup free of charge to families with young children. Of note, 13,000 free bottles of Ipecac Syrup were distributed during Poison Prevention Week last year.

There are some bright aspects to the Poison Prevention Program. More and more people are aware of the dangers of many potential poisons around the home. More are availing themselves of the services of Poison Information Centers throughout the country.

In fact, in Massachusetts now well over 25,000 individuals call the Boston Poison Information Center for assistance. Yet poisoning continues to occur and further to affect mainly children under five years of age. Mortality though it has fallen nationally still does occur. The problem of poisoning has recently been complicated by the teenager and his exposure to drugs as well as the continued problem of adult poisoning one that is generally of purposeful intent.

Poison Prevention Week should serve as a stimulus for everyone with children [1] to have available their local Poison Prevention number [Boston Poison Information Center 232-2120] [2] to obtain Syrup of Ipecac to be kept at home in case of future emergency and [3] to conscientiously practice poison prevention in their homes throughout the year. Only in this way will we make full use of the purpose of Poison Prevention Week.

Frederick H. Lovejoy Jr., M.D.
Executive Secretary,
Boston Poison Information Center

Powers Urges Quincy Residents To Help 'Feed The Hungry'

City Councillor Warren Powers urges Quincy residents to rekindle the spirit of Thanksgiving in March by donating to the "Feed The Hungry" drive currently underway throughout the state.

Sponsored by WBZ Radio and the Salvation Army, the drive involves the collection of non-perishable foods which will be distributed to needy families and individuals.

Local fire departments in 351 cities and towns throughout the state have been designated as drop-off points for donations. Deputy Chief Thomas Maguire of the Quincy Fire Department said items can be brought to any one of Quincy's eight stations from where the Salvation Army will later collect all donated goods.

Powers, urging participation of individuals as well as organizations throughout Quincy, said:

"Thanksgiving isn't just one day a year. It's an attitude. People can have the same spirit in March and help to relieve others of their burden of hunger."

Donation ideas are limitless. Some suggestions include flour, sugar, powdered milk, pancake mix, rice, noodles, condiments, jams and jellies, all sorts of canned goods including vegetables, baked beans, soups, tuna fish, and juices, any type of bottled goods such as fruit juices or cooking oil, and articles such as coffee, tea and cocoa.

Powers asks all social, civic, fraternal, legion and religious organizations throughout Quincy to donate items to the drive. He said:

"If everyone in the city of Quincy participates in the drive, we can all share what we have with others. People can give up a bag of potato chips or an extra dessert to give a can of food to the needy."

Powers also said employers could encourage employees to bring donations to the office where they would be later collected by the fire department.

He has also enlisted the help of the Fenno House and its 200 residents. Any donations can be left with Mrs. Frank Bauer there.

The drive, originally planned as a 10-day campaign scheduled to end March 9, was extended one week due to the vast public response.

And, Robert Oakes, program manager at WBZ Radio, said the program has now been extended until further notice.

Families and individuals in need of food can receive an initial emergency supply at local Salvation Army extensions.

In Quincy, the Salvation Army Corps Neighborhood Center is located at 6 Baxter St., Quincy Point. Capt. Geoffrey Banfield said food there will be distributed as it lasts. He noted, too, that the Quincy Corps will also accept referrals from city agencies and deliver supplies directly.

Student Union Launches Drive For $900 In Scholarships

The Student Union of the Quincy Public Schools has launched a local and laudable fund-raising drive to benefit Quincy students bound for schools of higher learning.

Audrey Cutler of Wollaston, president of the Student Union, said the Union has set a goal of at least $900, with a student from each of Quincy's three high schools receiving a $300 scholarship.

The Student Union is composed of 13 students, six from Quincy High School, six from North Quincy High School, and one from Quincy Vocational-Technical School. One student from each school is an associate member of the Quincy School Committee and attends meetings regularly, providing a liaison between his high school and the School Committee.

The idea for a student scholarship fund first sprouted at a meeting of the North Quincy High School Student Council. The proposed fund was to be a regional one awarded to a North Quincy High student.

Yet Council members felt sufficient funds could not be gleaned from only one section of the city.

Council President Charles Morse then approached the Student Union with the idea of a city-wide scholarship drive and plans began to develop.

The Quincy School Committee unanimously approved the scholarship drive at their Feb. 26 meeting. Miss Cutler said businessmen throughout the city will receive a letter by the end of March, describing the drive. She also noted that private citizens and local civic organizations may contribute to the fund. All donations should be addressed or brought to the Quincy Savings Bank, 1374 Hancock St., Quincy Square.

At the suggestion of School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon, high school students throughout the city donated to the fund during homeroom period last week.

Speaking for the Student Union, Miss Cutler said:

"We would appreciate the support of the local businesses... If others care to give, that would be up to them. We would appreciate all donations."

North Quincy High School members of the Student Union are Audrey Cutler, president, 101 Willow St., Wollaston; George Keches, vice-president, 68 Piermont St., Wollaston; Randy Calhoun, 34 Aberdeen Rd., Squantum; Joseph Carroll, associate member, 26 Sycamore Rd., Squantum; John Costa, 166 Belmont St., North Quincy, and Judy Quinn, 26 Landsdowne St., Squantum.

Quincy High School members are Nancy Hamburger, secretary, 21 Greenwold Rd., Quincy; George Condos, publicity and associate member, 59 Merrymount Rd., Quincy; John Kasianowicz, 22 Wall St., Houghs Neck; Ellen Lyons, 25 Morton St., West Quincy; Paul Nigro, 193 Elm St., Quincy and Elizabeth Sullivan, 28 Grace Rd., Germantown.

Robert Ross of 63 Howe St., Germantown is the Student Union member from Quincy Vocational-Technical School and is the associate member of the School Committee.

Advisor to the Union is Eugene Creedon, principal of Parker Elementary School.

Getting ready for that wonderful day

Remember, YOU are the star of the show; here's how to look your beautiful best!

What with all the hubbub that surrounds preparations for even the simplest of weddings, all too often the wedding dress gets more attention than what's going into it — namely, you. Maybe you'd like to lose five pounds before your big day, but if more concern is invested in looking at china patterns than in watching what you're nervously eating from those various plates, you may end up gaining another five.

Be sure to take a good long look at your hair at least a month before your wedding. Does it need some extra sparkle, a bit of brightness much akin to the way it looked last summer, perhaps when you both first decided to marry?

If you're planning an informal or garden wedding, consider wearing flowers instead of the proverbial veil. And with all eyes upon your hair, you may want to add some interest without changing your whole hair color by frosting or streaking it with a home kit like Clair-oil's Frost & Tip. It contains everything you need to add special effects to your hair at home. Eighteen selected strands for an all over glimmer, or just choose a few strands and add the most subtle of streaks for the newest news in haircoloring. Since it doesn't change your overall color, you won't have to retouch for several months — good news for any honeymooner.

Once you've added lights to your hair, consider its style. Don't try anything drastic that you won't be able to change before your wedding day — like running out to get the latest new super-short haircut. Stay with a hairstyle that you feel comfortable in and jazz it up with more curl, or waves. Your frosting should do the rest.

PAY MORE ATTENTION to what's going into your wedding dress before the big day and you'll reap the benefits as you walk down the aisle. Plan to pull yourself together with proper diet and exercise a few months prior to the wedding. To add some excitement to your hair, without changing your whole hair color, try frosting or streaking it with a home kit like Clair-oil's Frost & Tip. And try a new style, frosting and wearing flowers instead of the proverbial veil.

Don't forget your face and figure. Your diet is crucial — not any crazy crash diet but sensible eating. Your face and skin are mirrors of your general health, and a good sound diet full of the yellows and greens in vegetables, fish, meats & fruits is essential. Drink plenty of water to cleanse your whole system of impurities and tone up your figure with exercise.

To firm up your tummy, try sit ups and leg raisers. To do leg raisers, lie flat on your back on the floor and raise both legs up together as high as you can. Then, gradually lower them together to the floor. You can actually feel your stomach muscles tighten as you do them.

So go ahead and have fun planning all the details of your wedding day. But while you're at it, be sure to exercise, diet sensibly and add some interest to your hair — after all, your wedding dress should be an accessory to you and not the reverse. By taking a little time out before your wedding to take care of yourself, you should truly be the beautiful bride.

'...The wedding party wore...' Guide to proper dressing

Since the bride is the star, it is not surprising that she decides how formal, or informal, a wedding she will have. The number of guests, the type of reception, if any, the time of day — all are her choices, and all this is reflected in the type of bridal gown she selects.

In turn, the type of gown determines what every other member of the wedding party will wear. While bridal fashion generally follows the latest trends, a bride can easily find a "traditional" gown — sweetheart neckline, long sleeves, nipped-in waist, and tiers and tiers of lace flowing into a sweep or cathedral train. Or she may follow the "nostalgic" trend, so in today.

The real change has come about in men's formalwear. The black and white or the gray and white "uniform" now also comes in a spectrum of muted and bright colors and a wide variety of shapes. The choice is up to the groom, who usually follows a cue from his bride-to-be.

For the couple who wishes to follow tradition in dress, here is a chart to use as a guide:

Daytime — Very Formal

Bride — An elaborate bridal gown with cathedral, chapel or no train. Long full veil. Long sleeves or long gloves. Shoes to match gown. Bouquet in keeping with gown or covered prayer book pinned with flowers and ribbons.

Groom — Cutaway coat with gray striped trousers. Gray waistcoat. Formal white shirt with wing collar or a turned down collar. Striped ascot with wing collar or striped four-in-hand with turned down collar. Black shoes and hose. Gray gloves. Gray spats and black silk top hat are optional.

Bridesmaids — Floor-

length dresses with complementary headpieces. Shoes dyed to match or harmonize. Gloves in keeping with the dresses. Bouquets or baskets in any style that adds to the overall effect.

Mothers — Floor-length gowns. Small hats and accessories to harmonize with the dresses.

All the men in the wedding party.

Daytime — Formal

Bride — Long, less elaborate gown with a shorter train, either chapel or sweep length. The veil either finger tip, shorter, or to the floor. Same accessories as for very formal wedding.

Groom — Oxford gray stroller or jacket with striped trousers. Gray waistcoat. White shirt with turned down collar and striped four-in-hand tie. Gray gloves. Black shoes and hose. Homburg is optional.

Bridesmaids — Dresses may be either floor-length or street length. Accessories match or harmonize.

Mothers — Street length, chic gowns with matching or harmonizing accessories.

All the men in the wedding party.

Daytime — Semiformal

Bride — White or pale pastel floor-length or shorter gown. Elbow-length or shorter veil. Same accessories as for formal wedding. Bouquet would be less elaborate in keeping with the tone of the wedding.

Groom — Black or Oxford gray sack coat. Gray waistcoat. White pleated shirt with turned down collar. Four-in-hand tie. Gray gloves. Black shoes. Black or gray Homburg optional.

Bridesmaids — Floor-length or shorter dresses in keeping with the formality of what the bride wears. Harmonizing accessories. Small bouquets.

Today's bridal gowns have been inspired by the past

The traditional full-length white gown donned by brides for their journey down the aisle to life happily ever after is as predictable as the sun, moon and stars, even for the mini-clad hopefuls of the new generation.

The changes take place within the scope of the traditional prerequisite — the long white gown.

The season-to-season fashion determinant in traditional bridal gowns may be past or present.

Thus guests at weddings may rise to honor brides drifting down the aisle in yards of billowing lace, topped by a bolero effect.

Again, the center of attention may be a modern medieval bride whose gown displays a low scooped neckline, long snug sleeves and high close bodice releasing into fluid folds of floor-length crepe, or a neo-Renaissance bride whose richly embroidered or brocaded gown has bell or bishop sleeves and a standaway collar — inspiration, the past.

Another way of achieving the now touch for her traditional wedding gown might be as simple as the use of this-season detailing or her own accessorizing ideas — her diamond wedding jewelry, for instance.

A look at this-season details indicates that bridal necklines may be either the low scoop or the high-rise collar—the mandarin, the circlet and the stand-away.

Important sleeves include the bishop, the bell and a hint of the leg o' mutton. Long, snug sleeves often have Edwardian or bracelet cuffs.

"To Serve You Better"

A wedding is like a stage show with the bride as producer, director and leading star. Small wonder most brides rely on professional help — like those offered by a wedding photographer — to get the show on the road.

Kodak portrait experts suggest that brides plan early for their wedding photography, especially if the event is scheduled for the peak "bridal months" — June, July, August or December — when most professional photographers have a tight schedule.

About the time you are ordering your gown and making arrangements for the reception, you should consult with your favorite photographer about the many types of wedding portraiture he can provide. Today's traditional pre-wedding bridal portrait is often taken in such non-traditional locations as an outdoor park, or even in the bride's own living room. And many couples prefer both bride and groom to be shown in this formal portrait.

In addition to the wedding portrait, photographers also take informal photographs during the course of the wedding events. These candid portraits are suitable for home display, for gifts to parents and close relatives, for thank-you cards like the Kodak Special Moments Collection available at portrait studios, as well as for wedding photo albums.

Many photographers provide a pre-setting conference to discuss all the details you should know before your date with the camera. At this time you can settle on the location for the wedding portrait, the style of the photograph, and the makeup and hairstyles which are most flattering. For the portrait sitting, you will want to have on hand everything you will wear for the ceremony — gown, shoes, gloves, necklace and veil. Your photographer may be able to provide a bridal bouquet for the sake of photography.

Like any professional, a portrait photographer has spent years training and studying to learn his art. In taking a "good picture" he looks for the best lighting and setting, he takes pictures which show his subjects to advantage and he captures the mood of the occasion. When you hire a professional photographer to take pictures at your wedding, you can be sure he will produce the best possible photographs of the occasion.

Here's a guide...

- housing: rent or mortgage payments, plus a few items of furniture.....20-25%
 - food: including workday lunches for the both of you, entertaining occasionally.....20%
 - clothing, personal care: haircuts, cosmetics....10%
 - medical care: including health insurance, but assuming no major bills are needed, and also that you are both covered by your employers at least to some extent.....3%
 - transportation: including car expenses, other than unusual areas such as Los Angeles where car expenses are disproportionately high.....11%
 - utilities: light, gas, telephone.....5%
 - gifts, contributions:.....3%
 - recreation: movies, trips, excel. entertaining.....8%
 - insurance: life, homeowners, auto.....3%
 - savings: some for "rainy days," some to build up assets.....10%
 - miscellaneous: the unexpected, which is sure to happen; also includes laundry, cleaning, magazines, even, if you must, cigarettes.....5%
- Remember, this is just a guide. You and your spouse will adjust these figures to suit your own lifestyles and needs and future aims. Good luck!

Bride should choose her diamonds early

Modern etiquette permits asking the bride to help select her diamond gift. This should be done well in advance of the wedding day, so she may consider it in planning her bridal attire.

Pendant, pin or earclips, her diamond jewelry can complement her gown, in design and placement.

If she chooses a gown with one of the new high necklines, and the gift is a pendant, the neck-chain should be long enough to show her diamond properly.

Pins are versatile, but this season's bride may wish to display her diamond pin by centering it in her headpiece.

How to get along with your new mother-in-law

It's not as bad as it's been "cracked up" to be... this relationship. Remember that she's a person, an individual, much the same as you, and to some extent, she has some priority rights. Because of her seniority alone, she deserves deference and respect, so it's well to put the "problem," if any, in proper perspective.

In a very real sense of the word, respect is the name of the game, if you are going to get along with your husband's mother, and she, with you. It works both ways.

You no doubt will find many useful things about your new husband, from his mother. Not the family secrets kind of thing, of course, but you will probably pick up little clues to his character, through ordinary conversations with this lady. You may find out that his gustatory tastes, for instance, are not so extravagant, after all; he may have been trying to impress you, all those months. (What a relief, these days of "cutting corners" — and who isn't, even if you were born with the proverbial silver spoon in your mouth!)

You may also pick up tips on the handling of the "beast" (read "unruly husband"). His mother may show you how tact and patience can subtly turn his interests in sitting for hours on a Sunday afternoon in front of the television set, to a positive, if restrained willingness to view the Wyeth art at a local museum with you.

And so it goes. Start now. Make the most of knowing your mother-in-law!

FOR THE BRIDE
Traditionally, diamond ear-clips for the bride are of simple design, styled in the manner of a cluster or a small scroll. Some pairs are made with diamond drops.

Wedding cake an old tradition

The Romans were among the first to introduce the use of cake at the ceremony. They broke their salty-mealed cake over the bride's head at the end of the rites, and the crumbs were gathered by guests as good-luck tokens.

In 15th century England wedding guests brought small cakes and put them in the center of the table. Usually this created quite a pile. The bride and groom then tried to reach across the pile of cakes and to kiss, without knocking the pile over.

Later, in France, a traveling baker conceived the idea of icing all the small cakes together into one large impressive cake . . . thus, we have today the tiered wedding cake.

Today the caterer may not be designated to make the wedding cake. Frequently the bride, sometimes with her maids and/or their families, bake the cake and the good things just a few days before the wedding. This has taken its place among the pleasant pre-nuptial traditions which many young people enjoy.

Making your own wedding cake? Many brides do! Consultants suggest you add garlands, stars, roses, and other pretty things from the pastry tube, then perhaps add doves and cupids, or symbols of your own lifestyle and beliefs. Whatever the creation, be sure to freeze the top layer to eat on the occasion of your first anniversary.

The bride's sterling—something to cherish, and enjoy for a lifetime!

If you're a wedding gift-giver this year, you may be trying to decide between solid silver for the bride, and something a bit more "practical." From a long-range standpoint, however, there's probably no choice you could make that will prove to be wiser than the one to give sterling to the bride.

In today's economy, all precious metals are considered good investments. The value of silver has, indeed, climbed over the years — but sterling silver flatware has a lot more going for it than just the value of its silver content.

Its value increases

For one thing, it has the kind of craftsmanship that belongs to an earlier time — the skill and loving attention that go into so few of the things we buy today. And solid silver flatware, unlike silver bars or ingots, is a possession of great value that's made to be used. It will bring joy to the bride's entertaining during all the years of her life. Eventually, it will become a family heirloom that will be cherished as much for its happy associations with memorable occasions as it is for its intrinsic value.

Variety of choices

Every gift of sterling makes it just that much more possible for the bride-to-be to complete her set. If you're the bride's parents, you may want to give her a number of place settings. A friend might settle on one single, shining teaspoon in the bride's pattern. And between these two choices, there are a great many pieces, small or large. But whatever your choice, remember that there's no such thing as giving "too little" sterling. For the bride knows, and appreciates, the value of your gift.

THE BRIDE'S STERLING, which promises to grow in beauty and value through the years ahead, is her most cherished possession. Gifts such as the serving fork, pierced tablespoon, and four-piece place setting shown, are much-wanted additions to her hoped-for set of solid silver.

By far the easiest method of choosing sterling is to check with the bridal gift consultant at the store where the bride-to-be has registered her pattern. She knows which place and serving pieces the bride wants most — and which ones she has yet to receive. Many stores today have special purchase plans for sterling sets, and for substantial gifts of sterling. These plans offer extended time payments with no finance or carrying charges.

Sterling has always been a luxurious possession, and always will be. But, whether it's a self-purchase, or a gift for the bride, its acquisition today represents more than a little hard-headed business sense. It's a possession chosen not only for present enjoyment, but future value as well. And today, that makes a lot of sense.

Any evening an occasion!

THE BRIDE AT HOME. Treat your husband to an elegant dinner à deux and turn any evening into an occasion. Recall the pleasures of unhurried dining and set your table with fine china, glistening crystal, and the glow of candlelight. A subdued yellow tablecloth underscores the vivid blues, greens, and yellows of Lenox's "Autumn" fine china. Add a gracious touch with wine served in Lenox's new handblown crystal wine glasses and decanter. Taunton's fine silverplated wine coaster holds the decanter.

Trial 'marriage' was a custom in ancient times

Not tying the knot? Not all that strange, when you look at customs of the distant past. For instance, an ancient Celtic tradition involved not only the trial marriage concept, but also the prewedding honeymoon.

Young men and women gathered on opposite sides of a high wall, not able to view one another. Then, each woman would thrust her hand through a small hole in the wall, and her (hopefully) "intended" would grasp it on the other side. (How important hands are, after all!). At any rate, the couple was required to live together only for a year and a day. If they decided they didn't want to make a permanent relationship, a deed of separation was obtained, and no hurt feelings. The records do not mention any results of this getting-together, but considering the times, no doubt, if anyone suffered, it was the unwed "bride." No offense, fellas. That's the way it was apt to be, in those days, among most ethnic groups.

Fragrance tip...

If you have tried many perfumes and can't seem to find one that lasts on your skin, liquid sachet may be the answer. Most skin sachets have an emollient base, plus a moisturizer to keep skin dewy and fragrance alive.

Caterer's hints to mother of the bride

"Catering a wedding is just like show business," says Joseph Babbington, owner of the chic New York firm Mr. Babbington and Friend. "Every affair is like a stage opening, you get nervous, the pressure builds up, and then we're 'on' and everything goes smoothly. That's what we're here for, so that the mother of the bride can transfer her problems and jitters."

"Of course, many women have a point there because some caterers get by on the worst food. I would advise women to interview four or five caterers and not to allow yourself to be intimidated.

Mothers of the bride come in several types, says Mr. Babbington. The easiest to work with finally is the one who comes in at the beginning challenging the caterer on everything; the hardest to deal with thinks she is a ten times better cook than his top chefs.

If the man doesn't really understand your needs and keeps pushing you towards something you don't want just because that's what he does best, leave."

Mr. Babbington's pet peeve is the "stupid menu, the usual cocktail franks, meatballs, sliced steak and baked potato, served for the past 5,000 years." Instead he recommends quiche, stuffed zucchini as appetizers, with courses of poached striped bass or potted natural veal with leeks and parsley roots.

With the fish he serves a delicate white Liebfraumilch called "Wedding Vell" because it's not only delicious but comes in this romantic bottle all wrapped in a white veil with a dangling red plastic heart you can give to your sweetheart. Many of my clients also order it in half size bottles which they put at each plate as a wedding favor to take home. It's a charming idea that fits right in with the look of a wedding."

This experienced gentleman, who hopes his eighteen year old son will follow in his footsteps, also warns the bride's mother to order enough help. "Don't skimp on waiters, they can make or break your party. The extra money will save your nerves."

Another good idea is an ice cream soda bar for the kids complete with soda jerk. From cocktail reception to after dessert you'll find plenty of uncles, grandmothers and assorted adults in line with the kids.

"Choose your caterer by word of mouth, not a big fancy ad. Small caterers often give you and the food more personal attention. The name of the game is kindness and every kind of help. Caterers should not be in business to make the mother of the bride any more nervous than she already is."

Tips on getting along after you're married

If you have somehow got into a hassle and you're upset with one another... get it out of your system, if you can, during the day, for it is extremely hazardous to a good marriage to go to bed mad.

Holding a grudge can become a slow poison that can actually destroy a marriage, so don't overlook even a seemingly small slight. Each day should be a fresh start on new joys together. Beware bottled-up anger waiting to explode.

Sleepwear and daywear share a softer look

Choosing lingerie is a matter of choosing your own thing, for looks and fabrics vary in both daywear and sleepwear. But one thing is sure: soft is the key word to all the collections.

Start with daywear. The bra-slip still reigns supreme — in tricot and stabilized tricot; with cups lightly padded or plain; in colors from white and nude to flaming red and forest green.

Some bra-slips end in panties — slim, boxer style or romper-like — to wear under pantsuits. There also are pantliners, usually starting low on the hips and ending in cuffs banded with lace.

Pantliners, like pantie briefs, may be topped with a camisole, either of nylon banded with ribbon and lace, or disguised as the top of a tank suit.

Soft outer clothes have brought these soft underclothes, and the duoteme of freedom and ease carries through into sleepwear.

If you want to brighten this day, brush those annoying spots away

Now that there's a man in your life, there's a man's wardrobe in it too. He'll probably count on you to help him always look his best — and that means last minute spot cleaning dilemmas.

Remember, a spot is easiest to remove if it's treated as soon as possible. On wool suits, sport clothes and almost all non-washables, use a wife-saver such as K2r Spot-lifter. Just apply, wait until it dries completely, then simply brush the white powder — and the spot — away.

Keep a tube of spot-lifter in your handbag for accidents that can spoil a good time so easily. Your new man will appreciate how you can brighten his life.

If you have somehow got into a hassle and you're upset with one another... get it out of your system, if you can, during the day, for it is extremely hazardous to a good marriage to go to bed mad.

Perfect for a happy honeymooner

BOUDOIR FASHION NOTE to make your honeymoon happier... a famous designer's Secret Hug Long Gown of lush, non-cling nylon crepe tricot. The designer, Olga, fashions a feminine stretch lace of nylon and spandex which romantically frames the square neckline, bodice and long sleeves — perfect for cold winter nights and air-conditioned summers. Blue or pink mist with white.

To ensure happiness, the bride and groom cut first piece of wedding cake together. Then they feed a small piece of cake to each other at the same time.

According to tradition, an unmarried girl who sleeps with a slice of wedding cake under her pillow will dream of her future husband.

N. Y. Bank Takes 'Positive' Attitude On Kanavos Project

city must ask itself, "Is Kanavos financially sound?"

But Harry Kanavos, project developer, said the Hapet Corp. involved in the Quincy condominium project is a corporation separate from those involved in the motel ventures.

Cheney emphasized, too, that the Quarry St. development "stands on its own two feet and is not connected with other enterprises Kanavos is involved in."

During Tuesday's hour-long meeting, Kanavos agreed to deed within 30 days the two acres of the Quarry St. site designated as the location of a new one-million gallon city water tank.

The developer also agreed to transfer within 90 days the 15.3 acres of the land site slated for park and recreation purposes and the 1.3 acres for parking purposes at the Quincy Sons of Italy Hall.

Both land conveyances numbered among the 10 amendments which the City Council added to the Kanavos project at their March 3 meeting.

Cheney said bank representatives will be in regular contact with the developers to determine their progress on drawing plans and other activities.

Cheney said the developers will not be ready to apply for a building permit "for at least a year".

Also attending Tuesday's meeting were City Solicitor Richard McCormick and Paul Hunt, attorney for Harry Kanavos.

City Councillor Warren Powers, who introduced the "fail-safe" amendment requiring a review of the project after completion of the first two stages, said no city project has been subject to more City Council scrutiny than this condominium project. He commented:

"Any change in circumstances regarding any integral part of the Kanavos project will be carefully scrutinized by the City Council."

Joann Walsh Says, 'Thank You'

Joann Walsh, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walsh of 16 North Payne St., has come home.

Hospitalized six months in Massachusetts Hospital School in Canton, Joann is now recuperating at home.

Grateful for all the encouragement she has received,

Joann wants to thank all her relatives, friends and neighbors for their thoughtful cards wishing her a speedy recovery.

She said the thoughtfulness of others made her stay at the hospital much more pleasant.

Joann will be tutored at home until September when she will return to Sterling Junior High School.

Dunham graduated from Kent High School, Kent's Hill, Maine, in 1971, and received his A.A. degree in 1973 from New England Aeronautical Institute, Nashua, N.H.

North Quincy Students Catalogue Archaeological Finds

Under the auspices of Project LINC teacher Richard Riley, several North Quincy High School students have participated in the cleaning and cataloguing of materials discovered last fall in an archaeological dig at the Adams Academy.

Riley who teaches anthropology and archaeology at North, supervised the process along with three of his students; Mary Ann Boudreau, M. Terry O'Brien, and Kevin Cahill. Those who did the cleaning and cataloguing came from the elementary Lab class of Gerald Butler, Lincoln-Hancock, and from the sixth grades of Laura DiTullio and Marshall Levy of Squantum Elementary.

Students participating were: From the Lab class, Michael Dineen, John Sweet, Robin Prosser, Beth Ann Tritanjan, Gus Gonzales, Michael Marris, Tom McHugh, Jeff Meitlich, John Swanton, and Tracy Bowe. From the Squantum School, Kit Harrow, Karen Keating, Mitchell McLinnis, Beth McGill, Jackie Pike, Jean Murphy, Arthur Rigby, Anthony Green, Paul McDonough, Paul Burke, Jean Donohue, Denis Donaghey, and Tim Allen.

OFFICER KENNEDY

What I really liked best was King. King did very well. I liked when he jumped up onto the truck. When Dick shot the blanks at the dog. I liked the jails too. Especially the children's jail. I liked the courtroom and the talk we had.

LOVE

Love is caring a lot for someone close to you... always willing to help when in need.

Love is also taking a big step... getting married. Love is like a gift.

You'll have kids... and you'll learn to love them... and care for them too.

That's what love is.

HOW DOES A FOOTBALL FEEL?

A football feels like a bird in the sky when he is kicked by a football star.

A football feels like he's in a crowded elevator going up.

When he's in the arms of a football player running for a touchdown,

A football feels like he's in a steam bath—all hot and sweaty. When the game is over...he's very HAPPY.

WE WENT TO SEALAND

I liked Sealand, because it has some of my favorite animals. The fish were nice. The people were nice. The dolphin's show was very good. The dolphins were nice. We saw some nice penguins and seals. There was a big turtle by the name of Marge. It has a shark. A man fed some of the animals. There were some eels, one was electric. We had lunch there. We ate near a boat. It had a fish net, and a crab box near it. It was far away. Sealand is in Brewster, Mass. The dolphins swam in a pool. You should go there too. Freddie the crow was there too.

The grant will benefit the 200 Fenno House residents represented by Daniel Doherty (right), president of the Fenno House Senior Citizens Club.

State DPW Seeks Permission To Dredge Yacht Clubs Channel

The New England Division, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, has received a permit application from the Massachusetts DPW, Division of Waterways, for work in the navigable waters of Quincy Bay.

Colonel John Mason announces that the DPW seeks the permit for maintenance dredging of an approach channel and basin in front of Squantum and Wollaston Yacht Clubs. Approximately 31,500 cubic yards of material would be dredged from the L-shaped 900 by 100 foot area with a 650 by 200 foot leg. The area would be dredged to six feet below mean low water and the material, considered polluted and exceeding EPA criteria levels in COD, oil, grease and zinc concentration, would be disposed of at the Boston Lightship dumping grounds.

The Division Engineer has made a preliminary determination that an environmental impact statement is not required under provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. This determination will be reviewed in light of facts submitted in response to this notice.

The decision whether to issue or deny a permit will be based on an evaluation of the probable impact of the proposed activity on the public interest. That decision will reflect the national concern for both protection and utilization of important resources.

The benefit which reasonably may be expected to accrue for the proposal must be balanced against its reasonably foreseeable detriments. All factors which may be relevant to the proposal will be considered. Among them are conservation, economics, aesthetics, general environmental concerns, historical values, fish and wildlife values, flood damage prevention, land use classification, navigation, recreation, water supply, water quality, and, in general, the needs and welfare of the people.

Anyone desiring to submit a statement or to enter a protest against the proposed work is privileged to do so. Any person who has an interest which may be adversely affected by the issuance of a permit may request a public hearing. Such a request must clearly set forth the interest which may be adversely affected and the manner in which it may be adversely affected by the activity.

All statements should be submitted to Morgan R. Rees, Chief, Permits Branch, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, New England Division, 424 Trapelo Road, Waltham, Massachusetts 02154, in writing on or before April 3, 1975.

Delahunt Cancer Crusade Chairman

Rep. William Delahunt has been named chairman of the Quincy Cancer Crusade which officially launched its 1975 drive against cancer this week.

During the week of April 14-21, volunteers will canvas throughout Quincy, seeking funds to be used to fight cancer, the second leading cause of death in the U.S.

A total of 957 Quincy residents have volunteered to canvas home-to-home in Quincy. Yet Paul Barbadoro, co-chairman of Quincy's Crusade, said 1,500 volunteers are needed in the city.

Last year, Quincy citizens donated $21,000 to the cancer cause. This year's goal is $26,000.

Other members of Quincy's Cancer Crusade Committee are John J. Lydon, special gifts; Peter Barbadoro, bar bucks; Edward L. McDermott, clubs and organizations; Daniel Doherty, house to house; Ronald Vickers and JoAnne Bottoho, treasurers; and Elizabeth Scheele, secretary.

Anyone interested in volunteering to canvas during the crusade can contact Paul Barbadoro of 170 Harvard St., North Quincy or Ronald Vickers of 482 Beale St., Wollaston.

3 From Quincy On Aggie Honor Roll

Three Quincy students have been named to the third-term honor roll at Norfolk County Agricultural High School.

They are, Kirk DeMole of Wollaston, a sophomore; Paul Donnelly of Squantum, a sophomore; and Virginia MacLellan of Quincy, a junior.

All To Return Next Season

5 Quincy Players Helped Take Abp. Williams To Finals

Ever since Abp. Williams High School fielded its first athletic team back in the early 1950's, Quincy players have played a prominent role in the school's successes.

One of the most memorable teams was the basketball team of the mid-50's which provided one of the most startling upsets in Tech Tournament history by surprising perennial power Somerville in the opening round and going all the way to the Class A finals before bowing to Brockton.

Every starting player on that Cinderella team was from Quincy.

This year was no exception. The Bishops' fine hockey team, which advanced to the finals of the Eastern Mass. tourney for the first time before losing to Matignon Monday, 7-4, at Boston Garden, despite a gallant comeback, had several Quincy players, who were key performers for Coach Frank Quinn's Bishops.

Williams was faced with one of the toughest series of games as it defeated Waltham, 5-0; Lynn English, 4-2; Norwood, 2-0, and Malden Catholic, 7-2, to move into the Eastern Mass. finals. Against Matignon the Bishops trailed, 6-0, then scored four quick goals in the final period before an open net goal by Matignon clinched the win. "I had five boys from Quincy and, in their way, did their part in giving us another excellent season," Quinn said.

Foremost among the Quincy players was Paul Messina, a high scoring forward who played on the first line.

Jack Powers and Paul Radzik were members of the third line and Joe McConville played on the Bishops' fourth line.

The other, sophomore Jeff Nord, was the backup goalie and, although he didn't see much varsity action, he is a fine prospect and will be heavily depended upon next year.

"The best part of it is that none of these players is a senior," Quinn said. "Nord is only a sophomore and the other four are juniors. You will be hearing plenty from all of them next season."

"We will have many more Quincy players next year as our freshman team was loaded with them this year."

Basketball Coach Chuck Chevalier had three Quincy players who did well for him this year.

Pat Bradley, a 6-5 senior was the Bishops' co-captain and an outstanding rebounder, averaging 10 a game.

Mitch McBride, a 5-10 senior, was an excellent guard and Jim Roberts, 5-9 junior, was an excellent defensive player who worked his way into a starting position late in the season.

"All three of these boys contributed substantially to our team," Chevalier said. "I expect big things from Roberts next year."

5 Coaching Jobs Open

Coordinator of Athletics Carl Leone announces that five coaching positions are open in the Quincy School system.

In addition to the North Quincy football coaching job, there are openings for junior and senior high girls' track, junior high girls' softball and senior high girls' tennis.

Applications should be made with John Osterman, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of personnel.

Sacred Heart Defeats St. John's

The Sacred Heart hockey team of North Quincy defeated St. John's of Quincy, 7-4, Monday night at Shea Rink to make its record 3-1-1.

Marty Mulvey, Bob and Bill Bent, Mike Therrien, Jim Cunniff and Tom Nee each had a goal and assist for Sacred Heart, Dave Mitchell had the other goal and Tom and Bill Cunniff, Mike Bowes and John Kelly also had assists. Gary Kearney went all the way in goal.

Monday at 9 p.m. at Shea Sacred Heart will play the Weymouth North junior varsity.

Sylva Leads Don Bosco To Newton Tourney Title

Led by John Sylva of Quincy, the Don Bosco Technical High School Freshmen captured the Newton Police Athletic Association freshman basketball tournament at Newton South High Gym by edging the Concord-Carlisle Regional High School Freshmen, 64-63.

Sylva was selected the tournament's Most Valuable Player for his all-around play.

In the opening round of the tournament, Sylva led Don Bosco past the tournament's host team, St. Sebastian's, 73-48, as he poured 18 points through the hoop.

In the tournament quarter-finals, Sylva scored 15 points as Don Bosco raced past Winthrop, 72-53.

Taunton was the next victim of Don Bosco, 59-36, in the semi-finals as Sylva playing well on both offense and defense again led his team in scoring with 16 points.

Last fall John was a starting linebacker on the Don Bosco Varsity football team as a freshman. Don Bosco won the Catholic Conference Championship.

John is the brother of Robert Sylva who was captain of the undefeated Quincy High School football team of 1970.

Another brother, Edward, captained the 1972 Quincy High School football team, while still another brother, Stephen, was a starting offensive guard on the 1974 Presidents team.

Quincy Wrestlers Raise $1,500 In Sit-a-thon

The Quincy High wrestling team collected more than $1,500 in pledges to help out next year's team as a result of last Saturday's sit-a-thon held by Coach Carmen Mariano, his wife and the wrestlers at the Voc-Tech gym.

"We held the event to raise some money to get us some equipment which is needed next year," Mariano said. "Because of the tight school budget, the boys would have been forced to go without some equipment. We want to thank all our sponsors who pledged money according to the number of situps a wrestler did. Also, I want to thank the more than 200 people who were interested enough to drop in during the day and see how things were going."

The team did a total of 42,921 situps during the all-day event with Mariano himself leading the way with 5,000. His wife did 702.

The wrestlers and their totals: Tim Cahill, 3,001; Tony Luongo, 3,100; Craig Shea, 1,200; Wayne Gardiner, 2,001; Brian Brown, 1,200; Joe Moran, 2,001; Bill Dever, 1,200; Paul Madden, 3,333; Mike Doherty, 2,002; Sam Gravina, 3,018; Gary Oriola, 3,350; team manager Larry O'Toole, 1,500; Brian Kelly, 1,478; Frank Curran, 2,110; Eddie Towers, 1,000; Tom Bamberly, 1,204; Dan Thibault, 3,001 and Peter Pagnano, 1,520.

39 Play At Nova Scotia

Bantam C's, B's Win 7 In Canada

Thirty-nine players from the Quincy Youth Hockey Association and 10 adults recently bused to Pictou, Nova Scotia, 60 miles north of Halifax, a 16-hour trip, with two teams taking part in a youth tournament. The players were guests of Pictou players' families during their six days there.

The Bantam B's played six games as did the Bantam C's, a team made up of players from the Bantam House League.

The C team did especially well, going undefeated, winning five and tying one, while the B's were 2-3-1.

The B team was coached by Bob Watts, Bill Lewis and Fred DiCristofaro. The House League stars [C team] were coached by Bob Tierney and Jack Campbell.

The C's opened with a 4-1 win over Pictou, as Paul McDonald, Mike Bennett, Mike Welch and Bob McCarthy had the goals and Dave Campbell, Bennett and McDonald assists.

The C team then tied New Glasgow, 3-3, with Warren Hassey, Welch and Ed Marella scoring the goals and Bennett, McCarthy and McDonald had assists.

Next came a 4-2 win over Thorburn. McDonald and McCarthy had two goals apiece and McDonald had two assists and McCarthy one.

In a 5-0 win over Pictou, McDonald had the hat trick and Dave O'Brien and Welch had a goal each. McCarthy and Hassey had two assists each and Bennett, O'Brien and Frank Sayers one each.

The C's added Antiganish to their list of victims, 4-2, with O'Brien scoring twice and Welch and McDonald one each. Bob Collins had two assists and Marella and McCarthy one apiece.

The team finished with a 9-0 breeze over Thorburn. Collins, Marella and McDonald had two goals apiece and McCarthy, O'Brien and Walsh one each. McCarthy had three assists and Bennett, Marella and Hassey one each.

The B team was edged by Pictou, 3-2, in its opening game. Mike Van Tassel and Jack Campbell had the goals and Paul McDermott had two assists and Billy Deitsch one.

The B's next lost to New Glasgow, 7-4. Campbell, Mike Storer, McDermott and John Yaxter had the goals and Tom Koelsch, Van Tassel, Jack Dunn and Paul Cooney assists.

Quincy then exploded for an 8-3 win over Stellarton with Campbell and Storer each having the hat trick and Brian Jolley and Deitsch a goal each. Jolley, Koelsch, Van Tassel, McDermott, Cooney and Campbell had assists.

The B's topped Pictou, 5-2, with Jolley scoring twice and Cooney, Mike Pitts and Koelsch one each. Pitts and Cooney had two assists each and Koelsch, Yanxter, Campbell and John Jackson one apiece.

The B's lost to Antiganish, the provincial champion, 2-0.

In their finale the B's tied Pictou, 4-4. Deitsch had two goals and Storer and Van Tassel one each. Storer, Van Tassel, Cooney and Campbell had assists.

Others on the B team were goalies Mike Bondarick and Daryl DiCristofaro, defencemen Dan Gorman, Mike Gulizia and Pat Bamberry and forwards Tom Pistorino and Jackie Dunn. Gulizia, Pistorino and Dunn were unable to play because of injuries or illness.

Other C team players were goalies Bobby Tierney, Billy Oakes and Dean Prescott, defencemen Jackie Molloy, who broke his arm in the first game, Jim O'Brien, Russ DiPietro and forwards Steve Hale, Rickie McCarter and Mike Giordano.

● Mite House

Village In First Place Tie With Barry's

Village Food moved into a first place tie with Barry's Dell in the Mite House League with a 2-1 win over Davis. Steve Kelly had both goals and Kevin Kelly and Dennis Shannon assists. Mark Walsh scored for Davis with Steve Maloney assisting.

Balducci's, which has hit a hot streak after going winless for many weeks, shocked Barry's, 5-0, on goals by John Comeau, Matt O'Brien, Bud Ferreira, Ray Welliver and Bud McLame. Assists went to Welliver, Mike Doherty and Billy Heffernan.

Forde Club defeated Lydon Russell, 2-0, with Ed Boyle and Rich Marnell having the goals and Bill Rochelle an assist.

Fire Dept. Regains Midget House Lead

The Fire Dept. regained first place in the Midget House League by defeating Cox, 5-2. Paul Duggan had two goals and Jim Kelly, Stan Campbell and Paul Andrews one each. Andrews had three assists and Duggan and Kelley one apiece. For Cox Bill Morrison and Ken Johnstone had the goals and Bob Flibotte and Bob Carpenter assists.

Police topped Suburban, 5-2, with Dave Gendreau having the hat trick and Ed Laracy and Pat Cummings one goal each. Laracy had three assists as did Jim Conostas and Gendreau one. John O'Connell and Joe O'Keefe had the Suburban goals and Paul Vallantini and Pete Plante assists.

QJC Winds Up With 14-12 Record

The Quincy Junior College basketball team completed a successful Mass. Junior Conference season Saturday when it lost to Worcester Industrial Tech, 81-75, in the opening round of the conference playoffs at Wentworth.

QJC finished its regular season with a 14-12 record but had a 10-4 conference mark to qualify for the playoffs.

Worcester built up a 40-29 halftime lead and, although the Collejus managed to come back to tie the score twice, they never could move into the lead.

Jim Rogers was outstanding in defeat as he scored 28 points and hauled down 17 rebounds. Tom Carmody added 18 points, had 10 rebounds, eight assists and seven steals, and the team's top scorer, Kevin Gibson completed a brilliant season with 15 points and 14 rebounds.

QJC had wound up the regular season with a 99-74 rout of Bryant and Stratton as Gibson scored 26 points and had 15 rebounds. Rogers had 17 points and 15 rebounds, Ted Meyer 16 points, Brian Cox 15 points and 10 assists and Dan Donahue 14 rebounds.

Earlier the Collejus had blasted Worcester Junior College, 99-75, with Bernie Holleran scoring 23 points, Gibson 20, Rogers 19, and Carmody 18. Rogers had 16 rebounds, Gibson 12 rebounds and nine assists, Carmody 12 rebounds and six assists and Meyer 12 rebounds and nine assists.

Coach Earl Vermillion commended the team's cheerleaders. "They put posters up in the gym all year and gave us fine support," Vermillion said.

North Trackmen Dominate Road Race

The North Quincy track team, which enjoyed its most successful winter season and was unbeaten in its last eight meets, dominated the recent 2.5-mile road race at Fresh Pond, Cambridge.

The Raiders' sensational Bart Petracca won the race as North swept the first three places. Artie Barrett was second and Ken O'Brien third. Ken Barrett placed fifth, Bob Levenson eighth and Geoff Hennessey of the Quincy Track Club, a former North star, was 10th.

Petracca, who made a remarkable recovery from a knee operation and returned to the North team late in the season, placed fourth in the mile at last Friday's Coaches Invitational Meet at Reading High.

Broad Meadows Matmen Wrap Up Good Season

The Broad Meadows Junior High wrestling team enjoyed one of its best seasons this winter with a 6-1 record and placed second in the city league.

BM's lone loss was to unbeaten league champion Atlantic-North.

BM, coached by John Bogan, also an assistant football coach at Quincy High, won 15 of 45 medals in the city championship meet.

The members of the squad were Steve Notarangelo, 80 points; Frank Zamperini, 85; Howey Park, 90; Jeff Taylor, 95; Richard Brodeur, 100; Sean Garvey, 105; Art Davis, 110; Chris Defazio, 115; Tom Dedian, 120; Frank Dragone, 125; Skip Fiddler, 129; Kevin Boudreau, 136; John Houten, 144; Peter Cassidy, 152, and Ray Varrier, heavyweight.

6 From Quincy, North On Hockey All Stars Team

The Quincy hockey team, which missed a state tourney berth by a single win or tie, placed four players on the Suburban League all-star team.

Forwards Frank Guest and Ted Wiedemann and defenseman Rick Avery and Brian Nevins were named to the star club.

Also selected were North Quincy goalies Dick Wilson and defenseman Paul O'Donnell.

Fisk Question Mark, Too

Can Tony C. Come Back?

By TOM SULLIVAN
Quincy Sun Writer

The Red Sox spring training season is in full swing and there are two big questions being asked by the team officials and the fans. Can Tony Conigliaro come back after missing three and a half years and give the Sox a much-needed power designated hitter?

Can Carlton Fisk return and resume as one of the league's premier catchers after knee surgery? Fisk, on his way to another out-standing season, was sidelined from June 28 until the end of the season last year.

All will be watching Tony C, who insists he eye problems have improved enough to try again after being released by the California Angels.

Tony played a key role in the Sox drive to the 1967 pennant before being sidelined for the season on Aug. 19 after being hit by a Jack Hamilton pitch and suffering a fractured cheekbone. He sat out the 1968 season, returned in 1969 to receive "Comeback Player of the Year" honors and in 1970 continued with career highs of 36 home runs and 116 runs batted in. After being traded to the Angels, he had eye problems which cut down his playing time and led to his release.

Tony worked hard all winter to get in shape and reported to Florida several weeks ahead of the other players.

He feels he can regain his batting eye and help the Red Sox this year and if he can, it will be a great boost for the team.

One of Boston's big weaknesses last year was the lack of a consistent designated hitter. The Sox were among the weakest in this department. If he is anything like the Tony C. of old, it will be good news.

Fisk underwent knee surgery after trying to block Leon Lee of Cleveland from scoring the winning run in a June 28 game. He suffered torn cartilages and the Sox went steadily downhill after he was sidelined.

He admittedly is worried about being able to bend the knee. If he has trouble, it will be a big blow to the big catcher. He also wonders how much it will cut down his speed. For a big man, he had good speed before the accident.

Club officials and fans will also be eyeing Doug Griffin, who underwent back surgery during the winter and will be trying to keep his second base job.

For the fourth year in a row last summer, he was disabled by an injury. This time he was hit over the left ear by a Nolan Ryan fastball April 30 and missed 51 games. At the time he was the team's hottest hitter and had a 15-game hitting streak. He was successfully operated on for a herniated disc which had caused him back problems throughout his career.

The Red Sox failed to help themselves during the winter trading season and, with the Orioles and Yankees adding considerable strength, it doesn't appear the Sox can hope for better than a third place finish.

As usual, their chances depend on many if's. In addition to those surrounding Conigliaro, Fisk and Griffin, others include the ability of Reggie Cleveland and Rick Wise to rebound from disappointing seasons and live up to expectations, whether Rick Burleson or Mario Guerrero can fill the bill at shortstop and whether Rico Petrocelli can have another good year at third base.

The Sox, in our opinion, have strengthened themselves in one category, the addition of the popular Johnny Pesky as coach. Making him first base coach and batting instructor, we feel, was a master stroke.

O'Brien Club, Gamblers Await Title Showdown

The Cranberry Basketball League championship, now between two Quincy teams, will need another game to decide the winner and at this writing the date and site were not determined.

The deciding game between the O'Brien Club and Gamblers was to have been played next Sunday but both teams are entered in a tournament Saturday and Sunday at Braintree High and another date was to have been selected.

The O'Brien Club failed to clinch the title last Sunday when it was nipped by the Gamblers, 90-88, in one of the best games between the rivals at North Quincy High. Ironically, the O'Briens had swept the previous three games with the Gamblers.

The Gamblers moved into the final series in the double elimination playoff series by eliminating the Boston Stars, 95-80, Saturday at Brockton. It was the Gamblers' second win over the Stars in the playoffs.

Mark Raterink led the Gamblers' scorers Sunday with 26 points but Mike Greenlaw, one of several former North Quincy High players in the game, was the difference between the two teams.

Greenlaw scored 24 points including a long bomb at the half-time buzzer to increase the Gamblers' lead to six, another basket at the third period buzzer to put his team ahead by two, and four straight foul shots in the last 23 seconds of the game.

Gary Bowen had 27 points and Alan Dalton 25 to spark the O'Brien Club.

In the Gamblers' win over the Stars, Greenlaw was again the sparkplug with 25 points.

Both Quincy teams are busy in tournaments. Last week the O'Briens won a tournament in Clinton and the Gamblers earlier had won the 43rd annual Kiwanis Tournament in Plymouth. The O'Briens, among other events, will play in upcoming tournaments in Braintree, Plymouth and Norwich, Conn.

Squirt B Minors Blank Abington

The Squirt B Minor team blanked Abington, 6-0, in the B League to make its record in that league 15-4-2.

Bobby Ready and Tom O'Connor had two goals each and Tom Lester and John O'Connell one each. Rick Durham had two assists and Ready, O'Connor, O'Connell and Dave DiCarlo one apiece.

The team lost to Rockland in a B League game, 2-0. In the A League, the B's defeated W. Bridgewater, 2-1, to make its record in that league 3-3-0.

Dave Allen and O'Connell had the goals and Rick Reardon and DiCarlo assists.

The B Minors also edged

Hanover, 3-2, on goals by Ready, Dick Tapper and Durham and assists for O'Connell, Lester, Reardon and Chris Harrington. The team nipped Rosindale, 3-2, with Ready having two goals and O'Connor one and assists for O'Connell, Ready and DiCarlo. Goalies were Mike Devonshire and Timmy O'Connell.

Women Merchants Roll High

The 20th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by The Koch Club of Quincy completed the quarterfinal round Sunday afternoon at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys with six teams competing.

The Women Merchants bowled high for the day to edge out the Keglerettes 1505-1491, while the Coffee Royals returned from a tourney bye to defeat the Classic Lassies 1495-1438, and the Hull Monday night league topped the Woodshooters 1432-1412.

The Alley Kats sitting out a bye, after bowling high 2 weeks ago, will join Sunday's three winners in the tourney semi-finals next Sunday.

The Women Merchants in a tight contest lost the first string by two pins to The Keglerettes, but won the second by 10 and carried an eight-pin lead into the last string when the winners posted a respectable 529, and the losers 523.

Patricia Nestor

The Koch Club of Quincy will present a special award at the close of the 20th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tournament to the outstanding bowler in the 20-year history of the event.

In recognition of this feat, a trophy named the Patricia R. Nestor Memorial Trophy will be presented the person chosen for this special tourney honor.

The late Miss Nestor, participated in the tournament for the last 14 years, died suddenly last July. One of the outstanding woman bowlers on

The Women Merchants displayed a consistent team effort in the win as Noreen Mastroianni led the attack with 313, and was aided by Doreen Barrett and Ellie Iacobucci each with 304, Edna Walker 300, and Elaine Rozanski 284.

Mary Chiavarioli was high for the losers with 333, followed by Bonnie Damore 318, Dot Cappolla 286, and Sandy Burke 280.

The Coffee Royals jumped off to a 25-pin first string lead over the Classic Lassies, the winners continued in the second string but only could win by four pins. The losers hit their high point in the last string, but the Coffee Royals first string lead was insurmountable.

Debbie Raymond with 308 led an even scoring effort by the winners, followed by Ann Casanova 298, Sandy Barrie 297, and Marge Morrissey and Taffy Serroni 296 each.

Marge Crowell with 306 was leading scorer for the losers followed by Carol Stenmon 304, Joan Stoaver 281, Corrine Williamson 275, and Mary Camparato 272.

The Hull Monday night league won their opening string over the Woodshooters by 14 pins and lost the second by 12 to carry a two-pin lead into the final. The third string was even all the way until the ninth and 10th boxes when the winners pulled away for their 20-pin triumph.

Tina Goodwin was top bowler for Hull with 318, and was assisted in the win by Sheila Hurst 291, Linda Levine 279, Lois Peacock 273, and Gail Mitten 271.

Kathy Kaberides with 296 was top for the losers, Pat Lowe posted a 287, June Hillier 281, and Fran McGann 278.

Helen Riley with 355 holds high tourney three string total to date, while Bonnie Damore with 137 was high single.

Memorial Trophy To Be Presented the South Shore, she would have been one of those considered for the award.

An outspoken advocate of girls' and women's athletic and recreational activities, Miss Nestor was an enthusiastic fan of the major national sporting events.

Miss Nestor bowled with the Sacred Heart Sodality from 1956 to 1958 in the South Shore Candlepin Women's Tournament and in 1959 assisted in organizing the Alley Kats Bowling League and participated with that team in the tournament for the next 16 years until her death. She started with a 92 average in 1959 with the Alley Kats and had a 104 average in her final year of bowling, 1974.

She played first base and pitched for North Quincy High School and Mary Pratt's former North Quincy Raiderettes, outstanding girls' softball team.

The award will include the 20 years of competition in the tournament and a person qualifying will be required to have participated for more than 10 years.

Mariani Team Paces Sparrow League

Annette Mariani's team led the Sparrow Bowling League with a 40-24 record and total pinfall of 10,812, followed by Norma McDonough's team, 39-25 [10,488]; Alice Faiella, 36-28 [10,468]; Nina Angelis, 34-30 [10,787]; Anna DiNardo, 26-38 [10,494]; and Carmela Tombari 17-47 [10,291].

Angelis, who holds the high three for the season of 390, rolled a 364 last week with strings of 126, 120 and 118. She marked up 11 spares. Her team also rolled the high team three for the season of 1443.

Faiella has high average of 98.7, followed by Angelis, 98.5; Mariani, 98.0; DiNardo, 96.3;

McDonough, 94.3; Tombari and Helen Higgins, 91.2; Olga Franceschini, 90.9; Kay Nelson, 89.9, and Minnie Coletti, 89.6.

Angelis leads every department with high single of 175, high three of 390 and her team has high single of 512 and high three of 1443.

Avitable, Salvatore Teams Tie For SOI Lead

Joe Avitable's team and Mario Salvatore's team are tied for the Quincy Sons of Italy Lodge 1295 Bowling League lead with 39-17 records.

They are followed by Menadue, 29-27; Forbush, 28-28; Pagnani, 26-30; Delorio, 26-30; Marella, 21-35; and Onorato, 16-40.

Avitable leads the Top Ten with a 105 average, followed by Chet Forbush, 102; Pepe Pagnani, 100; John Inferrera, 99; John Marella, 98; Larry Attardo, Arnold Miele, Jack Brown and Mario Salvatore, 97, and Fred Litterio, 96.

Forbush has high single of 128 and high three of 342. Salvatore's team has high three of 1432 and Delorio's team high single of 499.

Kelliher Team Koch Club Winners

Capt. Bob Kelliher's team has won the first half of the Koch Club Boys Bowling League with 46 wins and 8 losses.

Other members of the winning team include, Dan Batts, Bob Shaheen, Mike Dulkis and Mike Wallace.

The individual leaders in the average department include 12-year old Richard Halberg 105.5, Bob Kelliher 89.6, Steve Donovan 86.6, Tom Koch 85.4, Steve Miceli 85.0, Joe McGinley 84.9, John Mahony 84.8, Paul Butts 84.4, Mike McGann 83.0 and Jim Magnia 82.5.

Ranging from 8 to 13 years. The league bowls every Saturday morning at 8:30 a.m. at the Misty gets ready for Marilyn role

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Misty Rowe, the blonde chosen through a look-alike contest to play Marilyn Monroe in Austmerican Productions' "Goodbye, Norma Jean," made her debut as a professional performer jumping out of a cake in a black bikini while brandishing a sign proclaiming, "Oldies But Goodies," for a record company.

Offsetting that, she attended Pasadena Playhouse on a scholarship, so presumably the kid can act.

Among her credits since her leap from the cake are 78 appearances on "Hee Haw," semiregular appearances as Wendy in "Happy Days," a role in the ABC-TV treatment of "Pretty Boy Floyd," a spot in the "Doris Day Show," and a part in the film "The Hitchhikers."

Also to her credit are her vital statistics: 36-24-36!

MISTY ROWE

lot in the Broadway production of "Camelot" a dozen years ago, will play King Arthur in the upcoming presentation and, at this writing, is hunting for someone to take on his old role. If you were a young singer, wouldn't you be nervous playing Lancelot with Goulet on stage? In the original Broadway show, Richard Burton was Arthur and Julie Andrews was Guinevere, another part not yet cast.

Marty Ingels says he'd like to shout from the house tops that he loves Shirley Jones.

Robert Goulet's company, Rogo Productions, in cooperation with the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Association, will produce "Camelot" at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion in Los Angeles to run Sept. 2 through Oct. 18. Goulet, who soared to international stardom as Lancelot

Bobby Hackett Cuts Jazz Album

Bobby Hackett has been around a long, long time. Way back in the early 1940s he was recording that memorable trumpet solo on "String of Pearls" with the Glenn Miller orchestra.

But, as they say in the trade, Bobby still has his chops. He joins with tenor saxophonist Zoot Sims, guitarist Bucky Pizzarelli, bassist Richard Davis, piano great Hank Jones and drummer Mel Lewis for some splendid jazz riffs on a Flying Dutchman album called "Strike Up the Band."

Highlight of the LP has to be "Blue Moment," which is the blues as it should be played. The group also does exciting things with "Embraceable You," "These Foolish Things," and Cole Porter's "What Is This Thing Called Love?"

Point Congregational To Celebrate 25th Anniversary

Quincy Point Congregational Church will celebrate the silver anniversary of its present house of worship Sunday with a 4 p.m. service of worship.
 Located at 444 Washington St., the present church worship was dedicated Sunday, March 17, 1950.
 Participating in the service will be the church's three ministers: Rev. Ronald J. Cebik, Rev. Bedros Baharian and Rev. Philip J. Mayher Jr. They will be assisted by a number of Quincy Point parishioners.

 The service will celebrate the past as well as rededicate parish members to the future.
 Rev. George Hodgkins, minister of the United First Church of Christ in Scituate and a former Quincy Pointer, will deliver the sermon at the service.

 A tea in the social hall will follow. All who have shared in the life of the church are invited to attend the day's celebration, planned by the church's Executive Committee.

Adams Shore Church To Participate In FISH

The Adams Shore Community Church, 175 Albatross Rd., has been invited to participate in FISH, a fast-growing, world-wide volunteer movement.
 Participants in "Friends In Service Helping" answer varied individual appeals for assistance: driving the aged, assisting the suddenly ill, taking a mother or child to the hospital, visiting - either in person or via telephone - with the ill, aged and shut-ins.

Harriet Skoog, Adams Shore coordinator of the FISH program, said volunteers may donate as much time as they wish. Those interested in volunteering can contact Mrs. Skoog at her home.

S.S. Jewish Center Plans Pre-Passover Workshop

The South Area Jewish Community Center is planning a pre-passover workshop for the community as well as the Center families. The Pre-Pesach workshop is scheduled for Sunday, March 16, from 2:30 to 5:00 p.m. at the Center's Quincy building.

allowing the entire family to participate. After the workshops, there will be a display of children's handicrafts, a model Seder table, and Pesach refreshments will be served.
 Albert Karp, Chairman of the Senior Adult Committee of the SAJCC, has announced deposits are now being accepted for the second annual Spring Trip. This year's trip will be to Homowack Lodge, Spring Glen, New York and will include five days and four nights, from June 8 to June 12.

indoor-outdoor pools, health clubs, and an 18 hole golf course. Transportation will be by bus, and the cost is $130 including three meals a day, tax and tips. For more information, contact Eleanor Landa at 773-3000.

B. Burton Schneider, president of the Community Center said the main purpose of the program is to enhance Jewish family activities in the home. Music, cooking and ritual are the three main areas of concentration and will be presented in an atmosphere

Two Extra Snow Plows Assigned To West Quincy

Two additional four-wheel drive trucks will be assigned to snow plowing in West Quincy at the recommendation of Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets.

Sheets said the action was taken after he had met with Joseph Shea, Executive Secretary to Mayor Hannon. Sheets said Shea and the Mayor shared his concern that many hard-to-plow streets and dead end streets in West Quincy were not being plowed quickly enough and in some cases, not plowed at all.

Sheets made the recommendation to the Mayor's office after spending eight to 10 hours in snow plows and the Civil Defense car during the last series of snow storms. He indicated that during the first of those storms as many as 12 or 15 streets were not plowed, or were not plowed adequately.

Sheets said that the condition had obviously existed for a number of years and that every resident has a right to expect efficient snow-plowing service whether they live on a dead end street or a main street.

He said he had received cooperation from Fred Raymond, superintendent of the Highway Department; Edward Leone, City Engineer; and Public Works Commissioner James Ricciuti.

People living on the hard-to-plow or dead end streets, who are to receive the additional plows, will be notified via mail by Sheets.

'24,874 In New Wiring

Inspector of Wires William H. Pitts reports 83 wiring permits for an estimated $24,874 in wiring were issued during the month of February.

A total of $278 was collected in fees. Thirty-six certificates of approval were awarded during the month. A total of 118 inspections were made and nine defects were noted.

There were six re-inspections and two fire calls during the month.

The major wiring project for the month was a new six-unit apartment building at 24 Botolph St., North Quincy.

Fire Dept. Gets New Captain, 8 Lieutenants, 6 Firefighters

A new captain, eight new lieutenants and six firefighters will be sworn in Monday in ceremonies at City Hall, announces Chief Edward F. Barry.

Lt. Francis X. O'Hare of 59 Hamden Circle, Wollaston promoted to captain effective March 22, will succeed Capt. Richard T. Shea, who has retired. O'Hare, a 17-year member of the department, has been a lieutenant since Dec. 12, 1970.

Firefighter George W.

McDonald of 9 Tara Drive, Weymouth, will fill the vacancy created by Capt. O'Hare's promotion, effective the same date.

Promoted to lieutenant effective April 19 are firefighters:

Robert Schatzl, 157 Kendrick Ave., South Quincy; Joseph Varrasso, 58 Charlesmount Ave., and Anthony DiNardo, 87 Edwards St., both Quincy Point; John C. Murphy, 186 Palmer St., Germantown; Patrick McAuley, 10 Beechwood St., Quincy Point; Charles Arienti, 76 Bennington St., South Quincy and Eugene DiRamio, 12 Foye Ave., Weymouth.

Six men have been appointed as firefighters on probation effective March 22. They are:

Joseph O. Walsh, 362 Center St., South Quincy; Daniel E. Colletti, 35 Doble St., West Quincy; George F. McGunagle Jr., 38 Macy St., Houghs Neck; William J. Barron Jr., 155 West Elm Ave., Wollaston; Francis P. Mulloy, 37 Marshall Ave., Scituate and James Reardon, 603 Pearl St., Weymouth.

'Neighborhood Watch' Cuts Crime

Are you concerned about neighborhood security?

Then why not join the Quincy Police Department's new community crime prevention program "Neighborhood Watch"?

Aimed at actively involving local citizens in the detection and reporting of crimes, the program is run by the police department's Community Education staff. Six Quincy police officers and the Quincy Auxiliary Force are also participating.

The program, headed by Lt. William Murphy, is structured so that six to 10 neighborhood families collaborate to form a Neighborhood Watch group. The group then meets three times with a police officer at a participant's home. During these 1-2 hour sessions members will discuss what to report to police and how, what locks and other protective devices are available to secure your home, and specific neighborhood problems.

A movie illustrating burglary prevention techniques will be shown at the second meeting. At this time, each participant will be given the opportunity of using an electric engraver to identify his valuables.

Such identification makes the tracing of stolen goods infinitely easier.

The police department feels that Community involvement in fighting crime problems is perhaps the most effective way to prevent crime and delinquency. The department stresses however, that participants in Neighborhood Watch are not to involve themselves in law enforcement, but to alert police to possible crime situations by reporting suspicious occurrences.

If you like to become involved in a Neighborhood Watch program, call the Planning and Research Division of the police dept. at 479-1212 ext. 378.

Brownell Invited To Kissinger Foreign Policy Conference

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has accepted an invitation from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to attend a foreign policy conference in Washington, D.C., April 14-15.

The conference, limited to 400 throughout the country, is designed not only to share current thinking on major U.S. foreign policy issues but also to learn the foreign policy views of the invited leaders.

As an innovative feature of this year's conference, a second day of working seminars has been planned to continue the foreign policy dialogue in greater depth.

Kissinger and other ranking state department officers will participate in the program which will cover a wide range of foreign policy questions.

Kissinger himself will host an informal two-hour reception the evening of April 14 for all conference participants.

In accepting the conference invitation, Brownell said:

"I feel the conference is going to be valuable since it will provide a vehicle for local input in the development of foreign policy."

William Woskie Promoted To Sears' Auburn Store

William Woskie of Hingham, manager of Quincy's Sears and Roebuck Department Store has been promoted to manager of Sears store in Auburn.

Successing Woskie is Pierre Boulanger, manager of the Peabody Sears store.

Manager of Quincy's store for almost three years, Woskie has worked with Sears and Roebuck Co. for 19 years. Prior to his assignment in Quincy, Woskie was a member of the Territorial staff in Philadelphia, Pa.

Woskie said leaving Quincy will be "like leaving home."

"I've been delighted to be here in Quincy," he said. "There will always be a little part of me here in this store. The businessmen in the city are wonderful to work with."

Woskie, his wife Coyla and their three children will be moving to the Auburn area.

'Hundreds Of Thousands Of Dollars' To Modernize

Hannon Calls Central 'A Fire Trap'

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Mayor Walter J. Hannon said the city may be forced to spend "hundreds of thousands of dollars" to modernize Central Junior High School, a structure which he called "a fire trap".

The school, built in 1894, is currently being assessed for structural soundness. Its certificate of occupancy expires Oct. 18, 1977.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon said the new building code - in effect since January - could cause trouble at Central. He said:

"We could very well, under the new building code, have new problems. Central may have difficulty being matched against the new building code."

Inspector of Buildings Allan F. MacDonald said the city was informed last week that the old building code will apply to existing structures in the city. The new code will apply only when major alterations total 50 per cent of the entire value of the building.

Creedon said the assessment of Central will include inspections of wiring, ventilation, heating, electricity and plumbing.

Hannon indicated the survey was triggered by the City Council's decision not to build a new North Quincy High School. If a new high school had been built, Central Junior would have been phased out and torn down, said Hannon. The land site would have been returned to the city and could have been sold for an estimated $1 million, he noted. The city will now forfeit that potential revenue.

Noting that the floors and laths in Central Junior High School are made of wood, Hannon labelled the structure "a fire trap".

Mayor Blames Drinking Age

Police Crackdown On Gangs In Wollaston

Mayor Walter J. Hannon unveiled Tuesday plans for "a severe crackdown on roving gangs" in the Wollaston business area.

Hannon said gangs of teenagers have not only "harrassed customers, preventing them from entering stores," but have also inflicted property damage to area businesses.

Directly attributing this surge in vandalism and harassment to the lowering of the drinking age, Hannon said:

"The new 18-year-old drinking age is one of the most ungodly things that has happened in the Commonwealth and I am feeling the effects of it here in Quincy. I think the legislature should reconsider that bill."

Quincy Police Chief Francis X. Finn said the department received a total of nine vandalism complaints in the Wollaston area during the past month.

One of those complaints concerned damage done to the marquee at the Wollaston Theatre on Beale St. Hannon said gangs of teenagers have on occasion prevented patrons from entering the theatre.

Hannon said more police [Cont'd on Page 10]

Mary Pratt Seeks NQHS Football Coaching Post

Mary Pratt of 1428 Quincy Shore Drive, prominent woman sports figure, has applied for the position of head coach of the North Quincy High School football team.

The coaching position was vacated by Ralph Frazier.

Coordinator of Athletics Carl Leone Jr. said Miss Pratt's application brings the total number of contenders for the position to 30. He said hers is only application thus far from a woman.

Miss Pratt, a well-known athlete and professional softball player, is a former physical education teacher in the elementary and secondary levels in Quincy schools. She has had coaching experience on the college level.

Leone said a panel of six will interview all applicants for the head coach position. He said:

"If Miss Pratt is deemed most qualified out of the 30 applicants, she will be the next head coach of the North Quincy High football team."

Home Rehabilitation, PW Improvements For Houghs Neck Area

Mayor Walter J. Hannon announced Wednesday that Houghs Neck has been designated a community development area under the new federal Housing and Community Development Act.

The area will receive a significant portion of Quincy's $983,000 share of federal funds for public works improvements and home rehabilitation programs, he said. "I am very pleased with the designation of Houghs Neck as the community development area," said Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly. "There are extensive public improvements needed in the area. The condition of the streets and sidewalks, as well as the number of unaccepted streets have long been a major concern to the residents of the area. "Now that Houghs Neck has been designated a community development area, we will be able to deal with these problems. This type of program is long overdue."

Mayor Hannon noted that: "In conjunction with the public works program, residents in Houghs Neck will also be eligible

Easter Bunny To Arrive Saturday Via Helicopter

The Easter Bunny will arrive in Quincy Center via helicopter Saturday, dropping a total of 1,524 Easter "eggs" from the sky.

The "eggs", however, will be ping pong balls carrying the label of a Quincy Center Business and Professional Association [QCBPA] stores.

Youngsters and adults alike will be able to redeem any ping pong balls they find, receiving a free gift from the participating QCBPA store, stamped on the ping pong ball label.

Arrival time for Mr. Easter Bunny is 12:30 p.m. He will drop the eggs, hundreds at a time, for one hour.

The following is a list of the participating QCBPA and the gifts they will be giving:

Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Store, 1434 Hancock St., 200 single-scoop ice cream cones.

Colman's Sporting Goods, 1630 Hancock St., 200 hockey pucks.

Tag's Sleep and Lounge Shop, 1568 Hancock St., 200 key chains.

Hanover Beauty Academy, 24

Cottage Ave., 200 lipsticks. Woolworth's, 1543 Hancock St., 200 ice cream sandwiches.

South Shore Beauty Supply, 1612 Hancock St., 100 bottles of Brut cologne and 100 bottles of Trigg perfume.

Granite City Hardware, 1617 Hancock St., 100 packages of Hart seed.

Barker's Stationery, 1459 Hancock St., 100 pens.

Jon's Jeans, 1608 Hancock St., 50 key rings.

Pilgrim Diner, 126 Quincy Ave., 50 Coca Colas.

Lerner Shops, 1535 Hancock St., 50 pairs of knee socks.

Jack Kerrigan, executive director of the QCBPA, said downtown Quincy merchants are able to participate in this event, despite the current economic situation, because "Quincy is holding its own," Kerrigan said:

"Quincy has more to offer than shopping centers. I think we are finding more and more Quincy residents are in fact shopping in Quincy Center. They are the lifeblood of the shopping area and are finding it more convenient to come here. There is plenty of parking and there is easy access via the MBTA. And I think people will find it easy to come down to Quincy Square on Saturday for a very pleasant and enjoyable event."

Kerrigan said the QCBPA is planning other events which will involve the Quincy community. "We're very proud of Quincy," said Kerrigan, "And we're interested in getting involved in the community."

Funds Sought To Expand Seniors Hot Lunch Program

Mayor Walter J. Hannon announced today the submission of a proposal for a $138,510 Title VII Nutrition Program grant to the Department of Elder Affairs, Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

He said the funds would permit the Quincy Council on Aging to expand the present Hot Lunch Program to the elderly in the northern and western portions of the city.

Putnam S. Borden, executive director of the Council on Aging, noted the programs serve a two-fold purpose, to provide a adequate nutrition and a favorable climate for social interaction.

He added that these funds would permit establishment of a second location, probably in the Wollaston area and would provide for additional feeder bus services from all parts of the city. In addition, a variety of peripheral services would be made available, such as information and referral, health education and, possibly, meals on wheels.

If funds are granted, Quincy will have the first Title VII Nutrition Program in the Norfolk County area. To date, no such program has been funded in the county.

$30,583 In Plumbing

James A. Erwin Jr., inspector of Plumbing and Gas Fittings, reports 65 plumbing applications for an estimated $30,583 in plumbing were filed during the month of February.

A total of $122 was received for permits. One-hundred seven plumbing inspections were made.

Erwin also reported the filing of 60 applications for gas installations costing an estimated $19,350.

HN Models, Crafts Club Builds Ships, Planes, Fire Engines

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

A tiny gathering of 11 youngsters has grown into a troop of 63 as the membership of the Houghs Neck American Legion Hobby Models and Crafts Club continues to multiply.

Founded last September by Houghs Neck Legion Post Commander John Christensen, the club caters to youngsters in the Houghs Neck area.

Presently their age ranges from four to 17 and their interests vary from coloring to knitting to model building.

Christensen, active in the Legion many years, said he had noted a lack of Legion activities for youth, prompting the birth of the new club.

A staff of 10 - including Christensen - co-ordinates and supervises activities for the youth. Christensen, Mrs. Nancy Bishop, sergeant-at-arms of the Ladies' Auxiliary, and Joseph Macedo, Houghs Neck resident, handle enrollment books and keep a record of the projects completed by the youngsters.

The kids divide into groups of five or six and are supervised by seven volunteers: Al Crombie, assistant sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Diane Clark, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary; Mrs. Sandra Gagne, auxiliary chaplain; Mrs. Dolores Hennessey, Houghs Neck resident; Mrs. Joanne Steen and Mrs. Jean Bragg, both former Houghs Neck residents; and Thomas Vecchione, Houghs Neck resident.

Funding for the six-month-old club comes solely from Legion and neighborhood contributions, and Club members pay a weekly dues of 25 cents. The future of the club therefore lies in the hands of Houghs Neck residents.

Projects completed by club members - both girls and boys - include the building of replicas of the USS Constitution and the Cutty Sark, as well as a model of the Post fire engine. A model of the Mayflower is now being constructed by one industrious group.

Youngsters have also built models of airplanes, motorcycles and automobiles and have knit and crocheted many articles. The youngest club members enjoy painting, coloring and poster-making.

Once a month, the club hosts an evening when all interested adults - parents and non-parents - can view the projects created by club members.

75 Quincy Businesses To Offer Seniors 10 To 20% Discounts

"Mayor Walter J. Hannon's Operation Discount" is scheduled to begin May 15.

Under the co-ordination of Mrs. Margaret LoDico, director of Quincy's Consumer Affairs Center, the project will involve scores of local businesses and services in offering 10-20 per cent discounts to Quincy Senior citizens.

A merchant's participation in the project is completely voluntary, noted Mrs. LoDico. She said some 75 Quincy businesses have already made commitments to participate in "Operation Discount", including barber shops, beauty salons, TV repair stores, clothing, drug and hardware stores, specialty shops, music, jewelry and flower shops, optometrists, hearing aid establishments, supermarkets and cleaners.

According to Mrs. LoDico, booklets listing the participating stores will be printed and distributed to eligible senior citizens. These booklets will be updated regularly, she added.

Mrs. LoDico said senior citizens will receive identification cards which they will present to merchants as verification of their eligibility for the discount. Discounts will be determined by each participating business, said Mrs. LoDico, and will range from 10-20 per cent.

The mother of nine children, Mrs. LoDico says she finds her job "a total challenge." Boston-born, she was raised in Cohasset. She graduated from Notre Dame Academy in Boston and earned a degree in English from Mt. St. Mary's College in N.H.

Mrs. LoDico will be beginning a column in The Quincy Sun and said she welcomes any questions from Quincy consumers.

The Consumer Affairs Center is located at 1454 Hancock St., Room 306, in the Adams Building.

Sheets Proposal Would Almost Halt Apartments In S. W. Quincy

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets introduced two re-zoning proposals before the City Council Monday which would, if passed, virtually end apartment construction in West and South Quincy.

Both proposals were referred to the Planning Board for examination and discussion. A public hearing is expected by early April.

Plan I would re-define Residence B and Business B zones on a city-wide basis while Plan II would create two new zoning categories which could be adopted within each ward.

Plan I would:

- Re-define Residence B, prohibiting multi-family dwellings while allowing four-family homes.

- Re-define Business B, prohibiting the construction of all multi-family dwellings.

Plan II would:

- Create Residence B1 and Business B1.

- Prohibit construction of multi-family dwellings in Residence B1 while allowing four-family homes.

- Prohibit all multi-family housing in Business B1.

Present zoning laws permit apartment construction up to three stories in Residence B zones and up to eight stories in Business B zones, said Sheets.

Sheets called Plan II the "more flexible alternative," allowing citizens to control apartment-building growth as it saw fit.

Sheets said there have been seven applications for variances to build apartments in his ward since he took office 13 months ago. Opposing each of the variances, Sheets noted that only one variance permit has been granted - the elderly housing project on Miller and Copeland Sts.

Sheets added that most apartments built in Ward 4 have been low-rise structures not exceeding three stories in height. Citing a recent Planning Department survey, Sheets said low-rise apartments "place a much greater burden on the public school system than any other type of apartment and generate less net property tax income for the city."

He said a 10-unit apartment would generate a yearly tax net revenue income as low as $350 or as high as $920. Sheets said these buildings do not create substantial revenue but merely generate problems for the neighborhood, creating parking problems and disrupting the character of a neighborhood.

CETA Provides Security Guards At Oceanview

CETA personnel have been utilized by the city as security guards at the Oceanview senior citizen complex in Germantown in an attempt to reduce vandalism and burglary.

John Cattaneo, assistant director of the Quincy Housing Authority said the guards were assigned to Oceanview after the Authority had requested from Mayor Hannon that CETA employees be used to provide security at the complex.

He said that because of constant requests from senior citizens for security protection, and due to the fact the Department of Community Affairs has not been able to help in this area, the QHA felt these men could be utilized on a trial basis to provide some of the needed protection.

The guards are on duty seven days a week, Cattaneo said, and have been supplied with the necessary uniforms and equipment by the federally funded CETA program.

The Housing Authority has asked Mayor Hannon to supply additional CETA personnel to other buildings and property within the Authority.

Why won't mom get married?

By PAT and MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
Why won't my mother get married? My father passed away several years ago and Mom is now living with another man.

She is 55 and should realize how embarrassing this is for her children—not to mention three grandchildren. I've told her that we disapprove but nothing changed so I spoke with Jack (not his real name) and asked why he and Mom didn't marry. Incidentally, he is a nice person and we all like him. Jack said he preferred to get married but that he had been unable to convince my mother. He promised to try again and I'm sure he did.

While Mom remains happily single, everyone else is miserable. Have you ever heard of such a situation?

The Children

Dear The Children:
YES—every day from The Parents.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
My boyfriend and I have been seeing each other for six months. We want to get married after we finish this year at school but our parents refuse to give their permission. We are both seniors in high school. We have very high grades and have applied for scholarships. We are mature and responsible, not a couple of silly kids. I do not want to go against my father's wishes but I love this boy. What alternatives do we have?

Ron and Sue

Dear Ron and Sue:
You may be mature for high school seniors, but you do need some time to think. Try college for a year. Then determine if you can add the responsibilities of a marriage on top of your educational obligations. One year at a college or university may change your mind.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
My problem is one that plagues many dumb girls. For two years I dated a married man who was always on the verge of a divorce. He told me the standard lines. His wife was a wife in name only, and they were only living under the same roof because of the children. He said that his wife was a screaming shrew who couldn't possibly get along with anyone.

Purely by accident, I met her. She is a lovely lady and a brand new mother. How could I have been so gullible? How could this man lie to me so? I feel hurt and humiliated.

Miserable

Dear Miserable:
You believed what this Romeo told you because you heard what you wanted to hear. Make new friends and don't repeat the mistake. Good luck.

Farmers produce more than we need

American consumers use only half of the wheat, two-fifths of the rice, half of the soybeans and two-thirds of the cotton produced on our farms, according to the Council of California Growers.

If our farmers were required to produce only what we need in this country, the council says, we would have to get rid of half of our farmers. — CNS

Patty shells lend glamor to party food

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

A party hostess or host can be successful without spending long hours in preparing food. Use of convenience foods, such as frozen patty shells, lend glamor to party foods.

Patty Shell Hors d'Oeuvres and Cheese Strata are party stars.

PATTY SHELL HORS D'OEUVRES

Thaw patty shells wrapped in refrigerator overnight. Roll out on a floured surface to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut dough into two-inch rounds and bake to use as canape crackers. Cut dough into two-inch squares and wrap around cocktail franks. Cut dough into two-inch squares and use dough to wrap-around large stuffed olives. Bake as directed on package allowing only half the baking time required for the patty shells.

Top the canape crackers with tuna, minced celery and mayonnaise, or use chopped cooked chicken mixed with chopped salted peanuts, mayonnaise and curry powder. Or mix chopped cooked ham with finely chopped sweet pickles, crushed pineapple and mayonnaise. Garnish canapes with chopped fresh tomato and sprigs of parsley or pecan halves.

CHEESE STRATA

Thaw patty shells as above and roll out each patty shell on a floured surface into an oblong 10x4 inches. Sprinkle five of the oblongs with 10 ounces sharp Cheddar cheese, coarsely grated. Stack oblongs one on top of the other ending with the plain oblong. Press layers together firmly. Cut dough crosswise into four-inch strips, one-half inch wide. Cut each strip into halves and place cut side up on a greased cookie sheet. Place pieces at least two inches apart as they spread a great deal. Bake as directed on package for 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Allow to cool before removing from cookie sheet.

ELEGANT—This elegant party tray includes hors d'Oeuvres easily made from frozen patty shells wrapped around olives and cocktail franks, and others layered with sharp Cheddar cheese.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — You will have a good mixture of work and play this week. Take precautions with valuables. Guard against loss or theft. New information about someone reminds you not to make snap judgments.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Everything appears to come up roses now. Romance brightens, career could peak resulting in a promotion. Help others to formulate plans. Deal diplomatically with an obstinate person.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Keep a tight rein on your pocket book. Don't fall for "magnificent schemes." Not the time to expand your business. Problems with mate or romantic partner may culminate in a quarrel.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Pay attention to your appearance and especially to your health. Eat and drink in moderation. Curb emotional desires and don't "rush in where angels fear to tread."

Friendship is rewarding.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — A new romance may come into your life if you're available. Take special care of your appearance. "Knuckle down" to career tasks which present difficult challenges. Unexpected messages arrive.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — A new relationship entered into now may prove uncomfortable. Unexpected expenses could strain your finances. Other people are willing to help you now. Charisma is high but don't live beyond your means.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Keep your attention riveted on work and career. Use your creativity. Finish a project in process to present to higher-ups. Disagreements over finances with mate or partner requires diplomacy.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Achieve harmony in relationships through compromise and submission. Curb unrealistic tendency toward money and expenditures. Maintain a tight budget. Meditate on your inner-self for understanding.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — An air of indecision in yourself and others suggests that you make now important decisions early in the week. Get professional advice if signing contracts. Be practical, realistic and conservative.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Attend to any symptoms of physical health problems. Take a philosophical attitude toward the reality of the way things are. Be flexible and understanding — not jealous and dominating.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Financial increase, a gift or prize could come your way. Career direction appears definitely "up." Buy clothes, jewelry and enjoy your possessions. Be individualistic, creative and self-reliant.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Be patient when matters meet with snags and delays. Avoid complaining — give things time. Get out and mingle instead of withdrawing. When making choices, be realistic and cautious. Follow hunches.

Mushrooms need tender, loving care

Mushrooms never need to be peeled — just wipe them with a damp paper towel or hold them under cool running water and blot dry.

And don't scrape away that dark part under the cap — it holds the spores and is a vital part of the mushroom. — CNS

Pins and beads make jewelry

By ALICE MORRELL
Copley News Service

The use of beads and safety pins is not a new idea, but it is a fun idea for jewelry and in my summer craft classes we've also used this idea to decorate jeans.

To make a simple, but very attractive necklace you use No. 0 gold safety pins, small glass beads (assorted colors).

To thread pins, simply slip beads on opened safety pin (Fig. 1). Thread six pins, then join by threading one pin through three pin bottoms and three pin tops (Fig. 2). This chain combination may be changed to a 2-4 or 3-4 combination or any combination you might choose.

To make fringe, hang four or five bead-threaded pins from every other group of pins (Fig. 4).

Any combination of colors can be made, and changed to fit different costumes, by simply changing the heads on the pins, so that the pins may be reused as needed.

As a decorative trim make up threaded pins, preferably a fringe design and sew to jeans pockets. A beautiful medallion design may be made by using a small piece of wire. Thread this wire through the bottom of threaded pins. Fan the pins in a circle and again thread wire through the pins, adding single beads to fit. The best way to lay out a medallion pattern is to lay it out on a piece of felt first, then combine as above. To finish off wire, twist and cut away excess.

The medallion may be any size you choose — simply keep adding pins and beads to fill. Large medallions sewn to the pockets of jeans really give a decorative touch.

Experiment and have fun!

ADVICE ON MEDICINE USE

Medicine is prescribed to cure not kill. Yet, all too often it has killed by the pure negligence of the user. The wise person keeps medicines in a locked medical cabinet and throws away old medicines. Burn, dissolve, or flush them down the toilet. Label all medicines properly in letters LARGE ENOUGH TO READ. Keep those used regularly in the most accessible spot in the cabinet.

Mark medicines intended for external use with a red X. Keep them separate from medicines for internal use. Pour liquid from the side of the bottle opposite the label so it will not drip and cover the instructions.

Do not give or take medicine in the dark. Never put two kinds of medicine together on your bedside table — confused by sleep, you might take the wrong one. Keep only enough medicine there for one night. Never mix two kinds of pills in one box. Finally, give or take medicine only as prescribed by medical authority. Do not rely on a friend's advice or on what you may read in a book or the newspaper.

Official City Medal To Be Given Free At Anniversary Dinner

The city's official 350th anniversary medal in bronze will be given free to everyone attending the city's birthday dinner-ball April 11 at Chateau de Ville, Randolph.

The medal honors the city by depicting the first maypole dance at Merrymount and the first commercial railroad in the nation at West Quincy.

Guests at the dinner will also be able to view a unique display of Quincy's historic sites created by students at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

Some 20 students at the school, under the direction of industrial arts teacher John Hemphill, are creating the replicas of the Adams birthplaces, Adams Academy and Adams mansion, the Dorothy Quincy Homestead, and the Abigail Adams Cairn.

Music will be provided by John Savini and his 15-piece band. The band plays the original arrangement of Glenn Miller, Benny Goodman, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Artie Shaw, Duke Ellington, Harry James, and others of the "big band" era.

QUINCY'S OFFICIAL 350th Anniversary Medal in bronze, front view [left] and back view [right] will be given free to those attending the birthday dinner ball April 11 at the Chateau de Ville, Randolph.

Guest invitations have been sent to such famous Quincy personalities as Ruth Gordon and Lee Remick, Dr. Priscilla White, Bill Dana and Paul Comi.

Other invited guests include former mayors Amelio Della Chiesa, James R. McIntyre and Thomas S. Burgin. Also invited are Senators Edward Brooke and Edward Kennedy, Congressman James Burke and Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller. A special birthday message to the city has been received by President Gerald Ford and will be printed in the program for the evening. The dinner-dance will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a social hour followed by a roast beef dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Along with the Savini orchestra, Quincy accordionist Mabel Biagini will entertain.

Tickets for the event cost $17 each. Reservations must be made in advance as seating is limited. Ticket information is available by calling Quincy Heritage at 472-1776 or by visiting the Heritage office at the Quincy Square MBTA station.

Beyond holding a birthday dinner for the city, the event is designed to raise funds in support of the city's 350th anniversary and bicentennial activities.

6 Workshops Set At QJC Women's Center

The Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, in conjunction with Mayor Hannon's Commission on the Status of Women, is sponsoring a series of six workshops on topics of interest to women.

Beginning March 26, the workshops will be held on consecutive Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p.m. in Room 101 of the old Court House building on Coddington St., Quincy. They include:

March 26 - RAPE: A program presented by the Rape Crisis Center of Cambridge dealing with the emotional, medical and legal aspects of rape, including methods of self-defense.

April 2 - CONSUMER PROTECTION: A representative from the Attorney General's office will speak on consumer awareness and action that can be taken to protect the buyer.

April 9 - CAREER GUIDANCE: Jane Ford will explore opportunities in education and employment, the decision making process, and using one's time wisely.

April 16 - WOMEN IN POLITICS AND GOVERNMENT AND THEIR LEGAL RIGHTS: An examination of the impact of the women's movement in American politics and women's rights under the law, presented by Kathy O'Donnell.

April 23 - CONSCIOUSNESS RAISING: A program, by Laurie Handlers, discussing the purpose of C.R. groups and the ways in which one may gain greater self-awareness of one's own needs through dialogue.

April 30 - NUTRITION AND FAMILY PLANNING: Anneli Johnson will present nutrition on a family level, from purchasing to preparation. Pat Rougie will discuss methods of family planning.

There is no fee, and all area women are encouraged to attend. For additional information, please contact the Women's Center at 471-9200 or 471-2470.
